HARDISTY HI-LITES

Mr and Mrs Betcher of Viking were Sunday visitors with Mrs. Langhlin and Anne. Their sons, who spent the Stampede weekend with their grandmother and aunt, returned to Viking with them.

On Friday evening, May 29th in the United Church basement, Mrs Petite Johnston presented her music pupils in recital, before an audience of parents and friends. Those taking part were: Sandra Buntz, Patsy and Bradley Moody, Maureen Madden, Marlene and Joy McClements, Donna Crone, Marie Manning, Holly Meulder, Lynne, Judy and Vicki Drewer, Ricky, Jerry and Frances Methane, Murray & Melanie Wood, Darla Pagin, Gwenda Shoberg, Margaret and Sharon Probst. Following the recital a delicious lunch was served. The members of the class presented Mrs. Johnston with a handsome tumbler set in appreciation of her help throughout the year.

St. Mark's W. A. met at the home of Mrs. Hearn on Monday. The business led the devotional period. Preparations were completed for the Old Timer's dinner, and it was reported that Stampede Queen tickets were selling well. The crocheted rug donated by Mrs. C. Drever was drawn for and won by Roby Renshaw. It was decided in future to have each member pay an extra monthly due and dispense with the many smaller money-raising projects which have been necessary in the past. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer & lunch, served by the hostess.

Recent visitors at the home of Mrs. M. Vande warks were Mrs. Ted Archbold, Mrs Isabel Smith and Mrs Art Wold.

The Legion Auxiliary met at the Hut on Monday evening. The bedding plant sale and tea were reported as most successful. The Stampede flint was reported well under way. Arrangements were made for catering to a dinner on June 13th, and a committee was set up to consider a Labour Day picnic later on. Next lunch were Mrs. Stang and Mrs Rawcliffe.

Guests at Shaun Dranger arrived home from Montreal on Monday following their graduation at McGill last week. She will take up her duties in the University Hospital this month.

Mr and Mrs Harry Johnston have moved to their new home in the Deer Ass. Mrs Isle has purchased the Johnston house here.

Mr and Mrs Bill Landels and Ann Keith were supper guests with the Herb Rembaugh and family.

A. P. Crop Report

(Dolores Dolanz)

DAYSLAND — A very successful baseball tournament was held at the new Spring Lake diamond on Sunday, May 31st, when about 1500 fans turned out to witness some first class ball games. There were no less than 11 home runs hit with some of them being a grands-slam homer hit over the fence in deep centre by Dave Wood for Dunalda off relief pitcher Jack Zimmer of Spring Lake. Dunalda won that one in a nephew 6 to 5. In the other games of the day, at 11 a.m. Daysland won a close one over Heisler 6 to 5 in a game that went 7 extra innings. G. Gabruck came in on relief in the 5th to handcuff the big bats of Heisler with the score tied and two on, off pitchers Stan Garbe and Geo. Mah.

In the second game Dale Thompson gave up only 3 scattered hits as Sosnland defeated Kelsey 9-1. He also helped his cause with a homer in the 2-0 win two aboard. In the 3rd game of the day (another close one) Dunalda won over Spring Lake 6-5, with Dunalda scoring all 6 runs in the bottom of the sixth, including a homer by Lead off Allen Norman. Up to then Dunalda had only managed to get one man to second with 2 hits off Bobby Zimmer the Pony Express pitcher for Daysland.

In the draw for the bye it was automatic that the winners of third game go into the finals.

In the semi-finals Daysland won over Rosalind 8-2, with Dale Thompson getting his second homer of the day in a losing cause. Butch Northcott homered for Daysland with two on, and again George Gebruck came on in relief to put the fire out. In the fifth and final game, Dunalda won another close one over Daysland 8-7. Stan Garbe started for Daysland but was replaced by Iron Man Gabruck. An error by Daysland let in a stretched runner from second for the winning run and first money for Dunalda.

Home runs were hit by: D. Wood, Allen Norman (2), Dale Kostiuke, Dale Thompson (2) Jon Eshpeter, Eddy Heck, Butch Northey, Wayne Brother, Alvin Yea. Total 11. Who says baseball is dying out?

A. P. Crop Report

(Dolores Dolanz)

Wheat seeding is completed over most areas. Seeding of coarse grain has gone ahead rapidly and is now well advanced. Moisture conditions are satisfactory for the present and general prospects are good.

Alberta General — Precipitation over Alberta during the past week has been generally light and scattered, permitting good progress with seeding operations, which are now nearing completion. Germination is good in most parts of Alberta and the general outlook is favorable. Moisture conditions are satisfactory, but rain will be welcome soon to maintain the present good conditions.

W. I. Conference At Alliance

The Constituency Conference held on June 1st at Alliance was attended by 36 members and guests. Mrs. A. Huse of Alliance called the meeting to order and after suitable greetings to all she presented corsages to Mrs. M. B. Roberts of Drumheller, A. W. I. president, and to Mrs. Mrs. C. Quail of Round Hill, District Director.

Reports were received from the branches of Lougheed, Argyle and Sedgewick. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Frank Cameron of Alliance, with the reply given by Mrs. T. Chapman of Sedgewick.

Entertainment was given through out the day, with a solo by Mrs. A. Gravelaix, vocal duet by Mrs G. Probst and Mrs. H. Probst, and community singing.

When Mrs. Quail spoke, she stressed the idea that we should be working toward the W. I. Centennial project which is trying to make Canada better. The provincial organization is offering a $1000 scholarship to a student studying social welfare.

Mrs. Roberts, the feature speaker gave a resume of various W. I. offices held by her, and conferences she has attended as our delegate.

Items were mentioned which will be under discussion at the forthcoming national convention in Nova Scotia next month.

A question and answer period followed. Mrs. Moore District Home Economist from Stettler gave the results of the Handicraft and Baking display which were: Lougheed 99 points; Argyle 84 points; Sedgewick 82 points.

The nominating committee reported that Mrs. A. Huse had accepted the Constituency Convenorship for another term.

The courtesy committee reported by Mrs. J. Hopkin of Sedgewick. An invitation to hold the 1965 conference at Lougheed was given by Mrs. M. Stoberg.

BROTHER DIES IN SCOTLAND

Bob Anderson has just received the sad news of the death of his brother Fred who visited Viking from Kilmarnock, Scotland, just over a year ago. While in Viking he made quite a few friends by his very friendly manner.He was a retired member of the Kilmarnock city police. In September, 1914, Fred & Bob joined the Gordon Highlanders the same day and went overseas with the 51st Highlanders division. Fred was in the trenches when only fourteen years of age. His wife died several years ago. A sister Mrs. Hill of Shoal Lake, Manitoba, died two months ago. — Viking News.

PRESPYTERIANS INDUCT NEW MINISTER

KILLAM — The Rev. James Ferrie was inducted into the Killam-Galahad Charge of the Presbyterian Church at a special service of Induction on Thursday, June 4. Mr. Ferrie, formerly of Brussels, Ont., is a graduate of Waterloo University and of Knox College, Toronto.

The service was arranged and conducted by the Presbytery of Edmonton and other points in attendance.

Following the service a reception in honor of Mr. Jerrie was held in the Co-op Hall, with the ladies of both the Killam and Galahad congregations as hostesses.

A SHOVEL FOR SYMBOL?

I don't know how you feel about it, but that "distinctive" Canadian flag with the three spindly maple leaves on it makes me want to throw up. I'd like to see somebody ask you to go out and fight and die for it.

No, I'm not a Red Ensign boy. The Red Ensign was a makeshift, at best. It is too confused with colonialism and the merchant marine and the Union Jack ever to be accepted, if we MUST have a Canadian flag, which I deny violently.

By the way, I think the Canadian Legion has had some pretty shoddy treatment from the daily press because of its espousal of the Ensign, and it's less-than-enthusiastic re ception of the Prime Minister, at the Winnipeg convention.

What's wrong with an organization standing up for something it believes in? Everybody else does it, from hog producers to fish singers. But the Legion was suddenly made the butt of a vicious and slanted attack in certain dailies.

The men who did the dirty work in two wars were suddenly catalogued as a group of reactionaries, or at one daily put it, a "bunch of old soldiers," trying to tell the rest of Canada what flag it should have.

This canard was climaxed by a brutal cartoon by Duncan MacPherson in the Toronto Star, portraying the Legionnaire as a bleary-eyed, beery-nosed old blimp, clinging to the past. Even the Star was embarrassed by the cartoonist's lack of taste.

But this isn't a defense of the Legion. It can look after itself. It has a minority of old bozzers. So does the yacht club and the curling club and the service club and the press club.

Before I finish this digression, let me ask a question. What's wrong with basing the Prime Minister? It may be impolite, but it's a heck of a lot better than assassinating him, and I know he'd rather be booed than defeated in office.

At the same time, let me express my admiration for Mr. Peterson's courage in attacking this flag fiasco, and doing it in front of a body opposed to his views. None of his three predecessors had the guts to do it.

But to get back to what I originally started to say, let's get everybody sore at me and get it over with. The whole business of flags is a medieval hangover, with juvenile overtones.

Men used to rally around flags, in the days of hands -hand combat because they were trying to find somebody else who was on their side.

War evolved (or degenerated, if you like) until the stretcher-bearer became a lot more heroic than the standard-bearer.

If you want a bit of gay bunting, by all means go to it. Hang up a rosy sapin for the Okanagan Valley, or a lobster for southeast Nova Scotia, or a rampant oil well for Calgary, and enjoy it. But a Canadian flag is an anachronism, in the first place. And in the second place, the maple leaf, to me and many another Canadian, is just a dang nuisance that clutters up my lawn in October.

JULY 1ST SPORTS TO "REC" CENTRE

The Sports Committee at Sedgewick is working hard on the new sports area for July 1st. The big Parade will be led this year by the Viking Band, and a Queen Contest should add a few whistles. The Marna Light Horse Assn. will again be with us, and there will be the Amateur Show, Horse Shoes and Races, Ball Games, etc., all staged at the Sedgewick Recreational Centre.

PENTECOSTAL NEWS

KILLAM — The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Council was held in the church on June 4th. Mrs. Elizabeth Taralson, president, was in charge. After the business was dispensed with, a profitable Bible study on "The Home" was enjoyed. The project of the month was on display. This was a parcel for a needy family, and included some new clothes as well as household linens and food items.

Government Buys Marginal Land

OTTAWA— Federal Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve and Alberta Minister of Agriculture, H. E. Strom have jointly announced commencement of a long-term, $100,000 landbuying program in Alberta, under terms of the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act.

Purpose of the ARDA program, to be administered by the Alberta Land and Forest Conservation and Utilization Committee, is to take out of cultivation lands that are better suited to grazing, forest production, recreation or other uses. As such lands are offered for sale they will be purchased, if the price is reasonable, and allocated to other uses. The federal government will pay half the costs of the program.

By means of this program, owners of uneconomic farm units will be able to get a reasonable price for their property and so acquire better farmland or take up some other line of work. At the same time, land that is marginal or sub-marginal for farming will be put to more productive use.

In cases where such land is consolidated into community pasture, local stockmen and farmers will benefit from increased grazing acreages. When marginal or submarginal land is forested, water flow will be stabilized in some cases and erosion will be controlled, and in the long run the forests will create additional income and employment.

He received his Bachelor of Arts in Political Economy in 1962, and is present is in his second year in the Faculty of Law.

TRINITY U. C. W.

The May meeting of the Trinity LOW was held at home of Mrs. T. Napier with Mrs. Gee, Mrs. Co-hostess, and 16 members and two visitors present.

Mrs. A. Steelen Jr. gave devotion, Mrs. N. Newby conducted the Bible Study which was based on the 9th chapters of Acts.

Mrs. Hans Odsen of Sedgewick gave an interesting report on the Edmonton-Camrose District Conference also as a delegate.

During discussion it was decided to have two members present the Bible Study in the future. Plans were made for a bake sale, and also a clean-up day. The Layette was completed and members are now starting to prepare Kiddies' Kits for Lutheran World Relief.

A sample kit was displayed and members were asked to bring theirs to the June meeting. Roll call was answered with article for Brag and Buy. Next meeting will be at Trinity Church at 8:00 p. m.

Lougheed Council Sets July 13th For Court Of Revision

LOUGHEED — The monthly Council meeting was held on June 1 with six councillors and Mayor Pyzer in attendance.

Mr. Wagjerchowski was informed that frontage was levied the same year that property was purchased, and was levied against the land regardless if there was a building on the property or not.

Mr. H. Carroll and Mr. F. Knack were at the meeting to ask for the usual rent for the Elks Hall as a tax exempt. As taxes were higher this year they thought the rent for should be higher. They also requested that a track be made around the land deamed to accomodate horse racing and chariot racing, which was planned for July 1st. The Parks committee said they would look into the matter, if members of the Elks and Light Horse Assn. would donate the labour.

Mr. A. F. Blatz, trustee from the Dayaland Drainage Board, attended to discuss flooding of the sewage lagoon into the drainage ditch. The council thought the water was receiving now and would not trouble anymore this year. As there had never been an agreement drafted in regard to this, Mr. Blatz asked the town to appoint a committee to meet with the Drainage Board for this purpose.

Building permits were granted to Mr. Peter Pasnik, Mr. Reinhart Helmer and Mr. Walter Ortman.

Council was informed the next School Division meeting is June 17.

Cr. Cranston suggested that council get in touch with the Dept. of Water Resources to see if any help was available in a water project.

Letter was read from the M. D. of Flagstaff advising that the M. D. is not considering a program under the Federal-Provincial Centennial Grants Program. All grants received will be split among the 10 towns and villages in the M.D. This could mean about $1,000 for Dayaland, if the town applies and qualifies.

Cr. Wold as co-ordinator of Civil Defence for Dayaland, reported that Brian Lee of Flagstaff informed him that most towns and villages seemed favorable to the formation of Civil Defence Unit.

Cr. Josephson complained that the paved ex. annex frontage on the W Half of his lots, as the town office & fire hall had the East Half of these lots and he should not be penalized for the entire frontage. It was mentioned that the be corrected.

It was resolved that the town pay $250 to the Elks Hall for rent during 1964. This payment to be made when the Elks pay their taxes.

It was passed that Monday, July 13th be set as the date for Court of Revision to hear appeals on Business Assessment, also on assessment on untitled property for the preceding to resolution No. 78. Court to convene at 1:30 p. m. in the Town Office. Because of the holiday season Mayor Pyzer is to pick 3 members of the town council available at the time to attend the Court.

Whereas people were making a mess at the swimmer grounds by dumping garbage on the driveway, and alongside instead of in the trenches, it was moved that the town have the garbage number one the old trench, make a new trench, rake the fence and gate and lock the gate. Anyone wishing to dump garbage must obtain permission from the town foreman. This privilege is for town residents only.

In discussing rates to be charged for the use of the swimming grounds for sports days it was agreed that the Elks be charged 10% of the gate on July 1st. Charge for other sports days is to be $10 a day.

C. G. I. T. BANQUET

"Ha Lamps Are We," was the theme recently chosen by the Killam CGIT group. This was expressed by decoration of tables and banquet lamps. The place cards also were made in the form of lamps and nothing was made by the girls for sorted the centre tables.

The program for the evening began with Grace by Rev. Morris; A tribute to the Queen by Bev Larsen; tribute to the Church by Joan York, reply by Rev. Morris; tribute to the Mothers by Marion Sand, reply by Mrs. Shiela Child; tribute to Leaders by Debbie James, reply by Mrs. Ruby Stainthorpe.

Song "Mother" was sung by the girls. This was followed by a reading by Linda Clark. Donna Sunnaberge presented a piano solo, and Gail was put on by the girls, followed by a sing-song.

After the banquet the CGIT Graduation was held. Those graduating were Leona Lindseth and Bev Larsen. Mrs. Morris spoke on the theme "Ha Lamps Are We". In it she referred not only to the graduates but also to the mothers, CGIT girls and past graduates.

Alex Redman Gets 60-Year Jewel

HARDISTY — Mr. Alex Redman, retired C.P.R. locomotive engineer, was honored at a gathering in the Legion Hall on Saturday evening. Members and officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Hardisty Division, were present for the occasion, with C.P.R personnel and retired C.P.R men and their wives in attendance.

Following a banquet for some 45 people, Mr. E. Hughes of Sutherland acted as M.C. Leslie Gosin, formerly of Hardisty, spoke of early days when the C.P.R first ran thru' Hardisty, & read from the minutes of the first meeting of the Brotherhood of this division in Sutherland in 1910, at which Mr. Redman was an active worker. He also spoke of the debt owed to these striker members for present working conditions.

Mr. Bert May, general chairman, presented the guest of honor with his 60-year jewel, of which he remarked there were only three in Canada at the present time. Mr. Redman first worked as engineer out of Brandon, Man. He was the first engineer on No. 52 through Hardisty when this passenger train began its regular run. He retired from service some years ago, but has kept an active interest in the Brotherhood.

Mr. F. Lutz, special representative, presented Mr. Redman with a classy representing a locomotive. Mr. Redman thanked all present.

Among those present were, Mrs. Bill Dwyer, whose husband was also on the first passenger run here; Mrs. Fred Mitchison, who will be remembered by some of the old-timers; Mr. John Terry of Sutherland.

The evening ended with community singing and finally "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow," in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Redman.

About Those Flags!

An idea of what people from another country think of our double-language standard, was clearly illustrated recently by the editor of the Arlington Heights (Illinois) Herald, when people got to asking him why he was flying the flags out in front of his offices. His answer was something like this: No we're not the post office. Those flags flying in front of our offices are there because we're American —and proud of Old Glory. Most Americans take their freedom for granted, and never bother to get patriotic about their country. We were reminded of this recently while touring the east half of Quebec province. We were dumfounded you could travel for two days in North America and never hear a word of English spoken. Road signs, newspapers, radio & TV were all in French. Order gas for the car, your meals, an ice cream cone, all in halting French. Then notice the determination of the people to hang onto every vestige of French ancestry, French customs and the language. That was when we decided to fly Old Glory every day of the year. We vowed "to go patriotic" to let people know we're Americans & proud of our country. No, we're not the post office, lady, that's over there in the next block.

Brassieres For Brownies!

There was a man in our office the other day who informed us of a very minor act of misbehaviour on the part of one or two youngsters. To me is sounded more like an act of thoughtlessness. But the point is that the parents of these youngsters wanted the man in question to reprimand these children. You know there are people today, professionals in their field, who insist that youthful misbehavior is the responsibility of parents, who can't seem to wait for their children to grow up into maturity in the manner nature line ded them in. Today we find that youngsters date at night at age 12. Young girls are permitted to dress like sex kittens. Children smoke and go dancing at an age when they should be playing one o' cat, hop-scotch or with dolls. One American State is considering a plan to put high school students on an 8-hour day to give them an opportunity to complete the normal four years in two. What this will mean is that high school graduates will move onto university campuses at age 15 or 16 instead of 17 and 18, and in the case of city children at least, place them in the same social and academic world as mature college students. To this old-fashioned corner this appears as a whopping good excuse for Dr. Kinsey to write another book. Perhaps keep on the way we are trying to shape them, it won't be long before brassiere ads on television will be geared to Brownies, and Cubs will be posing for cigarette commercials. Before long mothers will insist that the public schools drop the entrance age another year or two, and married couples will be permitted to attend junior high school until graduation is completed.

If you are one of those who frets over the state of youthful affairs, think this over the next time your 12-year-old daughter reaches for a cigarette instead of a stick of licorace, or your 13-year-old son argues that midnight isn't late.

Whistling In The Dark!

Suppose all cigarette smokers should suddenly stop smoking, as the U. S. surgeon-general recently advised them to do.

It would play havoc with the economy. Some 17 million Americans are said to earn all or part of their livelihood from tobacco, in the fields largest cash crop, and stands third among American agricultural exports. The situation comes real close home to North Carolina for this one state both produces and manufactures more tobacco than any other. Add to this the fact that federal, state, and even city governments collect huge sums in cigarette taxes, and it is understandable why there is some concern; why research is proposed to make doubly sure that cigarettes are dangerous & even to find ways to produce cigarettes that are harmless.

While all this is understandable, it reminds us of the frightened little boy passing a graveyard at night, whistling to keep his courage. In this case, we suspect the whistling is a waste of breath. The evidence is too overwhelming.

Fortunately for the growers and manufacturers and the government tax collectors (though probably not for cigarette smokers), the puffing will not stop overnight. Many middle-aged and older persons will continue to smoke cigarettes whatever the danger, but the almost universal use of cigarettes is on the way out. The custom is likely to last only so long as present smokers do. Most young people are too smart to deliberately acquire a habit they know will shorten their lives.

Farmers, manufacturers, and the economy will have time to adjust, but the farseeing will start adjusting right now. It is better to grow carrots or turnips than to grow tobacco that is worthless, and it is better to convert a manufacturing plant to making candy or hose or defence materials than to have the plant idle.

Whistling may help us to get past the graveyard, but it won't move the cemetery. Nor will it persuade a new generation to try to get there in a hurry. — The Franklin (N. C.) Press.

LADIES PLEASE TAKE NOTICE!

If you are one of those wives who does not pay too much attention to the proper care and feeding of your husband, you might well note an incident which recently took place in Nicastro, Italy.

A police report says that Guiseppe Gugliotta, stabbed his wife to death because she served him a smaller plate of soup than their three grown sons. Now, don't get the wrong idea. It was not the soup; it was a case of wounded honor. And that wounded honor will probably suffer a bit more when and if Guiseppe gets death for murder. But then, again, it just might be well for wives to remember this when next preparing soup. If there is a strange look in hubby's eye, it might be prudent to not take it lightly. One can't be too careful about soup.

"DREAM UP A FUNNY CARTOON ON MONGOLIA OR SOMETHING...ANYTHING BUT THE FLAG NOW..."

MACDUFF REPORT

Obstructing The View

OTTAWA — Beware of Prime Ministers who talk of opposition obstruction. Their words may conceal dark purposes involving elections.

Former Prime Minister Diefenbaker used the charge of Liberal obstruction in the 1958, 1962 and 1963 campaigns. How well the issue served him is a part of history. Now Prime Minister Pearson has taken up the refrain.

At the National Liberal Council in Ottawa on the beginning of June, Mr. Pearson openly accused the Conservatives of obstructing Government business in the House. He spoke of "a Tory filibuster", of the "bickering, obstruction by procedural and partisan delays, repetition & obstructing debate and raising useless questions out of order and points".

A little later he said that he did not want an election. His party did not want an election. But the Conservatives might provoke one, he suggested by filibuster and blocking public business.

That was a revealing statement. It did not reveal real opposition obstruction. What it did reveal is the fact that the Prime Minister was at least entertaining the possibility of calling an election before the normal span of four years has expired. When the time arrives to call an election, it's traditional to have a reason for doing so. It's almost to traditional if you are a minority government, that you claim inability to get legislation through the House because of opposition obstruction.

That's what Mr. Pearson was doing really, setting the stage for an election just in case it becomes advisable to have one.

While we're waiting for the election however, it might be well to examine Mr. Pearson's charge of Conservative obstruction.

On the surface at least, there is no more obstruction in this Parliament than there was when the Liberals were in opposition and when Mr. Diefenbaker was Prime Minister. On one or two occasions, the Conservatives have carried debate to a point which even objective observers may have considered prolonged. But the measures were not obstructed. They passed.

The Government is naturally expected to take a different view of Parliament than the opposition does. What is obstruction for one may be careful parliamentary scrutiny for another.

What then did Mr. Pearson mean by obstruction? He said in his speech that the Tories were filibustering the bill to bring about nonpartisan redistribution of parliamentary seats following the census.

It's true this bill was introduced and suffered several days of contentious debate. But the Government itself called off the debate, and when Mr. Pearson made his speech had not seen fit to resume debate on the subject.

Nor had it introduced any major proposals of the Government? The Canada Pension Plan for example, the new one, has never been before the House. Its far-reaching changes in transportation policy have never been called for debate.

Important amendments to the National Housing Act, on the other hand, made good progress as soon as they were introduced.

As a matter of fact, the opposition even agreed to the introduction of bills amending the Farm Credit Act and the Export Credit Insurance Act without the normal restricted debate on a resolution stage.

But Mr. Pearson himself effectively undermined his charge of obstruction in the same speech to the Liberal Council.

He set out an impressive array of Government accomplishments in the little more than a year in office. How such an impressive record could have been built up in face of opposition obstruction is a question Mr. Pearson did not answer.

Furthermore this record has been achieved in a minority parliament, with four opposition parties, each one of which has to have its full say on every measure and at every stage of every measure.

Mr. Pearson's charge of obstruction, taken at its face value, just doesn't stand up. Taken at its political value however, it has considerable significance.

Obviously the Government is setting the stage for a possible election. At the moment it has no freedom to call an election. The only acceptable excuse would be a defeat in the House of Commons, and that is none thing over which the Government itself has little control.

The Government certainly does not want an election now. But it would like to have the freedom to call one when the time is ripe. If things go well, Mr. Pearson would prefer to wait a few years, to implement the pension plan, the labor code, a new transportation policy, and a number of popular social welfare measures.

But suppose the political winds blow hot for the Government this fall. Suppose economic forecasts indicate some sort of decline. The government may want then to bet its luck on having a majority in an election.

At the moment the Government is not free to time an election. There is no good and sufficient reason. But Mr. Pearson is working on one—by position obstruction.

A few months ago Mr. Pearson firmly shut the door on an election. Now he has opened it again. That, surely, is the real meaning behind his accusation of obstruction.

A. P. Crop Report

Lacal — Wheat seeding is completed and only a small percentage of coarse grains remains to be sown on summerfallow. Subsoil moisture is generally fair to good. Scattered showers have occurred in some areas, but on a whole, surface moisture is only fair and a general rain is needed to restore good moisture condition and sustain the crops on the, up to the present, have had a very good start.

General — Seeding throughout Alberta is now all but completed. In the extreme south-central and the northeastern areas heavy rainfall has provided good moisture conditions, and moisture supplies are satisfactory in the Peace River District. Throughout the rest of the province subsoil moisture is still fair to good, but surface moisture has been depleted. Crops have had a good start and while scattered showers have been received, a general rain is needed to maintain the present good condition of the crops.

(From Press Files of June 18, 1934)

Substantial reductions in wheat acreage in 1934 as compared with the average for the past three years is shown. Canada has an estimated 1,413,600 acres less than a year ago.

Dayaland defeated the Strome ball team in the tune of 8-4 on Tuesday. Errors were plentiful on both sides. Batteries: Daysland, Ruzler & MacMillan; Strome: M. MacMillan, D. MacMillan and Watkins.

The Sedgewick ball team did fairwell to Ben Halmland, active member of the club, who has been transferred to Petrotech as buyer for the Imperial Grain Co. Ben was fielding 100% and batting over the 300.

Quite a number from Morton went to the River on Tuesday, leaving shortly before the word came that U.F.A. Sunday had been postponed until July 16th.

20 YEARS AGO

(From Press Files June 15, 1944)

The Soldier's Honor Roll of Knox United Church will be unveiled Sunday evening, June 18th. A large attendance of parents and friends of the boys of Killam and Pybrix Park is requested.

A Prayer Day was held in the Lougheed Hall in honor of the invasion of Europe. The school and community attended. Rev. V. Cole conducted the service.

The new Strome Hospital Auxiliary was formed here. Mrs. J. C. MacDonald; Vice, Mrs. S. Johnson; Sec., Mrs. T. A. Barrigon. The next meeting is on July 11th.

Mr. Carl Christensen is in Edmonton taking a course on how to dry buttermilk, and on completion will be employed by the Dairy Pool in his new plant at Sedgewick.

(From Press Files of June 17, 1954)

In spite of Friday's rain which cancelled most of the Stampede events, a good crowd gathered at the Hardisty Stampede grounds on Saturday. The big parade took place on Saturday morning, led in fine style by the Walcrofft Band. Garland Shows provided the midway.

Some of the Mirna boys were on a fishing trip lately. The weather is wet enough anyway.

The Hardisty Cee Bingo held last Saturday night drew a fair crowd. Winner of the car was Mr. George Docherty of Lougheed.

Weather Report for Monday thru' Monday: Rain.

FINAL INSTALLMENT

You can understand why no real, self-respecting man would not stay at that home for very long. And the loneliest part of the whole thing was the fact that Stella claimed she just could not understand why. "I feed them good, and they always have a good, comfortable, clean bed in which to sleep," she would say to the neighbors. "And you know that I always pay the going wages".

As the years came and went, the Jackson farm was gradually becoming terribly weedy, the fences were falling down, the barn and machine shed needed paint, in fact it had long age ceased to be the 'showplace' of the countryside. Aside from the evergreen trees which Bert had planted some 20 years before, it was surely a most sorry-looking sight. How it would have broken Bert's heart could he see it now, but how it had gone to wreck & ruin.

Oh, one sprog when Stell had tried in vain to get a man to work for her, she realized at last that it was impossible.

Her daughter Annie had grown to be quite a pretty young lady, and during this last few months was being courted by a very presentable young man (Glen Stratford) who lived only a few miles away. Stella could see that Annie was not really happy, although she tried to cover up for her mother continually. He did love her and wanted her for his wife. So eventually they were married, on the condition that they live on the Jackson farm with Stan running it. Well, as you have probably guessed, this arrangement didn't last very long, and in two years Stan took his wife and son and moved to another farm. Annie's heart ached for her mother, but what else could she (Annie) do? Stan just wasn't used to having fault found with his work. He was an exceptionally good farmer, and told Annie he simply would not put up with it.

Therefore there was nothing left for Stella to do but to go and live with a sister some forty miles East. Stella's two sons were married and lived elsewhere. She resitted, and had to admit that the Jackson farm was not even paying expenses. So poor Stella had no choice but to move out and rent the place.

Stella, who could not get along even with most here of her own family, certainly didn't fit in with her sister and her family. She was getting up in years now, and although she never was a timid type, she finally left her sister's home and took a job helping other farm women in their homes.

How this must have galled her to be working out for a living. She who had once had the nicest, most prosperous and comfortable home in the whole country, to be drudging away in another woman's kitchen. I believe in her heart, she must have realized it was, at least, partly her own fault

Stella went to meet her Maker some years back. Who knows? Wise Judge her too harshly. It was her "second nature" to be bossy. She had started at it so young that it had formed, as a garment, on her very young, thin she was, not have realized how unhappy it made everyone around her.

Bert pre-deceased her by about 8 years. He had accumulated quite a comfortable fortune while farm ng in the Calgary district. Stella was sure she, as Bert's lawful wife, would inherit the Calgary estate. Lily would have no legal right to any of it. But it went to court anyway, and after court fees, lawyers, etc. were paid, there wasn't much left. Although Bert, who always did love his little Annie, had left a few hundred dollars to her (or as full, who should know said). After all was settled and Lily had to get out of that lovely Calgary home, she managed to get a job as house-keeper for a Bachelor, as by doing this, she could keep her two girls with her. She never did go back to her first family, but they all grew up, somehow, without the much-needed mother's love and guidance.

Thus ends this story. A tale of the sad results of a woman who very possibly did not realize what a very unhappy atmosphere can be created from being a chronic nagger.

I am planning to take the summer off from Memory Lane, but will start again in the fall, all being well.

So until then may God bless each and every one of you dear readers. Be seeing you.

DAYSLAND NEWS

(By Dolores Dolanz)

Miss Rose Mary Broemling was home from Edmonton for a few days visiting.

Mrs. A. Rensberg's parents Mr. and Mrs. C. Henderson of Leader arrived Friday. They plan on staying for a few months to visit with the Rensbergs and seeing a bit of Canada.

Mrs. F. Zerach was the lucky winner again of the blanket at the Elk Lodge on Wednesday. Mrs. A. Gardet won the door prize.

A shower was held in the R. C. parish hall on Tuesday evening for Miss Bernice Kontek, who is carrying Mr. Johnny Green.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Ginter were away to Banff for about four days while Mr. Ginter attended a school for secretaries — and had a holiday.

In a ball game on Friday the Dayland Pony Grads won against Kitam; also the same day the Ponies won against Lougheed.

Mr and Mrs Joe Scott have moved into their new home, and Mr & Mrs Edward Scott have moved into their new residence which was formerly owned by Mr. J. Scott.

The pre-school children who join on attending the Dayland school next fall, will attend the school for one day only, June 25th. During this time no tests will be given, but a program of orientation related to school training will be observed. On this date, June 25th, the present grade 1's will remain at home, but will return on June 26th.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

(By Eleanor Deines)

DAYSLAND — Thirteen members answered the roll call of the June Auxiliary meeting. The president thanked the ladies for their help on Civil Defence Exercise. The secretary, Mrs. J. Blatz, retired from her position, and Mrs. N. Cries will take over next meeting.

There will be no meetings during July and August.

Before the close of the meeting, the President presented Mrs. Blatz with a gift in appreciation of her assistance to the Auxiliary, and as a member for 18 years.

C. W. L. MEETING

STROME. — The meeting of the CWL of Our Lady of Peace, was held in the rectory on Sunday afternoon June 7th. Mrs. M. Prosser was hostess and there were twelve members present.

The newly purchased statue of Our Lady of Good Council, and native light was displayed.

Most of the meeting was spent discussing the coming parish sports day on June 25th.

For study club Mrs. A. Lewis read an interesting article entitled, "The Well Informed Catholic," and Mrs. Froehler's Education Period article was interesting. Attendance prize was won by Mrs. Loesch. The July meeting will be held at home of Mrs. Mary Kalpeter.

Mass intentions for the month is for the success of the school children's exams in honor of The Sacred Heart of Jesus.

BLASHUK — SPILLER

In a lovely ceremony on May 16th, Father McCarthy of the Catholic Parish of St. Joseph, read the marriage lines for Frances Spiller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spiller of Killam, and M. A. J. Blashuk, son of Mr. and Mrs.S. Blashuk of Calgary. — Photo by Langheit Studio.

FARMSTEAD SAFETY

(Winning Essay, Division of Killam, by Arne Leedham, grade 8, Teacher A. Cade, Lougheed. Sgt. M. Bruce).

The day dawned bright and cheerful on the Buck farm. The whole family was up early this morning. Today Mr. Buck, a large gentleman in his thirties, and Jim Buck, a large sturdy boy of 17, would round up their cattle and deburn the calves. Their cattle roamed two sections of bush grazing land.

The two rode their horses past the hog pens, over the bridge and past the old barn, with Jim happy and content. He liked this work best because he worked with cattle and horses. They soon came upon a small herd. After a feverish hour of hard work, they ate a hurried lunch and continued. A mile beyond the creek they came upon the rest of the cattle. They rounded them up and herded them toward the corrals. Man & beast were going along quietly when a flock of grouse thundered away.

The startled cattle rampaged in all directions. Jim went after a bunch with the horse at a hard gallop. He turned most of the cattle, but three were still ahead. They headed toward a bush. Jim, giving the horse his head, was unaware of the gopher holes. The horse's foot caught in a hole, nearly throwing the horse. Even though the horse regained its footing, Jim fell.

Jim expected to hit the ground, but to his surprise and dismay, he began to be dragged. His foot caught. Caught!

Jim struggled frantically, but only to put more deadly fear into the horse. Jim felt the rocks cutting into his back, then the crashing of ditches and stumps. The horse, nearly dead from exhaustion, fell and lay still. Jim lay still. The world was still.

When Jim's father found him, he rushed him to the hospital. Jim's legs were broken and cut up. He would lose his leg. His father was stricken sick when he heard the news. He had never bought Jim any cowboy boots.

Why did this have to happen to Jim? Why? Surely it was extremely careless to have a boy ride the range without proper footwear. How simple to have avoided this tragedy with proper riding equipment.

FARMSTEAD SAFETY

(Winning Essay, Killam School Division, by Barbara Humphries, grade 8 Killam Public School. Teacher, Mrs. Saunders; Supt. M. S. Bruce).

Machines have improved the Western farmers' way of life. However, its careless hyde machines can be very dangerous. There have been many accidents in our area. I can think of a man who was run over & killed by a tractor, and a boy killed when he went through the baler he was working on. Another man lost his arms and legs in a power takeoff. Several people have lost their eyesight or fingers in machine accidents. The list of casualties is long.

Sometimes the people are children who have no business operating powerful machines, or old men who have lost their alertness. I am just going to give details of one case, but I think all the accidents in our area are caused by carelessness.

The accident I am thinking about concerns the boy and the baler. No one knows just how it happened. Perhaps his foot caught when he was trying to kick straw into the baler, and he went with it. The boy suffered a great deal because the baler burned and shoved up his skin. When he was found he was rushed to an Edmonton hospital, but died on the way.

We should ask ourselves, if a 16 year-old is capable to be operating such a powerful and dangerous machine. Certainly a future farmer has to start learning sometime, but is an emergency would he have the experience of a man? It is my belief that farm boys have to learn to use farm machines. But, it is also my belief they should have an adult near at hand in case of trouble. They should have quite a bit of experience to be left alone to operate such machines. Perhaps this would help prevent the loss of young lives every year. So, if you are a farm boy learning to work with machinery, never feel shy about asking questions. Always follow your Father's advice and you should have no serious accidents.

PRESBYTERIAN ASSN. HOLDS MEETING

KILLAM — Mrs. Russell Grant was hostess June 11th to the Presbyterian Ladies Assn. Devotional was under the joint charge of Mrs. Ross Grant and Mrs. F. McCabe.

The business meeting opened with eighteen members answering roll, & the visitors. President Mrs. H. Grant welcomed Rev. Perry. The president thanked all for work well done during the previous week. The 4th district was a financial success. The Edmonton Presbyterial Executive meet was also a success with about 35 guests from out of town.

Motions were passed to donate to the Cemetery Assn. and to Camp Kanawin. Partial payment was voted to the Alteration and Supply.

Meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, and lunch. Next meeting is in August at the home of Mrs F. McCabe.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

KILLAM — Eight members attended the June meeting of the Killam Hospital Auxiliary. The meeting opened with the recitation in unison of the members' prayer. While business was transacted the ladies folded aprons.

Mrs. Kember reported that all volunteers working in the hospital are covered by insurance. Mrs. Manning reported the Canteen Cart had been well received. This cart is stocked with candies, cigarettes, soft drinks and such small articles as may be desired by the patients, and when'ed from room to room where patients may see and purchase them. It was decided to continue this as a weekly service and expand it to include home-made treats.

The Sisters personally thanked the ladies for their assistance in the Disaster Day Exercises.

There will be no meeting during July and August, but hospital visiting and other services will be continued without interruption.

Mrs. Gibb and Mrs. Larson acted as hostesses in serving lunch provided by the Sisters.

SEDGEWICK St. John's W. A. held their June meeting at the home of Mrs. F. Hooper with Mrs. Chapman presiding. The meeting opened with prayers and a reading from the study book.

A letter was read from Mrs. Gould thanking members for their cards, and gift of flowers. Final arrangements were made to serve a buffet supper to the Bowling Club, and a mid-day dinner to members of the Health Unit. Another banquet on July 6th had to be refused because so many members would be away on holidays at this time. It was decided to purchase another heavy vegetable bowls for the church kitchen.

Members discussed how to cover benches for the altar rails, and it was decided to have a general clean-up in the church before July.

MISS LEOLA STUYE HONORED AT SHOWER

SEDGEWICK — A shower was held Saturday evening in the United Church hall in honor of Leola Stuye. The theme for the evening was "School Days" with Central High colors and motifs featured. Mrs. Art Edwards was M. C. for a program, featuring a novel Hat Review, with nine friends participating. Following the program Lorine and Donna Edwards and Jerry Patten carried in a basket of gifts, and sang for the guest of honor.

Assisting in opening the gifts were Gene Abbott and Velma Armitage. Sharon Stuye was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. H. Steadman Is New School Trustee

KILLAM — The regular meeting of the Board of Killam School Division was held with the Supt. and the following trustees present: Grnal, Niehaus, Clouston, Pulchopke and Steadman.

Secretary gave notice that there being only one nomination received for office of trustee for sub-division 1 on May 8th, via Mrs. Helen Steadman of Killarney, that in accordance with section 135(1) of the School Act, the nominee declared elected. Forms 1 and 2 re declaration of office and certificate, were signed by Mrs Steadman prior to meeting.

It was moved that Motion No. 87 of April meeting be rescinded, this motion called for payment of $50.00 expenses to divisional teachers attending summer University courses in Chemistry.

Motion passed that divisional teachers attending summer University courses in Chemistry be pay $50.00 for expenses.

It was passed that the payment of bills numbered 118 April to 23 May be confirmed and approval given for payment of bills 84 to 116.

Moved that due to her illness Miss Cheryl Snow be released from her teaching contract and that her Bursary committments be extended for one year.

School closing dates for the holidays are as follows: Grades 10 and 11 dismissed June 19th; Grades 8 at Lougheed, June 22nd; Grade 7, Hardisty dismissed June 23rd; Grade 7 and 8 at Meeva dismissed June 25. All school at Killam June 26th.

Miss Marion Cotton was granted a leave of absence for one year from the teaching staff for the purpose of improving her qualifications.

Mr. Alfred Olson is to be notified immediately that the Board will not tolerate the hiring of Ervin Hauser as a relief bus driver.

All book rental rules are to be reviewed and changed in order to make the project self-supporting, and the cost of workbooks for authorized texts to be included in new rates.

The Secretary and Board members were authorized to attend the Banff Short Course if school administration.

Moved that a copy of the Report and recommendations of the Provincial Fire Inspector on the schools at Dayland be forwarded to Dayland janitor for attention.

The teachers' salary committee met with the Board at 4:30 and negotiations were carried on.

Home & School Final Meeting

Following the usual reports, Mr. Miley, principal, thanked the executive for all their work and co-operation during the year. He especially thanked president Aimee Moody. He also thanked the teachers for working so hard this year, and reported that school would re-open on Sept. 1st with an enrollment of 225 pupils and 7 teachers.

Mr. Les Anderson presented the nominating committee's slate of officers for the next term. He then very ably conducted an installation ceremony for the following: Pres., Bob Woods; Vice, Paul Maurer; Sec. Aimee Moody; Treas., Marg Anderson; Programs, Jane Cruse, Peggy Miller, Rita Hill; Membership, Josie Fedlar, Rosalie Wood, Audrey Clifford and Bessie Maurer; Lunch, Frances Bodnyna, Alice Tatro; Press & Publicity, Mary Reid.

Lunch and a social hour concluded the evening.

KINSMEN ARRANGE SWIMMING LESSONS

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick Kinsmen Club has announced that they are now organizing their 4th annual Swimming Lessons Course, to be held at Sedgewick Lake.

The same rates at last year will be charged. The rates are calculated to just cover the cost of running the school, and no profit is taken by the Club. This year the lessons will be limited to the first 80 applicants to hand in their completed forms along with the fee. Application forms are available at the Post Office, Sedgewick until the Community Press Office, and when completed may be handed in at either place.

This year's instructor is Miss Geraldine Timmins, who has her instructor medallion and considerable previous experience.

The lessons will start on Monday, July 20th and run to August 1st.

WAVY LAKE 4-H CLUB

STROME — The Wavy Lake 4-H Beef Club held their Achievement Day on June 1st at the Strome stockyards. A large crowd of adults were on hand to watch Sid Lore and C. L. Usher judge the members 4-H their calves. Also attending was C. F.G.W's. Dennis Ratcliffe. The 4-H members first wrote a quiz and then took part in a judging competition. Following this the club members got their calves ready for showing.

Club Champion: Patrick Miller
Reserve Champion: Grant Zimmel
1st Showmanship: Harry Little
2nd Showmanship: Dania Eshpeter
1st Grooming: Sharon Zimmel
2nd Grooming: Harry Little

2nd Judging: Fred Prichard.

At the inter-club competition held in Killam on June 2nd, Patrick Miller had the Reserve Grand Champion steer, and Paul Prechiser won a trophy for the top gaining steer of the six clubs.

The Wavy Lake Club held a meeting on June 8th at the home of Patrick Miller. The club discussed the recent sale and finished their feed records for the year. The members then discussed plans for an end-of-year picnic to be held July 30th at the home of Les Heisler. Plans were left to the recreation committee.

A. P. Crop Report

Local — General shower activity has occurred over this area during the past few days. Precipitation rang ed from a half inch up to cloudburst proportions of 4 inches in some localities, causing some flooding and erosion of fields. Moisture conditions on the whole are satisfactory, and crop prospects are good.

General — Good to heavy rain has fallen in the diagonal southwestern half of Alberta providing good moisture supplies and maintaining good crop prospects. In the northeastern half of the province only light and scattered showers have occurred and rain is needed to sustain the crops and prevent deterioration. Slight grasshopper and cutworm activity is reported in the south, but the wet weather has had a restraining effect and little damage has been done.

New course for Junior School

SEDGEWICK — Going under the name of "Pre-Employment" a special Junior High Course is being planned for Sedgewick. This Course is designed for students who are experiencing difficulties in regular grade 7, 8 or 9 classes, and are likely dropouts.

Perhaps the most important aim of the Pre-Employment Course is its practical aspects. Courses are being tailored to meet the specific interests and needs of the students.

Typing, Record Keeping, Shop or Home Economics, Practical Mathematics and Science will make up the greater part of the program. Developmental Reading, Citizenship and Guidance will be featured as well.

It is not the object of the Pre-Employment program to train anyone for a specific job, but rather to provide students with something useful and practical should they leave school without completing grade 9.

Any student who successfully completes Pre-Employment can return to the regular grades, or go on to seek employment in Business or Industry, or return to the farm.

RECENT RAINS GIVE CROPS A BOOST

Most areas of the M. D. Flagstaff received rain during the past week, getting the crops a needed boost. Although the need for rain was not as yet desperate, it was needed, especially for those crops that were seeded early. The early seeding had started to burn in a few cases, and the arrival of the moisture was indeed welcome.

Early May rains had built the sub-soil moisture reserves in most areas of the M. D. up to a very good level and provided all the needed moisture for good germination of the seed. A number of farmers have told us that they have seen few years when their wheat has come up as thick as it has this spring. After getting a good start, it has been five or six weeks since there has been a good general rain in the M. D., although scattered showers have been fairly common.

With the rain of the past week coming just when needed, and if we are fortunate enough to receive a bit more later on, the current crop outlook appears very favorable.

YOUNG SOCREDS ANNUAL MEET

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick-Coronation Young Social Crediters held their annual meeting on June 10th at the League Hall. Present as guests were Mr. J. Hillman, M.L.A., Garnet Petersen, Group Organizer, and Mr. Orvi Kennedy, president of Alberta Social Credit League.

President Roy Pottage moved a vote of thanks to the Community Press for their coverage and co-operation in the past. He reported an increase in members from 19 to 37. Annual reports were given.

The meeting was turned over to Mr. Hillman and Mr. Petersen for the election of officers. Campaign managers and candidates gave their speeches and the ballots were cast. Daniel Lewis was elected pres-dent for the 1964-65 season. Arlene Gascoyne was nominated Vice-President by acclamation. Mr. Lewis is the new lunch convenor. Sec.-Treas. and press reporter will be appointed by the executive.

Mr. Hillman introduced the guest speaker, Garnet Petersen, who gave an interesting talk on the Federal Social Credit situation and Alberta's position in relation to it. A discussion followed with many of the members taking part.

Third Bonanza Held Saturday

KILLAM — The Annual Killam Blacktop Bonanza was held Saturday on the paved main street from noon until midnight. In spite of the threatening weather, a large crowd attended both afternoon & evening.

Booths and decorations dotted the streets and the throng of people spent a happy time. Later in the evening rain drove the platform events into the Community Hall, to be followed by a dance.

Winners of various prizes offered were as follows:

Mel Peters won the pole lamp offered by Killam Electric; Mr. Archie Truck the $10 grocery hamper by the Red and White (guessing the beans at 2,734. Kathleen Steil won the blanket from Robinson Stores. Doug Cochran claimed the baseball glove from the Sport Shop Mrs. S Cejpa won the flash camera from North Drug. Miss Curtis of Strome won the camping outfit raffled by the Co-op Store. Wayne Swainson of Sedgewick was the Transfer who, Camrose.

LEGION AUXILIARY

SEDGEWICK — The Ladies Auxiliary to the Legion held their regular business and regular meeting at Sedgewick Lake with 16 members present. Plans were made to decorate a float for July 1st parade.

Two reps, Mary Cheram and Jean Muirhead were appointed to act on the 1st of July entertainment committee.

The Auxiliary plans to equip the Recreation Centre playground. It was decided to ask Mr. T. Sparrow to order material and make the slide and merry-go-round.

Activities in April and May included a bake sale, the annual Vimy tea, a $25 donation to the Provincial Children's Hospital Fund, and a banquet for the Cubetz, Kadetzes and officers on Inspection Day.

Modern Heritage!

Some schools, for reasons as yet unknown to this corner, once a year collect as many different weekly and daily newspapers as possible. We presume it is for some sort of social studies. However be it, we recently talked to a school teacher who informed us that out of the dozens of requests for copies, his students learned that some twenty newspapers in Alberta had ceased publication. The reason for this is also unknown to us, although we could hazard a pretty good guess. There is no doubt that some of them went what we currently call "broke", or in other and more careful language, "bankrupt".

Professor George Stigler has said that bankruptcy is ordinarily regarded as a calamity — evidence of bad judgment, bad management, or perhaps bad luck. Any one of these could be a good reason for going bankrupt, but it also has the virtue of curbing waste and ending failure. It is unfortunate, we suggest, that the discipline of bankruptcy does not apply in the realm of government activity.

This Professor Stigler seems to be some what of a modern heretic, who is concerned that there is no way of measuring the effectiveness of public economic policies and institutions. He recently concluded a study of various government activities in the United States, and says he definitely is not very impressed.

One example of his finding concerning the effectiveness of state regulatory commissions in the electric industry, where government supervision has been accepted as essential to the public interest for half a century. The Professor found that it is very doubtful whether consumers have been saved as much by public regulations in the electrical utilities as they have had to pay, directly and indirectly for these regulations.

One great invention of private enterprise, is bankruptcy, an institution for putting an eventual stop to costly failure. No such institution has yet been conceived of in the political system, and an unsuccessful policy has no inherent termination. Indeed, political rewards are more closely proportioned to failure than to success, for failure demonstrates the need for larger appropriations and more power. The two sources of this tenacity in failure are the belief that government must be able to solve any social problem, and the absence of objective measures of failure and success.

Economic Union!

According to a poll conducted by Maclean's magazine, two-thirds of all Canadians are in favor of economic union with the United States, and nearly one-third favor both economic and political union. However, in an apparent contradiction, the survey also reports that 74 percent of Canadians feel that action should be taken to restrict further takeovers of Canadian businesses by Americans. In other words, alongside a determination to be masters in our own house, there is a feeling that we should seek—or, perhaps, will not be able to avoid—economic union with the United States. The fact is however, that our independence probably could not survive in a free trade union.

C. J. Harris says that economic union has very broad implications, and with this we are in agreement. To be effective there would have to be the free movement not only of goods, but also of capital and labor. This would tend to produce similar systems of banking, taxation, labor regulations, marketing of agricultural products, and so on. It would produce supranational institutions with a distinct U. S. flavor and on matters of policy the voice of the United States would be supreme. It is likely that a good many of those who feel there would be immediate advantage in free trade between Canada and the U. S., or who feel that a free trade union has to be inevitable, have not thought to look beyond the first step.

It is wrong to assume that Canadians and Americans are the same people. Certainly the trappings are similar, but they are fundamentally different in background and ambitions. Biculturalism now being rediscovered in Canada, is one ingredient that confers real distinction on Canada. On the international plane Canada must strive to be sympathetic to U.S. foreign policy, but the worst thing that could happen for both countries would be for Canada to become a helpless satellite of Washington. To remain independent of the United States has been a main element in Canada's history. Opinion polls notwithstanding, it seems very unlikely that any majority of Canadians would now renounce that history.

A QUEER TWIST!

We notice that Mr. K. of Russia has offended the Scandinavian people with his blunt talk and direct insults.

Well, according to the Letter Review, Mr. K. told his people recently that the fact that there's an awful lot of wheat in North America signifies "no special virtue" in our free-enterprise farmers — it's just that they use more fertilizer.

Possibly the president of the socialist republic did not realize it, but he was paraphrasing J. M. Lazloffer, well known to those who visit the Town Centre Bowling and Billiard Academy of Fort Eirie. Lazloffer is known to the pool-playing fraternity as a born loser at the game, but has won some fame as a philosopher and wit. This fame began when, after a humiliating defeat at the hands of a visitor, he remarked, "This feller don't play pool any better than I do—he just shoots straighter".

If you ever long for the good old days, why not try reading this newspaper by light from the fireplace or watching television via a kerosine lamp.

2,759,022 CHANCES FOR ERROR!

The Editor of a small town weekly was severely criticized because of an error appearing in his paper, and in the next issue he had this to say about it:

"Yes, we know there were some errors in last week's paper. We cheerfully agree that there were some errors in the issue of the week before. But before you bawl us out too unmercifully about it, we want to call your attention to the following facts.

"In an ordinary newspaper column are 10,000 letters, and there are seven possible wrong positions for each letter, making 70,000 chances to make errors and several million chances for transpositions. There are 48 columns in this paper, so you can readily see the chances for mistakes.

"Did you know that in the sentence, 'To be or not to be,' by transpositions alone, 2,759,022 errors can be made? Now, aren't you sorry you got mad about that little mistake last week?"

A man hopes that his lean years are behind him, a woman that hers are ahead.

Feed Grains & Pensions

OTTAWA — Canada's bluff Minister of Agriculture from Calgary, Mr. Hon. Harry Hays, may lack polish and experience as a Parliamentarian. He has a knack of getting himself and the Government into mild trouble with astute mavvers that leave him exposed to opposition [illegible].

But what he may lack in this field he makes up in imaginative ideas that rival his predecessor, the Hon. Alvin Hamilton, who never lacked [illegible].

Mr. Hays' latest is due to go under study by the Agricultural Committee of cabinet very soon and seems likely to get full cabinet approval before Parliament adjourns for the summer recess.

It is legislation to allow the Farm Credit Corporation to make loans to purchasers co-operatives formed by farmers who make arrangements to share the use of costly farm machinery such as combines. Interest on the loans would be at economic rates probably between six and seven percent, but the financing would be infinitely less costly than the 10 to 18 percent that many farmers have to pay to finance companies. It will also make available to the individual farmer modernized machinery that he could never, otherwise, afford to purchase.

And it is at this point that Mr. Hays used his imagination. The House of Commons Committee on Agriculture in its last session took a look at farm costs that turned a record shattering gross cash income on the farm last year into a decline in net income. One of the major troubles, for the Eastern farmer, it found, was feed grain. By the time the milling companies had turned the Western grain into milfeed, the farmer, in spite of a heavy transportation subsidy, paid a price to offset that livestock feeding in the summer months was almost superfluous.

Farm machinery companies are now looking into suggestions that they might manufacture a mobile feed mill. It would be costly, probably in the neighborhood of $20,000, but purchased co-operatively, it may solve one of the major problems of the farm.

There's many a slip between an idea and legislation, still more likely slips between an idea and an end product, there's no reason for not pushing both.

The third edition of Canada's pension plan has one great advantage over its brothers. It was born alive and will survive and grow in the marsupialic genius of its joint godfathers, Prime Minister Pearson and Premier John Lesage. The first plan was stillborn. The second survived to the stage of legislation that died on the House of Commons' order paper.

About three-quarters of the new plan represents acceptance of the Quebec provisions, (which Ontario Premier Robarts expressed such a liking for) the other quarter, compromises between the Quebec and Canada plan. But it must be admitted that its last state is better than its first. The main trouble may be that it is too good. Higher benefits and contributions are going to make it more difficult to integrate the Quebec plan and the Canada plan with private pension schemes.

Barring an unexpected dissolution of the Parliament at Westminster, inclusion of survivor and disability benefits in the plan are now assured. The bitter flag debate was interrupted almost at the start to whisk through the necessary pailiies for her own and her children's account of as much as $168.23 a month.

an amendment to the British North America Act. The Quebec Legislature, having been given details of the Federal Government's survivor and disability plan, gave its consent after a one-day debate.

These benefits will cover a death benefit to the estate of up to $400, and payments to a disabled pensioner from time of disability to age 70 of 75 percent of the full pension he would have received at 65 plus $75 a month. For those earning less than $400 a month the total benefit is larger than the pension, for those at $400, it is the same, and for those at the maximum pensionable earnings it is $2.04 a month less. At age 70 the $75 a month is replaced by $75 a month old age security and he switches to full pension.

In addition, survivor benefits arise on death of husband as follows: 1. To a widow aged 45 to 65 or at any age if there are children, $25 per month plus 37 1/2 percent of husband's pension had he contributed until 65. Maximum total $64.00 per month. 2. To a children whose youngest than 45, the above amount less 10 percent for each year she is under 45. At 35 she gets nothing on her own account. 3. To a woman widowed between 65 and 70 or a widower reaching 65, a complicated formula providing for the greater of (a) her or pension plus 37 1/2 percent of husband's pension adjusted downward by averaging his earnings over the full period to 65, (b) 60 percent of what the combined pension would have been or (c) $25 a month plus 37 1 2 percent of husband's pension with the $25 replaced at 70 by present $75 Old Age Security payments.

Also, on account of each child under 18 or dependent and attending school to age 25, an additional $25 a month up to a maximum of $104.17. A widow with more than four children will be able to receive a total on

WEED CHEMICALS — WHICH TO USE WHEN

There are many companies manufacturing weed chemicals today and selling them under highly advertised trade names. Actually there are only a few kinds of chemicals that you generally need. Each chemical is sold with a different trade name by each manufacturer.

It is almost impossible and certainly confusing to be familiar with all the different kinds of chemicals by name. But it is relatively easy to know all about the different kinds of chemicals.

When buying weed chemicals, look for the kind of chemical and the name of the concentrated portion of the chemical. The trade name is not the important factor.

To compare chemical prices of the same kind of chemical, compare the cost per ounce of acid per gallon. Prices alone are not a fair comparison because chemicals come in 64, 80, 96 and 128 ounce per gallon in strengths.

Pearl Blatz Wed To Phil Gabourie

(By Dolores Dolenz)

DAYSLAND — The Lady of the Prairies Church at Daysland was the scene of a lovely summer wedding on Saturday, June 6th at 11:00 a.m. when Pearl Florence Blatz, daughter of Mrs. Amelia Blatz & the late Jacob Blatz, became the bride of Phil Edward Gabourie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gabourie of Olivation. Rev. F. Elkin performed the nuptial mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother Wendolin, looked lovely in a full-length sheath of silk organza with a train attached to be drawn. Her only jewelry was a drop pearl, gift of the groom. Her veil was held in place by an accessories and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Judy Blatz, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Shirley Heilagh was bridesmaid. They both were identical pink sheaths with over-skirts and carried bouquets of white and pink roses.

The groom was attended by his brother Bob, and Mr. Richard Blatz, brother of the bride. The ushers were Mr. Ed Blatz and Mr. Raymond Gabourie.

The mother of the bride wore a cherry and two-piece suit with white accessories and wore a corsage of white roses. The groom's mother wore a suit of white and accessories of pink. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

Following the mass, dinner was held at the bride's home for ninety guests, and an open house reception for 300 was held at 3:00 p.m.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, beautifully decorated by Mrs. Winchester of Daysland. Mr. Leon Lohner, friend of the bride and groom, was M. C. and Rev. F. Elkin proposed a toast to the bride.

Following their honeymoon in B. C. and points of the U. S. the happy couple will reside in Camrose.

INSECTS ARE EVERYWHERE!

There is a continuous round of insects with us these days. First we had the Tent Caterpillars this spring and now the aphids. Soon we will probably see the effects of spruce sawfly worms or the red spider mite in the spruce trees.

Mathison is recommended by Joe Garbo, Supervisor of Pest Control for Alberta, for the control of these pests. Mathison is a poison and should be handled as such, with caution, but it is one of the safest of chemicals that we use if properly used. Follow the instructions on the can.

Mathion is harmful if swallowed in concentrate form or if poured on the skin. In the mixed form, one to two tablespoons per gallon of water, one would have to swallow quite a bit to experience harmful effects. Mathison will be recognized by its bad odor.

The aphids won't hurt the trees and shrubs but they just make the trees unsightly and messy because of a dripping honey dew they create.

The spruce sawfly larva will kill the new growth but not seriously harm the tree.

The Red Spider Mite is the most dangerous pest. He eats h:ll spruce trees. The mite is too small to see, but can be detected by the silken webbing he leaves deep in the needles. The needles will start to turn a yellow color. It is advisable to treat the spruce trees early, before the mites appear. They are harder to kill after they have become established in the spruce trees.

HEMP NETTLE CONTROL!

Hemp Nettle, a serious annual weed causing concern to farmers in many parts of Alberta, can be effectively controlled with herbicides.

Tom Rose of the Plant Products Division says it is particularly important to get applications in just as soon as possible for grass & forage seed inspections. The number of inspectors that will have to be hired to do the work must be known now because these crops require attention early in July.

Send in your application for seed inspection to the Plant Products Division, Canada Dept. of Agriculture, 8?3 Federal Public Building in Edmonton. An application can always be cancelled if unfortunate circumstances make this necessary.

The French Embassy is at it again. Having failed in its attempt to force TCA through the Government to buy the Caravelle French jet plane, it is now promoting establishment of an assembly plant in Quebec for French cars. It looks very much as though the Government might be caught on the horns of a dilemma. The two companies involved, Renault & Peugeot, backed not only by the French Ambassador but by Premier Lesage, are demanding far more in tax and tariff concessions than has been given to new plants in other provinces. If the Government accedes to the demand it will be accused of discrimination against other provinces. If it refuses it will be blamed for loss of a Quebec industry with all that this implies politically.

C. W. L. HOLDS MEET

KILLAM — The June meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George Spiller with a good attendance. Mrs R. Manning gave a fine report of the Dioceses Convention held in Lloydminster.

Reports of various conveners were given. Some 80c pounds of used clothing were sent to the Manor Centre. Two parcels of cancelled stamps were received and a box of used Christmas cards sent to a Mission. It was agreed to give a donation to the Cemetery Assn and also to supply treats to parish picnic to be held on June 30th.

Plans were made to sponsor a bridal shower for Bernadine Thomas.

Mrs. A. Bosch won the attendance prize. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. C. Robertson and M. Pedersen in serving lunch.

BAPTIST CHURCH

On Wednesday night a group from the Prairie Bible Institute consisting of a male quartette & speaker, Rev. Ken Buchanan, conducted the prayer service. Friday night the Jr. and Sr. Y.P. had a combined service in the form of a panel discussion. The panelists were, a dancer, father, mother, Bible teacher, Jr. Y.P. and a Sr. Y.P. The questions discussed were live issues.

Sunday services were conducted at the usual hour with Mr. John McDonald of Toronto assisting with solos and testimonials.

The new hymnals were dedicated and used for the first time in the S. S. and Worship Service.

Best wishes to the newly-weds, Lionel and Louise Wylie.

Lions Club New Executive

DAYSLAND — Following is the list of the new executive of the Lion Club for the 1964-65 year; Pres., Mr. John Tomich; Sec. Gerry Karpuvich; Treas., Reg Weller; 1st Vice, Dr. Harv Reist; 2nd Vice, Les Dolanz; Lion Tamer, Martin Mandrusiak; Tail Twister, Alphonse Stang; Two-year Directors, Donald Wagner, L. Lindseth and Lorne Chrumik; One-year Directors, Rudy Wirth, Fijan Evans and Keith Painter.

To close the year the Dayland Lions Club held a Ladies Night and Award Night on June 24th in Camrose. The club went bowling and had Chinese food. After supper the president called a short meeting, after which President Ed gave some highlights of the convention some members attended in Montana. He gave out eighteen 100% attendance pins to qualifying members. Twelve pins were given to members who attended ten different club meetings from Warner right to Grand Prairie. The president also gave out twenty President Appreciation Awards to members who helped to make the year a success. He also gave special thanks all the members for the hard work they had done for the year. He then presented Lion John Tomich with the president's pin.

The Charter president, Elmer Petersen presented Ed with the Past President's Pin. The meeting was then turned over to president John, who closed the meeting with one minute of silence.

SCOUT COUNCIL

The annual banquet and meeting of the Flagstaff District Scout Council was held in the United Church hall at Forestburg. The ladies of the Forestburg group committee served a most delicious banquet.

This was followed by the annual meeting. The A.D.C. Lorne Fox reported, as well as the treasurer. Mr. Mesh, reported on the Chuipserve.

Mr. Denny May presented training certificates (Park Scouters) to Mr. Denny, Mr. Hollis and Lorne Fox.

Election of officers for the following year; Rev. Bob Beal, president; N. Nirkenson, Secy.; Mrs. K. Jones, Treas. Mr. Lorne Fox was recommended for appointment to District Commissioner.

The Council will meet quarterly, and the Executive monthly. The O. C. will consider suitable contests for the trophies.

Denny May, guest speaker, was introduced by Bob Seal. He stressed the importance of the job we were doing in housing and the necessity of building of the group and scouter in training boys.

Nazarene Church Report From Portland, Oregon

Reports here come from delegates attending the General Nazarene Assembly of the Church of the Nazarene held in Portland, Oregon, that thousands crowded the meeting service on June 21st. The morning service at 10 and crowds began gathering at 7:00, and by 9:00 the Coliseum was crowded to capacity, with doors having to be closed. There were some Nazarene pastors present with delegates from around the world.

Dr. George Coulter had his first pastorate in Lougheed, and was elected to the office of General Supt., the highest office in the church. The runner-up was Dr. Edward Lawyer, also former District Supt. of the Canada West District, and who is presently Executive Sec. of the Dept. of Evangelism, Kansas City, Mo.

It is also reported that the church was the first protestant church to be established in the new State of Israel. This was a $150,000 building. Also the Nazarene Church was one of the first protestant churches in Brasilia, Brazil. Work has been established in Denmark, with plans for location in Sweden as well as Norway. During the past quadrennium, from 1960-64 the denomination gave $18,646,272 for missions, and as a Golden Anniversary of the NKMS, $114,000 of the $150,000 goal has come in for a hospital in New Guinea.

A. P. Crop Report

Local — Gone to heavy rains were received during the past week providing ample moisture supplies for the present. Cool weather has retarded growth to some extent, but with warmer weather crops will now come along rapidly. Winter wheat and rye are heading in many stations in the south. General crop conditions are reported as from good to excellent.

General — Additional good rains have been received in the southern two-thirds of Alberta ensuring good moisture supplies and crop prospects. This precipitation decreased to scattered showers in the northeastern area and this portion of the province urgently needs good rainfall to restore moisture supplies and provide satisfactory conditions. Moisture supplies are also inadequate in the southern portion of the Peace River District

Christenson - Head Wedding Takes Place In England

CHRISTENSON — HEAD

The wedding between Glenn Flora Head, only daughter of Mr. & Mrs. L. W. Head of Travers, England and Arthur Eric Christenson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Christenson of Killam, took place at Padstow Parish Church, England at noon on March 30th, 1964. Rev. B. Clarke, Vicar of Padstow officiated. A peal of bells was rung as the bride entered the church and as the couple left the church after the ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated with spring flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown with a short train of chiffon silk topped with lace. Her four-tiered veil was held in place by a white satin flowered pillbox. Her bouquet was pink camellias and lily-of-the valley.

Mrs. Wendy Kitts as maid of honour, Miss Margaret Lobb as bridesmaid, attended the bride, both wearing identical dresses of blue velvet with matching shoes. Winter wheat bands and elbow-length gloves. They carried posies of varied colored freesias. The bride's train also somehow acted as train-bearers, Susan dressed in a white nylon dress embroidered in blue, and Hahie in blue velvet trousers and white silk blouse.

On April 11th a wedding reception was given in the Killam United Church basement in honour of the relatives and friends who were unable to attend the wedding in England. Following the reception, the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jens Christenson, gave the couple open house, and later that even ng a dance was held at the Elks Hall.

LOUGHEED W. I. MEET

LOUGHEED — The regular W.I. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Glen Roggenasch, with 17 members and visitors present, and with Mrs. M. Skoberg in the chair.

After the regular business, the program consisted of a report given by Mrs. H. Probst on the 4-H Needle Busters Achievement Day. The report of the constituency conference in Alliance was given by Mrs. Gus E. Probst.

After so much success in the past years, the W. I. decided to carry on collecting for the C.N.I.B. There was also some discussion on the Centennial Project.

The meeting was adjourned and a very tasty lunch was served by Mrs Helen Roggenasch and Mrs. G. Ross Roggenasch.

The next meeting will be held at Hardisty Lake in July, with Mrs. A. McClure as hostess.

Hardisty Installes O.O.R.P. Officers

HARDISTY — At the Installation meeting of the Hardisty OORP, visitors were present from Viking and Killam lodges, and also a number of the Hardisty Elks Lodge. D.D.S.M. Lady Gares of Viking conducted the installation ceremony of the following officers: Honored First Lady, Ira Dreyer; Past NRL, Doris Pawell; Assoc. HRL, Nellie Mickhan; Lec. Lady, Rita Hill; Loyal Lect., Ruth Moor; Cond., Vera Hendricks; Chaplain, Pauline Cavanagh; Sec., Evelyn Edwerthy; Treas., Pat Hoope; Musician, Ruth Miles; Trustee, Grace Overman; Inner Guard, Fannie Wilder; Outer Guard, Elsie DeWald; Pianist, Dorothy Kreiner

A gift was presented to Lady Gares, who in turn presented D. R. Lady Powell with her jewel. Congratulations were extended from the meeting to Lady Evelyn Edwerthy on her appointment as District Deputy for this District.

Wedding

HARDISTY — The marriage took place in St. Paul's United Church on June 27th of Kathleen Marion, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Dewitt, and Beverly Leslie Schultz of Rumbey. Rev. G. Zwerber executed the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a cocktain length frock of pale blue with embroidered bodice and full skirt of net over taffeta. A small pillbox hat of satin and net in white, and a bouquet of garden flowers, with accessories in white, completed the costume

Attending her sister, Miss Connie Dewitt were a sheath dress of pink embroidered linen net off by a mat and flower headpiece, and carried a nosegay of garden flowers.

The groom was attended by his brother Mr. Jack Schultz. Ushers were Denis Devitt and Lloyd Akes.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Bette Rithhaller sang the Wedding Prayer. Mrs. F. Draper played the organ.

A reception was held at the Dewitt home, followed by a dance in the Rowyth hall in the evening.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Alcock of Sask., sister of the groom; Mrs. Jack Schultz from Red Deer and Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Romeo of Harrhead.

Foreign Control!

Last week these columns contained an article saying that according to a poll, some two-thirds of Canadians favoured economic union with the United States, while at the same time about 74 percent of Canadians feel that action should be taken to restrict further takeovers of Canadian businesses by Americans. In this apparent contradiction, Imperial Oil has come up with a few facts on the current myth of foreign control. The company's Oil Review says in part:

In the past few years we Canadians have been deluged in words, written and spoken, some of hysterical, about foreign control of Canadian industry. Perhaps the key to most of our concern was best expressed by Martin Goodman writing in the Toronto Daily Star earlier this year: "There is a big lack of knowledge on the policies and operations of foreign controlled companies and how their behavior differs, if it does, from that of Canadian controlled companies ....."

Well, how different is their behavior? Imperial Oil could be considered a "foreign controlled company" inasmuch as its major shareholder is Standard Oil, even though Imperial was founded in London, Ont., and is actually older than its 'parent.' However, for all practical everyday purposes, this company is Canadian. It operates under a Canadian charter and is subject to federal and provincial laws. It is listed on Canadian stock exchanges, reports to its shareholders with quarterly and annual reports and holds an annual meeting in Canada. Some 36,000 of its 42,000 shareholders are Canadian. Virtually all of Imperial's 12,000 employees are Canadian. Nine of its 12 directors are Canadian-born and another, of English birth, was raised here; two are American. Their decisions are determined by Canadian conditions and requirements.

Of the more than $81 million the company spent on goods and services last year, exclusive of crude oil purchases and wages, salaries and benefits, more than 90 percent was spent in Canada. Imperial buys Canadian goods where they are competetive in price and quality.

This company not only produces oil products for Canada but exports all manner of petroleum derivatives to every continent, and last year exported 74,000 barrels of crude oil daily.

Imperial has its own research effort, one of the biggest of any industry in Canada. In recruiting talent among Canadian university graduates it recruits for Imperial Oil only. The U. S. company looks after itself.

The Community Press does not by any means state that this is typical of every foreign controlled business, but that is how one "affiliate" of a U. S. company operates. We see nothing wrong with it. In fact we would predict that without the foreign investments Canada today would be industrially away behind the position she enjoys today.

John R. White, former Imperial president, Canadian born and raised, is now a vice-president and director of the parent company where he can and does often speak up for Canadian interests.

A while ago he spoke up to a different audience — the school of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University, on the matter of affiliates. This extract from his speech might help clarify some of the thinking in this country about foreign control:

"All that ownership of a business confers on an owner is the right to manage an economic unit within the allowances and restrictions imposed by its total environment. This is not to say that owners are beyond influencing their milieu; operating a business is a creative process and the fruits of creation — technological advance, new products, policy innovation — can markedly alter a given environment. Nevertheless, it is only in fiction that management is able to steer a business as though it were a tank. Much more typically, its role is analogous to that of navigating a sailboat where the problem is one of adjusting canvas and course to forces over which the helmsman has no control."

Knot Heads Unlimited!

(Guest Editorial from Ponoka Herald)

Did you ever wonder why there seems to be so many knot-head people around? You explain something to them carefully so they will get the same clear understanding of it you have — and by golly, it's just like talking to a rock. They just don't seem to be able to see things like you do.

Confidentially, these same knot-headed citizens in turn suspect that you are a knot-head. We wouldn't be at all surprised if all of you considered the writer of this the densest knot-head in the entire country. What is more, the expression of such a candid opinion would not in the least offend us.

It would merely be proof that we are all human beings.

The reason we feel no offence is that with the passing of a good many years in the newspaper profession, we have realized that there are only a comparatively few words that mean the same thing to different people. Time after time, you write a news item as simply and clearly as you can. You feel certain that readers will see the same mental picture you did. Then you will discover that just about every reader of the item got what, to you, is a slightly different picture of the event or idea you were trying to explain.

The second clue comes when you try to report something described to you by another person. No matter how carefully you try, the person who described the event to you often feels that you didn't get the point he was driving at. You may have faithfully described the understanding you got, but it turns out that the person reporting the item to you had a slightly different picture in the mind. He is certain that he explained the item fully and clearly to you. You are equally certain you reported it as he explained it to you.

Such a situation invariably leads each person to suspect that the other is not very bright. Such suspicions are not warranted.

This lack of full communication of ideas between friends and neighbors can lead to all sorts of misunderstanding, quarrels, and sometimes a punch on the nose. But these failures to communicate exact meanings is a thousand times more of a problem between nations and thousands of times more dangerous. Not even the rigid use of words in their dictionary-given meaning will solve this problem.

The crux of this headache in communicating lies in the fact all our impressions are received through our senses, seeing, hearing, tasting, feeling & smelling. Impressions from these senses are received by our mind which evaluates and tags them in accordance with its accumulated knowledge and experience. This is never exactly the same for all people for all things.

Good Health To All

OTTAWA — Canadian taxpayers in recent months have been studying the high cost of the proposed new Canada Pension Plan. They now learn that the Hall Roley Commission is calling for a comprehensive health services program available to everyone in the country. This additional burden on the man who pays the bills should make him the heaviest taxed, but the best cared for resident of a welfare state in the world.

It was a coincidence that on the day that the Commons was debating the constitutional amendment necessary to provide a portable pension plan with provision for your young & benefits, the Royal Commission report on health services was tabled in the House. The health services and pensions were brought together as they should be in a complete social welfare program.

Another Royal Commission, the Porter Commission on Banking and Finance, earlier had warned that before implementing the overall Canada Pension scheme, Canadians and their governments should proceed slowly and prudently with the enrichment. It said that care should be taken to consider the price that would have to be paid in terms of financing the country's development. It cautioned that the nation's economic resources might be strained and its powers to combat inflationary forces might be weakened.

Last month in the Commons, Finance Minister Gordon had said that everything pointed to a continuance of the present economic upswing in Canada. He declared that if any action was needed to stimulate the economy or to direct it in one way or another the Government would not hesitate to act.

He also told the Commons that in dealing with the budgetary problem next year or the year after it was impossible to estimate what the total revenue or expenditures would be until a proper assessment could be made of the condition of the country and prospects had been made. That was difficult a year or two ahead of time.

When these estimates are prepared the Government will be confronted with three courses of action. One course would be to increase taxes and obtain the extra increased revenue. A second choice, and one that the Government is now engaged upon, is a review of governments expenditures and all the different programs to ascertain if there are any items of expenditure that can be eliminated or reduced without causing damage to the economy or the welfare of the people. However, experience has shown that such economy saving moves make little impact on the overall expenditures of the Federal Government.

A third choice, Mr. Gordon has pointed out, is to consider that in the light of the fact that additional revenues have been made available to the provinces by Ottawa, the deficits of the provincial government should therefore be somewhat reduced. Under such circumstances the Minister suggested it might be considered whether a higher Federal deficit could not be justified.

Meantime the Royal Commission on Banking and Commerce has expressed a worry over the proposed Canada Pension Plan shifting investment decisions from the private to the government sector. Thus, governments would be in a position to exercise a direct influence on the allotment of a large share of the financial system. The Banking Commission urged the need to proceed cautiously in implementing the pension scheme particularly where the capital savings and investment process is involved.

Now the Royal Commission on Health Services has recommended that the objectives of a health charter for Canadians be achieved by a development of a health program universally available to all Canadians regardless of age, condition, place of residence or ability to pay. The program would cover not only medicare but the whole range of personal health services.

The Commission spelled out its basic philosophy through many of its comments and its 289 recommendations. They could be summarized as follows: that Canada's human resources, men, women and children, are worth the price that must be paid in taxes in ensuring that all Canadians may enjoy the best health care.

The report said all this can be achieved at no approximate additional cost of $30 a head. The program would be financed jointly by the Federal and Provincial Governments out of general revenues, premiums, lotteries or other financial resources.

The Royal Commission appointed three years ago by the Diefenbaker Government asked the present Federal Government to accept the tried-and-true principles of a health charter for Canadians. It called for a Federal-Provincial conference within six months to get the program rolling. The Liberal party's election program commits the Government to the principle of a national health insurance plan and holding such a conference.

Busily engaged in getting the new Medicare Canada Pension plan through Parliament some members of the Government at Ottawa were preoccupied by the unexpected nature of the health commission's recommendations. First thing they knew, was the report in the Federal Government as it pushed ahead with the pension plan.

Now, there is no question that if and when Canada embarks on such a comprehensive health scheme there will be no lack of funds. The Commission thinks that the taxpayers will be prepared to pay willingly. It said it had based its advising voice on this point. It estimated that by 1971 the annual cost of Canada's present system of health services with all its limitations and inadequacies will be over $4 billion. The Commission said the system it recommends would cost an additional $600 million.

Such a national health insurance scheme will be made operative in Canada some day. But it will not come about overnight. It is a long range goal that Canadians will work towards.

REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

I recently received a letter from a Canadian representative present in approving the Columbia River Treaty, Canada is allowing "continuing good for all time" its right to divert the water from the Columbia and Kootenay Rivers for valuable future uses on the Prairies. Since there are probably others, not just in Calgary but elsewhere on the prairies, who share this view, I would like to explain why I believe very strongly it is incorrect and based on a lack of understanding of the treaty.

The treaty itself has a number of clauses which ensure Canada's rights for diversion for both power and consumptive needs. The treaty and protocol show that Canada's negotiators were aware of the need to protect at all times Canada's ability to use the waters of the Columbia basin to meet consumptive needs in Canada.

The protocol to the treaty provides quite specifically that Canada and the United States agree that the treaty "provides to each of them a right to divert water for a consumptive use."

Consumptive use is defined as "use of water for domestic, municipal stock water, irrigation, mining or industrial purposes, but does not include use for the generation of hydro-electric power."

The exclusion of hydro-electric power from the general diversion rights is only natural, since Canada and the United States are entering into a co-operative arrangement to generate power in the Columbia basin itself. Any action by either country to divert water out of the basin would be defeating the basic intent of the treaty.

Canada does, however, have diversion rights within the basin (Kootenay to Columbia) for power purposes.

So the documents do provide Canada with the right to divert water out of the Columbia basin in Canada for consumptive needs which may arise and can be served economically from Columbia water. Unlike the Boundary Waters Treaty which set reservoir rights were based, the Columbia River Treaty is not terminable on one year's notice by either country, nor is there any provision for downstream parties seeking payment for damages incurred through the loss of water.

Furthermore, any diversion to the Prairies for power generation alone would not be practical; it would have to be for multi-purpose use to be economic. And there is nothing in the treaty to prevent power generation as an incidental use of water diverted primarily for consumptive use. That is, power could be generated from diverted water on its way to a consumptive use.

The government is confident, therefore, that Canada has not only retained, but in some ways has strengthened, our legal rights for consumptive diversions. Any such diversions would require mutual consent, but this has always been the case. Short of making the actual diversions, no more decisive action could be taken, and it is not considered practical to make diversions at this time.

But the right has been retained for future generations to exercise if the need arises.

I think all of this should make it pretty clear that a great deal of thought was given to the possible future water needs of all the Provinces in the negotiation of the Columbia River Treaty, and that as a result of this care, our future needs are well protected.

ing securities from an unknown salesman or company.

The Alberta Securities Commission is an organization set up by the provincial government to regulate the conduct of brokers, broker-dealers, investment dealers and others selling securities in the province. They also process or approve prospectuses.

A prospectus is a brochure issued by a company giving full information about the company. It lists the promoters, the number of shares being sold, the number already issued, the price of the shares & the purpose for which the company is raising money.

Mr. Ross says unless a salesman can produce a prospectus which has been accepted for filing by the Securities Commission, he has no business selling shares. When a prospectus has been approved, a statement, to the effect that this prospectus has been accepted by the Securities Commission under the Alberta Securities Act 1956, will appear at the end.

The fact that a prospectus has been accepted for filing, however, does not mean that the Securities Commission guarantees that the shares are going to be profitable or that it approves of the shares of the company. It simply ensures that the investing public receive full, accurate and public information about the securities. Very often the Securities Commission says nothing about industrial projects, oil companies & mining companies which sell flat. The Securities Commission simply say, here is a prospectus, read it carefully and then make up your own mind about your investment.

To check on a company, write or telephone the Alberta Securities Commission in the Terrace Building, Edmonton or in the Court House at Calgary. A member of the staff will tell you whether the stock you are considering has been approved, & whether the salesman is licensed to sell securities in this province.

Canada's population at April 1, 1964, totalled 19,180,000, an increase of 354,000 from one year earlier & of 942,000 since the 1961 census.

The federal-provincial program of special allowances to needy pensioners, disabled persons, unemployed workers and others costs about $400 million a year; the universal old age security pension costs $900 million, and estimated cost of the proposed Canada Pension Plan in its first year is $600 million.

By source, tax payments made to the old age security pension fund for the year ending March 31, 1964, were: sales tax at manufacturer's level $327 million; personal income tax $262 million; corporation income tax $136 million; total $746 million. Pension payments from the fund in the year totalled $599 million

HORTICULTURAL FAMILY DAY!

A Horticultural Family Day will be held on Friday, July 17th starting at 10:00 a.m. at the farm of Mr. Jack McRae, four miles West and 4 Miles South of Killam.

F. D. (Dune) Hargrave, Supt. of the Brooks Horticultural Station and P. D. (Pete) McCalla, Supervisor of Horticulture for Alberta will be the guest speakers.

The second stop will be at Jack George's at 11:30 (about 4 miles east of the McRae farm). After a tour of the plantings we will have lunch on the lawns. Be sure to bring your lunch. Coffee and pop will be served courtesy of M. D. Fingerhut, and ice cream courtesy of the N.A.D.P.

The program is to be informal but will cover the following topics;

Planning and Layout of Farmsteads and Permanent Shelterbelts.
Different kinds of trees & shrubs, characteristics and adaption of each.
Care and management of trees & shrubs.
Pointers on landscaping.
Kinds of fruit trees, and their care and pruning, etc.
Demonstration of Weed Control by chemicals in trees by A.N.D. Granuozone.

Following lunch and discussion at the George farm, we will go across the road to Lloyd George's to observe the farm home plantings.

Mark July 17th on your calendar, pack a lunch and bring the family to the Horticultural Family Day.

BABE BEAR. This cute golden-robe shinoo bear cub, injured when it caught its foot in a trap, became an orphan when trapper Roger Fillon of North Bay, Ont., had to shoot its mother who came charging at him from the bush. The cub would have been shot, too, but the Ontario Lands and Forests Department ordered it spared and sent to a zoo in Toronto.—

THE IMAGE HAS CHANGED

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

As the school year draws towards its close, I can't help looking back on the past 10 months, my first hitch at the head of the English department in our factory, with a mingling of amusement and amusement.

I am amazed that I have not gone down for the third time in a sea of paper. There were times when I rose to the surface only long enough to gulp a breath of ink, before being swept under by another wave of essays, or book report forms, or memos.

My amusement stems from another source — the old-fashioned image of the English teacher. There just ain't no such thing as a modern image of same.

For many years the image of the English teacher was fairly concrete.

It was that of a wispy, gentle spinster of either sex, wholly dedicated to the written word. Any person in town who actually read poetry. Some kind of a nut who actually believed Shakespeare was thrilling theatre.

When I hold up that image beside the gallery of characters who taught English in my department this year, I chortle. There isn't even the most remote resemblance.

Let's see, now. There's Jack, a vast young man of great good nature and courtly manner, who is a dead ringer for Henry VIII on one of the latter's good days. He's a beer drinker, a motor-bike driver, and a former advertising salesman.

There's Mac, a former golf pro. He's also an ex-bus driver, ex-house painter, and ex-airman. He's an inveterate punster who writes some pretty funny stuff. As witness our production this year of his masterpiece, "Julius Seizer'er", in which the principal character is Mrs. Dr. Bladder from Gaul.

There's Jennette, five-foot-nothing, 98 pounds of doe-eyed French Canadian, who spent the first six months trying to convince the other teachers she was not one of the students, who can pin a six-foot 200 pound lout into paralyzed, petrified panic with one flash of those eyes.

There's Geoff, the young Englishman who came here after a year of teaching grammar school. He complained in a speed a year in Canada as a lark. He was horrified at the free-and-easy attitude of our town agers. He was appalled at our unclerialism and love of comfort. Now he has a car on the never-never plan, and is feeling about his salary. In short, he's become a typical Canadian.

We also have a gal who graduated in music, a former ambulance driver, an ex-chartered accountant, a dream-ridden amateur social worker, & a lady who got sick of housekeeping.

And not one, thank goodness, is "dedicated" to the teaching of English. None abhorrs in ecstasy over a sonnet, bursts into tears over the beauty of an ode. But I daresay my polyglot, hard-working crew has taught the kids more about English and about life than many an old girl whose idea of heaven was to make a journey to England and stand in reverence before the graves of the poets.

Oath Of Office Given At Chamber Meeting

LOUGHEED — The Lougheed Chamber of Commerce held a supper meeting in the Lougheed Cafe June 29th with 35 present and Mr. Art Fails as the guest speaker.

The membership committee reported 54 members and 21 associate members.

The president and vice-president took the oath of office, after which Rev. Ben Kaschele gave his farewell to the Chamber, as he is leaving for Blackfalds. Mr. Herb Lamers replied to the farewell.

Various committee chairmen were elected at the meeting.

Sunday sports was discussed, and it was moved to recommend that Sunday sports not commence until 1:00 p.m. so as not to interfere with morning church services.

The meeting was lively and members quick to respond to the various subjects under discussion.

The executive hopes for continued support of all members, and reminds that the next meeting will be at 7:00 p.m. on Monday, July 27th. Pick up your tickets now.

TRINITY L.C.W.

LOUGHEED — Trinity L. C. W. held their regular meeting at the church on June 18th with twelve members and 1 visitor. Meeting opened by singing a hymn.

Mrs. Lamers gave the devotion & Mrs. J. Svetlous presented the Bible Study.

Plans for the summer include a good scrub-up day for the church and a yard cleaning. It was also decided to start another Layette, and pack another box of good used clothing for Lutheran World Relief. The members may bring their contributions to meetings or leave them in town with either Mrs. C. Ness or Mrs. Larson.

Nine Kiddies Kits were handed in by members and several more are promised. The new ruffee pots have not yet been purchased and it was suggested that we try to collect Bonbon coupons for them. Please keep this in mind.

Members please note that there is no meeting in July. The next one is to be on August 19th at 8:00 p.m. at the church.

A. P. Crop Report

Odd showers have occurred during the week but the weather has been mostly sunny and warmer, in the local area, and crops have made very good progress. Moisture conditions remain generally satisfactory at present, but crops are thick and heavy and will require more rain to maintain the present good prospects.

Alberta General — Very timely rains have been received in the Peace River District restoring moisture supplies and giving prospects for a good crop. Across the northern third of the Province only scattered showers have been received, except for a few localities moisture conditions are poor. In this area rain is urgently needed to promote growth and prevent deterioration. In the southern two-thirds of Alberta sunny weather has prevailed and the crops have advanced rapidly, the present prospects indicating a very good crop.

Largest Crowd In Recent Years At July 1st Sports

This year for the first time the Dominion Day Sports at Sedgewick was held at the new Recreation Centre where the most modern of facilities are available The baseball and softball tournaments were played on new diamonds that were just finished this spring. These diamonds were built by the Kinsmen Club, the Legion, and the Senior Baseball Club.

Use was made of the Recreation Centres kitchen, bowling lanes, wash rooms, and dressing rooms. The games of chance were set up in the curling rink where it was cool and there was ample room.

Exceptionally fine weather prevailed throughout the entire day on July 1st, drawing a large crowd to the annual Sedgewick Sports Day.

A better than usual parade led by the Viking School Band, got away at 10:30 a.m. with the streets lined with interested spectators. Winners in the various categories were as follows: Beauty Queens, Mary Myhride and Shirley Olsen; Horses, Pat Armitage and the Christensen Girls; Commercial Floats, (Tie) Sedgewick Inn and the Co-op Store; Club Floats, Kinsmen Club; Decorated Car, Miss Farmer; Decorated Bicycles, July Bergum and Whitehead; Comic, Sedgewick Hillbillies and the Lougheed Beatles; Special Entry, Fred McKee.

The ground events got rolling at 12 noon with softball, Little League baseball, Senior baseball, and during the afternoon there were races for the kiddies, horse races, entertainment by the Merna Light Horse Association and an Amateur Contest.

In senior baseball Sedgewick won a close battle against Lougheed in the opening game, with the lead switching back and forth between the two teams. In the second game Killam had little trouble disposing of Hardisty by a score of 12-2. The final game saw Killam again win by a lopsided score of 19-3. Players of this game who a home run hit by Art Cunningham of the Killam team (the only home run of the day) over the right-centre fence.

Refreshment booths were in operation all day, both outside and in the Rec Centre lobby. Many took advantage of the opportunity to get in a bit of bowling, while in the curling rink games of chance and bingo got a very good play.

The big dance at night climaxed a day which the committee says was the best in recent years.

FOREST FIRE DAMAGE UP THIS YEAR!

OTTAWA— Estimates of forest fires in Canada to the end of May this year totalled 139,800 acres, compared with 99,000 acres for the same period last year.

In its monthly release of national forest fire statistics, the federal Department of Forestry reports that the acreage burned this year resulted from 2,520 fires. A total of 2,116 fires had been recorded at the end of May last year.

The breakdown for the current forest fire season is as follows:

To the end of April 547 fires, 20,080 acres. Two very small fires on the Yukon caused no appreciable damage.

May 1,962 fires, 119,920 acres, including 10 major fires in the Yukon and Northwest Territories that burned only a few acres.

BLOOD DONOR CLINIC TUESDAY, JULY 14TH

Did you know that many infants with an Rh blood problem would die without prompt replacement transfusions? Others would suffer brain damage which would leave them paralytic or mentally deficient for life. Some might survive without serious damage, however, there is absolutely no way of knowing and it would be folly to run the risk.

Reception Held For E. Freeman's

LOUGHEED — An open reception was held on the afternoon and evening of June 28, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge Freeman's 25th wedding anniversary. Hostessing the occasion was Darlyne and Dunn, daughter and son of the couple.

During the day 100 guests paid their compliments to Mr. and Mrs. Freeman.

The guests were entertained by musical numbers by Mrs. Glen Roggensack and John Heron, Mr. Rod McKinnon. A song composed by Mrs Myrtle Roggensack depicting the courtship and marriage of Dave & Eldredge, brought hilarious laughter from those present.

A purse of money and gift was presented by Mrs. B. Paterson from Groveland and Lougheed communities. Also many lovely gifts were received from relatives and friends.

A delicious lunch was served by the ladies of the community, from a table centered by a beautifully decorated anniversary cake, given by Dunne and Darlyne.

Out-of-town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. H. MacDonald of Edmonton; Mrs. Flora Pinsky of Ontario; Mrs. Lorraine Crook, Mr. and Mrs. F. Eajic, Mr. and Mrs. H. Eajic & family of Wainwright, and Mr. & Mrs. T. A. Jones of New Westminster.

Dedication Service At St. Paul's

HARDISTY — During the morning service at St. Paul's Church on June 28th, a very lovely service of dedication was held. A baptism gift of the children of Charles and Pearl Hendricks, was dedicated in their honor. Presented by Mr. Orville Hendricks of Saigary and received on behalf of the congregation by Mr. Lew Tennis, the table was blessed in dedication by Rev. Zwicker. Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks were among the early settlers of the district, farming at first and later moving into town where Mr. Hendricks was the town dragman. The eldest son Clint and family live in Hardisty. Other members of the family present were Mabel (Mrs. Harold Stolt) and husband; Joyce (Mrs. Ray Martin) and husband; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hendrick; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hendrick, Gloria (Mrs. J. Jorgeson) and husband, and Norma Dell (Mrs. Argezine) and husband. Unable to be present were nona Bernard, Earl & [illegible]

To Agree Or Not Agree!

A current story going the rounds tells of a businessman who was about to reply to a letter from Ottawa, and noticed the final sentence which was set out quite prominently in a paragraph by itself. It read, "If there is anything you do not agree with please notify us immediately." Apparently the businessman was too busy to bother answering this request.

We have often wondered how many constituents bother, ever, to write to the local member, the Prime Minister, Leader of the Opposition, or anyone else connected with the government, spelling out what they think of things in general; how government should or could improve things, and why this or that is not done.

Sometimes we get the urge to sit down and "rip off" a blistering manuscript to various government heads ,and then we get so deeply involved in scratching up the necessary dollars to pay the taxes, we forget all about it. But one day we may find time to do so. If the time ever came, our letters would be something like this:

Dear Mr. Prime Minister Pearson:

For some time now I have been waiting for you to show the kind of determined and efficient leadership in the Commons that I expected of you after listening to your campaign speeches. You remember, how you said you would go ahead with the necessary legislation to implement your programs unless, in spite of having a minority government — and let the chips fall where they may? Well, why not get on with the program? It is time we saw an election, let me so be it. Better that than this dilly-dallying that's going on at present. Please get on with your job. Then again, if co-operation is lacking, why give members a six-week summer vacation? Why not stay on the job until things are cleaned-up. I can't take six weeks off.

Dear Mr. Diefenbaker; Please stop being so provocative and childish in your opposition. Your job is constructive criticism, but not to belabor everything just because you are in opposition. Your job is also to assist in passing legislation for the good of Canada, not just to obstruct for the sake of obstruction and an attempt to force another election. Your first consideration is Canada. You accuse the Prime Minister of splitting the nation while your very nets split the people. Let us get on with our business.

Dear Mr. Smallwood: If you have anything to say on the flag issue, why not make it something constructive? Who wants to drag out some 1000 designs to be studied and mulled over for the next 5 or 10 years? Or who can go along with an idea that the Maple Leaf flag conflicts in any way with a Russian flag?

Well, when you read that over, it does sound a bit silly doesn't it? But then, the way the present government situation is looming up, all of Canada looks just a bit silly. Now doesn't it?

When we pay members from $18 to $20 thousand a year, we expect in return a year's work, with a two-week vacation. What we are getting is a far cry from the expected.

Running the government today is serious business and should be treated just that way. Recently an observer in the public gallery of the House of Commons was treated to a childish bit of jousting that failed to impress him that our elected representatives are sufficiently striving to get on with the public business. The former minister of defence had asked for details of goods that had been stolen from a certain armory, and the answer details were given to him ad nauseam, including thirteen blankets.. Government members, in the meantime seemed to think it was a highly humorous situation, while others seemed, by their giggling, to think the whole thing was rather clever.

If this is the kind of clap-trap we send members to Ottawa for, then their pay should be dropped in line with their activities and their ability.

I for one am fed up to here with Comedy in the Commons ,and shall remain in that situation until some semblance of order and dignity is restored.

Beat It! Nobody In Here But Us Youthful Offenders!

A recent event which took place in the State of New York, has a dangerous and significant likeness to some provinces in Canada. The following is taken from the Massapequa (New York) Post, and illustrates the trend of our Courts here.

"A teenage louse who was collared a few weeks ago, pleaded guilty to the charges against him. He was arrested for grand larceny after he was accused of threatening smaller boys so that they would give him money — I regret that I cannot tell you what charges he pleaded guilty to or what his sentence will be — or if he will be sent home to sin some more.

The ridiculous, dangerous rules of the children's court seal off the proceedings and information concerning our young gangsters. The mis-guided do-gooders apparently think it more important to protect the psyche of the thief, the vandal, the immoral culprit,than the decent, innocent boys and girls who might be contaminated by them.

How much longer must we put up with this nonsence? The only protection the public has from these young hoodlums is publicity; your son or daughter might be dating a kid who has been in trouble several times, but you will never know it until it is too late. The parent who wouldn't otherwise care about their children will certainly take a strap to the stinkers who if names were available to the public, would bring shame upon the family in the local bar.

Cops, judges, youth workers, educators are all against this foolish set-up in our courts — except for the 'you'll ruin them for the rest of their lives' crowd. I'd like to see the local bar association do something on the kid court trading; the public must have the help of such organization if the law is to be changed. In the meantime, send me letters decrying the present court procedure and I'll forward them to the right people".

The small town weekly is not in a position to know or to attend court cases, but we would like to see legislation which would compel court clerks to send court proceedings to the local newspapers, including names, offences and sentences, if any.

Letters to the editor is your column to express what you think about this newspaper, editorial stands, this column, or anything, anywhere, as long as you are not nasty in your language. We get some letters we almost feel like washing before reading, but we will be glad to receive constructive criticism — just don't get too destructive.

An editor is not anxious for everybody to agree with what he thinks. In fact, it is hoped that many disagree with what he writes.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

The Snail's Pace

OTTAWA— Slowly, tortuously, the House of Commons is moving towards a better ordering of its business.

The pressure on it to do so has been building up for years as the number of measures before it which must be dealt with has steadily accumulated.

While the length of each session has become progressively longer, as has the list of unfinished business at prorogation, members of the Commons must reveally steadfastly resisted any move to alter the order of things so that Parliament could meet at Easter than a small space.

If it is true that things often have to get worse before they can get better, perhaps there is some kind of blessing in disguise in the kind of turbulent, cantankerous and obstinate House that has existed for the past few years.

The situation first began to deteriorate after the election of June, 1962, when the Conservative Government was returned with only a frail minority and the Social Credit Party sprung back into a dominant position.

Under the leadership of Lester Pearson, the Liberal opposition devoted itself to the marrow of its fat. It hacked and harassed the Government unmercifully and finally brought it down.

Former Conservative Prime Minister John Diefenbaker has never forgotten nor forgiven. With his head still filled with tunes of glory, his every waking moment is spent recalculating how he can again regain the throne.

In a fashion that is no better and no worse than that of the former Liberal Opposition, the Conservatives in their turn have missed no opportunity to harass the present Government.

Whether this is the job of an opposition, if it is overdone, it can be carried to the point where Parliament nearly ceases to function. And because Parliament has functioned so badly in recent years — both because of the way it is organized and the tactics that have been employed — there has been a growing public pressure for reform which has made itself felt on all parties.

In any House of Commons, the speaker has an important role to fill. Because his appointment is of a temporary nature and because he is beholden to the Government of the day for his future, he cannot be the Office respected by the opposition. Lacking the authority that goes with an appointment of permanence in the office, as in Britain, he must seek always to lead the House by consent.

One of the best to occupy the chair in years was Roland Michener. Appointed on the nomination of Prime Minister Diefenbaker when the Conservatives came to office in 1957, he carried out his duties with wisdom, wit, urbanity and great patience.

Had the Liberals not contested his seat and in the event defeated him in 1962, Mr. Michener would probably have become the first permanent speaker. The prospect of being compelled to reappoint him was regarded with extreme distaste by Mr. Diefenbaker, who came to regard his non-partisan handling of the Commons as outrageous.

With the defeat of Mr. Michener, Mr. Diefenbaker was free to nominate Marcel Lambert of Edmonton as his successor. Lacking both wit and wisdom Mr. Lambert sought to apply the rules more rigidly than had ever been done before long before he had begun to win the confidence of the opposition. In the process he only added to the turmoil on an already turbulent House of Commons.

When the Liberals called Parliament together in May of last year, Prime Minister Pearson proposed the appointment of Alan Macnaughton, a Montreal lawyer who had already established a reputation for fairness and impartiality as the Chairman of the Public Account Committee which operated under the Conservative regime.

Mr. Macnaughton did not repeat the mistake of Mr. Lambert, that of attempting to impose an overly rigid discipline on the Commons long before he had won the confidence of the opposite. Instead, he appeared to have made the opposite mistake, that of continuing to be too lenient in directing the affairs of the House. But if he often exasperated observers and members alike, he has accomplishments to his credit that may be of lasting importance.

Working persistently and patiently behind the scenes with the all-party committee on procedure and organization, Mr. Macnaughton has acted as a catalyst to bring about a transformation in the handling of Commons business.

One of the most time-consuming processes in the House is that of the speech on second reading day. By securing agreement from all parties that he should be given enhanced power to determine which questions are in order, the Speaker's authority has been strengthened considerably.

One of the most important reforms that could be agreed upon is that of amending the Standard which is to be devoted to debate on any particular matter.

Long in practice in the United Kingdom, it has been proposed, but never acted on in Canada, for a variation of it to provide for periodic debating the substance of the opposition has been expected to embarrass the government.

Under the guillotine rules, the committee on Commons procedure has been tied up to the point of agreement on the provision a number of times by Mr. Macnaughton, but at the last moment the Conservatives have always pulled away because of their suspicion that, in some way they do not quite understand, they are being had. But if agreement is not secured now, it seems almost a certainty that it will be in the fore seeable future, because the pressures are for reform and to have made the opposite mistake, that of continuing to be too lenient in directing the affairs of the House. But if he often exasperated observers and members alike, he has accomplishments to his credit that may be of lasting importance.

Spending by all governments in Canada, exclusive of inter-government transfers is estimated at $13.6 billion in 1963, an increase of $685 million over the previous year; combined deficits of all governments were $677 million.

A hearty welcome is extended to all to call on us, at, 10721 - 64 Ave., whenever in the city. — Sincerely: Dave and Clara Wismer & Family. 1f

Card of Thanks

The Hazlewood Good Deed Club members would like to say "Thank You" to all who helped at our Stampede Meal Booth, and to all who donated coffee, salads and pies. We certainly appreciated the help and donations. Also thank you to all who patronized our Father's Day Tea. Miss Beraice Lien was the lucky winner of the apron. With the proceeds from these we will again be able to carry out our good work for another year. Thank you. 12 1 p

Card of Thanks

Mr. & Mrs. Harmon Burpee wish to extend sincere thanks to their many friends, neighbors and relatives for the purse of money, gifts, flowers and lovely cards which helped make their Silver Wedding Anniversary such a happy occasion. We say a special thanks to the ladies who helped with baking, decorating and serving, and to our sons and daughter. — Harmon and Peggie Burpee. 12 1p

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother, Walter Hughie who passed away July 14th, 1946.
God gave us a wonderful son and brother,
He was one who never grew old;
God made his smile and the sunshine,
He made his heart of pure gold.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved wife, and mother Mrs. Agnes Heyland who passed away July 16, 1953. The month of July comes with regret,
It brings back a day we'll never forget.
You fell asleep with a goodbye,
But our memory of you will never die.
Although we smile and seem carefree,
Nobody misses you as much as we.
Lovingly remembered by — Her Family and Sister Mable. 12 1 p

JUNE BRIDAL SHOWER

DAYSLAND — A miscellaneous shower was held in the United Church hall on Friday evening for Miss Betty Carroll. Seventy-five ladies were present and were entertained with some various contests, a piano duet by Mrs. Ginter and a reading by Mrs. Malmo.

Mrs. Coward presented the gifts to Miss Carroll, seated at the table with her mother, her sister Mrs. W. Kitz of Devon, her bridesmaid Miss Lohner and Miss Heck, and groom's mother Mrs H. Lohner. Miss Carroll thanked everyone for the lovely gifts and the shower. Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Coward, Mrs Schnell, Mrs. Weld, Mrr Teeling and Mrs. Malmo.

COWS AND COWBOYS EVERYWHERE. When you see so many cowboys lassoing, and so many cows mooing, you can safely assume Calgary is once more staging its famous stampede. More than 150,000 people are expected to attend this year to thrill at the sight of ropeandscrapers in their white Stetsons and Indians in their fine feathers. Even more thousands of Canadians will watch this western spectacular on television. A one-hour long special is planned by CTV for July 11 or 12.—

BARN FLY CONTROL:

Start fly control in your barns now so that breeding populations do not get a chance to build up, advises P. J. Procter, Assistant Supervisor of Crop Protection and Pest Control with the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

The manure pile, says Mr. Procter is one of the worst offenders as far as barn flies are concerned. Half a pint of manure can produce 5,000 flies in one week. Since flies can breed faster than insecticides can kill them, the first step in any fly control program is to remove manure piles, rotting straw, garbage, etc. Unless these breeding places are eliminated the effects of insecticides will be hardly noticed.

Cords or bands impregnated with insecticides for fly control are now available commercially. According to Mr. Procter, when these are properly hung in buildings they usually give fairly good results. Other commercial fly baits are available in the form of powders and granules.

Mr. Procter recommends a number of chemical sprays for farm buildings. They are listed in two pamphlets entitled "Control of Live Stock Insects" and "Dairy Pesticides 1964". Both contain instructions on the mixing the solution, the best application methods, the number of treatments required and precautions which must be taken when using the chemicals.

"Control of Live Stock Insects" and Dairy Pesticides 1964 can be obtained free of charge from District Agriculturists and from the Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture in Edmonton.

OLDS FARM WOMEN'S WEEK!

"If Women Only Knew," legal tips for women presented by Mrs. Norman Hewitt, Barrister and Solicitor in Edmonton, will be one of the highlights at Farm Women's Week, being held at the Olds Agricultural and Vocational College July 13 to 16 inclusive.

Monday's program will commence with registration at 2:00 p.m. This will be followed by ten and an enbroidery class. In the evening there will be a discussion of "Your Opportunities for Recreation and Cultural Development".

Tuesday's program will cover interior decorating, safety, baymanship and instructions on vegetable gardening. This will be followed by films of special interest.

On Wednesday a diversified program will provide quick-data information on the cost of operating appliances, family courts and juvenile problems and buying. In addition, an experienced panel of citizens will be present to discuss and answer questions on cleaning methods and problems.

Thursday's program will provide information on cancer, home repairs, counter-top-cooking and legal tips for women. The Rev. J. J. Toners will speak at the Thursday evening banquet on "The Changing Nature of the Rural Community."

Husbands and others are invited to attend the banquet and any other part of the program. Although the program is called "Farm Women's Week", urban women have always found it extremely interesting and informative. Baby sitters will be available to look after children while mothers attend sessions and

As this is written (and it looks as though this might be the case for some days), the great issue in the House of Commons is a new national flag for Canada.

The Conservative opposition has asked that the issue be submitted to the country in a national plebiscite. The very strongest arguments against this proposal are contained in the words of the Prime Minister in opening the flag debate in the Commons. He had this to say:

"The very fact that there have been only two plebiscites in the entire history of this country and, so far as I am aware, none at all in the entire history of the United Kingdom, indicates that this is not a part of our parliamentary system of government.

"The essence of our parliamentary system is that the people elect members of Parliament on the basis of broad positions of policy and programs and they expect the members of Parliament to assume the responsibility of making decisions in the national interest based on those positions.

"That is the purpose for which members of Parliament are elected. The government's responsibility is to decide on policy, to present that policy to Parliament for consideration and, they hope, support and to stand or fall on the decisions Parliament takes.

"If Parliament decides that it cannot support a government on a matter of major policy, our system does then provide for a referendum, a referendum to the people in an election."

"Whatever our strength of feeling may be, however, on one side or the other I am sure we can discuss this matter in this House with respect for each other's views and in a way which will be worthy of the historic importance of this occasion.

"We have a responsibility to history in this debate and I am sure we all wish to be worthy of that responsibility, on whatever side of the House we sit.

"And when a decision is reached, whatever that decision may be, we will all, I know, abide by it and do what we can to secure its universal acceptance in this country."

C. W. L. NOTES
(By Dolores Dolene)

DAYSLAND — The monthly meeting was opened with the Rosary led by our director Rev. Fr. Klein. Roll was answered by 20, followed by the Sec. and Treas. reports.

Mrs. Kronsort reported that she sent out a baby card and model to Mrs. R. Hock, a sympathy card to Mr. and Mrs. A. Gubis and a get-well card to Mrs. L. Chomik.

Plans were made for serving at the Hoffman and Blatz wedding.

The president Mrs. Belsing thanked the ladies who helped work at the picnic.

There will be no meetings during August and September.

Mrs. Y. Taylor won the attendance prize, and lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. H. Schlaut, Mrs. B. Terway, Mrs. Sau, Mrs. Mensill.

"Almost every driver will insist he is a good driver," said the Canadian Highway Safety Council. Then CHSC asks, "Why are more than 4,000 people killed and 120,000 people injured on the road every year, and why are there more than 600,000 accidents?

The Council claims that human error is responsible for the vast majority of traffic mishaps. "The problem is that almost every motorist fully believes it's The Other Driver who is responsible for those horrible statistics. He conveniently forgets that HE is The Other Driver in everybody else on the road."

Promoting its annual summer vacation campaign, "Slow Down and Live", CHSC has issued an urgent plea to every motorist to keep constantly in mind the irrefutable fact that every individual driver has the possibility to prevent accidents. The Council repeated its statement that accidents must be prevented one at a time because they occur one at a time. "If every motorist did every thing he could to prevent accidents, the total would drop significantly & hundreds of people would live who might otherwise die ignominiously and horribly," the Council said.

KALAD DAYS. During those hot days of summer, a mother has trouble deciding on the menu for her offspring. Although these little piggies might have preferred roast beef, mother pig decided they'd all have none, but a cool green salad instead.—

SUGAR and SPICE
By Bill Smiley

LOAFING WITHOUT HONOR

"You're a lazy bum, Bill Smiley. That's a resurrect theme around our place the minute the long, hot days of July begin. And it isn't me talking to myself, I might add.

The Bible tells us that a prophet is not without honor, save in his own country. These days, a philosopher is not without honor, save in his own back yard, when summer comes. And he'd look pretty silly sitting out there meditating in January.

I KNOW the hedge needs trimming and the lawn needs mowing and the flowerbeds need weeding & the back porch needs painting and the kids need a clip on the ear. I don't have to be told over and over again, like a retarded child.

But there are a lot of other things that need doing a whole lot more. So I wish my wife would just shut up about those petty, menial chores and let me get on with something worthwhile.

There's hard-watching to be done. Who is going to enjoy the three robins and the flicker strutting under the sprinkler, just like three dowagers and a gigolo, if I'm not there?

Who's going to shoot bark insults to the starlings, warn sparrows that the rat is stalking, and scare off the gulls as they swoop closer and closer to the barbecue, if I'm not on hand?

There's ruminating to be done. Somewhere on this crazy continent there has to be one man sitting quietly, thinking seriously — if you'll bare with me — about the psychological and moral effects of the topless swim suit.

There's planning to be done. How can a chap plan a golf game and a fishing jaunt and a campaign trip and a summer course and a column on about those petty, menial chores and let me get on with something worthwhile.

There's hard-watching to be done. There's a lot of figuring to be done. Who else around here is going to figure out how to get the mortgage extended, meet the note at the bank, and stay out of debtor's prison, when our outgo exceeds our income by an indecent rev of digits?

There's cold beer to be drunk. Any completer can jam up the fridge with it, and leave it there, taking up valuable space. It takes a touch of the artist to keep it moving at just the right speed so that you're never stuck if you are just fresh out when a gang of thirsty visitors arrives.

There are books to be read, clouds to be counted, squirrel-fights to referee. Who's going to listen to the trees making love, the storms dropping the bees dropping, if I'm sweating around behind the ruins of the lawnmower?

So, Next time you drive past our place, and see a recumbent figure on a lawn chair, inert, and your wife says, "That Bill Smiley is a lazy bum, isn't he?" don't agree with the coward you are. Just retort, "Nuts. He's a philosopher without honor in his own back yard."

The teachers' economic committee attended briefly, finalizing the 1964-65 salary agreement.

ONE WAY TO BEAT THE HEAT! Kids have an answer for beating the excessive heat, at least for the time they enjoy a cool, cool swim and frolic in the pool at Sedgewick Lake, provided by the Kinsmen Club . Scores of children and adults flocked to the Lake to enjoy swimming and a picnic lunch during the weekend. — C. P. Photo.

Kinsmen Club Ends Busy Year

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick Kinsmen Club has just ended one of the busiest years in its history, and has now recessed for the summer.

During the past year the Kinsmen spent more than $3000 on various community projects around town The money was raised by several different methods and the Kinsmen say that the support of the public has been very good and they appreciate this support very much.

Some of the ways in which the Kinsmen have spent this money are as follows: The Kinsmen Playground at the Club $627; a Juvenile Hockey Trophy cost $25, and so far this summer the sum of $601 has been spent at the Lake where a new bathing house has been built, a new well and pump installed, and several other projects are under way. This year's work at the Lake is a continuation of work the Kinsmen have been doing for several years.

By far the largest part of the expenditures were made at the Recreation Centre where the Kinsmen spent over $2360. In the Rec Centre building itself the Kinsmen built a

A. P. Crop Report

LOCAL— Some showers have been received but moisture supplies over much of this area are poor and a good general rain is needed immediately to provide uniformity satisfactory moisture conditions and prevent crop deterioration.

GENERAL— The northeast portion of Alberta remains very dry and crops are showing varying amounts of deterioration. Rain is urgently needed in this area to salvage a light to fair crop. The Peace River District and the southern two thirds of the province enjoy good moisture conditions and warm weather is advancing the crops rapidly. In these areas a better than average crop is indicated.

PART OF ALBERTA'S BEAUTY is depicted in these healthy looking flowers that seem to have withstood the current heat spell quite nicely. The scene was caught by our roving photographer shortly after the flowers had been "spruced up" with a little artificial watering, which probably accounts for their beauty. — C. P Photo.

SEDGEWICK FLOWER SHOW ON AUG. 15TH

The Annual Flower Show and Tea sponsored by the Prince of Peace I.C.W. at Sedgewick, will be held in the Community Hall on Saturday, August 15th.

Entries will be from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. Entries will be the same as last year, and lists may be obtained from Mrs. Clarence Beatson.

Entrants are asked to please take special care that bouquets are as the entry specifies. Last year several beautiful bouquets were not were not judged because they exceeded the height specified for the class, so we would appreciate it if those entering bouquets would please state in their entry form "not over 30 inches" places. We are looking forward to a good flower show again, and entries from anyone are most welcome.

SHOWER HELD FOR MISS DONNA BROWN

(By Mrs. Doug Kinzer)

KILLAM — A shower in honor of Miss Donna Brown was held Friday last in the K.U.C. basement, about 35 signing the guest book. A short program was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Ken Brown welcomed the guests and her daughter Donna. Mrs. Lorraine Cair and Linda Hager to come to the head table, where she pinned a corsage on Miss Brown and gave a short talk on the life history f Donna. The gifts were opened and passed around. Miss Brown thanked the ladies, after which a tasty lunch was served by KUC ladies.

Amateur Rodeo At Hardisty

HARDISTY — Monday, July 6 was a perfect day for the Amateur Rodeo and Gymkhana put on by the Battle River Light Horse Assn. While the crowd was disappointingly small, the show was splendid. Mr Archie MacDonald announced the events, which included steer riding, calf roping, pony races, barrel race, stake race and flag race

The highlight of the show was

The Wild Cow Milking, with the lucky lasting two much of the while stuff caused much hilarity, as did the 12 and under calf roping Perhaps some of these lads will be big names in future rodeos.

The Clowns, Paul Dion and Stud Yabo, added much to the fun.

School Principals Hold Conference

SEDGEWICK — Mr. H. A. Stove, Principal of the Central High, is one of 62 school principals meeting at Concordia College in Edmonton for two weeks beginning July 13th, in a study session for school principals, being conducted as a part of the University of Alberta Summer Session, and is sponsored by the Kilsom Division School Board.

The Course is a co-operative venture of the Alberta School Trustees' Assn., the A. T. A., the Council of School Administrators, the Alberta School Inspectors' Assn., the Alberta Dept. of Education and the Faculty of Education, U. of A.

Fifty city, county, divisional and independent Alberta school systems will be represented. Reps from the Sask. Teacher Federation, the Alber ta Teacher Assn., and the British Columbia Teacher Federation, will also be in attendance.

Within the overall aim of working toward better education the course is intended to serve four purposes: (1) To provide the opportunity for principals to become better informed of emerging trends in the organization and administration of education at the school level; (2) To provide the setting for intercommunication of educational ideas and leadership practices; (3) To provide an opportunity for the co-operative solution of problems peculiar to the principalship; (4) To provide an opportunity for individuals to obtain assistance and advice regarding their own unique problems and to form plans for later local action.

Part of each day during the affair will be devoted to working in groups using what is known as the "n-basket" technique. Each course member will be required to find a solution to problems which have come into the principals' in-baskets. Groups will then focus their attention on each group member's proposed solution and by an exchange of ideas based on individual experience, they will try to arrive at what appears to be the best solution or alternative solution. The use of "simulates" materials is a new device which attempts to provide realistic experiences for course members.

Each group will have as consultant a leading educator specializing in the areas being studied by the groups. Serving in this capacity will be Mr. J. W. Peach, Edmonton Student, U. of A., Dr. A. Kratzman, General Sec. of Alberta School Trustees' Assn; Mr. I. Gormley, Superintendent of Schools; N. P. Hrynyk, and Mr. D.V. Morris, Supt., Calgary.

In addition to group discussions, a daily lecture series is planned. Included here is a distinguished panel of men to address the groups.

The Director of the Course is Mr. F. Enns of the Faculty of Education U. of A. Associate Director is Mr. W. G. Roberts, U. of A.

Farm Credit Report

OTTAWA, July 14 — Widening demand for farm credit was underlined in the fifth annual report of the Farm Credit Corporation tabled in the House of Commons July 2nd.

In the fiscal year ended March 31, the number of loans approved by the FCC was a record 5,639, up 17 percent over 1962-63 The amount, $106,668,104 was an increase of 19 percent and also a record.

The Corporation's lending in the last two fiscal years differed from the preceding two years' activities in that growth resulted largely from making loans to more farmers rather than making larger loans.

In 1960-61 and 1961-62 the amount lent annually increased 70 percent although the number of loans increased only 10 percents. In 1962-63 and 1963-64, the annual amount increased 37 percent and the number 46 percent.

At March 31 this year the Corporation was helping to finance 41,305 farms with $341,160,170 in loans.

Farmers' repayment record was excellent, says the annual report, with 95 percent of all loans in good standing and pre-payment exceeding $18,000,000.

Commenting on the past year's operations, Chairman George Owen noted the expanded role of credit in agriculture. The Corporation's objective is to assist Canadian farm families, through the sound use of credit, to adjust to efficient modern methods so that they may improve their incomes and maintain their competitive position in domestic and world markets.

FCC has 169 credit advisers conveniently located in farming areas across the country to provide counselling and loan service to farmers and to assist them in financial planning, farm organization and budgeting, process loan applications and to give post-loan advice to borrowers who request this service.

Mr. Owen said he was particularly pleased at the increase in the number of farmers being assisted as this was one of the best indicators of the effectiveness of the services offered.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

No Time Off . . .

OTTAWA— The present session of Parliament is now expected to continue sitting right through to Christmas without a break.

Some members are ruefully convinced that the House will continue in session — with only a few days off at Christmas — until the next general election. The mood of Parliament is such that attempts to arrange a lengthy recess get nowhere.

The impasse that has developed stems largely from a growing conviction on the part of the Progressive Conservatives that they can force Prime Minister Pearson to give up all thought of having the House approve the Government's proposed Maple Leaf flag. The Conservatives want the Liberal minority Government to refer the flag to a Joint House Commons Committee for consideration.

Once the flag is referred to the Committee it will be as good as shelved. But Prime Minister Pearson is equally adamant that the House should consider the question and give approval to a national flag of maple leaf design before packing up for a summer recess.

The various political party house leaders held private meetings earlier this month to try and resolve the difficulties that appeared to stand in the way of a summer recess. They were given a mammoth task by the Government which agreed to set aside the flag debate temporarily in order to enable Parliament to proceed with certain important pieces of legislation that should be passed before the end of the summer months.

Mr. Pearson made it clear to the other party house leaders that his Government was prepared to set aside the flag debate for two or three weeks until a never-to-end legislative lineup was processed. The concession was made on one condition: that debate would resume on the flag and be completed before recess.

The items to be brought before the House included the defence bill creating a single chief of the armed forces; the youth allowances bill whereby family allowance payments would go to parents of 16 and 17 year olds who attend school.

Mr. Pearson listed five other items as urgent and he set July 22 or 23 as the target date for their completion. They were: The fixing of a 12-mile territorial limit and fishing zone; a measure to provide loans for needy university students; fiscal arrangements with the provinces; a supply bill to cover government expenses through August and September and, two days of study of departmental spending estimates for 1964-65.

After that program was completed Mr. Pearson and the House would resume debate on the flag. It would sit until the flag debate was concluded and a new flag approved, then the M.P.'s could retire to their constituencies for a well earned summer recess.

The Conservatives see a golden opportunity in block the plan to get the flag approved. They proceeded to put it into operation. They extended debates on each item so that the House will be considering interim supply about the end of July.

The Opposition need only keep talking and set pane interim supply and the Government will run out of money with which to pay the bills. If the national treasury is emptied then Mr. Pearson has no alternative but to dissolve Parliament.

It is doubtful that the Conservatives would want to force Parliament over the brink in this way of nerves. They would wait until the end of July or the first few days in August and then pass supply to give the Government the money to meet its bills and pay civil service salaries.

Having done this the House would revert to the flag debate. As the House begins to approach mid-August there is bound to be a restlessness among the backbenchers who like most Canadians prefer to have summer vacations during July and August when their children are on holiday. The Conservative tactics would be dictated by the belief that Liberal backbenchers would put pressure on the Prime Minister to ease up and send the flag to a committee so that they can get their much-needed summer time off. Will it work? Only time will tell.

The Prime Minister has made his concession. He has also put over until the Fall such key measures as the Canada Pension Plan. He had no choice there, as Parliament could not proceed with the plan until the constitutional amendment had been passed by Westminster. That amendment is necessary to enable Canada to introduce legislation providing benefits for survivors.

Mr. Pearson wants to proceed with the Pension Plan in September and hopes to have it passed before Christmas. It will be sent to a committee for study. If it gets opposition before the year end it will be a miracle.

One thing appears to be certain and that is that the Prime Minister is not going to allow himself to be provoked into calling a general election that no Canadian wants at this time. Few members of parliament want such a vote, but there are those who feel that a quick election is the only solution for the present Parliament.

A general election now might only result in another minority Government. The better plan appears to be to hold off until 1965 before going to the Country. After another 12 months the Country may be prepared to endure another test at the polls and this time elect a majority government.

Parliament must be made to work in the meantime. Those who are playing politics at the expense of the public business, those who are causing the delays and frustrations inside the House will be held accountable when the time comes that the electors cast their ballots.

Meantime the reputation of Parliament is suffering.

New School For Retarded Children

The Camrose and District Association for Retarded Children has a present enrollment as of June 30th of ten students, with two teachers, Mrs. F. Healey of Camrose and Miss Doreen Berg of Provost.

The school was housed in temporary classroom at the Mount Pleasant (Our Lady) Separate School for the past two years.

The present plans of the Assn. is the building of permanent school facilities at an estimated cost of $90,000.00. Negotiations with Department officials is presently going on by chairman in charge of the building program.

This has been necessary due to the ever increasing enrollment and the basic problem of having facilities for the coming term.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

There's nothing quite so relaxed & indolent as the life of a school teacher in these two long, golden months of summer. Eight glorious weeks! A little golf, a little swimming, a little fishing; a lot of picnics and cookouts and long, cold drinks; unlimited time to read and girls in shorts to ogle.

It's a picture I paint for myself in circumstances, in cool pastel shades, every June. But somehow the finished canvas isn't quite what I had intended. The outline blurs, the colors change into violent reds, yellows and purples, and we come up with something resembling a drunken rainbow that has been struck by lightning.

This summer has been no exception. It started off in typical fashion with a rushing dose of food poisoning that left me about as hearty as a lady of 90 who has just given birth to quadruplets. I was so weak that the cat, who has been watching for her chance for years, stuck out a foot as I was tottering toward my lawn chair, and tripped me flat on my face.

Barely over that I had to drive the family 700 miles into the U.S. on the July 4th week end, to dump young Hugh at a summer camp school. But it wasn't the mileage that got me down. It was the lot of instructions issued to the kid by his mother. If they'd been written out, they'd have covered a sheet of paper for every mile we travelled, and they could have been remembered only by a herd of elephants.

I didn't blame her, though. It isn't that the kid is stupid. It's just that he's a town-ager and lives in that peculiar world inhabited by that peculiar species. In the week before we left he had lost his wallet, his running shoes, had a radio bill (which turned up in the washing machine). That was an average week.

Imagine going away and leaving that germless geek of a boy on his own, for three weeks, with 10 different places to be at definite times every day; with money to handle all by himself; with nobody to find all the things he'll lose; and with no way to find all the ways he'll lose.

We weren't much comforted as we left him. He climbed out of the car, saying, "Yes, O.K. I won't forget. I'll-heh. Right. Yep." as a last-minute torrent of verbal directions poured at him. He took his bag, waved, and started up the steps of the boarding-house next door to the one we had just registered him in. I doubt if we'll ever see the boy again. He'll start for home and wind up in Tibet.

Get home from that Jamul just long enough to do the washing, repack the suitcases and head for summer school. Arrived a bit shaky after giving myself a small farewell party and was immediately asked to read a poem to a group of intense English teachers.

After summer school, we rush Kim to camp, then take for the old home town to put out the paper for two weeks while the editor goes on his honeymoon. Then scramble for home, collect Kim from camp, entertain friends at relays for a week and long, cold drinks; unlimited time to read and girls in shorts to ogle.

HORTICULTURAL FAMILY DAY

This Friday, July 17th at 10:00 a.m. meet at the farm of Jack McHue (4 miles west of Killam and 4 miles south) for the Horticultural Family Day.

There will be tours of the Jack McHue, Jack George and Lloyd George farms. P. D. Hargrave, Supt. of the Brooks Horticultural station and P. D. McCalla, Supervisor of Horticulture will be on hand to speak about planning the farmstead and farmstead shelterbelts, giving pointers on landscaping. They will also speak on the different kinds of trees, shrubs and fruit trees, their characteristics, care and management. Our speakers will be glad to answer questions you may have on the above

Remember it's the Friday at 10 a.m. Bring your lunch, bring your family and bring your questions.

Ice cream Dixie cups will be served to the children courtesy of the N.A. D.P. at Sedgewick, and Pop will be served to the children and coffee to the adults courtesy of the M. D. of Flagstaff.

FARM SHELTERBELTS!

Next to a good layout for the farmstead itself, there is probably no other project that will improve farm living conditions so much as a good shelterbelt. The benefits for many years to come will far outweigh the time and effort required to get it started.

Well-grown shelterbelts check the wind and moderate extreme heat & cold. They help to accumulate moisture from melting snows and reduce evaporation in gardens, orchards & ornamental plantings. They encourage bird life, provide year-round beauty and comfort as well as enhancing the value of the property.

Here are a few basic rules for planning a good shelterbelt from P. H McCalla, Supervisor of Horticulture, Dept. of Ag., Alberta.

1. Prepare a definite and complete plan for your tree planting program before preparing the land. You can undertake a part of it each year as the program is completed.

2. Summer-fallow the land the year before it is to be planted.

3. Allow at least five acres for the farmstead itself.

4. Leave the front of the farmstead open. Specimen trees or a low hedge can be used for this area.

5. Blend low growing shrubs on the outside row of the shelterbelt.

7. Do not plant trees closer than 100 feet to any building.

8. Fence the windbreak against livestock and guard against fire damage.

Mr. McCalla says his department is now taking applications for next year's supply of free trees from government nurseries. Contact your district agriculturist for a list of 1965 tree varieties and an application form.

I. O. D. E. Meeting

(Mrs. Doug Kinnor)

KILLAM — The Chapter held the June meeting in Sedgewick with Mrs Hale as hostess. A leaflet dealing with educational work among Eskimos and Metis Indians was read by Mrs. McCabe. Plans were made for Decoration Day when flowers will be placed on the graves of deported members.

Mrs. Lackey gave an interesting report of the June meeting which had been held the previous week in Stettler. Some knitted articles for the Service at Home and Abroad were turned in.

On behalf of the Chapter Mrs. G. Stewart presented Mrs. Blair with a farewell gift. We are indeed sorry to part with so capable a member.

A former member, Mrs. Blakeney, joined us during the tea hour.

A small gift from the Chapter was presented to Mrs Wendy Saunders, previous to her leaving on her trip to the United Nations.

There will be no meeting during July or August.

PACKING POINTERS!

Summer time means holiday time to thousands of people. Do you usually pack twice as many things as you really need? Do you invariably have to sit on a suitcase to get the lid closed?

MAKE A LIST!

Whether you're planning an over night visit, a two-week holiday at the lake, or a whole summer away at camp, having the right things with you can make your vacation much more pleasant.

Before you put a single thing in your suitcase, make a list of everything you plan to take, including the oft-forgotten items as a mending kit, shoe polish and cloth, stick spot remover, alarm clock, and perhaps a gift for your hostess. Start the list early and add things as you think of them. Decide on a basic color plan to minimize accessories. Select fabrics that pack well, launder easily & dry quickly. Make sure that what you take is clean and in good repair, that dresses have the right belts, that you pack appropriate underclothes.

MAKE IT EASY!

Plastic bags in varying sizes and a good supply of tissue paper are packing helps. Place suitcases on bed or sturdy table so that you can pack without stooping. Hang garments to be packed in one spot. Place other items in piles near the suitcase EVERYTHING WHERE YOU WANT IT!

Check each garment or item off list as you pack it. Start with large and heavy clothing such as a raincoat. When packing dresses, lay them flat, putting crumpled tissue paper or folded towels between folds to minimize wrinkling. Stuff men's socks in the shirt collar ring to save space as well as wrinkles.

Put related items in plastic bags; e.g., bathing suit, beach jacket & a cap, lingerie, blouses, night clothes, and so on. A plastic zipper bag is good for cosmetics. Pack three bags next, tucking small ones into side pockets of suitcases. Pack shoes in plastic bags and tuck in the back opposite the handle so they will be on bottom when suitcase is carried. Place delicate hose in pockets and gloves to prevent runs.

Use the corners of your bag for little things such as an extra pair of gloves, a scarf or belt, hankies or a loosely rolled sweater. Cosmetics also fit neatly into corners, but be sure to fasten bottle caps with adhesive tape as they won't leak. For extra insurance against spillage — all liquid things in plastic bags.

Remember, if you group similar things together, loop the contents in the suitcase to a minimum and space has been made as possible after you arrive ,everything will be easy to find and in good condition.

BAPTIST CHURCH

A shower was held in the Baptist Church auditorium Tuesday night in honor of bride-elect Ella Leslie. Two contests were enjoyed as well as a solo by Miss Shirley Hamtberg. Mrs Friedrich acted as M.C. and presented Ella with a corsage, and gifts, which were delivered on a decorated wagon by Shelley Erichsen dressed as a nurse, and Billy Leslie as a road construction worker. Assisting Ella to open the gifts were her sisters Mrs. Susan Ness and Miss Janice Leslie. Lunch was served.

The second quarterly business meeting followed the regular Wed. night prayer service, at which time delegates were appointed to the Convference to be held at Lethbridge.

The boys reported a wonderful campfire last week, and girls camp is now underway at Red Deer Lake. Daily Vacation Bible School will be held in the Killam Baptist Church August 10 to 14. This year there is a class for young teens in addition to the regular classes.

We extend our best wishes to Mr and Mrs. Whitbeck, nee Ella Leslie, who's wedding took place in the Baptist Church on Saturday.

C. W. L. NOTES

(By Mrs. Doug Kinnor)

KILLAM — The July meeting of the C.W.L. was held in the parish hall with Mrs. A. Loseiman as the hostess. President Mrs. Manning conducted the meeting and called for reports of various convenors. A new member was welcomed. Plans were made for summer church cleaning in August with each circle assigned to certain sections.

It was agreed that Killam Council of CWL go on record as supporting the Diocesan Project for next 3 years — that is to finance a Rehabilitation Home in Edmonton for Indian and Metis girls. A standing committee was set up to be responsible for funds.

The attendance prize was won by Mrs. J. Schneider. Mrs. E. Chevrun conducted a very enjoyable social evening program. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. A. Bonnet and Mrs. A. Schaffer.

WON COMPETITION—

Wendy Saunders Visiting At U.N.

Wendy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Saunders of Killam, a Sunday at Central High in Edmonton and was chosen by competition in District 6 Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodge. She will travel by Educational Bus Tour, leaving Fort McLeod on July 8th together with 35 other students and three adult counsellors from the State of Washington, Alaska, the Province of B. C. Miss Freda Allcock of Calgary is in charge of the Tour which will visit many places of interest in the State on Lay way to New York, and an all-state route on the return.

While observing at U.N headquarters, student delegates will be made aware of friction between various nations that disturbs the peace of the world, of progress in developed countries and the solving of problems in underdeveloped countries. In addition the students will be interviewed, and commissions and committees seen in action. A day is to be spent at the World Fair, also the Court of International Justice.

A valuable by-product of the Pilgrimage is the fellowship which grows up among the delegates from throughout the U. S. and Canada. More than 1000 young people will be taking part, during seven weeks.

The contest is open to all high school students aged 15 to 18, grades 10 and 11 who contemplate 1 more year of school.

Director of the project is Conrad Hansen of Minneapolis, who has worked with nearly 9000 students in the past 14 years. Mr. Hansen says these students have not united until coming of age in vitally concern themselves with the problems and opportunities of the world in which they live.

BLOOD DONOR CLINIC

A total of 127 people responded to the Blood Donor Clinic held recently at Sedgewick. Of these 10 were rejected for various reasons, leaving the final total at 117. Shown above are some of the donors as they were registered and given blood tests. A staff of 12 accompanied the unit, including nurses, technicians and drivers, who were assisted by 10 ladies from the local area. — Community Press Photo.

Annual Holiday

In order that the staff of the Community Press may enjoy their annual holiday, there will be no issue of the Press for the weeks of August 6th, 13th and 20th. The next issue will be dated August 27th.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday services were held as usual with Rev. Grynalcski bringing the messages. A solo by Mrs. Lavrine Semeniuk was enjoyed at the morning service. Ken Penner's testimony and solo from the witness stand on Sunday evening was a blessing to all.

There will be no services at the Killam Baptist Church next Sunday, July 26th, as all are encouraged to attend Camp at Red Deer Lake.

A. P. Crop Report

Local — Hot dry weather is taking its toll. Most crops on summerfallow are still holding fairly well but grain sown on stubble is burning. Rain is urgently needed immediately to prevent further loss.

At the week end rain fell over the area, varying from 2 inches to 1/4 inch. Some hail was reported from the area north of Galahad through west and north of Lougheed.

General — Good showers were received in the the Peace River District maintaining prospects for an average or better crop. Showers also occurred in the northwest section, but more rain is needed in this area to build up moisture supplies. The northeast corner remains very dry and only a light to poor crop can be expected. In the east-central section crops are starting to burn but fair prospects could be revived with immediate rain. Through the southern half of Alberta, hot weather has advanced the crops rapidly, and while prospects are very good, rain would be welcome.

Reeve Resigns From M. D. Council

SEDGEWICK — Reeve Alfred Kunde (Div.1) resigned on June 30, from the Council of the M. D. of Flagstaff for reasons of health. His resignation was accepted with regret by the Council on July 13th.

Councillor and Deputy Reeve Geo. Matthews (Div. 3) was elected to fill the position of Reeve for the balance of 1964, and E. J. Koehli was elected as Deputy Reeve for the balance of 1964.

A. E. Morgan (Div. 5) was appointed to represent the Council on the Board of the Alberta East-Central Health Unit No. 10.

A. Blain (Div. 7) was appointed as Flagstaff M. D. representative on the Flagstaff Farm Purchase Advisory Committee.

No appointment was made to the Board of the Alliance Seed Cleaning Plant, pending the election of a Councillor for that Division.

Recreation Day

Recreation Day for Division 1 has been set for Sat., August 1st, from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m.

If an election is necessary it will be held on Sat., August 29th.

C. W. L. MEETING

STROME — The regular monthly meeting of Our Lady of Fatima C. W. L. Council was held at the home of Mrs. Mary Kehpeter on July 6th.

Following recitation of League Prayer, 13 members responded to roll call. The president thanked all who helped at the sports day. Also who turned up for the clean-up day at the cemetery. The annual church cleaning is to be July 14 and 15. It was decided to make up two baskets of fruit to be given to Mrs. Trottier and Mrs. Kehpeter, both patients in Killam Auxiliary.

Study club "Marian Day For Christian Unity", was read by Mrs Lorenz. Masses for July are for favorable weather in honor of The Precious Blood.

August — For protection of families in honor of The Assumption of The Blessed Virgin.

September — For good harvest weather in honor of the Blessed Virgin.

Five rosaries for peace were reported, with 70 side calls. Attendance pins were won by Mrs. D. Wincenter.

The next meeting will be at home of Mrs. Dumont in October. Lunch was served by the hostess and assistant Mrs. Wimmer.

50 Years At St. Andrews

LOUGHEED — On Sunday, July 26th St. Andrew's United Church in Lougheed will celebrate its Fiftieth Anniversary.

Fifty years ago this month witnessed the dedication of the church, although it had served the area for some months prior to that time. For hope a few of you were present at that service. Since that time, it has served a great number of people in and around Lougheed and continues to point the way to a saving faith.

To celebrate this important occasion, a special Anniversary Service will be held on Sunday, July 26th at 11:30 a.m. The special speaker will be Dr. E. J. Thompson, Principal of St. Stephen's College in Edmonton, who is also well known for his "Christian Faith" broadcast every Sunday morning. Greetings will also be brought from the other two churches in our charge.

Following the service, lunch will be served and a time provided for fellowship and renewing of acquaintances. We are anticipating an important day in the life of St. Andrew's and will most heartily welcome all former members, adherents and friends who will be able to be with us on that date.

Dr. Thompson will be speaking at Sedgewick United Church at 10:00 a.m. on Sunday, July 26th. Doctor Thompson is principal of St. Stephen's College and is well known for his Christian Faith broadcasts on the radio.

F.U.A. Newsletter

A three man committe of the F. U. A. Board, headed by Mr. C. Verleyn of Champion, has been set up to study the whole question of farm taxation in this province.

The FUA Board of Directors, meeting in Edmonton, has embarked on this task to dig up facts needed before any future policy on land taxation can be adopted by the major farm organization. Currently, the FUA represents nearly 26,000 farm families.

"We want to find out whether or not the farmer is paying more than his share in municipal taxes" states FUA President Paul Belsey. The question arises out of problems faced in suburban areas of the province. An example is Red Deer where the proliferation of sub-divisions outside the city, with their increased demands for municipal services such as schools and roads, has raised the mill rates.

The committe intends to discuss the problem with J. M. McKay, president of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts, Hon. A. Hooke, Minister of Municipal Affairs, and Hon E. W. Hinman, Prov. Treasurer. The committee is to report to the FUA annual convention in Edmonton next December.

Since 1960 the average weekly wage in Canadian manufacturing has increased from 44 to 58; in the period the average profit per dollar of sales in the industry dropped from 7.1 cents to 5.4 cents.

STANG — BLATZ

Mass was said for Mr. Adolph Stang and Mrs. Amelia Blatz on Saturday, July 11th at 10:00 a.m., when Rev. Fr. Klein performed the wedding ceremony uniting them in wedlock.

Daysland Council Declares Monday August 3rd To Be Civic Holiday

(Dalson Baines)

DAYSLAND — The regular monthly council meeting of the Town of Daysland was held on July 9th with five councillors and Mayor Pryce in attendance.

Minutes and financial statement were presented and discussed. Current taxes collected this month were considered a good percentage for this time of year.

Mr. John Polishuyhe ,trustee for Killam School Division, approached council for Lot 12, Block 1, Plan 7107Z. He asked council to reserve this lot for the Division as they may plan to build this fall. No would discuss this further on.

Mrs. K. Painter handed a petition of over 100 of the ratepayers to council requesting that a Library be set up in Daysland. Council accepted the petition and said they would give it consideration.

Mr. Martin Mandrosiuk, manager of the Daysland Hotel was again to see council re his sewer rates. He was informed that council was waiting a reply from the engineers. When this arrived it would be forwarded to the Local Authorities Board.

Const. Schatz' police report for June was presented to council.

Cunard Construction of Edmonton signed an option to purchase lots 13 and 14, Block 3, Plan LV, and lots 5 and 6 and it was moved that applied for a building permit on lots 5 and 6, and it was movedthat the permit be accepted.

Council was expecting an engineer from Commonwealth Engineering at the meeting. He did not show up but the Mayor told Council that the Manager of Municipal Engineering Services in Calgary was in town again and he offered to give Council a free preliminary report of a water system for Daysland. This should be here in a couple of weeks.

Providence Hospital Advisory Board wrote a letter inquiring what council's intentions were in regards to building a sidewalk to the hospital this year. Council instructed Sec. to answer that council's intentions were good but they had not budgeted for extra improvements this year as were financially embarrassed. They would however keep it in mind.

Letter received from the Provincial Sec. Office advised that Mr. E. M. Abell had been appointed Provincial Centennial Officer, and all up

I Stand For Canada!

We like that expression, which originated, at least for this purpose, in the speech recently delivered by the Prime Minister, Mr. Pearson, in the Commons, while speaking on the flag debate.

Perhaps it is only natural that we personally should like the expression in view of the fact that the writer was born in Canada and has lived here ever since.

There have been many historic times in the history of Canada extending over the past ninety some years. One of the most notable of these was the attainment of "nationhood" when Canada ceased to be a so-called Colony, standing before the world as a free nation capable and willing to conduct her own affairs and make its own laws. In spite of this however, we have not yet attained full stature among the nations of the world. This was clearly illustrated recently when a member of the British Commons resented the fact that the British Parliament had to use part of its time in conducting Canadian affairs. We refer of course to the permission necessary to carry out the complete program of the Federal Pension Scheme. Whatever changes in the Federal set-up are needed to put an end to such appeals to the British Parliament should be implemented without delay so that we can get on with the business of running our own affairs within our own boundaries.

Another historic moment of our history will probably be enacted soon, when the Federal Parliament, for the first time in Canada's history will be called upon to decide on a distinctive Canadian flag.

That Canada should have its own distinctive flag, one which represents Canada and Canada alone, goes without saying so far as this writer is concerned. The design is not as important as the flag itself and all the useless bickering over the design is useless and a waste of time; of time needed for necessary legislation. Parliament has the issue in hand and a decision for or against should be put to the house without more delay. The present government was elected partly on the flag issue; it was elected to make decisions; it was elected to legislate; it was elected to carry on the business of this nation. It should proceed forthwith.

I stand for Canada! Those who say we now have a Canadian flag in the Red Ensign are speaking up the wrong flagpole. The Red Ensign is the official flag of the British Merchant Marine.

I stand for Canada! Those who believe we should fly the Union Jack are whistling down the wrong flagpole. Canada is an autonomous nation. The Union Jack is not her flag. It belongs to Britain.

What right has Canada to fly the flag of another nation? It was quite interesting to note the comments of an English citizen, who as yet is undecided in becoming a Canadian citizen. He remarked that Canada should have its own flag, and he rather resented the fact that this country should be flying "my flag". He questioned our right to do so.

I was rather amused not long ago when watching a parade on "Dominion" Day" which included an act lauding retention of the Red Ensign as Canada's flag. The Maple Leaf flag was a rather bedraggled looking thing, bringing up the rear. This little parade entry was carried by a member o fthe Legion (which group advocates the Red Ensign) while down the street a ways at the Cenotaph, erected and cared for by the Legion, flew the Union Jack.

The maple leaf has become the emblem of Canada's men in uniform. It is their official emblem. The official badges of all three armed forces include maple leaves. It is on regimental flags, war service buttons, medals and decorations. It was used for identification by the Royal Canadian Naval ships in World War 2, by painting a large maple leaf on the funnel.

No better emblem could be found for a distinctive Canadian flag than the maple leaf. Let's get on with it.

The Present And The Future!

The Editor of the Rolling Fork (Miss.) Deer Creek Pilot says that he finds it increasingly disturbing to contemplate the ever-growing tendency in today's society to sacrifice the future on the altar of the present—the apparent willingness to ignore the long-term preservation and salvation of civilization itself in favor of reaping immediate and often dubious objectives.

Today, we find this tendency becoming more and more apparent on many and not necessarily related fronts. Most often the manifestations are grouped under the broad cover of so-called "civil disobedience". Stripped of the sugar-coating they are revealed as naked nud purposeful disregard and contempt for law and order. It's about time more men in high office reminded the people that civilization and societies survive only through and because of a system of law and order.

And it must be preserved. No objective is or can be more important than this.

Once people are taught that it is a fine thing to break the law, how are you then going to unteach them? It is almost impossible, and the disease will spread until it covers the entire body of our national society. When people decide they will obey only the laws they decide are good laws, then respect for law and order, and law and order itself, are dead.

And that death will tear apart our entire civilization.

Then who will be the winner? It does no good to say "this cause is just". Both sides of any argument may say that. The causes which are just or unjust will, and can be decided by our society as a whole, functioning through a system of law and order that finds its final expression of the will of the people in the actions of the law-making bodies.

Old Wounds!

Canada's world image is not what it might be, The U. S. publication, The Nation, has allowed that "Canadian forces should never have been requested for a peace-keeping role in Cyprus—they may soon be recalled home for a situation not unlike that in the Mediterranean island".

Now this is a rather depressing assessment from an outsider. But how could we ever win a reputation as diplomats as as peace-makers when our headlines from coast to coast carry blow by blow accounts of the latest domestic skirmishes related to committees on biculturalism or a new flag, or any number of the other hot issues the politicians keep tossing back and forth. Surely a time will come when emotions have calmed to the point where we can consider these highly explosive issues with more national and individual calm. As long as we keep opening up old wounds and old grievances, there is bound to be continual acrimony and dispute — and we are bound to deserve the reputation we are earning. — Farm and Ranch Review.

ABOUT THOSE SCOOTERS!

An interesting observation has been recorded in the motorcycle and scooter injury column compiled by the Safety Council. To the end of May of this year, 26 cyclists have been injured. Of these fourteen were operators of scooters. It may be a small machine, but recklessly handled by young people can become dangerous to riders and pedestrians alike.

A Silent Gift

OTTAWA — A $16 million gift to a group of perhaps 400,000 Canadian taxpayers has gone almost unnoticed.

The Federal Government has had so many changes of heart over budgets since it came to office that it must be becoming rather embarrassing. This may account for the fact that the Government has not been bearing of its generosity and has taken on ingenious course to alter original plans for paying the $10 a month allowance to parents of children in the 16 to 18 age group who continue schooling. But even when the change was admitted by Finance Minister Gordon on July 7 it received far less publicity than it deserved.

On that date it was announced that parents receiving the allowance would still be able to claim the $660 deduction from taxable income for each of those dependents rather than the $300 exemption claimed for children eligible for family allowances. And the extra bounty comes to them with the compliments of Premier Lesage and his Quebec Government whose insistence on continuing the Provincial school allowances payments made it necessary.

Payment of "family allowances" for children of 16 and 17 continuing at school was announced by Mr. Gordon in his budget last March. As a result the accompanying resolution covering amendments to the Income Tax Act contained a provision that for this year parents could claim only $470 instead of $660 "if an allowance was paid under the Family Allowance Act for any month after the child attained the age of 16". The $470 exemption applied only to the year when there would not be a full $120 payment. Thereafter the allowable deduction dropped to $300.

Then Quebec tossed its monkey wrench into the machinery. At the April Federal-Provincial Conference Mrs. Lesage announced Quebec's intention of continuing its own allowance and called for compensation in the form of a further abatement by the Federal Government in individual income tax.

It has now been calculated that the cost of the Quebec payments is equal to about 3 percent of income tax collections and Quebec taxpayers will pay this to the province instead of Federal Government if payments prove to be less than this the Province will pay the difference to Ottawa; if the yew more Ottawa will reimburse the Province.

Another problem arose during subsequent April negotiations. So long as the Province was bearing the cost of the allowances out of provincial income tax it was not legal, if indeed constitutional, that the Federal Government should lower the deduction for these dependents. Instead it was arranged that say loss in revenues resulting from the higher exemptions in Quebec would be taken into account in the final adjustment.

This was fine so far as Mr. Gordon's budget was concerned but an obvious discrimination against residents in other parts of Canada. First hint of a change came in May when Mr. Gorden withdrew the two sections of the income tax resolution dealing with the deductions, announcing merely that they would be taken care of in later legislation.

A dim light dawned when Health and Welfare Minister Judy La Marsh introduced the legislation on July 2. To queries about income tax deductions, cautious civil servants replied with another question: Did the new bill provide for payments "under the Family Allowances Act"? It did not. It was entitled "an act to provide for the payment of Youth Allowances". And the Income Tax Act says nothing about lower deductions for anyone receiving a youth allowance.

REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

OTTAWA— I have been a little disturbed to realize how many farmers seem unaware of useful assistance available to them through the Federal Department of Agriculture. I am thinking in particular at this time of the improved credit now available through the Federal Farm Credit Corporation

In June of this year the Government won Parliament's approval for substantial increases in the amount of credit available from the Corporation and I would like here to present a summary of those changes and what is now available to farmers anywhere in the country.

First of all, the corporation is prepared to lend up to 75 per cent of a farm's appraised value, but not exceeding the maximum limits.

The maximum standard loan was doubled from $20,000 to $40,000 & the maximum packaged, or supervised, loan was doubled from $27,500 to $55,000, covered at least 50 per cent by land and buildings and not more than 40 per cent by livestock and equipment.

The repayment period for standard loans remains at 30 years. Previously the 40 per cent of a package loan covered by livestock and equipment had to be repaid over the first ten years. The changes approved by Parliament in June now permit the whole of a package loan to be repaid over the full 30 year period.

We think this will be especially helpful to young farmers starting out.

For example, if a young farmer borrowed a $16,000 package loan previously, with 40 per cent covered by chattels — that is, livestock and equipment — he had to pay that part back in ten years. This meant he had to repay $1580 a year for the first nine years and $770 a year

Harris-Acher Wed At Gold Bar Baptist

LOUGHEED — A very lovely wedding was solemnized in the Gold Bar Baptist Church, Edmonton, by Pastor Adams, on July 18th, 1964 at 4:00 p.m. when (Adrienne) Marilyn Joyce Acher and Leonard Fredulin Harris were united in marriage. The bride was attired in a floor-length white chiffon over satin, carrying a lovely bouquet of red roses. The bride was attended by her sister Carol, wearing a lovely yellow chiffon dress. The groom was attended by his cousin David Harris. Ushers were Clifford Harris and Donald Acher.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather Mr. Louis Batchor of Winnipeg.

The bride's mother was attired in a lovely yellow suit with mauve and white corsage. The groom's mother chose a pink suit with pink & white corsage.

A reception was held at the home of the bride, with a buffet style lunch. The toast to the bride was given by David Harris, and replied to by the groom.

Out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Anderson and family of Harold, Man., formerly of Lougheed; Mrs. Ruth Johnson of Medicine Hat; Mrs. Phoebe Johnson and Linda of Lougheed and Red Deer; Miss Gloria Harris of Lougheed and Miss Betty Ann McLeod of Alliance.

Congratulations were received from Vancouver.

The young couple will make their home in Edmonton. Frank and Adrienne thank everyone for the congratulation and many lovely gifts.

Forster-Stuve Wedding

The wedding of Leola Anne Stuve the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stuve, Sedgewick, and Doug las Allan Forster, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Forster of Killam, took place at the United Church in Sedgewick at 2:00 o'clock, June 20th. Rev. Lewis officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin topped with a lace jacket. Her tiered veil was held in place by a matching lace crown. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white daisies. Pearl earrings, a gift of the groom were her only jewellery.

Miss Beverley Forster as bridesmaid wore a cocktail length dress of pink crystal cheesecloth and pink bow headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies.

The mother of the bride wore a yellow two piece wool crepe suit with lace blouse and matching hat completed the outfit.

CAPITAL HILL

A new role is being devised for ARDA (Agriculture Rehabilitation and Development Act). It is to be the instrument through which small uneconomic farms in Eastern Canada (cash incomes less then $2500 a year) will be reduced to a minimum and eventually eliminated and the low-income farmer retrained for other employment. A recently released report of the Eastern Canada Farm Survey showed that 40 percent of the farms producing their low incomes were "candidates" for absorption or abandonment". Of the operators of these farms, 55 per cent in Quebec and 46 per cent in Ontario had an inclination to expand to economic operation. Government assistance through ARDA will be necessary for this expansion.

By Bill Smiley

MAN'S WORST MADNESS

Great strides have been made in the twentieth century toward the conquering of disease. One after another, typhoid, smallpox, diphtheria, polio and whooping cough have been knocked on the head. And the medical people are hot on the trail of cancer.

That's why it's so discouraging to realize that while today's medicine-man boys had their noses glued to a test-tube, a little virus that at first seemed harmless, has sneaked around behind them, spread with the stealth of spilled maple syrup, and is now existing in an epidemic of appalling proportions.

Worse still, there is no drug that will kill it for it is not a physical ailment but a mental aberration. Already this highly contagious mania has hit so many people that it's not likely anything will stop its ravages of the mass energy the radio-active variant that will stop everything one of these days.

Its symptoms are unmistakable, its victims easily discerned. When under an attack, they will: suddenly leave work in the middle of the afternoon; miss the funerals of close relatives; skip meals, though they love their victuals; chafe for hours at one at all sorts of odd hours; inexplicable recover from pain or illness that would have been meaning in bed, in the winter. Oh yes, this disease is most prevelent in summer as polio was.

Just the other day I was sitting on a bench at the 7th tee. An elderly man came up, playing with 2 others. He let them go on without him, and collapsed beside me. "Played wharf six holes today," he wheezed triumphantly. "Had a wharf heart attack two weeks ago, you know. Gotta take it easy. Played wharf three holes yesterday. I'll make wharf 9 tomorrow."

Golf used to be a game for rich people and a few professionals. It was associated with country clubs, snobbery and social climbing. But something has happened in the last decade, and the rabble have stormed the barricades and infiltrated the fairways. Go out to a course any day and you'll see a butcher and a baker, a printer and preacher, a hair dresser and Hotel Keeper, hurling themselves with unanimous vigor and insouciency in the general direction of the bouncy little fiend of a ball.

Golf ladies should be home knitting garments for grandchildren sweat happily around the golf course, hacking divots as big as dishpans. Attractive young women who should be sitting around at a beach or bar, just looking beautiful, are putting inanimly about in long tanned legs and short, tight shorts. Thereby wrecking the concentration of old codgers, who are distracted into slicing $1.50 balls into the rough after spending $300 in lessons to get rid of that slice.

Oh, I know. The whole thing is ridiculous. "What could be sillier," I used to say before the virus entered my veins, then walking around hitting a little ball with a stick". I still think it's crazy, a mere obsession. And the day I break 100, I'm going to throw away my clubs and start living again, which will probably be about the same day I'm elected president of the Women's Institute.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my son Arnold "Bud" Tetlock who passed away July 23rd, 1957.
Dec pin my heart in a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame I will keep it
Because he was one of the best.
When I am sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong,
Yet I seem to hear him whisper
Cheer up and carry on.
Ever remembered by his loving Mother and Sister. 14 1 p

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear granddaughter Karen Elizabeth Lynch, who passed away July 20th 1963.
The Golden Gates softly opened
Seven years ago today,
With good-byes not even spoken
She gently passed away.
God gave us strength to bear it,
And courage to carry on;
But what it meant to lose her
No one will ever know.
Ever remembered by her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. J. Bevan. 29

tv Talk

Baseball fans eager for another look at national league teams are in for a special treat when CBC-TV presents the Game Of The Week on Saturday, July 25th. That's the day the St. Louis Cardinals invade the Candlestick Park Stadium to take on the high-flying Philadelphia Phillies. As usual Dizzy Dean & Pee Wee Reese will provide the colorful commentary on the action and in some cases the lack of action on the field. Game time is 1:00 p.m. CDT.

Later the same day at 8:00 p.m. CDT, CBC-T V's 20/20 series presents "Diary of a Senate Junkie". It's a film visit to Saskatchewan's smoke jumper's headquarters at Lac La Ronge 165 miles north of Prince Albert Sask., and follows the men through their rigorous training program. The CBC cameras also recorded the thoughts and feelings of jumpmaster Frank Tomkins and a crew of four men as they go about their work extinguishing a fire.

CBC-TV's Great Movie presentation Sat., July 25 at 9:00 p.m. is entitled "Battleground" and stars Van Johnson, John Hodiak, Marsha Hunt thahan and James Whitmore. It is the story of the Battle of Bastogne, the fiercest struggle of 1944, when United States troops became outnumbered by a brilliant German offensive which attempt to break through to the Channel.

On Sunday, July 26, CBC-TV's World of Sports presents two more exciting sports attractions. At 2:00 p.m. CDT video-taped highlights of the 52nd Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, and the Olympic rowing trials will be seen. The Olympic rowing trials are scheduled for the day before the opening of the Henley. Both the trials and the Henley are held over the mile and 550 rear-long course on the old Willand Canal at St. Catherines, Ontario.

Immediately following these events sports fans will be treated to "The Targa Florio-1965". Stirling Moss is host of one-hour film on the 43-mile motor race in Sicily. The event is for sports and grand touring cars. Moss, winner of the race in 1955, takes viewers on a race-driver's tour of the course. He also comments on the landscape, the places and people surrounding the event, and describes the race itself.

Ed Sullivan rolls out the welcome mat at 8:00 p.m. and introduces such stars as singer Steve Lawrence, Mercenabe and Wise, British comedy team; Gusta Gill, Israeli singer, and Los Cherrios de Espana, Spanish dance and instrumental group.

Former Sedgewick Girl Wed In Edmonton

A lovely summer wedding took place on Friday June 19th in Park Allen Baptist Church in Edmonton, when Doris Olive only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Anderson of Edmonton, formerly of Sedgewick, and Clotis Turpin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Turpin of Wetaskiwin were united in marriage. Rev. F. J. Wylie performed the ceremony.

To the strains of the wedding dance played by Douglas Johnson of Vancouver the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, radiant in a floor-length gown of white nylon tulle over bridal satin, with a lace panel down the front and back- styled with long lily-point sleeves. The form-fitted, lace trimmed bodice was embroidered with seed pearls and tiny sequins of sweet boreils. The shoulder length veil was held in place by a wedding band headpiece trimmed with aurora borealis sequins. She carried 4 cascade bouquet of red roses. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Attendants of the bride were Yvone Adam of Edmonton as maid of honor, Anne Sabbenate of Banff, B.C. as bridesmaid and Pamela Anderson, niece of the bride, of Elk River, Minn. as junior bridesmaid. They were dressed alike in floor-length gowns of red nylon chiffon over taffeta with white lace cumberbunds. They wore white lace gloves and carried bouquets of white gladiolas.

Twayila Anderson, niece of the bride acted as flower girl and was dressed in a short dress of white organza over taffeta. She carried a basket of daisies and wore a matching headband.

Attending the grooms were Frank Witwicky of Edmonton, Bill Walker of Edmonton and Neil Brashears of Headley, cousin of the groom. The ushers were Irvan Anderson, brother of the bride and Stan Nelson, best of Edmonton.

Just prior to the ceremony a solo "Each For The Other," was sung by Morgan Anderson, brother of the bride. During the signing of the register Wesley Long of Edmonton sang "O Perfect Love".

The altar was adorned with two large candelabrum and one large bee quet of red and white gladiolas .The guest pews were marked with big white ribbon bows with tiny red roses in the centre.

The bride's mother chose a turquoise blue Francenne knit suit with all white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses. The groom's mother wore a tan silk dress with a yellow floral pattern with a matching tan linen three-quarter-length coat. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

A reception was held in the Beverly Crest Motor Hotel for about 175 guests. The bridal table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake baked by the bride's mother & decorated by Mrs. George Crandall, cousin of the groom. Norman Anderson was M.C. To open the program consisted of a duet by Mr and Mrs. Norman Anderson, a solo by Wesley Long, the reading of telegrams and some words of good advice from Pastor Wylie.

Out of town guests were from Vancouver, Chilliwack, Minnesota, St. Albert, Killam, Sedgewick, Wetaskiwin Headley Red Deer and Calgary.

For travelling the bride chose a three-piece off white linen suit with red accessories and a corsage of red rose-buhari roses.

The happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Banff, Radium & Jasper. In September Mr. and Mrs. Turpin will make their home in Winfield Alberta where Clotis will be teaching school.

The Canadian Labour Congress took an historic step toward union responsibility recently with the appointment of H. Carl Goldenberg, Canada's most experienced labour conciliator, to be permanent umpi, o over jurisdictional disputes. New constitutional machinery will provide for arbitration of these in union disputes if they cannot be resolved by a mediator in the trade union movement within 14 days. Except for the possibility of a wildcat the move eliminates the possibility of a jurisdictional strike.

HARRY HAYS

over the rest of the 30-year period.

In other words, his biggest repayments were in the years when annuity he'd have his hardest going, at the beginning.

We have now changed this so that the whole of his $18,000 loan would be repaid over the full 30 years. This means he would pay $1,056 a year for the full period, which works out to $324 a year less during his first nine years.

We have also provided for a farmer to get a loan to help a son, daughter or other close relative start a new farm or expand the family farm.

For example, a farmer has two sons, both of whom want to stay in farming while the father retires and moves into town. But the home place isn't big enough to support both sons.

The father transfers the home place to his first son. The first son uses it as security for a loan from the Federal Farm Credit Corporation. He then gives the second son enough money for a down-payment on a farm and the rest to the father toward payment for the home place and his retirement.

The second son then gets a loan of his own from the Corporation to pay off the rest of his new farm. Buy livestock and equipment and build necessary buildings.

We have also provided that a loan can now be made to a deserted farmer's spouse if it is necessary to permit heirs to continue farming.

For example, a farmer dies, leaving his widow and 18-year-old son. The son wants to carry on the farm with his mother. Now the executor, acting on behalf of the heirs, can make a loan from the Corporation to carry on the farm until the son is old enough legally to take over on his own.

The interest remains the same on standard loans up to $80,000 and packages loans up to $27,500, that is, a subsidized rate of 5 per cent. On the amount over those figures, the rate is the going economic rate, currently 6 3/8 per cent.

If a farmer borrows the maximum standard loan of $60,000, for example, his repayment at 5 per cent on the first $20,000 would amount to $1,320.32 per year for principal and interest. Repayment on the amount above $20,000 at 6 3/8 per cent interest would be $1,529.97 per year. So the total annual repayment for the full $60,000 loan would be $2,850.79 over the 30 year period.

We felt justified in changing the going economic — that is, subsidized — interest rate on the higher share of those loans because we knew it would still be an awful lot cheaper than what farmers have been paying for this kind of money up to now.

We found, for example, that farmers last year borrowed about $235 million from non-government sources at interest rates of more than 10 per cent.

Our findings are backed up by a recent submission to the Joint Commons-Senate committee on consumer credit by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. The Federation brief said:

"A large portion (40% in 1961) of the total amount of credit extended to farmers was in the form applied through farm machinery & supply companies of various kinds. The limited information available on interest rates on such operating credit suggests that it often exceeds 10%."

We are confident farmers will be quite happy to pay 6 3/8 per cent for credit that has been costing them as much as 18 per cent in the past.

Incidentally, to learn where and how to apply for one of these new loans, farmers should contact the Federal Farm Credit Corporation office or adviser in their locality, or write to the regional branch office, which in Alberta is located at 100 St. and 101A Ave., Edmonton.

Bernedean Thomas Married In St. Joseph's On July 11

(Mrs. Doug Kisser)

KILLAM — A lovely summer wedding took place on July 11th in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in Killam when Bernedean Alma third eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Thomas of Killam and Eugene Lawrence of Edmonton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kolhas, were married by Rev. Fr. McCarthy.

The bride was given away in holy matrimony by her father in a floor-length gown of organza trimmed with lace, with long lily-point sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a bow formed of organza. She carried a cascade of lovely red roses.

Witnessing the ceremony as bridesmaids were Barbara Thomas, sister of the bride, Linda Fraser, cousin, Carol Gustafson cousin of the groom, Margaret Kneffel, a friend. The bridesmaids were identical dresses of chiffon over taffeta, with matching head-dresses. Two were in pink and two in blue. They carried bouquets of carnations tinted accordingly with pink and blue.

Acting as flower girl was Donna Kolhaus who was dressed in pink and white. She carried a bouquet of carnations. The ring-bearer, Brian Bagden, wore black trousers and white coat. Attending the groom were Glen Schatz, Bernard Thomas, Clarence Fraser and Edward Thomas. The ushers were Earl Thomas and Pierre Van Brunn.

The bride's mother chose a pink walking suit of brocaded satin, with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother was attired in a pink linen sheath, with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the Home Motel with 150 guests present. Mr. Facer of Edmonton was M. C., while the toast to the bride was proposed by Father McCarthy.

Open house was also in the Home Motel later in the day, and a dance followed in the Elks Hall.

For going away the bride chose a beige flecked suit with green accessories and a corsage of pink. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Kolhaus will reside in Edmonton.

87th Birthday For Gretna Pioneer

SEDGEWICK— One hundred and fourteen members of the Rombough family and their wives, husbands, and families gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Rombough (the original Rombough homestead) on Sunday July 19th for the occasion of the 87th birthday of Mrs. B. M. (Granz) Rombough.

Mrs. Rombough, with her husband and six children, came to the homestead in the Gretna District south of Sedgewick in March 1906.

Four more children were born on the homestead.

The children celebrating with their mother were: Henry of Hardisty; Robert of Edmonton; Terrence (Mrs. Eder) of Calgary; Florence (Mrs. Hallum) of Sedgewick; Mabel (Mrs. Denman) of Bentley; and Howard of Calgary, along with their families and decendants.

The banquet table was covered by a beautiful three tiered birthday cake baked by Mrs. Mervin Rombough, and decorated by Mrs. Dick Lorriner, a long time friend of the family.

The guests ranged in age from 87 to three weeks of age.

Mrs. J. L. Morrison of Edmonton, a life long friend of Mrs. Rombough was a special guest. The family came from all parts of Alberta to wish Granny Rombough a "Happy Birthday".

GYMKHANA TO BE HELD AT SEDGEWICK

The Sedgewick Gymkhana Club will attempt its first Horse Gymkhana at the Sedgewick Rec Centre on Sunday, August 2nd at 2:00 p.m.

This is a new venture in the field of sports at Sedgewick and it is hoped that everyone will turn out & watch this interesting show.

UNITED CHURCH OUTDOOR SERVICE

SEDGEWICK — Members and friends of the Sedgewick-Lougheed Merna United Churches will gather for an outdoor service and day of recreation and fellowship at Hardisty Lake on Sunday, August 2nd.

Beginning at 2:00 p.m. with an open-air service at the United Church campsite, the day will continue with swimming, a ball game, and a combination picnic-barbecue.

Each family will bring its own food. All members and friends of the churches are invited to attend.

SHOWER HELD FOR MRS. JIMMY DREVER

(Mrs. Marion Costerier)

LOUGHEED — A bridal shower in honor of Mrs. Jimmy Drever was held on July 9th in the Legion Hut at Lougheed. The evening was spent with community singing, a duet by Judy and Sharon Moore, solo by Miss Darlyne Freeman, a humorous reading by Mrs Mable Quist. Pinatat for the evening was Mrs. Myrtle Reggenbach.

The bride looked lovely in a light blue sheath dress, seated at a table decorated with pink and white streamers and pink bells. Assisting the bride in opening her gifts were, Mrs. Edna Duffield, mother of the bride, Mrs. Margaret Drever, mother of the groom, Mrs. Regent, grand mother of the groom of Vancouver, B.C. and Miss Bessie Chadwick. Miss Darlyne Freeman was in charge of the guest book. After opening the many lovely gifts, Linda very graciously thanked everyone, and asked them to visit her sometime in her new home. A lovely lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Mable Quast and Mrs. Olive Grieve.

Strome Girl, Lois Blaeser, Goes On 4-H Trip To Manitoba For 2 Weeks

Lois Blaeser of Strome is one of nine outstanding Alberta 4-H members, who will represent the province in the Inter-Provincial 4-H Exchange, sponsored by the Canadian Council of 4-H Clubs. The nine are shown admiring the personalised notebook each receive[d] prior to their departure from Edmonton, July 14. Each delegate was assigned to a host family in another province for a two-week visit, while representatives of 4-H Clubs in other provinces travelled to Alberta for the same period.

The July meeting of the W.M.S. was held in the church auditorium on Thursday evening. Business session followed the roll call with ten towels, hand towels and dish cloths for the kitchen. The devotion was presented by Mrs. Hilda Cotton. The missionary circle was given by Mrs Laurine Semenish, with Mrs. Edith Bartosek in charge of the Scripture and Prayer time. The business session conducted by Mrs. Dorothy Heortberg, was precise. Since Madge Hill, National President of Chicago, is unable to visit Killam, the rally was called off. Lunch was served by hostesses Edith and Hilda Bartosek.

About 80 young people attended the Y. P. camp last week at Red Deer Lake, where Rev. Setzsdrost of Grand Prairie was guest speaker. A very good attendance was reptoed for the Sunday services.

Daily Vacation Bible School sponsored by the Baptist and United Churches will be held August 10-14 from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Everyone from 3 to 13 years is welcome.

A. P. Crop Report

Local — Fair showers over most of this area had a freshening effect on crops. Sedgewick-Lougheed district benefit and only a light to poor crop is in prospect.

General — The dry northeast and east-central areas received showers during the week, but these resulted in only slight benefit to the crops which are still only poor to fair. In the southwestern half of Alberta, dry weather has continued to deplete moisture supplies, and rain is needed to sustain the present potentiality of good crops. Good rains drew received in the northwest and Peace River District, maintaining good crop conditions. In the semi-arid early fields of winter wheat & rye will be swathed in a few days.

From 1964 to 1963 the total of expenditures on education by municipal and provincial governments rose from $500 million to $1,008

Annual Holiday

Wedding Bells

DOLYNNY — BOSCH

On Saturday, July 11th in the St. Joseph's Church in Fort Kent, Miss Nancy Dolynny and Melvin Bosch were united in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dolynny of Bonnyville and the groom is the son of Mr and Mrs Simon Bosch of Killam.

Officiating at the nuptial Mass ceremony was Rev. Fr. Laberge The altar was decorated with Pronies

The bride was given away in holy matrimony by her father, and wore a white organza dress trimmed with sequins, lily-point sleeves and scoop neckline. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Bridesmaids were Glenis Elson, Lorraine Burrows and Linda Lidsey, who were identical dresses of turquoise brocade with a scoop neckline and bell skirt. Their headpieces were of turquoise net and veil.

Best men were Mr. Paul Dolynny, Wallace Herle and Gerry Lewis.

Ushering the guests was Chris Swan. Soloist was Charles Elson.

A reception was held in the Legion hall. A toast to the bride was proposed by Fr. Laberge. A dance followed.

Out of town guests were from Edmonton, Major, Sec., Mackin, Compeer, Prentis, Bailey, Calahad, Malcolm, Wilkie and Ranfurly.

BRIDAL SHOWER FOR HANNAH JONES

LOUGHEED — A lovely bridal shower honoring Miss Hannah Jones of Edmonton, was held Sunday, the 19th of July at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arther Dreger, with around 45 signing the guest book.

Out of town guests at the shower were, Mrs. Criddle of Edmonton, Mrs. Gordon Jones and Mrs. Harper of Nova Scotia, Mr. Rex Brown and daughter of McBride B.C.

Miss Jones and Mr. Helmut Mansel were married in Edmonton on Saturday, July 25th, and will make their home in the city. Best wishes of the community go with them.

St. Andrew's Church 50th Anniversary

LOUGHEED — Golden chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the chancel of St. Andrew's United Church in Lougheed on Sunday, as the congregation celebrated its 50th anniversary. The flowers were presented by Mrs. Bessie Black and Mrs. A. Paterson, long-time members of the church in the Lougheed area.

The sanctuary of the church was filled to capacity as both present & past members and friends of the church gathered for the occasion. Returning to St. Andrew's for the day were Miss Criddle, Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Walmsley and family, Mrs. Flanagan and daughter, all of Edmonton; Mrs. Frank Sax, Camrose; Mr. and Mrs. Andy Van Steenbergen and family of Killam and Miss Vera Bruinsma and Mr. John Brandfoot of Sedgewick. Other Sedgewick people also attended.

Presiding at the organ was Mrs. Marvin Ragsmuck. Such hymns as "The Church's One Foundation is Jesus Christ Her Lord" and "The Lord's My Shepherd" were sung with much feeling by the congregation. During the service Mrs. Clayton sang the solo, "How Great Thou Art."

Mr. Walter Hallum, bringing the greetings from the Sedgwick congregation, commended St. Andrew's for its years of service in spreading the gospel message. Greetings were also received from the Merna congregation.

A brief history of the congregation was read by Messrs Dave Black and Ian Burden. Mentioning the dedication of the church in 1914, the building of the stable, the association of the three country points (now closed), the union with the Methodist Church, and the placing of the memorial fixtures, all confirmed the fact that St. Andrew's United (formerly Presbyterian) has had an important place in the building of the Lougheed community.

Special speaker of the day was Dr. E. J. Thompson, Principal of St. Stephen's United Church College in Edmonton. Dr. Thompson, whose early years were spent in the Hughenden area, took the congregation back to pioneer days, when he mentioned people using oxen to carry the settlers' chacks. He then referred to the great development of the country. Taking his texts from both the Old and New Testaments, Dr. Thompson said that just as Moses warned the people not to forget that it was God who had led them out of captivity and supplied their needs in the new land, so we must always remember that it is Almighty God who places in our hands the great resources of the country. We are stewards of His possessions.

Conducting the service was Rev. D. G. Lewis, pastor of the Sedgewick-Lougheed-Merna United Churches. Following the service, a luncheon was enjoyed in the church basement, with the ladies o fthe U.C.W. catering. More memories were stirred as friends and neighbors reviewed the life of the church and the community.

Large Crowd Attends Two Day Tournament

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick Oilers baseball team held their first annual two-day, eight-team tournament on Sturday and Sunday, 25th and 26th, of July, and came up with the win in the finals to take first place and the lion's share of the $320 in prize money. The first place win is all the more impressive when it is revealed that the Sedgewick club was the only team to go through the tourney and win the game 3-1.

FIRST GAME

Kessler and Sedgwick squared off in the first game at 9:00 on Saturday morning. Although Sedgewick was this game by a final score of 14-0, there was some fine play. The first three innings were scoreless, with each team getting only 1 hit. In the fourth the Sedgewick club scored three runs and came back in the fifth for eleven more. Norman Bradley pitched the route for Sedgewick, and also got three hits to help his own cause.

SECOND GAME

THIRD GAME

Wainwright and Forestburg played in the 3:00 p.m. game, which was scoreless until the sixth when Wainwright got one run. Forestburg tied it up in the seventh, and it was a tight battle the rest of the way. In the last half of the ninth Wainwright managed to score two more runs and won the game 3-1.

FOURTH GAME

At 6:00 p.m. and the final game of the first day, Lougheed and Killam met in a battle that featured a total of 20 strike-outs by the 2 pitchers. Lougheed scored twice in the first, and held their lead until the seventh when they got two more and then went on to win 7-1. Killam's lone counter came in the ninth when they got a rally going. However the Lougheed club managed to put the fire out after one run.

Unproductive?

(From the Trochu (Alta.) Tribune)

"Small business and the rest of the population of Canada have been supporting the idle and unproductive farmer far too long and it's time they were taken off our backs". — These are the words of Herb Forth, president of the Canadian Small and Independent Business Federation.

Mr. Forth, according to his statements, must have just finished a fifth (the American equivalent to our crock). Idle and unproductive can hardly apply to a segment of the population which has harvested around half a billion bushels of wheat, thereby supplying the necessary material to bring over a quarter of a billion dollars from Russia and which will stimulate the economy of the country ten times that amount.

These words don't speak very highly for the intelligence of hot-headed Herb—nor for those who elected him president of the Federation. We don't know of any local business belonging to the Federation so presumably it is composed chiefly of a few Eastern industrialists. Even if this is the case, we find it hard to understand how they can castigate the very people whose Western dependents buy many of their manufactured products.

The same products subsidized to the extent that they are protected from competition by better organized & more industrious manufacturers in other countries. Radio tubes aiv times the price of those in Japan, cars a third more expensive than American autos, leather goods that cost three times as much as comparable Mexican articles; English, Swedish, German and French exports—all boosted in price by import taxes so that Candian manufacturers can compete on their home market place for customers.

Wishful Thinking!

(The Rouyn (Quebec) Monitor

We wish that all the writers for English newspapers would take a crash course in French or hire some interpreters, then head for the back country.

If they would get away from the Montreal coffee houses, and the rarified atmosphere of Quebec City or Sedate Toronto, and just find out what the ordinary French-Candian in the small towns and villages really wants.

The ordinary French-Canadian has no use for separatism. In fact, a good many don't know what it is They don't want to be the Quebec. They don't hate Les Anglais, even if they don't want to live with them. They want jobs for themselves and a little better life for their children. They don't expect everyone in Toronto to speak French, but they do feel that when they go to Ottawa,they should be able to speak French with confidence in our nation's capital city.

They don't want to put bombs in post office boxes, but when they send a letter to the federal government, they feel that they are entitled to get an adequate answer in French.

This whole separtist business is being over-emphasized by the popular press.

Some of it is pretty sensational stuff, and you can't really blame the newspaper boys for making the most of it. But the real tragedy is that in the process the hopes and aspirations of the vast majority of ordinary French-Canadians are being distorted and misrepresented, or completely ignored.

Our Over-Governed Little Country!

Guide lines for the commissions entrusted with the task of redrafting boundaries of federal constituencies are beginning to take shape. Under redistribution rules and procedures outlined in the Commons, it is almost certain the commissions will have to recommend the increase of Parliament's size from 265 to 286 seats. Otherwise there would be a politically embarrassing reduction in the number of seats — and representation — in Nova Scotia, Quebec, Manitoba and Sask.

Once more revision of electoral boundaries is following an historic Canadian pattern — more elected representatives instead of fewer.

It is fair to ask if a small country like ours needs 21 more backbencher MP's receiving the equivalent of more than $20,000 a year? Will Canadians be better represented than if the ridings were readjusted between the present MP's? Will redistribution always and inevitably mean an increase in representation?

From time to time thoughtful observers must wonder why a country of 19 million people needs so much governing.

We have the federal government, ten provincial goverments and between 600 and 700 municipal governments. And every time there is a demand for fairer electoral representation there is, as well as redistribution of ridings, an increase in the number of elected representatives.

Paraphrasing Mr. Churchill, it is doubtful if ever before have so few people been represented by so many. —The Creston Review.

The Field Of Education!

Mr. Steven Otto, M.P. for York East, has taken the position in the House of Commons that there should be a federal minister of education. He thinks it is a disgrace and tragedy that the federal government is not in the field of education to the extent of having a department. Mr. Otto may be right, but first of all he should try to get the constitution changed so that the federal government can legally get into the educational area, and secondly, it would be excellent if, when the federal government becomes responsible for education, all provincial governments would withdraw from that field. What we are leading to in Canada, and what has come in the United States, is that the central government is paying a large share of the cost of education but has no responsibility for it. — Letter Review.

The Twain Shall Meet!

Members of the House of Commons fell all over themselves to approve the extension of family allowances to the young people between 16 and 18 who are continuing their schooling. The trend today seems to be to extend family allowances to older ages, and so along with the present clamor for reducing the age at which people can get old-age pensions, the two should logically meet somewhere in the middle before too long.

You can understand what goes on in Parliament when you realize that every member represents a district and nobody represents the nation.

A genius sometimes proves his point by making the facts agree with his theories.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Gloom, Then Boom!

OTTAWA — A forecast that Canada is rushing into an economic recession that will reach its low point in the cesionnial year 1967, has aroused interest in Federal Government and in business circles.

The prediction is not one to be discounted because it has just been made at a Manitoba labor-management seminar by a former outstanding Federal Government economist, Dr. O. J. Firestone who left Government service in 1960 to take a post as Professor of Economics at the University of Ottawa.

Offsetting his gloomy prediction of a setback in 1966-67 Professor Firestone forecasts Canada will head into a new boom period after celebrating the 100th birthday, which he contends will exceed anything experienced in this country since the end of the Second World War.

Considerable importance is attached to his views because he was highly regarded by the late Right Hon. C. D. Howe who was Minister of Trade and Commerce when the St. Laurent Government was defeated. Dr. Firestone was also associated with Mr. Howe when the Minister held the portfolio of Munitions and Supply and later was Minister of Reconstruction in the post-war period.

Dr. Firestone was one of several economists advising Mr. Howe in those days, and one of the very few in Ottawa who argued that the peace would be followed by an economic boom in Canada. Most economists in Government and in business believed that the end of the Second World War would see a worldwide depression.

Mr. Howe listended to Dr. Firestone, liked what he heard and decided to gamble that he was right. Accordingly Mr. Howe laid the Government's plans for post-war reconstruction on the basis that there was to be prosperity. Dr. Firestone was proved to have called the shot correctly, and his reputation was made as far as Mr. Howe was concerned.

In addition, Dr. Firestone was one of the economists who contributed to the famed "secret study" that the Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker, when he was Prime Minister, tabled in the House of Commons. Mr. Diefenbaker made much political capital of the study, claiming that it forecast an economic setback in 1967 which the Liberal Government had kept hidden. The Liberals denied they had deliberately declined to disclose the contents of the report, contending that it was a departmental paper which was presented to the Cabinet on a "confidential" basis. They charged that Mr. Diefenbaker had violated the confidence by making it public in the Commons.

Now Mr. Firestone has made another forecast. The general feeling among Federal Government economists is that the present setback is for a continuation of high level economic activity. They do not anticipate any serious recession. However, they concede that there might be a small, but a short recession in two years time. But as yet they claim there is no evidence that such a recession looms on the horizon. Nevertheless the Government is watching for any sign of a downturn and is ready to take counter measures.

The gross national product in 1964 is likely to be between six and seven percent greater than it was in 1963, reaching a peak of between $44.6 and $46 billion, compared with $43 billion last year. Prices, he notes are up somewhat. In 1964 they may be on the average two percent above 1963. Hence the GNP in 1964 in real terms is likely to be between four & 5 percent above the level last year.

Dr. Firestone said the present expansion phase which began in February 1961 is now in its 4th year, and that here appeared to be sufficient momentum in the Canadian economy to carry this strength over into 1965. However, he said that because we have not as yet learned how to control the business cycle in a basically private enterprise economy, some slowing down in economic growth may become apparent in 1966, or even late in 1964. This would foreshadow the start of a recession either in the latter part of 1965 or in 1966 with the bottom of the recession probably being reached in 1967.

The economist said that this meant that Canadians had another year or perhaps slightly longer to consider what should be done to cope with the coming recession. With this time in which to make plans they should be able to do a better job meeting the recession than had been done in the past.

Dr. Firestone saw sunshine breaking through the dark clouds after the period of 1966-67. There would follow a period of prosperity this time fore rapid in its boom characteristics than anything Canadians had experienced in the decade 1957 to 1967. It would be probably greater than anything Canadians had seen since the end of the Second World War.

In the late 1960's and into the 19-70's there would be many young people born after the war who would be reaching marriageable ages. A marriage boom would be followed by a baby boom. Rapid natural population growth is usually accompanied by increases in immigration as the need for more workers becomes pressing and favorable economic conditions prevail, he said.

Other factors will include new records in business capital spending, an urban building boom, rapid expansion of transportation facilities and public utilities, a speed up in resources development and increased diversification of Canadian industry.

Firestone feels that from among these forms of expansion the strongest support to economic growth in Canada is likely to come from unusual economic boom, largely responding to rapidly increasing world demands for raw materials and an urban development boom of a magnitude never before experienced in this country.

From 1939 to 1963 total government spending in Canada increased from 16 per cent of the country's gross national product to 32 per cent'

The wartime increase in interest charges on the federal public debt was from $139 million in 1940, to $469 million in 1946; interest charges last year were $962 million.

Railway freight shipments increased from 85 million tons in 1939 to 186 million tons in 1957; in the period the average cost of freight shipments rose from 0.91 cents to 1.50 cents per ton mile.

Don't Lose Dollars - Use Care In Harvesting Crops

By Dr. F. J. Greaney, Director of Line Elevators Farm Service ....

The use of care in harvesting is one practici way of increasing yield per acre and quality and insuring by reducing the per unit cost of producing grain crops. A brief discussion of some of the important advantages of swathing grain, and of using care in threshing barley follows:

SWATHING GRAIN

Over the years Mr. M. E. Dodds and other agricultural engineers at the Experimental Farm, Swift Current, have continually pointed out that the use of the swather, for the early cutting of cereal crops, offers several advantages to the prairie farmer. Their studies have shown that swathing wheat can be started 7 to 9 days in advance of the stage usually accepted for straight combining; oats, 10 to 12 days; barley, 9 to 11 days; and fall rye, 9 to 13 days. The early swathing adds extra days at the beginning of the harvest season when weather conditions are usually more favorable. By advancing the harvesting date, swathing not only reduces losses that may be caused by insects, rust, wind, rain and frost, but avoids much of the "green weed" problem. It also reduces certain mechanical losses associated with straight combining, such as split kernels in wheat and internal damage in barley and flax.

COMBINE BARLEY CAREFULLY

Maltsters don't want skinned or broken kernels in malting barley. Only occasionally do they pay a premium for barley that contains more than 5 per cent of skinned or broken kernels. Here is where care in harvesting determines the price a barley grower receives for his crop. The recommendations of agricultural engineers for reducing the threshing damage to barley to a minimum are: (1) Set cylinder speed just fast enough to thresh barley from the heads. (2) Adjust the concave clearances to properly match cylinder speed. (3) Keep cylinder and concaves in good order, repair, and alignment. Use plenty of wind to separate barley from chaff and straw. (4) Make combine adjustments during the day to compensate for changes in temperature and moisture content in both straw and grain. Barley growers who follow these suggestions will not experience the disappointment of seeing good "malting" barley reverting to the "feed" grades because of careless harvesting and threshing. Remember that the use of the swather in harvesting grain crops offers many advantages. Don't lose dollars! Harvest, thresh and handle your barley crop carefully in 1964.

SUMMER SHOWERS

Rural people everywhere are depending on showers to ensure a good crop this year. While we cannot plan this type of shower, showers of another nature are always prevalent during the summer period. Are you planning a wedding shower for a friend? Here are a few suggestions to help you make this important occasion a pleasant one.

Theme lift your shower out of the ordinary, making it unique and successful. A theme suggests ideas for decorating, entertainment and refreshments. One such theme developed could be a Garden Shower. If you are the proud possessor of a garden why not have your shower outdoors? Make it a coffee party with guests arriving at about 10.00 A.M. Invitations could be sent out on floral paper. Comfortable chairs, grouped for chatting, are the only additions to the garden setting. Special favours for everyone are flowers from your garden. A tea table with floral arrangement or an arrangement of fruit will provide an attractive centre of interest. Gifts could be presented in a gaily decorated wheel barrow or perhaps a large replica of a vase or flower pot. Gifts might be articles used in gardening or in outdoor living. Refreshments leave lots of scope for the imagination.

This has been an example of how you might develop a theme. How would you develop any of these themes? Fragrance, Kitchen Shower for a Couple, Recipe Shower, Gift Certificate Shower, Bathroom Shower, Cup and Saucer Shower, Pantry Shower, Linen Shower, Crystal Shower, Kitchen Shower.

For a successful shower follow a few rules to avoid criticism. If it is a member of your immediate family who is being married it is not correct for you to entertain with a shower. If you give a party, it should be one without gifts. Consult the bride or someone who is close to her before any plans are made.

Make sure those on your guest list have not already attended another shower. No one outside the bride's immediate family should ever be asked to contribute to two showers. Thoughtful consideration should be given the guest list. Casual friends and acquaintances do not always appreciate an invitation. Guests should be close friends of the bride, her family, the groom or his family.

Good luck to you in your shower planning!

REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

OTTAWA— Facts and figures have always interested me because I think they often tell more about the true state of affairs then fine literary phrases.

As I've listened to the debate on national unity now stirring in our country, I've wondered if there weren't some important economic facts and figures being overlooked in the heat of the emotions that seem to keep getting involved.

There are other aspects, of course, than economic considerations. Going back to Confederation there is the agreement made between two races and cultures. When you think of boost that, and remember that it was one of the few times in all history where two races settled such big problems without the bloodshed of civil war, I suppose you could say it was a uniquely Canadian triumph of reason over the chaos of emotions that could have erupted.

I think there are also serious advantages, in this day of a shrinking world and everyone travelling so much more, in having every causes to learn an extra language. It's a practical advantage to anyone going abroad, where in Europe, say, it's not unusual to find people speaking three or four languages.

But there are other good, solid, down-to-earth reasons for keeping this country together.

For prairie feed grain growers, eastern Canada including Quebec provides a market for about 180 million bushels a year.

The record weekly average shipment of slaughter cattle from the prairies into Quebec has been 424 head, into Ontario 454. Prodcer cattle and calves have been moving from the prairies, mainly Alberta and Saskatchewan, into these two eastern provinces lately at a rate of about 2,500 a week.

But of even greater economic significance to the prairie provinces is the fact that during the first 32 weeks of this year, the equivalent of about 11,000 carcasses of western beef were shipped east every week, particularly to the large beef-deficiency areas of Quebec and the Maritimes.

In the other direction, the four western provinces provide a market for some 30 million pounds of cheese from the east, a very substantial portion of which comes from the dairy farms of Quebec, where the cattle are usually fed on western feed grains.

At the same time, a lot of women in the west might not be able to dress quite so well, if it weren't for all the women's clothing made in Quebec — where 98% of all women's clothing manufactured in Canada comes from.

These are just a few of the economic facts that make national unity a matter of practical importance to all Canadians. Every part of this country obviously needs every other part.

While I'm on this question of national unity, I might as well put in a word on the current debate over the new flag proposed by the Prime Minister.

I'd be the first to admit that the question of a national flag for Canada is a delicate and controversial one. But I think nearly a hundred years is long enough to stall around, just because settling a question may be kind of difficult.

And I think the Prime Minister does deserve full marks for at least having gone ahead toward a solution of an issue which other Prime Ministers before him have often promised to settle but never did.

Obviously, not everyone is going to agree on what flag we should have, even if we wait another hundred years. But I think a majority of Canadians would be pleased to accept any reasonable design, as long as it was distinctively Canadian and gets this long-standing flag issue settled once and for all.

The Government is confident that the Canadian people — once they've expressed their views on this issue, so strongly and fully as only people in a free country can express their views — will finally accept and abide by the decision of the majority.

Cattle Outlook!

The present increase in Canadian cattle prices viewed by many agricultural economists as atemporary situation. Unless something unforseen occurs, prices are likely to be falling off again this fall. According to R. E. English, Alberta's Agricultural Statistician, a 9 percent increase in Canadian beef consumption is normally responsible for our present strong prices. The seasonal demand for barbecued steaks and a drop in cattle marketing weights have also played a part.

Mr. English reports that the average June price of $21.92 per cwt. for good slaughter steers at Calgary is still below last year's price of $22. 97 for the same month. Cattle prices in Calgary last January were the lowest they have been since the fall of 1961. Prices rose steadily from January to gain about $2 per cwt. by mid-April.

The number of cattle on feed in Alberta reached an all-time high in 1964. Butcher steer and heifer marketings increased in the January to May period from 289,000 in 1963 to over 354,000 in 1964. This represents a 7.3 percent increase. At the same time feeder cattle returned to farmers from central stockyards increased by 7.3 percent. This means the potential supply of fed beef. in feedlots or on pasture, remains high.

U. S. fed cattle prices during May were at their lowest since 1957. As a result of this situation, Canada imported 23,000 slaughter cattle from the States during the first half of this year. The figure for the same period last year was only 146.

Prices from this fall on into 1965 will, of course, depend upon such factors as range feed supplies, the number of breeding animals maintained and the attitude of producers towards replacing cattle now leaving the feedlots.

Baseball Tourney

the Saturday games competing. The first game saw Viking's hard-hitting club and Lougheed go in the first game, with Viking coming out on the long end of an 8 to 1 score. The next game was another game that saw the losing team leave more than enough men on bases to have won if the hits had come through. The game provided the fans with many thrills as the teams became close.

Sedgewick and Wainwright met for the first time in many years, in the 3:30 o'clock game This was a one-way ride to that kept the fans jumping. Sedgwick scored three in the first and Wainwright tied it up in the second. The Oilers came back with five in the fourth and one in each of the sixth and seventh while Wainwright scored one in the fifth, sixth and seventh, and three more in the ninth. This exciting game ended up with a score of 10 to 9 for Sedgwick. Ev Mayne was the starting pitcher for Sedgewick and did a fine job for 6 1/3 innings before he was relieved.

THE GAME

With rain threatening earlier the skies cleared as Sedgwick won out over Viking in the final game of the tournament by a 6-3 win, by a score of 13-11. This game saw Sedgwick score nine runs before Viking bit the ants down board in the fifth. The only two home runs of the 2-day affair came in this game with Norris Patten of Sedgwick lifting a long one over the left field fence (320 feet) in the second inning. He and the 55 offered by Dick's Service for the first home run of the tourney. Hard-hitting Gabe Brisson, third baseman for Viking got the other homer in the fifth, hitting to the same area. Viking scored five runs in this inning. The final run on the edges of the bleacher seats as Viking came fighting back and tied the score in the sixth. Sedgewick went ahead again with two runs in the seventh and Viking tied it up again in the eighth. Sedgewick scored one run in the bottom of the eighth and got the first three Viking batters in the top of the ninth to take the game by a 13 to 11 count.

Gordie Bakken pitched for Sedgewick and allowed only two scattered hits in his 7 innings. The fifth inning saw Viking finally starting to hit and Norman Bradley came in to pitch for Sedgewick. Bob Sedgewick Bendley's third time on the mound in two days and he went on to finish the game.

Weather for the tourney was good with only about two hours at noon on Sunday when it threatened to rain. The trophy was held up. By 2:00 the sky was clear and the remainder of the day was ideal.

Many of the fans commented on the fine coverage the tournament received from radio station CJCA in Edmonton, where the draws, game results, etc. were carried on the regular hourly sports news. This coverage was especially appreciated by those fans who were working, or otherwise unable to attend.

Close to a thousand people are estimated to have attended the affair and the Sedgewick ball club says they plan to make it an annual deal.

SUGAR and SPICE

A GOOD OLD CIVIL WAR

What this country needs is a good fire-cent civil war. It might restore some of the guts and vessel that seems to be filling Canadians these days, and get them back to the important things of life, like making money, love and rock garden.

Symptoms of the national ulcer are everywhere: the ferocity of the language, the aggressive, the lurking threat of violence in Quebec; the growing defiance of police by motorists; the increase in accidental tactics on our highways.

Perhaps a little blood-letting would purge our native land of the tendency to quibble and squabble and everything from the national anthem to the water level in the Great Lakes.

There's also the matter of international prestige. All the big boys— England, France, Russia, the U.S., China—have been through an all-out civil war, and gone on to greater things, in each case the country that was hacked out by the end of the war that everybody stopped bickering and complaining, and got down to the job of becoming a Great Nation.

How can we hope to gain respect of the world if we never go through a lasting time of nothing hatred, unmentionable cruelties, gallant guerrillas, and all the other ingredients of a good civil war?

How to add national character to be transformed from lumpy porridge to forged steel if we never throw a Molotov cocktail, blow up a bridge or heel ourselves, barehanded against tanks?

We should be ashamed of ourselves. Mumbling and grumbling about the CBC and the NDP and the Red Ensign and Q of Canada and what's for supper, when we could be stringing up cabinet ministers, dynamiting the Soo Locks, and sacking the O'Keefe Centre.

The Irish had a rebellion nearly 50 years ago. It lasted a few days but they've written countless books about it, and every Irishman over the age of 39 swears he was in it, though he'll admit he was only a breth of a boy at the time. Why can't we have some grand traditions like that?

Think of the stories we'd have to hand down to our ancestors. "Yes, Homer, your grandaddy was there back in '64, when the Legion, crouched about the flag, marched on Ottawa. Mayor Chevrier Whitton slowed them for a moment at the campsite with 4 tirade of invective, but nothing could stop them. They swarmed into the city, surrounded the government buildings, and fired a salvo of resolutions. One of those happened to pierce the National Debt, and the chronic run red with ink."

Or, "Yes, dear, I want you always to remember, and to tell your own children, that your father was in the civil war of '64. Freedom fighters in the Great Rising of '64. He was leading a wave of our gallant lads in a foot . . . uh, liberating attack on the Sengram distilleries, a capitalist stronghold. He was cut down by the fierce Orlobus and savagely wounded in the, uh, lower back when he fell heroically on the mickey, of rye in his hip pocket."

Only one stipulation. If this necessary catharsis, this national lancing of our sores, breaks out, and, it's brother against brother, father against son, may I be on the same side as my wife?

"Any betterment of civilization is in the women's hands," states Mrs. N. Schroeder, MBE., of Red Valley, Saskatchewan, who was guest of the FWUA and AWU at a tea in the Old Timers' Cabin in Edmonton July 23. Mrs. Schroeder is Associated Country Women of the World Area Vice President for the South Pacific, the mother of three and grandmother. She is returning to her home from London, where she was made a Member of the British Empire at Buckingham Palace investitures. This award was in recognition of many years of service to country women of the area.

About 70 women from Edmonton and district attended the tea. They heard a short address by Mrs. Schroeder in which she outlined some of the work done by ACWW. "The basis aim of ACWW," Mrs. Schroeder explained, "is education. It is our wish to raise the living standard for all rural women. We have no discrimination as to creed, race, or creed in our organization.

The FUA plans to again sponsor a Provincial Rural Curling Champion ship. The final is tentatively set for mid-March at the Sportex Building in Edmonton.

Operation Sign-up, the 1964 FUA Membership drive, has been set for Nov. 2. The drive this year is to be under the generalship of Mr. C. J. Vershaye of Champion, Director for FUA District 12. Aim of the campaign will be to contact every farm operator in Alberta, and obtain his membership in the F.U.A.

HUNTING LICENCES SALE IS REVISED

EDMONTON— The Minister of Lands and Forests, the Honourable M. A. Willmore, has announced a major revision in the sale of hunting licences. In future, game licences will be available at Treasury Branches, Sub-Branches, Fish and Wildlife Division District Offices, Forestry District Offices, A.M.A. Offices, and selected vendors of motor vehicle licences throughout the Province.

The revision of licence vendor outlets is the third phase of a general game management reorganization. The unit system of managing game respecting habitat was introduced recently. The single game hunting licence for the 1964-65 season was introduced to enable the hunter to pay an single contribution to the Wildlife Damage Fund. The stamps, which constitute the various hunting licences, are affixed to the single Wildlife Certificate, thus enabling the hunter to cover a single document instead of two or more licences.

Hunters are encouraged to plan ahead for their hunting trips and purchase their licences well in advance from one of the 800 licence vendors that will be appointed for the 1964-65 hunting season.

GREEN ACRES

TO ATTEND HORTICULTURE DAY!

Dunc Hargreaves, Supt. of Brooks Horticultural Station, and Nels McClella, Supervisor of Horticulture in Edmonton, conducted an informal & interesting Field Day on July 7th in the Kitsan District. Among the highlights was the demonstration of pruning fruit trees by Dunc Hargreaves. He carried a new and pruning shears and wasn't afraid to use them freely. He also demonstrated pruning spruce and pine trees.

Jack George hosted the group at a very delightful clearing about one mile west of his buildings. Coffee & pop was supplied by the M. D. Fieldstaff and the Ice Cream by the N. A. N. D. of Sedgewick. Later Lloyd George invited all the children under 55 years of age to ice cream and cookies.

Those who attended saw & heard enough to help inspire them to create their green thumb in Horticulture this coming year. Indications are that we should hold another day next year.

BROOKS HORTICULTURE DAY!

August 17th is the date of a Horticulture Day at Brooks featuring the growing of Ornamental trees, shrubs and flowers. The program is to start at 1:30 p.m.

ROOT ROT IN WHEAT!

It's there in thousands of acres of Canadian cropland, that hard-to-notice but steadily eroding common root rot!

Caused by several fungi that disease chiefly damages wheat, barley, rye, oats, and some grasses.

New federal plant pathologists have made progress in fighting this particular enemy of prairie cereals. They have found a method to assess the disease reaction of wheat plants to one of the most common causes of the disease, Cochlobolus Sativus. They have made some selections for use in breeding commercial varieties with greater resistance.

Drs. R. D. Tinline and B. J. Sallans of Saskatoon say that conditions favorable for high crop yield reduce losses caused by root rot but, nonetheless even a five percent loss in last year's wheat harvest from this cause, the loss would by 36 million bushels. This is enough to indicate that not enough importance has been given to this problem.

Symptoms of common root rot may be found from seedling stage to maturity in discolorsion of the underground parts of young plants, dying of lower leaves and rotting of the connection between the crown root and first-formed roots. Sometimes patches of untirrily plants can be seen but generally the disease reduces yield inconspicuously.

Studies have been carried on at Saskatoon to devise control of C. Sativus in wheat. The research was started with the fact that all commercial wheats have some degree of resistance to the fungi, otherwise production would not beeconomical. But under certain conditions all varieties are vulnerable to losses. The problem therefore was to increase resistance.

Plant pathologists conducted tests in areas where severe disease in susceptible plants was most likely to occur and then determined the disease reaction of a plant from the reactions of its offspring in later generations and at several locations.

The tests confirmed that common root rot resistance in wheat could be improved. Crosses were then made involving the three most resistant wheats in Western Canada — Mc-Murachy, Thatcher and Willet, and two from the USDA's World Collection of wheats.

A method and some resistant selections are now available for use in breeding commercial varieties of wheat having improved resistance.

R. J. Ledingham also of the Saskatoon Research Station, suggests that while waiting for more resistant varieties to common root rot, control should be sought by cultural and crop rotational practises.

The spores of C. Sativus live dormant in the soil for three or four years. The land should therefore be taken out of susceptible crops such as wheat and barley for at least 3 years, he says. Immune crops such as flax, rape, clovers may be grown although their smaller acreage may not be sufficient for complete rotation. Bronze-Alfalfa mixtures has some value in such a rotation.

Wheat planted grown in soil from fields that had been in grass for 3 years or more and low disease ratings in the previous season as compared with wheat plants grown in soil from a wheat field. These and problems of other nature may be useful in control root rot.

Donna Brown Wed At Killam United

(Mrs. Doug Kinzer)

A lovely summer wedding took place on Saturday, July 18th in the Knox United Church in Killam when Donna Laverne Brown and Rodney Lawrence Sorensen, both of Killam, were united in marriage by Rev. K. Minnis.

To the strains of the wedding march played by Arlene Weeks, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, looking in a street-length gown of lace accented with sequins and lily-point sleeves. The shoulder-length veil was held in place by a pearl finished flower and she carried a Bible bouquet of red roses and buds. Her only jewellery was pearl earrings and matching necklace.

Attendants of the bride were Dianne Gale and Linda Heger both of Killam. They were similar coral colored street-length gowns with matching headpieces. They were elbow-length white gloves and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Attending the groom were Loren Miller and Pat Sorbes both of Killam. The ushers were Bernard Weeks and Dale Blackmore both of Killam.

The altar was adorned by a large bouquet of summer flowers.

The bride's mother wore a beige embroidered linen sheath & matching jacket with white accessories. Her corsage was pink and white carnations. The groom's mother was attired in a pale blue brocade satin sheath, matching jacket and hat, with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The reception was held in the church hall for about 100 guests. The bride's table was centered with a four-tier wedding cake baked by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Bertha Chapman of Amisk. Mr. Luther Reed as M. C. read distant telegrams. The toast to the bride was given by "Uncle" Harry Bennett, to which the groom responded. The toast to the bridesmaids was given by Lorne Miller.

Out of town guests were from St. Albert, Exshaw, Calgary, Edmonton, Winfield, Wetaskiwin, Chisholm, Kinsella, Bittern Lake, Sedgewick, Lougheed, Coleinet, Hardisty and Amisk. The wedding dance was in the Killam Elks Hall.

For travelling the bride wore a pink brocade satin sheath, matching jacket and white accessories. The happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Banff Jasper and through B. C. The newly-weds will reside in Killam where both are employed.

Entries Up At Lougheed's Annual Agricultural Fair

THREE LOCAL BOYS WIN AWARDS

The 1966 Provincial 4-H Eliminations at Olds, concluded with the selection of delegates to represent Alberta on major out-of-province award trips during the next year. Among the 14 provincial representatives chosen to attend the National 4-H Conference in Ottawa and Toronto in November were, from left to right: Barry McDonald, Mannville-Vermilion 4-H Poultry Club; Gary Scheler, Forestburg; Terry Leslie, Sedgewick; and Dwight Smith-Gander, Sirome.

LOUGHEED — A large and enthusiastic crowd attended the annual one-day Fair at Lougheed earlier this month, visiting the exhibits building where the display was a good deal larger than last year.

Per those more interested in sports there were ball games, Pacified and races for the children.

Following are the winners in the various exhibits of agricultural and livestock exhibits, as well as domestic contributions:

Horses

Fourteen Hands and Over: Winning Saddle Horse ridden by Harold Rose of Forestburg. Under Fourteen Hands: on the Halter, Lea Hawton of Forrest. A. P. Crop Report

Local — More showers were received last week and crops continue to improve. While great variation exists, wheat is generally reported to be filling well, but coarse grains have not benefitted to the same extent. Cutting of early crops is underway in some areas.

General — Throughout the major part of Alberta, harvest is rapidly approaching and is under way at a number of points. The Peace River District, however, is still troubled with excessive moisture, and hot & dry weather is needed to mature the crops and dry the fields. Harvesting of fall crops in the south is nearing completion at most points, with the winter wheat averaging 30 bushels, and rye 31 bushels.

FLOWER SHOW HELD AT SEDGEWICK

SEDGEWICK — The annual flower show and tea was held on August 18th and drew a record entry of just over 200 exhibits as well as a large crowd in the afternoon to see the array of flowers and house plants.

All the exhibits were of high quality and the judges, Mrs. A. Saunders, Mrs. H. Wilson, and Mrs. E. McKenzie had no small job in picking the best flowers.

Mrs. N. Rose, Mrs. J. Korstgaard, and Mrs. H. Myrehog tied for the most prize-winning exhibits, with eleven each.

Each year the show is better, and the sponsors appreciate the interest and participation shown by so many.

Estimates Given On Daysland's Water

(Delores Dolan)

DAYSLAND — The regular meeting of the Town of Daysland was held in the Town Office. Present were councillors Cockburn, Schnell, Svoboda and Josephine, with Mayor Pryce presiding. Minutes and financial statement were adopted.

Mr. Wiltshire, the Supervisor of Public Libraries attended and explained the steps that had to be taken to establish a public library. As a petition of 10 percent of the ratepayers was handed in council, they would appoint a library board who would find a location and then obtain the books. Council will discuss the matter later.

Messrs Stan Cooke, George Hach and George Gabruch, on behalf of the Ball club, asked the council to discontinue the race track around the ball park. They requested that dirt be hauled in and the diamond be fixed up; the ball team would volunteer labor. This will be discussed later by the council.

Mr. P. Schatzner of Municipal Engineering Services in Calgary presented a water estimate for the Town and spent some time explaining the proposal. Council thanked him, and said they would give his proposal consideration.

Messrs Samuels and Nicholson of Associated Engineering Services in Edmonton stopped in and said they had checked the Daysland Hotel in regard to the sewer survey charge, and would send back a report in a few days. As they had registered Daysland's sewage system, they would also like to give Daysland an estimate for a water system. Council said they would let them know.

Miss Laura Graham applied for a building permit to construct a new dwelling on lot 1, Block 8. The application was accepted.

Fire Chief Robert Hanrahan suggested to Council that tax volunteer fire brigade be used to clean out the sewer mains. Volunteer firemen to receive $1.00 per hour for their time. Council agreed that this was a good idea.

Resolution No. 86

As Monday, Sept. 5th, the regular day for council meeting was a holiday, it was resolved that the next month's regular council meeting be held on Tuesday, Sept. 6th at 7:30 p.m. in the town office.

It was moved that Associated Engineers prepare an estimate for a water system for Daysland.

Resolution No. 87

Whereas Council has received a petition from more than 10 percent of the ratepayers requesting a Library, and whereas pursuant to Sec. 17 of the Libraries Act, Council must proceed to honor this request, therefore Council of the Town of Daysland resolves to request permission from the Minister to establish a Public Library in Daysland.

Teacher Attends Banff School

SEDGEWICK — Mr. A. Smith of Sedgewick along with 85 other Alberta teachers selected from the province at large, attended the 18th annual summer course of the ATA, held at the Banff School of Fine Arts during the week of Aug. 17th.

Mr. Smith was sent as a delegate of the Killam Local ATA, to make a study of the policies and administration of the provincial ATA.

The course featured an intensive examination of the professional development activities of the ATA, and a close look at the problems related to teacher education and certification, public relations, conventions, federation research.

Mr. Smith's special group of 86 studying ATA policy and administration had a chance to mix in joint sessions with nearly 150 other Alberta teachers who devoted a week of their summer vacation to a study of professional development, A.T.A leadership, convention planning, and economic [illegible].

Mr. Smith will make a report to his local association regarding the week's study on his return.

HARVEST IN FULL SWING! Last week saw swathing of wheat getting started, and this week it is in full swing in Flagstaff. Some farmers are already combining their wheat, but it will be another week or so before combining is at its peak. The crop reports coming in are better than expected with many reporting from 20 to 30 bushels to the acre. — Photo by the Community Press.

Retirement Dinner For Harry Moody

HARDISTY — "I owe my success I may have had in the grain business to the many good customers I had in the area, to whom I always tried to give everything they had coming, including service; I tried to treat everyone the same," modestly stated retiring Harry Moody of Hardisty at a recent surprise retirement dinner party held in his honor.

In attendance were some thirty Wheat Pool personnel and also his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wagner.

Following the turkey dinner held in the basement of United Church, short interludes of musical entertainment were provided by Nancy Plaude and Gordon Hach. Congratulations were made to Harry & Mrs. Moody on behalf of the ladies to Mrs. Moody by Mrs. G. Wellman. Division 2 Supt. Harold Merrick of head office, also rendered a few words, after which he made the presentation, presentation of a jack-knife to Harry on behalf of Operations Manager L. Burton, saying that "he would no doubt have found of time to use it".

Short talks were given by Travelers, H. Hawley of Camrose & Fieldman D. Fraser of Edmonton, who were emigrate Ben Plaude.

Harry Moody was born of Swedish descent in Pataska, and has been in Hardisty since 1907. He holds the 50 year residency recognition. His grain buying career started some 22 years ago when he was stopped on the highway by Lloyd Newlin & asked if he wanted a job. Employed at this time by the Sedgewick Dairy Pool, Harry decided he would try a hand at the grain business, and so started buying at Rosyth. After 3 years he was transferred to Hardisty where he faithfully represented the organization for 13 years. Ill health forced his retirement.

Harry and Mrs. Moody expect to remain in Hardisty for at least one year, and eventually move to Calgary, where Harry claims they expect to keep an eye on the twin grandsons to make sure they are brought up properly.

Harder To Breathe!

The August issue of the Imperial Oil Review says that it is getting harder and harder for Canadians to breathe, especially in cities, without inhaling harmful contaminants. Perhaps you didn't know it but you consume from 16 to 45 cubic feet of air per hour in normal activity. Today this volume of air is becoming laden with the excess impurities of our civilization.

The Review goes on to say that only a fraction of man-made air pollutants have been identified, but it is known that we are breathing fumes, smoke, dust, mists, acids phyotoxicants (compounds poisonous to vegetation, formed by the action of sunlight on certain wastes), aldehydes, hydrocarbons, ozone, carbon monoxide, sulphur and nitrogen oxide. It is impossible to calculate the cost in terms of illness from the consumption of this air garbage, but it must be tremendous, and it is no wonder that long exposure to such pollutants can lead to such illnesses as mental depression, bronchitis and emphysema. Is it any wonder then that the unfortunate who must reside in cities are overly eager to get out and spend their weekends in the country, where God made the air pure and man has not yet had an opportunity to pollute it?

During my recent holiday I talked to several people who were vacationing in mountain resorts and outdoor areas, and they invariably wanted me to "breathe that air, and view those stars," something they apparently don't get a chance to do too much of in some large cities.

Well, we people who live with pure air and clear starry skies don't think it too much about it. We take it for granted.

While we miss some of the advantages of city life, we are compensated by blessings bestowed on us by nature.

Furthermore, it is estimated that it costs Canadians, especially city residents, from $20 to $50 a year extra, for paint damage, metal corrosion, laundry and dry cleaning bills, caused by air pollution.

Whether or not Canada, or any city in Canada will ever have the smog that hangs over Los Angeles, or the killer air pollution of London, England is problematical, but we do know that the price of cleanliness is eternal vigilance, and that it is up to government, industry and individuals to see that it doesn't happen.

Professor Allcut says that "Pollution has no single or simple solution. Stiff fines could probably put polluting industries out of business, increase unemployment and raise taxes. We cannot take the easy way out with shotgun remedies. We must get standard codes to keep people safe and not handicap industry."

Industry in cracking down on another offender: unburned automobile gases. About 30 percent of automobile air pollution is in vent gas from the crank case & car manufacturers say they have developed several devices that solve this. They expect to have a solution for the 70 percent pollution from exhausts by 1967. California has already approved four types of exhaust converters, and plans to make their use manditory within a year.

Such moves may give us back the pure air we were intended to breathe, and then country folk can flock to the big cities to spend their weekends.

The Big Winner!

There are a large number of businesses and companies in Canada which operate what has become known as "suggestion plans". Through it employees are being encouraged to suggest to the management how more efficient operation and production may be achieved. In return the employee is rewarded, usually with a percentage of the cost reduction effected. If employees are eager and clever they may get hundreds or even thousands of dollars. Of course the employer gains quite substantially too from the workers' interest and ideas.

But as always the federal government is the big winner. A letter recently written by the head of a large industry to his employees, explains how Ottawa participates.

The suggestion plan continues to reward interested employees, and encourages them to participate. But the sad part is that for each dollar saved through better methods and equipment, the government takes over half without having done anything to earn it. However, despite this, industry feels the project is worthwhile, for cost reduction is a never-ending battle that has to be fought if a person or company is to stay in business.

All this may be relatively unimportant to many of our readers, but we have been wondering if it wouldn't be a fine thing if governments were as interested as business in efficiency of operation and in saving money. For every dollar saved by an efficiency suggestion, half could be returned to the public in reduced taxes. Well, it was a thought anyway.

A Sensible Start!

It is quite possible that the federal government — that is, the taxpayer — may soon be out of the butter business. This is very good news, since the subsidy program has cost the public about one million dollars a week for the last half dozen or so years. The favorable factor in this development has not been some brilliant bit of government planning, but mainly a matter of bad weather elsewhere.

After a hard winter and late spring cut domestic production, Britain has had no choice but to substantially increase butter imports that other countries could not meet. For the first time in some years she had to come to North America. As a result, Ottawa has been able to unload some 20 million pounds of butter that is three years old or more, at a loss of only 36c a pound. In addition, some 45 million or more pounds of butter oil, made from the butter that was stored too long to be edible, is expected to find markets before the end of this year.

Canadians consume about 300 million pounds of butter a year, and production now stands at about that figure. The government is still guaranteeing the farmer 70 cents a pound but the consumer subsidy, which allowed housewives to buy it at 58c, has been quietly reduced from 12 to 11 cents. This is at least a sensible beginning toward permitting supply and demand to come freely into balance.

— C. J. Harris in Clipsheet.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE — A DOG!

It's a darn funny thing but man will starve himself nutrition-wise, while he makes certain his dog gets it all. A recognized nutritionist has struck an alarming note in this nation which considers itself well nourished, when he disclosed that a dog fed on standard dog food prepared with a careful eye on forty-three nutrients, is better fed than most children. Sounds like a good dog's life, but who wants to be a dog?

Most anyone can spare a half hour to tell you how busy they are.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Fatted Calf Troubles

OTTAWA — Forty years ago the "cattle-boat" was an important part of Canada's mercantile marine. Ships fitted with decks of stalls left Montreal with full cargoes of beef cattle bound for Liverpool where they picked up whatever cargo was available for the return voyage.

The trade stopped abruptly in the early 1920's when the pound sterling was devalued overnight and the last Canadian shipper with his cattle already on the high seas took a staggering loss.

During World War 2 beef shipments to Britain were revived, but this time in the form of carcasses. It trickled out soon after the war ended in a growing beef consumption in Canada and a sharp difference between European and Canadian tastes. The British consumer is far less concerned with the tenderness of his beef and has much less use for the product of well fattened cattle.

Last month with no acute shortage of beef in Britain resulting from last year's Argentine drought, Canada viewed with dismay but a simple shipment of beef to the Smithfield market in London. The experiment, as the Canadian Meat Council realized, was doomed to failure. As things turned out it has nothing more than its shipping costs and brokerage charges. The price for top quality Scottish beef on the Smithfield market was precisely the same as the price for dehorned beef somewhere of a comparable grade at Calgary.

For Canada's cattle raising and beef industries the CP experiment holds a valuable lesson. For some time to come it appears likely that the movement of North American beef cattle and beef will be confined to the North American continent. For Canada there is a very special lesson — that as far as possible cattle raising in this country should be gauged to Canadian beef demand.

This at least is the conclusion of experts in the Federal Department of Agriculture who have been making a special study of the border cattle movement over the past few months when Canada was enjoying the unusual luxury of U. S. cattle moving north, across the border.

The word "enjoying" might get an argument in some quarters. There was a good deal of concern over this American import but it should depress Canadian prices. To attract imports of cattle across the border the U. S. price, it is estimated, must be at least $4.25 per cwt. above Chicago. This situation existed in April, May and into June. By June 20th, 37,250 head had crossed the border.

The reason, however, was not a glut in the U. S. where supplies of beef cattle were only one to two per cent above the previous year. It was the result of small markdowns and high prices here, a situation which could not last indefinitely, regardless of the size of imports. Canadian prices are inevitably tied to Chicago. The differential today has dropped to about $2. Before the end of the year it is expected that Canada will again be a large exporter of beef cattle.

This continues to be a decree of fate which makes beef production in Canada make us non-competitive with the U. S. in production of fattened beef carcasses. It is the reason that so little has been been heard in Canada of the bill now running its course in Congress to restrict imports of beef to the levels of four low import years, 1959-63. Live cattle are not affected and so long as Canada continues to have this outlet for its surplus cattle, it is all we can ask. Virtually the only beef shipped across the border is for use in processing sausage or other beef products.

The beef import bill, if it passes Congress, is more than likely to get a presidential veto. It is done and the Canadian protest will be a matter of principle only.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Canadians continue to ask for background information on the proposed national flag. The following may be of interest to your readers.

Canada's national emblem was fixed by the proclamation of George V at the request of the Meighen Government in 1921 — three maple leaves conjoined on one stem. One national colour along with our motto "From Sea To Sea" were proclaimed at the same time. The proposed flag therefore selects from our coat of arms those parts which are uniquely representative of Canada.

This choice of arms was the result of considerable study. Following the First World War Sir Robert Borden appointed a highly qualified Arms Committee headed by Major-General W. G. Gwatkin. This Committee, working with the College of Arms, produced formal Canadian symbolism which combined aesthetic beauty with high heraldic quality.

Fifty years prior to the research studies of the Arms Committee, Queen Victoria in 1868 issued her Royal Warrant establishing the Great Seal of Canada, which contained the familiar motif of three maple leaves on one stem. Earlier still we find the appearance of this maple leaf cluster in the pre-Confederation coinage of the Province of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick. This particular emblem of Canada was illustrated by Principal Dawson of McGill University in an historical article written in 1863. The first advocate of the "Sea to Sea" motto was Principal George Grant of Queen's University.

On reflection the proposed flag will be found to be anything but new. It represents this nation with nothing new added and with nothing of importance taken away. In the words of Arthur R. M. Lower, "our new flag will be amongst the most distinctive of national flags." It will be recognized as Canadian wherever it is flown.

CAPITAL HILL

The postwar chicks are coming home to roost. A heavy wave of family formations between 1945 and 1960 produced the largest crop of Canadian babies. While Canada was experiencing the one and only boom of the 1950's they have been growing up. In the early 1960's they will be entering Canada's labor force in numbers that are causing concern. The problem is that there may be a skew in the labor force figures for July which are 2.5 per cent above those for July last year. That represents the largest year-to-year increase in any postwar year except 1956-57. Canada's problem will not be confined to minimizing a growth rate but a growth rate that will pace the increase in the labor force.

The recently announced reorganization of the Department of Citizenship, working with the College of Arms, produced formal Canadian symbolism which combined aesthetic beauty with high heraldic quality.

Loretta Hollman & Alex Blaz Wed at Dayland

(Dolores Dolezal)

DAYLAND — On Wednesday, July 8th at 11:00 a.m. Our Lady of the Prairies (Catholic Church) was the scene of a pretty wedding when Loretta Ann, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hollman of Casino, Sask., became the bride of Alex, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Blatz of Dayland. Rev. Fr. Elkin officiated and Alice Blahs and Lorry Blatz were altar boys.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked radiant in a floor-length gown of white silk taffeta. The fitted bodice featured lily-point sleeves and a round neckline. The full skirt featured bows down the sides and came to a bustle effect with bows on the back. Her chapel veil of illusion net was held in place by a crown of colored sequins and pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Loretta Wendler, friend of the bride, was matron of honor wearing a dress of blue chiffon with pillbox headpiece and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Irene Blatz, sister of the groom, Miss Shirley Blatz of the groom and Miss Dorothy Reichert, friend of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were identically styled dresses of blue chiffon with pill-box headpieces, and carried bon quets of red roses.

Attending the groom were Gerald Hollman, brother of the bride, Freddie Horn, John Feddema, Eddy Blatz, friend of the groom. Organist was Miss Clara Heck.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served in the Elks Hall for 100 guests. The afternoon was spent in playing cards and dancing. The cutting of the cake was held about 10:0 guests in the parish church basement. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake baked by Mrs. Glen Hedwig and decorated by Mrs. Clara Hollman, mother. Mrs. Fred Schnell was M.C. Toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Fr. Elkin.

Following a honeymoon to Banff and various Western points the happy couple will reside on the groom's farm near Dayland.

FROTHY BLOAT IN CATTLE!

This is the time of year when frothy bloat frequently develops in cattle. It is particularly prevalent in bush pastures containing legumes.

The cause of frothy bloat is still not fully understood. The problem seems to be most apparent when cattle from poor pasture are turned on to good second growth feed. Part of the difficulty is due to fact that alfalfa grows faster than the cattle at this time of year.

According to Dr. G. E. Wheaton of Alberta Veterinary Services large quantities of froth or foam are produced in the rumen of cattle. This may be by a combination of circumstances. When the gas gets trapped in the froth and cannot pass out of the mouth, bloating follows rapidly. It will often kill an animal in a matter of minutes. The first suggestion of trouble can be seen or more dead animals with others showing various degrees of bloat.

Treating bloat is quite difficult. It is necessary to "kill" the froth before the gas can be removed. Doctor Wheaton says certain drugs given by mouth are sometimes useful, but an injection by needle into the rumen is more effective. In many cases however, there is only time to puncture the rumen with a knife. This allows the gas to escape readily. Quite a large opening is usually necessary so that the froth will come out with the gas. The incision should be made on the animal's left side. An ordinary cattle trocar is not recommended because it will usually make a large enough opening for frothy bloat. In some cases a Veterinarian has to perform a rumenotomy operation to remove the frothy material.

The prevention of bloat with any degree of certainty is difficult, but will probably remain so until all aspects of the causes are more fully understood. The problem appears to be greater when the pasture is changed from a shower or heavy dew. Moisture is not, however, a prerequisite to bloat if the conditions are right, says Dr. Wheaton.

Good management is important in preventing bloat from all kinds of bloat. Cattle should be watched when they go onto new pastures. The following time should be increased a little each day and they should be gently eased to alfalfa and salt. They should also be given a good feed of dry hay before being turned out.

Bloat should not be used as a valid reason for rejecting the nutritive assets of legumes. The value of legumes especially for dairy cattle, usually outweighs the bloat problem. Formulas for good pasture mixtures are available from your District Agriculturist.

DISEASED POTATOES!

While travelling through the rural countryside I have noticed disease in many potato patches. In amongst healthy potatoes plants are found green plants with upward rolled leaves. These plants are infected with a virus disease called Leaf Roll.

This disease causes reduced in very late crops of potatoes. It is transmitted from plant to plant by insects and can carry through the winter in seed potatoes.

Diseased plants should be rogued out as soon as they can be identified. Where Leafy Roll has been present you are advised to plant seed from the next year's planting. It is not likely that the virus will live over winter in the soil.

Rittammer-Nielson Wed At Camrose Lutheran

DAYLAND — Saturday, July 14 was the day chosen for the wedding of June Lorraine, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Nielson of Kelsey and Siegfried Rittammer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard Rittammer of Dayland. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. N. Elfert at Grace Lutheran Church in Camrose.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a white silk baroque with lace and pleat stone trimming, featuring lily-point sleeves and matching chapel veil. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses.

Mrs. James Hendry of Cardston, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and Miss Audrey Nielsen, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They were identical dresses of pale organza and taffeta with matching headpieces and carried bouquets of mauve and white gardenias.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nielsen chose a two-piece dress of linen ensemble with white accessories, and yellow corsage. Mrs. Rittammer, mother of the groom, wore a lime green brocaded ensemble with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Raymond Winchester of Daylard Soloist was Mrs. Elvy Nelson. Ushers were brothers of the bride, Harold and Russell Nielsen.

A reception for 180 guests was held in the church parish. The bridal table was centered with a three tier wedding cake made by Mrs. E. Sodergreen of Armena and decorated by Mrs. Clark Rose of Camrose. Bridesmaid Willisha of Smoky Lake acted as M. C. A toast to the bride was given by Georgo Sodergreen. Guests of the bride, and capably responded to by the groom. Open house was held in the Elks Hall, followed by a dance.

For their honeymoon trip to Banff, Idaho, Montana and Southern Alberta the bride chose a blue three-piece suit with white accessories & pink corsage. On their return they will make their home in Dayland.

REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

The Canada Student Loan Plan, recently approved in the House of Commons, is in my opinion an important step towards widening the opportunities for higher education for Canadian young people.

This plan offers a student an annual loan of up to $1,000 for as many as five years, to help him get a university education or take training at other educational institutions approved by provincial education authorities.

The actual amount and terms of the loan to any individual will be related to his individual requirements and prospective earning capacity.

For example, a student living in a university residence or in a boarding house may well need more than a student living at home. Again, a student in a course such as medicine which is very expensive may require more than a student in nursing. Obviously a prospective doctor can afford to take on a larger debt than a prospective nurse.

To be eligible for a loan, a student must have attained a satisfactory scholastic standard — a judgment that is naturally to be made under this plan, by the educational authorities. He must also make it clear to the authorities that he really needs a loan. This is a requirement for any other student loans and is essential, obviously, to prevent possible abuse and to protect the taxpayer.

Given eligibility on these grounds, a student will qualify for a loan if he is a Canadian citizen or if he has resided in Canada for at least a year and intends to continue to reside here.

Both undergraduate and graduate students may qualify for one of these loans and they won't be limited just to young people working for an academic degree. They will be available for any form of education beyond secondary school. We have invited the provincial governments to help designate the various institutions which qualify in this category.

Provincial authorities or others designated by provincial authorities are to specify the institutions which student borrowers may attend, whether in Canada or abroad. It is clear from our discussions with provincial representatives that the coverage will be as comprehensive as reasonable administrative and educational standards will permit.

Once a student has received from the designated educational body or its agent a certificate for a loan of a specified amount, he or she will go to any chartered bank branch and arrange for the actual loan.

The student won't have to pay any interest on his loan or repay any part of the loan until six months after he has completed his studies. The banks will carry the loan and the government will pay the interest until the student can begin repaying it. And when the time comes for the student to repay the loan, it will cost him less interest than an ordinary borrower.

A normal personal loan from a bank costs the full legal rate of six per cent plus a service charge. The government, which guarantees the student loans, will establish the maximum interest rate for it from time to time and no extra service charge will be permitted.

This isn't all the government expects to do to help our young people enjoy equality of educational opportunity. But it is a start. It could quite well put my friend Walter Gordon, the Minister of Finance, said in introducing this legislation:

"It is a cliche to say that a country's future depends upon its young people. But cliches are often true, and the importance of the well-embodied in this one can scarcely be overstated . . . .

"In economic terms, Canada's future strength and prosperity depend not only on the quality of our natural resources but even more on the quality of our human resources. We must make sure, in the competitive world of today, that as ever-growing proportion of our young men and women have ready access to the benefits of higher education.

"In this age where under-education so often spells under-employment, we must put forward very special efforts to ensure that no competent student lacks the financial support to continue his education beyond high school."

BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSSES GAS

(By Dalarue Dalnes)

DAYSLAND — The Board of Trade meeting on August 17th was held in the Elks Hall. The main topic of the evening was Natural Gas on Highway 12.

The commerce committee presented a petition whereas the Dayland business places will take a vote on whether or not they will open on Saturday nights in Dayland from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Oct. 10th, or do on until Christmas. The plebiscite results will be known after August 22nd.

Visitors from other towns were J. Cavanagh of Hardisty, Mrs. Redman, Hardisty; Alvin Gordon from Strome. Also present were Mr. Dery-le and Mr. Berty of Edmonton, representing the Seattle-River Gas Transmission Co. Ltd., who outlined the proposed Natural Gas line from Hardisty to Dayzland.

The meeting was well attended & all those present indicated high interest in being served with gas.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN

(By Darlene Dolans)

DAYSLAND —Tip barn of Frank Rensha, 6 miles north of Dayzland, was a total loss when a fire of unknown origin started August 18th at 7:00 p.m. Winds at 35 miles per hour fanned the blaze. Neighbors assisted in saving the other buildings, in the attempt to put out a fire on the roof of a building close by, their daughter Shirley received burns and was hospitalized overnight. The barn was purely covered by insurance.

A SUMMER RHAPSODY

Summertime in this country is a succession of so many wonderful things that I would happily leave for the next world, or even, if someone said to me, "Sorry, old boy, but you'll never be able to spend another summer in Canada."

Perhaps the fascination of a Canadian summer might be compared to falling in love, once a year, with a passionate, unpredictable woman.

Just as you are never quite sure where you're at with such a dame, you are never sure of what a Canadian summer has in store for you.

She might greet you with the warm, seductive scents of June and, just as you are about to seize her, retreat into a frame of mind so chilly that you're diving for your recently discarded woollies.

In July, she turns on the charm full blast, clutching you in a sizzling embrace that makes your head reel and your pulse flutter. But when you throw caution to the winds and submit yourself entirely to the affair—was a total loss when a flea of unknown origin started August 18th at 7:00 p.m. Winds at 35 miles per hour fanned the blaze. Neighbors assisted in saving the other buildings, in the attempt to put out a fire on the roof of a building close by, their daughter Shirley received burns and was hospitalized overnight. The barn was purely covered by insurance.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Tomorrow she likes to tease. She fills them with mysterious urges & yearnings which make them drive like retarded orangutangs, dance in their bare feet amid broken bottles and rattlesnakes, and fall in love with people who should be put away in institutions.

She's not sure evil, though. She has a rather soft spot for the older folk. She warms their arthritic joints with her hot, tender hands. She fills their lonely hearts with pleasure in her loveliness. And she reminds them, in subtle fashion, of the days when they knew her long ago, when they were young and passionate themselves.

Every time I feel the cool, smooth, hands of children after swimming, every time I walk a lonely beach and see lights across the bay, every time I hear the silken rustling of her garments in the evening trees, I know I am once again in thrall to that wonderful witch — the Canadian summer. And I'm glad.

OBITUARY

(Mrs. Marie Butler)

STROME — The Strome district was saddened by the death of an old timer, Mr. Herbert Hanson Richardson, who passed away at his home on August 7th, 1964 at the age of 85 years and 26 days.

He was born on July 1st, 1879 at Exeter, Ontario, and married Miss Lulu Emma Vanidoor on February 12th, 1899. To this union was born one daughter and two sons.

In January 1904 he moved to the Spring Lake district, settling on a homestead where he resided at the time of his passing.

He is survived by his widow, and two sons, Normala and Leonard both of Strome district; 13 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren. He was predeceased by his 2 daughters, Edna and Grace during infancy, and Winnifred in 1958.

Services were held at the St. Paul United Church in Strome with Rev. Rob Seal of Forestburg officiating. Miss. Pallbearers were Jim Alexander, Jerome Gordon, Louie Behnke, Gale Seward, Rees Bowlby & Harry Spiller. Acting pallbearers were, A. Porter, Alvin Gordon, Jack Butler, Gordon Spiller, Edwin Fryer and Chester Alexander.

Interment was in the [redacted] Cemetery.

PRESBYTERIAN ASSN.

KILLAM — Mrs. George McCabe was hostess for the August meeting of the Killam Presbyterian Ladies' Assn. The devotions were taken by Mrs. A. P. Grant and Mrs. McCabe. The topic was taken from 'Glad Tidings. There were 17 members and 6 visitors present.

Plans were made to cater to a wedding reception. The visiting committee reported an active summer, with 40 hospital and 6 house calls, along with many gifts and flowers sent to the sick.

The meeting closed by repeating the Lord's Prayer.

A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. Hubert Hartz and Mrs. Russell Grant assisted by the hostess.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Ross Grant.

QUARTERBACK Jackie Parker, dogged with injuries last year after his trade to the Toronto Argonauts from the Edmonton Eskimos, has run into the injury jinx again this season. He is seen here being helped off the field after hurting leg in game with Montreal Alouettes.

Destroy Those Roadside Weeds!

Most farmers in the prairie provinces recognize that weeds growing along road Allowances are a source of potential weed infestation to other parts of their farms. Unfortunately, not enough of them do anything about it. Besides being a serious source of weed infestation, weed & woody plants growing along roadsides often harbor destructive insects, diseases and other crop pests, as well as such weeds as Ragweed and Poison Ivy which cause a great deal of human misery, each year. Furthermore, they constitute traffic hazards, prevent proper drainage & collect snow.

Methods of controlling weeds and brush have greatly improved in recent years. Weed and woody growth along roadsides can now be effectively controlled by chemicals. Chemicals have many distinctive advantages. They can be applied easily and quickly. Chemical control is a much cheaper method than the old method of cutting points by hand or with machinery. When the proper recommended chemicals for weed & brush control are used it is possible a kill in the undesirable species and allow desirable grasses to take over roadsides and ditch banks.

Chemicals 'Ie Ime — 2,4-D and mixtures of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T can be used effectively at low cost to eradicate weeds and brush from roadsides and ditches. Most species of the woody plants cannot, however, be controlled by 2,4-D alone. Where the plant species resistant to 2,4-D are present, a mixture consisting of two parts of 2,4-D and one part of 2,4,5-T should be used. The main point to remember in using these chemicals is to obtain good spray coverage. The minimum of water that should be applied is 10 gallons per acre. If the weed growth is high and dense 20 to 40 gallons per acre should be applied. For more detailed information on the use of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T consult your Agricultural Representative on contact the Weed Supervisor in your area.

Controlling roadside weeds is not only an important means of protecting your crop fields from weed infestation but also an important highway safety measure. It is a weed control program that will pay good dividends by keeping noxious weeds from your cultivated fields and increasing the value of your farm property.

How Long Did It Take To Court Your Wife?

Did you just happen to see her, walk up to her, ask her to marry you and call in the minister . . . right on the spot —

PERHAPS NOT . . . it probably took a lot of calls, and trips, movies, flowers, candies, and a lot of putting-your-best-foot forward tactics. You had to "sell" yourself. She had to know all about you!

IT'S THE SAME WITH ADVERTISING of time . . . you've got to win their confidence . . . you can't "woo" customers with one Ad . . . you've got to "Call on Them" over a period and be convincing.

CONSISTANT ADVERTISING wins the customers if it's truthful, if it gives helpful information, if it saves shopping steps, if it is backed up with intelligent, courteous and honest values.

Verlene Nelson Wed At Amisk United

AMISK — At three o'clock Saturday June 27th at June the Maids Dress and Church in Amisk United with Rev. Mr. Wood officiating, and with guest pews marked by bows and ribbons, was solemnized the wedding of Miss Verlene Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nelson from Amisk and Mr. Stanley Rudolf Pedersen, son of Mrs. Ebba Pedersen of Hughenden. Rev. W. G. Zacker officiated at the double-ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride looked lovely in a floor-length white gown of nylon sheer lace over net and taffeta. The lace accented bouffant skirt was caught at the front and back by large roses. The scalloped neckline was embroidered with pearls and sequins, with lily-point sleeves buttoning at the wrist. A Swedish gold crown held her four-tiered veil, and she carried a white Bible surmounted by sweetheart roses. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, said earrings a gift of the groom.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Doreen Hogarth, sister of the bride, and bridesmaid, Miss Elaine Dodds, cousin of the bride, were identical gowns of yellow nylon and net over taffeta. Their bouffant skirts were worn nylon with sequins on white bows, and they wore white shoes. Their jewelry was a crystal necklace, earrings and bow let, gifts of the bride, and they carried sprays of white daisies.

Little Caroline Segstrie, flower girl, was a yellow nylon organdie dress, and she wore a pearl necklet and bracelet gift of the bride. She carried a basket of apple blossoms. Roddy Lidberg, a cousin of the bride, dressed in a sailor suit, carried the rings on a white satin cushion.

Attending the groom were Mr. Cla ne Paterson and Mr Edwin Carman. Ushering the guests were Mr Gerald Nelson and Mr. Melvin Johnson.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Nelson chose a tonal rose dress with black accessories. She wore a corsage of talisman roses. The groom's mother wore a light blue two-piece dress of acetate over nylon taffeta, with blue accessories and corsage of roses.

Mrs. Edna Dodds, aunt of the bride, was in charge of the guest book during the signing of the register. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Jacobs played the wedding music.

Mrs. Joyce De Bard was in charge of the guest book at a reception for 150 guests at the Amisk Hall. Rev. Zwicker and Grace, Mr. Ken Dreyer was M.C., and read a telegram from Sweden. Mr. Tom English proposed the toast to the bride, which was ably responded to by the groom. During the reception Mrs. Edna Dodds sang "Always" and "I Love You Because", and Mrs. Flossie Canlen recited a humorous monologue. The hall was beautifully decorated, and a three-tier wedding cake centered the bride's table, decorated by Mrs. Bertha Chapman. After the cutting of the cake the bride and groom served it, while the gifts were opened by the attendants. Photographer Mr. Don Weber of Hardisty was present. A wedding dance followed in the Hughenden Hall.

For travelling the bride chose a tan two-piece brown and beige suit at it matching shoes and purse. She wore a feathered, yellow carnation corsage. The couple will reside on a farm North of Hughenden.

AMISK SUFFERS LOSS OF THREE PIONEERS

AMISK — The community has been saddened by the death of three pioneers in a week. At the age of 69 years, Mrs. Alex Lyon, a pioneer of the former Nilrem district, was laid to rest in the Amisk Bethany Cemetery on August 4th. She leaves to mourn one daughter, Mrs. Gerber Hall of Hughenden, one son Bert of Edson, five grandchildren, one great grandson and three sisters.

On August 3rd, Mrs. Ole Carbol passed away at her home at the age of 82 years. Funeral services were held at the Pentecostal Church August 6th with interment in the Norwegian Cemetery. She left to mourn her loving husband, one son Alfred of Vancouver, four daughters, Mrs Ruth Asquith and Mrs. Clara Bruce of Edmonton, Mrs. Irene Paulson of Calgary and Mrs. Eva Scheltens of Lac La Biche, and 16 grandchildren.

Mr. David Gibson passed away on August 8th in the Hardisty Hospital at the age of 77 years. He had resided here since 1906. The funeral service was held in the United Church and interment took place in the Amisk Bethany Cemetery on August 11th. He leaves to mourn 2 daughters, Mrs. Jean of Edmonton, Ruth of London, Ont., one son David Jr. of Edmonton and 7 grandchildren.

School Division Meeting

A regular meeting of the Board of Killam School Division was held on Wednesday with the Supt. and the following trustees present: Grust, Niehaus, Clemton, Polnchyke and Steadman.

The correspondence from Hardisty re accounting and tabled from the last meeting, was again tabled for the September meeting.

Motion 148 of a previous meeting was amended by changing the inclusive date from August 31, 1964 to August 27th, 1964. The motion now reads, "That the agreement for inclusion of the Galahad Consolidated School District No. 62 in the Killam School Division No. 22 be hereby approved and signed by the proper authorities. Included to be in addition one and effective August 27th, 1964".

It was passed that the following resolution as submitted by the committee on administrative of Divisional matters re a Provincial Vocational High School be adopted as Board policy effective Sept. 1, 1964 "Since the high school courses offered in our system make it possible for divisional high school students to matriculate, or receive a diploma, and whereas the division has nothing to offer the student who is incapable of success in even the modified 100 credit diploma course, therefore be it resolved that after due screening and selection, (1) Students receiving unsatisfactory high school entrance marks (grade 9 Dept. Exams), and (2) Students making unsatisfactory progress in grade 10 and 11, be encouraged to attend a Provincial Vocational high school offering a pre employment program and that these students be paid a boarding allowance of $45.00 a month, and further that the following selection procedure be followed:

(1) Nomination by principal, parent or guardian; (2) Final approval by Board and Supt.

The following appointments to the teaching staff of the District were approved: Judith Bulmer for Junior High in Sedgewick; Jane Grimson for Dayaland Elementary; Sister Mary Scholastica for Holsler. The resignation of Mrs. Lillian M-Hugh was accepted.

It was passed that a general meeting of information on the effect of the possible inclusion of the Galahad Consolidated School in the Division, be held at the Mervan School with trustees from areas affected present and that a survey be made to compile data respecting bus routes, etc.

Arrangements will be made with Forsythe to share the services of their shop and home or teachers.

It was passed that a grant of $1200 pro-rated according to enrolment from the Division, be made to the Edmonton & Clarence chools for retarded children.

The accident report on Joyce Chave of Alliance be filed as no negligence is evident.

An addition of a bedroom will be made to the teacherage at Alliance. The quotation received for the supply of one 8d and one 4S passenger bus, Ford Chassi, the one from Thomas Built Buses was accepted.

Wedding

(Mrs. J. Bucher)

STROME — The wedding of Adelle Porter, Cardinet daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Porter of Bentley, formerly of Strome, and Raymond Eshpeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Eshpeter of Daysland, took place at St. Boniface Roman Catholic Church, Spring Lake, on July 6th with Rev. Fr. Smolinec officiating.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin and organza. Her lace veil was held in place by white satin flowers and her bouquet was of red roses.

The bride was attended by her sister Janis and Miss Jean Lochstet. bridesmaids. They carried bouquets of pink Peau delsoi with matching bow headpieces. They carried bouquets of white Shasta daisies.

The mother of the bride wore a yellow sheath dress of salerno linen with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. The mother of the groom chose a pink ensemble with trattler length coat over a matching sheath dress and white accessories and pink roses encorage.

The reception was held in the Spring Lake Hall with Jim Young of Red Deer acting as toastmaster. The bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to the mountains and the coast, and on their return they will make their home in Red Deer.

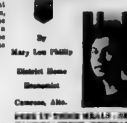
CAPITAL HILL

While hopes of any substantial wheat sales to Russia during the current crop year are dimming as days pass, sales to other Iron Curtain countries indicate that Canada may still be benefiting indirectly from last year's Russian crop failure. Recent announcement of a 74 million bushel sale to Poland puts that country well in advance of its purchase commitments under the short term trade agreement. Without further sales to Russia it is now certain that Canadian wheat exports will be substantially above 500 million bushels. Still last year's spectacular shipment of 585 million, both via this was considered a top year.



PEAS IN THEIR SHELLS - BEETS ALWAYS FRESH VEGETABLES

Ask for our publication, "Summer Vegetables".

TOMATO TILBIS

Immature green tomatoes will not ripen in the sun and they are likely to rot if they are kept too long, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Too much sunlight prevents the development of normal, even colour.

The best way to ripen picked tomatoes is to put them in a cellar or garage and keep the temperature between 60 and 70 degrees. Light is not needed to produce good red colouring in under-ripe tomatoes. Remember - Tomatoes are an excellent source of Vitamin C and can be used as a substitute for oranges.

CARBOHYDRATES IMPORTANT

Newer research tends to up-grade the importance of carbohydrate. Carbohydrates, as in the potato, cereals, fruits and sugar, are often regarded quite incorrectly as being merely a source of calories.

On the contrary, the body has a specific need for carbohydrate to provide glucose for energy needs of the grain and central nervous system.

At least 50% of the calories in your diet should be carbohydrate.

Young Social Crediters

SEDGEWICK — Following is the list of officers for the 1964-65 term: President, Daniel Lewis; Vice, Arlene Gascoyne; Sec., Roy Pottage; Treas., Barbara Gascoyne; Lunch Convenor, Gertrude Lewis; Press Reporter, Jean Severson.

A ball game was held on July 25th at the Forestburg Prov. Park, with the Red Deer Young Socreds as our guests. Mr. Jack Hillman, M. L. A., was present and acted as umpire. This was followed by a barbecue.

On August 18th this group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lewis, with the new president taking charge. Among the items of business discussed were: The purchasing of sweaters with the Young Social Credit crest; The printing of a monthly column in our local press stating the principles and motives of Social Credit; The decision to send out a reminder to all members prior to each meeting; Plans for a special Hallowe'en gathering.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Elmer Brandigan on October 20th.

50th Anniversary For Killam Couple

KILLAM — June 21st marked the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Meller of Killam.

They were married at Flatsackgeon in 1914 and have resided in the district ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Meller have two daughters, Mrs. Julia Lymburner and Mrs. Jim Weeks; fifteen grand children and one great grandchild. Their son Norman passed away in 1956.

Many friends, neighbors and relatives attended open house at the home of Mrs. William Keizer's sisters, Mrs. Axel Pearson, Mrs. Ernest Mar and Mrs. Fern Daniels in honour of Mr. Loeb's sister-in-law, Mrs. Wes. Alexander. — Chilliwack Progress.

Sedgewick Man Adopts Young Greek Child

"Adoption through the plan is finalized in Sept. the $1600 that they have raised will be given to the child. The child receives $8 a month as a cash grant. The rest is spent for food and new clothing, medical care, school fees and equipment, and translations of letters. Because each child is different, the Plan meets any special needs through a Special Fund which is made up of contributions from donors.

Foster Parents' Plan is a non-sectarian, non-profit, non-propaganda, independent, government-approved organization. The Plan has no professional fund raisers and its financial statement is mailed with pride to anyone who asks for it. Full information may be had by writing to Foster Parents' Plan, 7100 St. Catherine St. West, Montreal.

Mr. Karl Hansen of Sedgewick has financially "adopted" Dimitrios Kostopoulos, an 11 year old Greek boy, through Foster Parents' Plan, Montreal. The Foster Parent has agreed to contribute $16 a month for the child's support for at least a year. He has already received a picture of the now overseas relative. A complete case history of the child accompanied the photograph.

In addition, men...hy letters are being received from overseas, both original and translation. In it a Foster Child may describe how it feels sometimes to have eaten on his feet, a mattress to sleep on instead of a dirt floor, and the comfort of a full stomach. He always reports on his progress at school. Letters from his Foster Parent, both original and translation, are treasured. Often they tell about life in Canada. Letters are exchanged monthly.

Dimitrios' father was a laborer who worked on a railroad, but others because he had no land of his own. Their village is about 20 miles from Patras which is capital of Greece. The father supported his family in simplest decency to the day of his death. He died of cancer of the liver in January 1960.

Dimitrios is a bright and serious boy, with brown hair and bright eyes. He is thin and pale, plainly undernourished. He is usually very poorly dressed. He is in the 5th grade and likes the study of history best among his lessons. Like any boy of his age, he likes to play the games of childhood and he divides the time, from study and helping his mother, between playing and running to himself.

WM. LAMBS OBSERVE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

A family buffet luncheon followed in the evening with an "open house" marked Mr. & Mrs. William Lamb's golden wedding anniversary. Their son and his wife Mr. & Mrs. C. A. (Kelly) Lamb, hosted the event at their home at 333 Williams Street.

They also have one daughter, Mrs. Irma (Irene) Bedford, who lives in Vancouver. They have four grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamb Sr., were married 50 years ago in Sedgewick, Alberta. They farmed there until 1937 when they moved to Chilliwack. For five years they operated a mink farm on the Hodgins Avenue before retiring to their present address at 46276 Princess Avenue East.

Over the open house, presiding at the tea table centered with an attractive bouquet of summer flowers were Mrs. William Keizer's sisters, Mrs. Axel Pearson, Mrs. Ernest Mar and Mrs. Fern Daniels in succession.

Mr. Gerald Oberg, on behalf of those present proposed a toast to the honored couple. Congratulations were received from Premier Manning, Rev. Gerry Page and Mr. & Mrs. Smallwood, M. P.

A delicious lunch was served by the Flamington Ladies A.A. The cake was very beautifully decorated by a friend, Mrs. Vera Beatty, and the Theo Erickson presided at the tea table.

Earliest estimates indicate average yields will be in the vicinity of; Wheat 17 bus; Oats 70 bus; Barley 35 bus.

GENERAL — Seathing is well started in most of the southern half of Alberta and a fair amount of cutting has been done. Most done in some areas. Estimates tnd early returns indicate the following approximate average yields: Wheat 22 bus; Oats 50 bus; Barley 40 bus. In the northern half of the province a small amount of cutting has been done, but another week or more will be needed before operations become general. Estimated average yields in this area: Wheat 17 bus; Oats 57 bus; Barley 18 bus. In the northwest Peace River area where crop prospects are good, but little or no cutting has been done due to rainy weather and wet fields. Frost was reported along the west central area August 23rd.

Former Strome Couple Wed 55 Years Ago

Strome, Aug. 19 — Mr. and Mrs. Nick Zimmel of Wetaskiwin celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary on July 29th when their family, friends and old-time neighbors were guests at an open house reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zimmel of Strome. The couple are both in good health and enjoyed the day very much.

The reception room was decorated with gold and green streamers and on the table was a large bouquet of roi flowers, a gift of their children. The table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake baked and decorated by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Norman Zimmel.

Many letters and cards were received, among them being those from Premier E. C. Manning and the honorable J. Percy Page. There were read by their youngest son, Ray, who was member of ceremonies. A very interesting letter from Archbishop McDonald was received, also a phone call from their grandson, Lester of Winnipeg.

Present for the reception were all eight sons and their families: Clarence, Harry, Lloyd, Ray and Cliff, all of Edmonton, Melvin of Wetaskiwin and Ed and Norman of Strome.

Their granddaughter and her her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jos Kolendorfer and three children, Della, Debbie and Peter of Killam also were present. — Camrose Canadian.

Since there are no fossil deposits in the Laurentian Uplands they are believed to date back to a time when no life existed on earth, not even primitive life in the ocean.

Thieves Strike At Strome Co-operative Store

(Mrs. Marie Beebe)

STROME — Thieves struck again in Strome on Friday morning, ransacking and entering the Co-op Store. However their efforts were not very rewarding as only a small amount of change and merchandise was taken.

The safe was damaged but they were unable to gain access to it.

Entry was gained by forcing the lock on the front door.

Mrs. E. Hahn turned in the alarm around 9 a.m. while letting her dog out she noticed a car stopped by the store and on looking closer she was able to see someone moving about in the store. The town police were then called, along with Co-op manager but on their arrival the thieves had gone. The R.C.M.P. at Killam and Finger Print Division are doing a thorough checking for evidence.

CEMETERY ASSN.

KILLAM — The regular meeting of the Killam Cemetery Association was held with a very small attendance.

As the close of the year for the wish to congratulate the Herman Erickson' for a well kept cemetery. The cavaghan damaged by the fire has been cut and everything looks very well. There will be no meeting in September but hope all representatives and interested persons will be present at the October 16th meeting. The funds are low and any donation will be greatly appreciated.

SHOWER HELD FOR DORIS TAKALSON

KILLAM — A lovely shower was held Wednesday evening in the Presbyterian Church in honor Miss Doris Takalson and Mr. Ben Anderson. Mrs. Herb Holmstrom was in charge of the program which consisted of the following numbers: A duet by Sandra Erickson and Doris Weale, a chorus by Elsie and Barbara McGowan, Margaret and Doris Weale and a duet by Herb and Sharon Holmstrom. Readings and speeches were given by Naomi Spaulding, Lenora Weeks, Harold Taralsen and Roy Sorenson. Linda Gaye Larsen and Marilyn Spalding dressed as brides, followed by five junior girls, dressed as nurses carried in the gifts, which were presented to Doris and Ben by Mrs. Roy Sorenson. The young couple expressed their thanks to their many friends after which a lovely lunch was served.

National Award For Community Press

TORONTO, August 27th — At the annual Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association convention held this week at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, it was announced that the Community Press, Sedgewick, had won third place in the Best Editorial Page Competition, in its circulation class.

The Community Press was one of only two Alberta Weekly Newspapers to win an award in the nation-wide competition which included better than 800 papers. The other award in Alberta was won by the Nanton News, which tied for third with the Strymer, Ontario Sun for the best Editorial Page in the Under 1000 circulation class.

In the same class with the Community Press, first place went to the Deloraine, Manitoba Times & Star. Second place was won by the Kenaston, Sask. Times.

Accompanying this news story is the Crest which the Community Press received, and which will be displayed in this paper for the next 12 months. Each winner also receives a Certificate to be framed and hung on the office wall.

OBITUARY

One of the early pioneer citizens of the Killam District, Mrs. Alice Dunham, passed away in the Flagstaff-Bower Hospital at Killam on August 20th. Born April 18th, 1888 at Calheart, Ontario, the former Alice Ransom was in her 80th year at the time of her passing. She came to Killam as the bride of the late Milton Dunham in 1908 and has resided there at that time. Mr. Dunham predeceased his wife November 27, 1961. She is survived by her two sons, Roy of Athabasca and Bill of Edmonton, 8 grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Ethel Paddison of Barrie, Ontario. Funeral Services were conducted from Knox United Church at Killam on August 24th by the Rev. K. W. Morris, with interment in the family plot in the Killam Public Hall-Bower Cemetery. Messrs. G. Hillier, Doug Kinzer, Dwight Dunham, J. Sorenson, J. Forster and R. York Pve & Sons Funeral Service was in charge of arrangements.

Baptist Church

KILLAM — The W.M.S meeting was held at home of Mrs. Probst at Lougheed on Thursday night. We were happy to have several of the Nanivore ladies present. The program consisted of scripture and prayer by Mrs. Probst, a special number by Mrs. Leedham, the devotional was presented by Mrs. Wylie, and a missionary letter from Loredeie Nelson, who had just arrived in Assam, was read by Mrs. Frendrick. The business session was precise. A social hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Rev. Willard Sipke, of Wetaskiwin, was in charge of the Sunday services. A number of visitors were present at both morning and evening services.

424 Grade 12 Papers

The Community Press has learned that a record number of papers, 424, were written in June by Grade 12 students in the four high schools in the Killam School Division.

Of the 424 papers, 206 received marks of 50% or above for a "P" or better pass of 48.5%. Provincial average for this category of 60%.

Students receiving senior matriculation, schools attended and their averages are as follows:

Donna Cookson, Central High, 51.8%; David Grymaloski, C. H. S., 72.3; Sandra Cookson, C. H. S., 72; Sheila Rasmiah, CHS, 73.7; Elizabeth Walsh, CHS, 72.2; Gail Thery, CHS, 71.2; Patrick Madden, CHS, 70.2; Ronnie Chadwick, CHS, 67.2; Kathleen Costall, CHS, 63.2; Ray Herrin, CHS, 58.7; Linda Lisvidahl, CHS, 62.2; Bitnie James, CHS, 61.2; Mary York, CHS, 60.2; Franklin Batt, C-HS, 60; Eugene Carignan, Daysland, 74.2; Bryan Rokes, Daysland, 68.2; Marilyn Larsen, Daysland, 62.2; Sylvia Kafoed, Daysland, 60.2; Helen Gledemanna, Heisler, 70.0

Grade Nine results closely approximated provincial averages. Of the 187 students writing, seven received honor passes, 126 received regular passes, and fourteen failed. The 7 honor students and schools attended are as follows:

John Cameron, Alliance, Annette Tvisto, Heisler; Ronald Routledge, Lougheed; Sharon Chadwick, Lougheed; Benjamin Westbuks, Killam; Barbara Niehaus, Strome & Janice Gordon, Strome.

The Aged and the Poor!

This week we received a letter from an organization which calls itself the Senior Women's Committee For Pension Increase. The Committee is circulating a petition asking Ottawa to increase the old age security pension from $75 to $100 a month, and to lower the pension age from 70 to 65 years. Letters being sent out are urging older persons to write to their members of Parliament telling them that the present pension in inadequate to the needs of pensioners who have no other source of income.

For Canada to provide increased pensions for the really needy is entirely reasonable, but we must conclude that the committee's proposal would not only be wasteful but excessively expensive. There are about one million Canadians currently receiving old age security pensions. To raise the pension by $25 a month for the entire group would cost the taxpayers in the neighborhood of $300 million a year, which would then put the pension's annual cost at one billion and two hundred million dollars. Then to lower the pension age to 65 years would simply mean that there would be added another half million persons to the scheme and cost an additional $600 million, raising the total to $1,800,000,000.

That's a lot of money. Especially when you consider that perhaps thirty percent of the pensioners are as much in need of a pension as rain at a ball game.

Besides the obvious fact that the working force could not afford another tax bill of a billion dollars added to living costs, we feel that it is unnecessary to assist 1.5 million Canadians at 65 years in order to assist the relatively few who are in need. There is existing machinery to improve the lot of the aged poor efficiently and economically.

The federal and provincial governments share the cost of Old Age Assistance, that is currently providing pensions to 105,000 persons in need in the 65 to 69 years age group. In three provinces the maximum pension is $65 a month, and the maximum is $75 in the other seven provinces; cost of this program is about $30 million per year. In addition a federal-provincial program supplements the old age security pension for persons over 70 who are in need; the number of persons aided by this program and its exact cost, are not matters of public record.

Whatever additional aid is needed to provide for the aged poor can well be furnished through existing programs, with the benefits graduated to local conditions and living costs. All pension and other welfare programs are charged back to the working population, and it is time we recognized that there are limits on what the public can and should pay.

The Senior Women's Committee might well revise their program to bring it into line with the country's economy.

Safety On The Roads!

In spite of attempts on the part of governments, safety councils and traffic officials in general, to make our highways safe for motorists, car drivers continue to go on killing people at an ever increasing rate. Ordinary day-by-day fatalities are shocking enough, but long holiday week-ends which seem to compel people to flood the highways with vehicles take an increased number of innocent lives. Up to this moment we have not heard any official predictions regarding the number of people who will be killed during the upcoming Labor Day weekend, but there is little indication that it will be any less than usual.

Authorities indicate that most accidents are caused by reckless drivers, nonattentive drivers, drunken operators and speedsters, not necessarily in that order. But in my experience on highways, perhaps one of the most dangerous drivers on the roads today is the angry driver. I cannot presume to know whether he was angry before he got into his car, due to a possible tiff at home or a hangover from the night before, but at any rate he is angry all the time he's driving. He has little patience with other drivers who fail to maintain the speed he thinks they should, he gets provoked if they dodge into traffic ahead of him, he boils when they fail to take off on a light change. He lets his anger mount until in utter frustration he decides to get away from it all by making some foolish move which endangers himself as well as others. The angry driver is one of the most dangerous on the highways.

Labor Day weekend is coming up, and an effort should be made to make it one of the safest.

Labor Day has been accepted officially as the day which ends "the good old summer time" and many summertime sports. It also traditionally was the last opportunity for families to get away on a fun spree before settling down to the fall and winter season, and the temptation is to get there first with the mostest. In this wild effort to crowd as much as possible into this last opportunity, many press too hard, hurry too much and take too many unnecessary chances. This is bound to make Labor Day a special problem for traffic officials and for those involved in accidents.

Safe driving to and from recreational areas cannot be over-stressed. You should be sure to use seatbelts; you should allow plenty of travelling time, considering the road and weather conditions; you should obey traffic laws and road signs; you should not drink before driving; you should be alert for mistakes of other drivers; above all you should keep from becoming angry. An angry driver is a dangerous driver. If you obey these rules your trip should be less tense and more enjoyable.

School Days! School Days!

There's more truth than poetry to the statement of the lady who said it was far too dumb to get along in the world without a university degree. We have a good idea what she meant, but notwithstanding the fact, we realize that today the gates of opportunity are opened more widely to the well educated. While a university degree will not by itself be the open sesame to opportunity, it will provide the opening which leads to the ultimate goal of the individual.

Our schools opened again this week. A time when the clear-thinking student will be anxious to return to the classrooms in search of further knowledge. Those who are seeking the ultimate in education today, need no urging. It is those who are lured by the high pay of industry, who are content to sacrifice the pursuit of knowledge on the altar of the pay check, whom we urge to re-consider their intentions, to drop out of school, and to put Practical hails of learning, get from our schools the absolute maximum in knowledge. Twenty years from now they will rejoice in the wise decision, made when education may have seemed irrevelent.

ONE MEMBER of the House of Commons has accused another member of being a demagogue. It would be very interesting to know how many members of parliament and members of legislatures and city councils are not demagogues.

THE LONG HOT SUMMER

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Midsummer Madness

OTTAWA — Political values are out of joint this hectic summer in the Capital and one can be excused for not being able to tell the players from with a program.

The Conservative high command, for example, sent a personal letter to the Liberal Minister of National Revenue asking for contributions to Tory funds.

The need of an organization called Underprivileged Youth a milk surplus of beef blood onto the floor of the House of Commons t dramatize what he considers to be a case of injustice to another sum.

And as the flag crisis rolled on towards summer's end, it was sometimes difficult to tell who was Prime Minister — Mr. Pearson or Mr. Diefenbaker.

The first two incidents are probably not very significant.

The letter appealing for party funds, sent out to Senator McCutcheon, was sent to Revenue Minister Benson's former business firm in Kingston.

Somebody in the Tory office didn't realize that the E. J. Benson in the address was the same Benson who is now 71 letter of National Revenue.

The c t se of the blood bomb in the House of Commons was not pretty. It was a shocking, unprecedented incident. Young David Cowlishaw, English-born former journalist, was arrested and it quickly became a matter for the courts.

The confusion about who is actually setting policy for Canada however is much more serious.

Neither Mr. Pearson nor Mr. Diefenbaker is acting an appropriate role in the flag issue.

Mr. Pearson has gone soft, even mushy, on his original proposal to present a distinctive Canadian flag design as a question of principle. Apparently it is no longer a question of principle.

Mr. Diefenbaker, while accepting invitations to private meetings with other leaders to find a solution to the flag deadlock, apparently has stubbornly refused every concession plan.

To the distress of those who favor a new flag and who admire strong leadership, Mr. Pearson has buckled under at the first signs of real opposition. His offer of a free vote on the flag, and a commitment to stay with three issues on the committee and the subsequent debate in the House, could mean the end of his triple maple leaf flag. Only a few months ago the Government, in Mr. Pearson's own words, was ready to stand or fall on that flag. Now pressured, by, if a committee recommended say other kind of flag, the Government would be prepared to accept it.

For those who admire an accommodating Prime Minister, one who can negotiate with the other fellow's view and tries to synthesize conflicting opinion, then Mr. Pearson has been doing a good job. This diplomatic approach which is second nature to Mr. Pearson, has been used with some success in Federal-Provincial relations. It failed however in negotiating on the flag, and the major reason for failure is opposite him in Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker, of course, favors retention of the Red Ensign, and will do anything in his power to defeat the Government's flag proposal.

It matters not that the Government proposal could win a majority in the House of Commons on a free vote or any other kind of vote.

Mr. Diefenbaker and his Conservatives can prevent any vote from being taken, by simply continuing to talk, and that is exactly what they have been doing.

Mr. Pearson called a series of private meetings with other party leaders to try to break the flag deadlock. He knew it on the authority of the three minor party leaders that the Prime Minister's stalinoi was frank, conciliatory and generous.

A clue to Mr. Diefenbaker's attitude was provided by himself even before the meetings were held. He told a Conservatives meeting held in Brockville, Ontario, that the Prime Minister was calling the meetings because he was looking for an escape route on the flag.

It then seemed to be Mr. Diefenbaker's whole purpose to beach any possible escape. He did not want any vote on the flag. He did not want any reasonable restrictions on debate. He didn't want any flag except the Red Ensign.

In the private meetings, it seems clear, he was simply trying to find out how far he could push the Prime Minister along the road of retreat.

When the Government accepted willingness to accept a single maple leaf design, with the Red Ensign instead of the Union Jack as the Commonwealth flag, Mr. Diefenbaker demurred.

When the Government and it could agree to a committee study (which the Conservatives had opposed) provided reasonable time limits were imposed, Mr. Diefenbaker again demurred.

It became apparent to Mr. Pearson then what should have been apparent long ago, that Mr. Diefenbaker would settle for nothing less than complete postponement or abandonment of the Government flag proposal.

Given this situation, the only honorable course for the Government is to fight it out, even to the point of an election. Mr. Pearson is Prime Minister, not Mr. Diefenbaker. If anyone is to choose a flag, it should be a majority of Parliament, and not an opposition of 95 members in the House of Commons.

Royal Winter Fair Exhibits!

Breeders, planning to exhibit horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle or sheep at the Toronto Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, must have their nominations in the Alberta Department of Agriculture by September 10th.

The Department of Agriculture is again assisting livestock breeders to exhibit at the Royal Winter Fair. Selections of exhibits will be made by personnel appointed by the provincial breed associations under the direction of the Alberta Livestock Board. The work of the selectors and assembly of the shipment will be co-ordinated by the provincial Livestock Branch.

Nominations should be sent to W. C. Gordon, Livestock Supervisor, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Legislature Buildings, Edmonton.

1964 Spring Bull Sale Results

Almost 3500 bulls brought a gross return of over 1.3 million dollars at this year's annual spring sales.

W. C. Gordon, Livestock Supervisor with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, reports that the 2,450 Hereford bulls averaged $563, 362 Angus bulls averaged $490 and 344 Shorthorn bulls averaged $422. Herefords 1965, Angus $502 and Shorthorns $421.

The Alberta Department of Agriculture Cattle Improvement Policy applied to the 29 Contributor Sales. Well over a third of the Facts For The Farmer

Animals deficient in salt or other minerals eat poisonous plants more readily than animals not deficient in minerals.

Remember, the allowable moisture content for "dry" grades of Canadian spring wheat is now 14 instead of 14.5 percent.

The new regulation, which came into effect with the 1964-65 crop year, was announced earlier this summer by the board of Grain the Canadian Wheat Board.

Farm Machinery Test Reports

Agricultural Machinery Administered by farmers planning to buy a new piece of equipment but they can be even more valuable to those who already own the machinery.

In making this statement, Dennis Darby, Alberta's Assistant Extension Engineer, pointed out that a thorough knowledge of the many operating hints and instructions can greatly improve the performance of a machine. The speed of a weather canvas, for example, can be adjusted to change the swath pattern to suit crop conditions. Combine performance can often be improved by making adjustments recommended as a results of A.M.A. tests.

Several new A.M.A. combine and swather tests reports are now available at the Information Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture. They are Test number 1962 — Massey Ferguson MF 34 S.P. Swather; Test number 1963 — Cockshutt "402" Swather; Test 1963 — Massey Ferguson 300 Self-Propelled Combine; Test number 1962 — Cockshutt — "2-431" Self-Propelled Combine; Test number 2162 — McCoy — Senn Grain Pickup.

next best thing to a money tree

...an ENGRO enriched crop!

ENGRO

Esso

For heavy crop yield, use ENGRO high analysis fertilizers

Profit-proved! Indeed! After paying for the fertilizer, new Rumex corn increases wheat profits by $1,692 per half section and raises crop yield by 1½ bags per acre. These remarkable figures are the result of actual tests. Money tree! Who needs it with Rumex around?

Rumex is a custom-formulated fertilizer. That means it is blended substantially and specifically for your farming area, to suit the conditions you encounter. It is designed to build up chemical soil content to normal yield. Engro is evenly granulated to flow easily for uniform seeding . . . there's no dust, no caking. The Rumex team, plus the profits when it counts—at harvest time.

SHOWER HELD FOR MISS NAOMI McGOWAN

KILLAM — About 60 ladies gathered in the lower auditorium of the Killam Pentecostal Church in honor of Miss Naomi McGowan. Mrs. Roy Sorensen led the program which consisted of a duet by Doris and Margaret Wessel, a solo by Sharon Holmstrom, and a piano solo by Arlene Wasko. A contest and reading were also given. Mrs. Arden Lewis presented the gifts. The bride-to-be was assisted in opening the gifts by her sister, Miss Lilac McGowan, and Mrs. Ed Schultz of Forestburg, sister of the groom. Nacos graciously thanked the ladies after which a lovely lunch was served.

THE COTTAGE FALLACY

Occasionally, I think how pleasant it would be to have a summer cottage. Just a cozy little place, on a lake, where a fellow could get away from it all, do a little quiet fishing and thinking. A spot to go on those long, lovely fall weekends, as well.

Fortunately, this manifestation of madness is brief. My well-developed sense of reality revives, and I breathe a little silent thanks that I have not been hooked.

A summer cottage, thirty years ago, was a joy to the heart a balm to the nerves, a refuge from pain-driven, a source of spiritual rejuvenation.

Today it is almost guaranteed as an ulcer-maker, a nerve-wrecker, a spirit-smasher. It is an albatross around the neck of its owner, who winds up each season looking and feeling about as spry as the Ancient Mariner.

First, and perhaps worst, there is the sheer, shocking expense of the thing. A man could keep three mistresses established in mink for what a cottage costs him.

Thirty years ago, you bought a lot from a farmer, who thought you were out of your mind, for $80. You had a local carpenter whack up a cottage for about $400. For another $25, you picked up a stove, some beds and a few other odds and ends of furniture, at auction sales. And you were in business.

Today you fork over about $1800 for a lot, erect a modest cottage for another $3500. And you're just beginning. It costs a year's salary to outfit the place. Then there's a well to dig, plumbing and hydro to install, and a boat to buy that is bigger than that of the guy next door.

In the old days, a man could keep his family in dignified comfort at the cottage for about ten bucks a week. That, gentle reader, is eighty dollars for the whole summer. They got their fast in the bush. They bought vegetables and milk, chickens and eggs, from the local farmer at prices that make one weep with rage today. Once a week, the family went into town and loaded up with grub, coal-oil for the lamps, and a round of ice-cream cones, for about eight dollars.

In those enlightened 1960's, keeping the family at the cottage is like watching blood pour out of an open wound. There's wood to buy for the fireplace, and gasoline for the boats, and hydro bills and taxes and repairs to the plumbing system. And there's the thrice-weekly sweep on the supermarket and boom online, to the tune of about thirty dollars a swoop.

But it's not only the financial aspect that appalls me. It's the communications and transportation program that makes a cottage owner go around all summer with a severe facial twitch.

In the good old days, a man drove his family a hundred miles to the cottage and left them there until Labour Day. He didn't see or hear about them for eight weeks. Those were, indeed, the golden days.

Nowadays, the poor guy has had a couple of long-distance calls telling him that the toilet is leaking and the kids have pink eye and his wife has run out of money because she had quite a repair bill on the Volks after backing it into the boat trailer.

Then he's expected to drive a hundred miles Friday night in traffic that would make a bishop blaspheme. He arrives just before dark, to find that the pump has broken down, the kids have wrecked up the boat, the roof has drowned but has been revived by artificial desperation, and the next-door neighbours, who never know enough to go home, have been invited in for a drink.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. Blanche Horinek who passed away on September 4th, 1962.
You left us suddenly,
Your last thoughts unknown,
But you left us with memories
We are proud to own.

He did what He thought best,
He put His arms around you
And whispered "Come and Rest."
Ever remembered and sadly missed by — The Family. 17 1 p

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Boy William Hobson who passed away four years to-day, September 6th, 1960.
There is a road called sweet remembrance
Where thoughts and wishes meet.
We take that road in thoughts to-day,
To a loved one we cannot meet.
Sometimes a note of an old fashioned song,
Brings back a memory of you dear Boy,
Sometimes a flower as we pass along,
Or a sky of azure blue.
For memories are like threads of gold
They never tarnish, nor do they grow old.
Always remembered and sadly missed by your loving Mother and Sisters. — Lorna

How Long Did It Take To Court Your Wife?

Did you just happen to see her, walk up to her, ask her to marry you and call in the minister . . . right on the spot —

PERHAPS NOT . . . it probably took a lot of calls, and trips, movies, flowers, candies, and a lot of putting-your-best-foot forward tactics. You had to "sell" yourself. She had to know all about you!

IT'S THE SAME WITH ADVERTISING of time . . . you've got to win their confidence . . . you can't "woo" customers with one Ad . . . you've got to "Call on Them" over a period and be convincing.

Linda Duffield Married At St. Mark's Anglican

HARDISTY — St. Mark's Anglican Church in Hardisty was the scene of a double ring ceremony when Linda Ernestine, youngest daughter of Mrs. Edna Duffield of Lougheed became the bride of Harvey James, second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Dreyer of Hardisty. The Rev. Canon Crawley of Viking officiating.

Given in marriage by a friend of the bride's, Mr. Elwood Smith, the bride wore a floor length gown of lace over white satin. Her tiered veil was held in place by small white flowers. Her bouquet was of red roses and white stramium with red bear bush.

Little Valerie Meland, niece of the groom, was flower girl, wearing a yellow nylon dress with headpiece to match. She carried a miniature basket of flowers.

The groom's attendant was his brother Douglas Dreyer. Guests were ushered to their seats by Ray Dreyer, brother of the groom and Hugo Meland, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Nettie Johnson played the wedding march, and during the signing of the register and prayer, Mrs. Doris Powell sang "Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love".

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Duffield chose a three piece suit of blue linen rayon with white accessories and her corsage was pink roses.

The mother of the groom chose a two piece dress of pale pink linen, her corsage was yellow roses.

A reception for about 50 guests was held in the Parish Hall, which was very beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers and white bells. The bride's table was centerpieced with a three-tiered cake, made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Horace Cochaen. St. Mark's W. A. did the catering.

Grace was said by Rev. Canon Crawley. Mr. Ken Dreyer, brother of the groom was M. C. Mr. Keith proposed the toast to the bride, which was responded by the groom. Rev. Canon Crawely recited a poem special for the bridal couple.

Miss Lynn Dreyer niece of the groom as in charge of the guest book. After cutting of the cake the gifts were opened by the bridal couple.

Telegrams were taken by Mr. Don Wilder.

Open house followed from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. at the bride's parents' home. A dance was held in the Lougheed Community Hall.

The bride chose for travelling, a navy blue ensemble with three-quarter length coat over matching sheath dress with pink accessories for their honeymoon to Vancouver and other points west. On return they will reside south of Hardisty.

Out of town guests were Mrs. W. R. Drever of New Norsemeister, B. C., grandmother of the groom. Mrs. Idis Regers of Victoria, B.C. grandmother of the groom. Mrs. Elean Westhoff of Edmonton, grandmother of the bride, Miss Mary Traid of New Westminster, B. C., great aunt of the groom, Mr. John Benger of Unity, Saskatchewan and Mrs. Lena Wayman of Lougheed, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Meland and girls of Camrose.

A Few Flakes!

(By Postie)

Wonder of wonders, I groped my way back to this old pecking machine after a very long absence, it seemed that with preparations for the Stampede and golf activities, the spring slipped away, and before I realized it, holidays were here, this was followed by the Penoy holidays, so the next thing I knew it was early fall again, oh me, such is life.

I would like to take this opportunity of expressing my thanks to Nancy Finds for the very fine relief job turned in during my absence, and also to my wife for her work during my holidays, it must be a nice change to have some pleasant service for the better part of two months while Uncle Grumbly is on holidays and switched shift during Jim's holiday, oh well, all good things must come to an end, so I guess you'll have to put up with it for another 11 months or so.

Speaking of holidays, you mothers will soon get a little breath, as the deductables will be back at their three R's, and they will be back in the hounds for another ten months, just one old merry-go-round isn't it. I haven't got a list of the Hardisty teaching staff, but when Gerry gives me one, I'll have it published, so at last you will know who is looking after the little dears for the ensuing term.

Had a very pleasant surprise this month when an old school chum looked me up. I hadn't seen him in 12 years, his name, George Smith better known as 'sonny' in his boyhood days. He is a son of the late Ed Smith, and a brother to Pete who worked on the C.P.R. here some years ago. The strange part about it is that he has been at Vernon all these years, and I'm out there in the average of every other year at least, and never ran into him.

Other former Hardisty residents visiting recently are: Alex Reeves; Mrs. Orland Noliboy; Floyd Jarvis; the Henry Gallaways; Bernard Cavanagh and family; and scores of others. It seems that each year finds more people on the go. Mrs. Trupp advises that she had a record summer for visitors at her Hardisty residence. Speaking of former Hardisty residents brings to mind a letter received recently from Capt. Geo. Youmaniff. He wrote asking that his mother passed away. Some of you readers will recall having met his parents when they visited him while he was at St. Mark's. Our sympathy is extended to George and his family.

It would be a strange column these days if Postie didn't have something to say about golf. Most of what I would like to say about the game would be unprintable, but there is one point I would like to bring to the attention of Penn readers who are golfers in this area. We have been keeping a check on visiting golfers and we are pleased to see them using the course, but we find, it must be very hard to read the sign which requests green fees of $2.00. I would like to point out that this means 50c per day per person, and several checks show that sometimes four or five golfers will pinch from $1.25 to $2.00, and we can not overemphasize 50 percent of the amount we should be getting from the visitors. I would further point out that the course has no connection with the lake, it is not a municipal club, and if you expect us to keep it in playing condition, and make further improvements, your financial support is required. I feel so high as $2.00 per day this summer at some courses, that they were lovely courses, but they were not large centres with large populations, and they have found that operating costs are on the rise always. I say, again, we welcome visitors, but how about walking up to that for-sa and dropping in your green fees before you tee off. We may have to charg you on the fairways of the situation doesn't improve. If any of you feel that you would like to ease the situation, just drop your donation to our club secretary: Cam Clanfield. Thanks, and here's to better golfing.

YOUTH ALLOWANCES

IMPORTANT NOTICE FOR PARENTS

At the end of September the first payments will be made under the Youth Allowances Act recently passed by Parliament. If you have a child who is 16 or 17 years of age, is maintained by you, and is either in full-time attendance at school or university, or is unable to attend by reason of physical or mental infirmity, you may be eligible for a monthly allowance of $10.

THIS ALLOWANCE MUST BE APPLIED FOR —IT WILL NOT BE SENT AUTOMATICALLY

During August application forms were sent to the parents of children already 16 or 17, or who would be 16 before September. If you have a child who meets the above requirements, and for any reason an application has not reached you, you can obtain one by writing to the Regional Director of Family Allowances in your provincial capital.

The applications should be returned as soon as possible, in order to ensure prompt receipt of the first payment.

Harry Hays Reports

OTTAWA— Every time I read that someone has been saying and asking about the threat to individual freedom from government action to improve the social welfare or social security or social justice — whatever you prefer to call it — I can't help but wonder just how closely that someone really understands the meaning of freedom.

I'm afraid I can't agree with those who argue that in our modern personnel freedom today than we used to be. Government is trying in many ways we will automatically find the solution that some people think is eluding us today.

I think a Government has a great responsibility to preserve and protect the greatest of care in the social justice field, it must be very careful not to over-extend the capacity and resources of the nation.

But with that consideration recognized as vital, I think the improvements our citizens enjoy today in the field of social justice have enhanced rather than detracted from the personal freedoms of every Canadian. Not even the government can guarantee a taxpayer revelling life, but reasonable men and women, using democratic self-government as their instruments, can surely co-operate to relieve themselves of other worries without running any risk whatever of losing their individual freedoms.

These thoughts occurred to me as I considered our Government's White Paper on the Canada Pension Plan, which we hope to see separated by Parliament before too much longer.

The past I know best is my own, and if it has proven anything to me it's that a lot of the ways of the past were wrong and needed changing very badly.

I don't think it did very much for individual freedom, for example, to have thousands of men out of work and on relief during the Great Depression. I think the fact most unemployed persons today can collect enough to live on, at least, through unemployment insurance, has improved the state of Canadian freedom.

I don't think having to worry about paying for hospital care for illnesses that strike with absolutely no recognition either of the principle of equality does much for personal freedom, either. But hospital insurance has freed hundreds of Canadians from at least this part of the financial aspect of their health worries.

Now we're ready to move with another major social justice measure, the Canada Pension Plan, and I think this is going to provide another reinforcement of individual freedom in this country — besides all the other many tangible considerations about the plan.

By being portable from one province to any other province, the pension plan will give our workers greater freedom to take advantage of new job opportunities. It will also free them from the worry of at least a basic existence in their old age.

As the pension White Paper points out, the government plan "is to establish a contributory pension plan ensuring that, as soon as is possible in a fair and practical way, all Canadians will be able to look forward to retiring in security and with dignity."

Johanson-Petersen Vows

SEDGEWICK — Bethania Lutheran Church, Sedgewick, was the scene of a lovely wedding on the afternoon of Saturday, July 4th, 1964, when Godrun Krista Petersen, daughter of Mr. Knud Petersen and the late Mrs. Petersen, became the bride of Mr. Percy Alfred Johansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kris Johansen of Hanbve. Before an altar decorated with pink and white peonies, the double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. C. Magee of Calgary.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a full length gown of white organza over taffeta, styled with long sleeves, bateau neckline trimmed with seed pearls & sequins, and finished with appliqued flower trim. Her matching chapel length veil was held in place by a crown of satin roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchid, deep pink roses, stephanotis & fern. Her only jewelry was a matching pearl necklet.

The bride's nieces, Kathy Petersen of Sedgewick and Karen Petersen of Calgary, flowergirls, were identical dresses of white flowered nylon tiers over pale blue taffeta with pink sashes and matching crowns. They carried baskets of white carnations and ferns.

Attending the groom were Mr. Roy Petersen, the bride's brother of Fort St. John B.C. and Mr. Douglas Gibson, brother-in-law of the groom, of Burnaby, B.C. Ushering the guests were Mr. Jack Petersen, brother of the bride, of Sedgewick, and Mr. Kai Berg, of Outlook, Sask. brother in law of the groom. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Rod Jasper. During the ceremony Mrs. Morris Sandvik, of Peace Rapids, B.C. sang "A Wedding Prayer" and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Sandvik and Mrs. Jessop each sang a duet "O Perfect Love".

For mother's wedding the mother of the bride chose a gold lace two piece dress with a pink accessories, and corsage of pink gardenias.

A reception was held in the church parlor where a delicious banquet was served by the blue and white decorations with wedding bells formed a lovely background for the bride's table. Such was centered with a 3 tiered wedding cake decorated by Mrs. H. Myrtgaard, flanked by miniatures Mr. & Mrs. Johansen and Mr. & Mrs. Petersen pictured the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Mr. D. Petersen played a solo, and Mrs. Jessop, entertained, and Rev. and Mrs. C. Magee sang a duet. Remarks by Miss Doris Haylock, Mr. Joe Orsto and Mr. Douglas Gibson were exchanged. Mrs. Marion Petersen was in charge of the guest book. An open house at the Karl Petersen home followed the reception.

PICKLING IS HALF IMAGINATION

Making food less perishable by pickling, spicing, or preserving is an ancient and honorable art. You will realize much satisfaction when you look upon shelves of colourful jars filled with delicious, relished and spiced fruits that have been put up with your own love and care. Also pickling brings different flavours that you cannot get in fresh foods. Here is a place for you to use your imagination and try your hand at concocting exciting new tastes. Most of the basic recipes can be done with many variations.

There are two secrets that you should follow:

1. Make only a few jars at a time, when each fruit and vegetable is at its best.

2. Experiment with seasonings and other taste ingredients that are still new to you.

SECRETS TO SUCCESS:

— Select vegetables and fruits that are fresh, firm and crisp.

— When you are in the city visit Eatons, Greek, Chinese and other foreign groceries for new and peppers, unusual spices, and other finds.

— Preferably buy small glass jars and sterilize before using.

— Use kitchen scissors to chop some soft ingredients; you'll find it easier to get them fine.

— Fruits with high acid content such as plums, apples, and peaches should be dropped into cold saline solution as they are cut.

— Use enamel, porcelain or stainless steel utensils for pickling. Use wooden spoons for stirring.

— Any grease in pickle brine will cause the pickles to spoil. If scum rises to the top, remove carefully.

— Use canning pickling spices. The vinegar of 30 years ago was weaker than today's vinegar, so old-time recipes probably call for more vinegar than is required for best results.

— Follow the recipes within reason, but taste the pickles before turning them into jars - they may need a little more salt, sugar or spice to please your particular taste.

— Do not try to make any adjustments to a recipe the first time you try it. Shriveled pickles are their unattractiveness to the use of too strong a salt or sugar or vinegar solution. On the other hand, too weak a brine may cause some pickles to spoil. Garlic may be added or deleted from any recipe.

— Keep the vegetables below the brine. If exposed to the air the vegetables become soft or slippery.

BASIC INGREDIENTS FOR PICKLING:

Salt: Use pure granulated salt. Do not use free-flowing or iodized table salt, for the chemicals added to these salts interfere with the brining and pickling processes.

Vinegar: Use good quality vinegar, full strength. Cider vinegar is preferred for pickling because of its special flavour, but white vinegar should be used to preserve the natural light colour of such vegetables as cauliflower and onions.

Sugar: It is best to use granulated white sugar unless the recipe specifies brown. Honey or corn syrup may replace from one-third to one-half the amount of sugar called for in any recipe for sweet pickles.

Spices: For full flavour, use spices of the very best quality. Spices should be renewed each year, for unless last year's spices were stored in air-tight containers much of the flavour will have dissipated. Unless the recipe specifies the use of ground spices, use whole spices, and tie them in a cheesecloth bag. The bag should be large enough to allow the pickling liquid to flow freely through the spices. Discard the bag before packing the pickles in jars.

Remember that the secret of success with pickles is to make only a small amount at a time, when fruits and vegetables are at their best. Do some pickling now and brighten up your menus during the winter.

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Castles, Hardisty, Alberta)

(Nellie McClung)

After two months of being just plain LADY, I figured it is about time I got back to the old typewriter.

However, my mind hasn't been exactly idle during this time; I have been mulling over the idea of putting down on paper some of my memories of a couple of famous people whom I have had the privilege to know personally.

Wherever I think of famous people, the first one to come to my mind is Mrs. Nellie McClung, now deceased. I too have read of you have read some, if not most of her books: "Sowing Seeds in Danny", "Purple Springs", "The Second Chance", "Clearing In The West", "The Black Creek Shopping House", etc., etc., just to name a few.

She was an ardent advocate of Temperance, as well as an extremely strong believer in "Women's Rights". And to the spreading of these beliefs throughout the country, she put forth every effort, spending not only hours and days travelling to other towns and rural settlements, to organize her theories, but spent a great deal of her money in doing so.

As my Mother was of the same mind along those lines, and lived in a town not far from where Mrs. McClung lived at that time, it wasn't surprising that they eventually heard of one another and their relentless campaign against, ESPECIALLY, young people not smoking and drinking, also their relentless fight for "Equality for Women". Thus was formed a life-long friendship, that lasted throughout the good years and bad, through war times and peace, through sorrow, and through the joy of seeing some of their dreams come true.

The first time I saw and heard Nellie McClung, alias" I was then a girl in my teens, I became so enthralled, so deeply interested in the personality of her and in presenting her subject that she noticed how attentive I was at those meetings which were being held in our town. (Incidentally, I might add, that whenever she came to our town, and that was quite often, she always stayed at our home, then I became really acquainted with her.)

At that time, my Mother was Provincial President of the W.C.T.U., and Mrs. McClung was their vice, therefore the two women formed a real team of relentless fighters for what they thought and knew was right.

Imagine my surprise, and I might add, pleasure, when one morning at the breakfast table, Mrs. McClung asked me if I would like to accompany her to another town, (Portage La Prairie) about two miles from my home town, and to help her to conduct a special meeting in honor for young people. Of course I went, gladly.

I shall always remember one meeting in particular, held in a school house after dusk, for the youngsters from 8 to 15 years of age. She had me procure two glass tumblers about half full of clear cold water, putting them on the table in front of her, where all could see.

When quiet finally reigned and she had their attention, Mrs. McClung opened her talk by asking if any of those boys or girls ever smoked cigarettes. Of course no hands went up.

She continued; "See those two tumblers of water? Each one represents a young boy or girl when they start out in life; their bodies and minds are as clear and clean as this water.

Then along came the Tempter, some older person thinking it smart to get a pure young boy or girl to take the first cigarette or the first drink of alcoholic beverage. So, we shall drop a few grains of sand in one glass. It isn't much, but it does cloud up that clean water. Soon he, (or she) tries another smoke or drink, so goes another few sand. As he, (or she) continues to indulge, that glass of water gets cloudy, the water has become so sullied, so dirty, it isn't fit for anybody but to throw out. Compare it with this other tumbler, the one who wouldn't let anyone tempt him to smoke or drink. Which one would you rather be?"

A very simple illustration, but I, for one, never forgot it.

Mrs. McClung had the gift of holding her audience spell-bound on any and all subjects on which she chose to speak. Her talks had just enough humor threaded throughout, that, while she drove home the truth of her conviction as she saw it, she kept the people "Virtually on the edge of their seats", with witticisms. A rare gift, it is true, and a gift that many of our speakers are not blest with it.

Who, in all this world, was more adept in describing Nature in all its changes, of the Western sun rises and sunsets, flowers and birds (even the lowly sea-gulls have redeeming features in her eyes.) She can make you see Manitoba as it was just a heap of rocks, ("The Sleeping Giant" first book), "Pilot Island" (Vancouver) but to her, this was what she saw. (Quote) "Above all the activity and turmoil, serene and unmoved, the Sleeping Beauty lies, dreaming the ravishers away, with a growing forest in her hair and a million tons of rock on her cold breast". (Unquote) Can't you just see those words painting them on the screen of your mind? And her description is really superb.

When, but Mrs. McClung, can make you long, on cold winter night, for the "Fireplace in the cozy living room, giving out its glow, a bowl of apples close by, and a good book", Or, "Summer you are a field of grain flowing gently as the summer breezes. Planting the lonely potato or onion, round thrilling and interesting. Also, containing that vegetable of FEAR, (which evidently was one of Mrs. McClung's favorite vegetables), she says, "Like most people who have lived on the Prairies, I have sentimental feelings for the spud. You get by their sun way, they do not suppress much the soil, they ENRICH it". The Pen is like a boarder who not only pays his own way, but does the family washing and mends the roof", rather "far-fetched" possibly, but Mrs. McClung was never at a loss for words, in describing any or everything. She was nothing, if not original.

We hope to tell more of this interesting Author's life in next week's edition of this paper.

TV Talk

This seems to be the week-end for going behind the bandwidth and into the private lives of famous athletes. No less than three CBC-TV programs this week-end give us the behind the scenes view of strong men who earn their very good livelihoods by playing games.

Saturday, September 5th at 1:30 p.m. ET/30 presents "Diary of Russ Jackson," a day in the life of the exceptional young quarterback of the Ottawa Rough-riders, who in 1963 was named to the established all-star CFL player in Canada.

On WORLD OF SPORT, Sunday, Sept. 6th at 2:00 Hal Kelly takes viewers on a film visit to an "Nasty Ella Weir, whose father and uncle Mr. Harper, operated a general store in Killam in the early 1900's. Ella was in her early teens when the family left for Sarnia but she still remembers and inquired about the F. S. Nichols, Cousens, Harpers, Rasburys and many early settlers. BAPTIST — UNITED VACATION SCHOOL

MAKING TIME COUNT FOR CHRIST was the theme for the 1964 Daily Vacation Bible School sponsored by the United and Baptist Churches of Killam. The interdenominational lessons used were published by Gospel Light Press. Each pupil was provided with his own workbook or activity book. All departments, except the Teens did handicraft.

Mrs. J. Kvill was in charge of the nursery department with 21 boys and girls enrolled; Mrs. H. Money of the Beginners with 26 enrolled; Miss Sandra Wylie of the primaries with 48 enrolled; Mrs. K. Penner of the Juniors with 27 enrolled. The new feature was a Teen Class with Mr. Claude Gelzene as teacher. 17 pupils were enrolled. Total enrollment was 140. Helpers for each teacher were provided by the two churches. The daily missionary offerings were sent to the Children's Home at Gwynne, Alberta.

The closing program was well attended by parents and friends. An offering of $42.74 was received toward the school expenses. The total cost of supplies and materials for the school being $197.26; the sponsoring churches paying the balance.

SCHOOL STARTS WITH A SPLASH — The rather damp scene was on the first day of school and the fifth day of the rain that has been holding up harvest since August 26th. The thing that struck us was the amount of four wheeled transportation being used by today's High School students. But their parents got there differently.

Kinsmen Install New Executive

SEDGEWICK — The Kinsmen Club of Sedgewick held their first meeting of the new year last Wednesday evening at which time the new executive was installed.

The 43rd Annual National Convention of the Association of Kinsmen Clubs will take place in Banff, Alberta on September 9th to 12th. President Tom Sparrow of the Kinsmen Club of Sedgewick announced that the following local members will be attending the convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sparrow; Mr. and Mrs. Gwen McPherson; Mr. and Mrs. Gordy Petersen; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tindel; Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Bouchard.

This Convention will feature a Western Rodeo, chuckwagon breakfasts, Klondike features and the largest barbecue ever held in Banff. A varied program has also been planned for the ladies attending the Convention with their husbands highlighted by a gondola ride to the top of Sulphur Mountain for a luncheon.

There will be representatives from the United States Active 20-30 Clubs, from the Round Tables Association of Europe and other World Council members.

The World Council of Young Men's Service Clubs is a world wide group of autonomous service organizations of which the Kinsmen Association is a member.

The formal ending of the Convention will be a Banquet held in honor of the retiring National President, Keith Adams of Calgary, in the beautiful Banff Springs Hotel.

SHOWER HELD FOR MISS ELEANOR MICIAK
(By Delores Dolans)

Mrs. Rose Lamorrie, Helen Shakowski and Marlene Spahn were hostesses at the shower held in the Elks' Hall Dining Room on Monday, August 24th for Eleanor Miciak, who married on August 29th. Seated at the table with the bride-to-be, were her mother, Mrs. Helen Miciak of Edmonton and here three bridesmaids, Georgina Miciak of Camrose, Elizabeth, Koniek and Marlene Spahn.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of games. Eleanor Lamorrie wheeled in a cart loaded with gifts. In a few wall chosen words Eleanor thanked everyone for the lovely gifts. At the close of the evening a delicious lunch was served.

EDITORS TO MEET

Weekly newspaper publishers and editors from throughout the province will meet in Edmonton's Macdonald Hotel Friday and Saturday, September 11 and 12, for the 61st annual convention of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association.

Delegates from more than 80 Alberta weeklies, including the Community Press, are expected according to association president Dick Hawit of the Stanton News. They will discuss the latest trends in printing, publishing and advertising.

Feature speakers will include Harry E. Strom, Alberta's Minister of Agriculture; Bruce F. Wilson, president of Canadian Western Gas Co. Ltd. and Northwestern Utilities Ltd., Kent Stevenson on photography, Ken Griffiths on offset and letterpress printing and Bill Tribe of Toronto, managing director of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton will officially open the convention at 9:30 a.m. September 11.

Thirty Alberta MLA's recently returned from a 900 mile tour along 425 of the 600-mile-long Alberta Forestry Trunk Road. The road, which runs from Goodwin, east of Grande Prairie, to Coleman, was started in 1949 and is being completed this year. A joint Federal-Provincial project, it provides easier access to forest fires, acts as a fire guard, provides access to timber operations and is a good alternate route for the more adventuresome tourist. On the agenda for the M. LA's were the water bombing display at Edson, a visit to the Forestry training School at Hinton, a demonstration of helicopter use in fire fighting, a visit to the Kananaskis Experimental Station and a brief meeting with the Eastern Rockies Forest Conservation Board at the Highwood Ranger Station. The group were also entertained by several Chambers of Commerce along the route.

MLA's taking part in the three-day tour were: Hon A. O. Aalberg, Provincial Treasurer (Alexandra); Hon A. J. Dixon, Speaker (Calgary); Hon. N. A. Wilmore, Minister of Lands and Forests, (Edson); Hon. R. H. McKinnon, Minister of Education (Strathcona-West); A. Aladdin (Athabasca); F. M. Baker (Clover Bar); E. P. Benoit (Okotoks-High River); R. C. Clark (Olds-Didsbury); E. B. Ells (Grouard); C. K. French (Head Hills-Acadia); E. H. Gerhart (Edmonton-North West); J. C. Hillman (Sedgewick); J. Horna (Edmonton-Jasper Place); C. E. Johnston (Calgary-Bowness); C. F. Johnston (Ponoka); R. D. Everyone enjoyed supper at the cafe after. Next meeting will be on Monday, October 26th.

Dayland UCW Presents Bibles To Sunday School
(Delores Dolans)

Twenty-three ladies were present at the U.C.W. meeting Thursday evening. Mrs. George Boggs conducted the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Schroeder. Miss Laura Graham acted as Secretary, replacing Mrs. Spiller who has gone to Camrose to live. Miss Graham was elected to fill the term.

Reports were given by the various committees. The Social Practice committee gave their report of activities since June. They said they would cater to the High School Graduation.

The Devotional was read by Mrs. Wm. Brodie. Mrs. C. Driedger led the study period on India.

A motion was made to purchase 10 Bibles to be presented to Sunday School students leaving primary for Junior classes.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Tomnich, Mrs. Tooling and Miss Graham.

A. P. Crop Report

LOCAL — Cutting has been started at most districts and had become fairly general until stopped by rain. Only a very small amount of combining has been done. In some areas the rain was very heavy and this will no doubt result in some damage to swathed grain.

GENERAL — Some precipitation occurred in all parts of Alberta during the past week, ranging from light showers in the south to heavy rain in some areas of the north. Harvesting had been well under way in south-central and southeastern areas, and cutting was fairly general in the southern half of the province, but operations have been halted by the rain. In the Peace River District damp shower; weather and wet fields are still preventing the start of harvesting operations. Warm, dry weather is needed in all parts of the province.

Hunters and Guns

A recent near tragedy involving a gun, hunters and a miscue brings to mind the thought that the annual fall game bird season is upon us once again. It seems almost inconsistent to keep on reminding hunters year after year that the handling of guns during the hunting season is a privilege which we may enjoy, it is also a responsibility which we must assume. The shot gun, while a lethal weapon is one which is confined to a very limited distance, and as we are not too concerned with its potential hazard. The .22 rifle on the other hand, despite the attitude of some that it is a toy, is one of the most dangerous guns in use today. Dangerous because it is considered as a small bore gun mostly used by young people. This weapon should be classified in the dangerous category, and should be used with extreme caution. It has killing power over a long distance, and should never be fired without knowledge of what lies in the path of the bullet.

Another issue that will no doubt come up again this season, is the farmer-hunter rentions. Farmers, as anyone else, are jealous of their property rights, and should not have to tolerate the intrusion of dis-courteous hunters pounding on their land. Permission should be obtained in all instances. Once this has been obtained, the common courtesies of closing gates behind you, making certain that you injure no farm animals, and thanking the farmer for his generosity, will not only be appreciated, but will leave the door open for a return visit.

Let George Do It!

A distinguished foreign visitor, one who has been closely associated with the Communist regeme, and now in exile, recently warned the western world not to be fooled by the soft approach the communist party is now taking in dealing with the west. He warned that all this talk of peaceful co-existence is really a red herring being dragged across the political stage to lull the west into inactivity, while plans proceed to eliminate our way of life by whatever means seems most appropriate.

This corner has always maintained that the two ideologies entertained by west and east cannot survive in peaceful existence, and until one or the other is eliminalted by one means or another, the cold war will be a continual threat to our way of life.

One way to lose the things that we hold most dear, is, as the sage once said, to do nothing about them. Our anxiety to become so invoved in the pursuit of happiness via means of increasing our incomes, leaves us in the position where we have less and less time to consider doing the things so necessary to keep a democracy functioning the way it must to be successful. In other words, we get so wrapped up in our own personal affairs that we are content to sit back and "Let George Do It". This is the point where such a pinkish tinge are willing to step in and take over. If we fail in our obligations these Georges will take over for us. His attitude is something like this:

My name is George:

I'm an all-round handi-man, and I'd like you to feel free to use my services for any and all chores, errands, or duties which you may be too busy to perform. Any time there's something that needs doing and you'd rather not, just let old George do it.

I'll write to your M.P. for you. I'll write your newspaper editor; I'll serve on the school board in your place; I'll do anything you're too tired or too preoccupied to do. With me around you can be as lazy as you like. Or you can just have fun. The more the merrier I always say. My services are available to you for all the tedious, time consuming things you would rather duck doing.

You haven't time to vote? Let George do it! No time for jury duty? I have. There is certainly no need for you to concern yourself with attending meetings. You don't want to accept committee assignments and other responsibilities anyway. Let George attend to it.

Now, you ask, why should you leave important jobs to somebody you never met? Well, that's a reasonable question, so let me put your mind at ease.

First of all, I'm no beginner. Maybe I'm not as famous as Kruschev, but if it hadn't been for me, you'd never have heard of him. And what goes for Mussolini and Stalin and Hitler too. I made those guys. And the big-time racketeers in Canada. You name'em — without me those guys would be nothing.

Why do I want to run errands for you? When I'm the guy who runs all these "big wheels", why do I want to run errands for you? Well don't you see — I get a kick out of electing M.P.'s, even Prime Ministers, and presidents for unions and school boards and counties. I really enjoy doing all these things you used to do before you took up chasing the dollars and the golf balls and things.

Don't feel like you're imposing. I'm glad to be of service. Helping you, I'm really helping myself. How else do you think I was able to take over and run a third of the world already? Because nobody ese wanted to bother. They said, "Let George do it" — so I did it.

Now I'm taking over lots of cities in Canada, and I figure it's just a matter of time until I'll take over this country too. I want to thank you for making it possible.

Remember now. If there is ever any way I can be of help, I'm at your service. You just have fun and don't worry about a thing. I'll do your worrying too.

I'll bill you later.

Youth Allowance Act

The first payments will be made this month under the Youth Allowances Act passed recently by the federal government.

This act provides an allowance of ten dollars a month for children 16 and 17 years old, still in attendance at school or unable to attend school because of physical or mental impairment. It is applicable only in areas where a similar provincial plan is not already in effect.

Application forms were sent in August to parents of children 16 and 17. Anyone whose child fulfills these requirements and did not receive a form may obtain one by writing to the Regional Director of Family Allowances in their provincial capital.

This allowance will not be sent automatically — it must be applied for. Application forms should be completed and returned promptly to avoid delays in receiving the first cheque.

SCHOOL DROPOUTS, who present in Canada a problem of almost frightening proportions, are said to find jobs in Britain without difficulty. There they are given on-the-job training in industry. As in Canada however, Britain stresses the dead-end job expectation of the student who drops out of school before graduation.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Stalled Pension Plan

OTTAWA — Waiting in the wings during the long flag debate, the Canada Pension Plan has been like a starving actor begging for his start rival.

And there has been growing concern, in and out of Parliament, that it won't get the kind of study deserved by a plan with such a big potential effect on Canada's welfare structure and the economy of the Country.

Although this session has been going without a break since February — the longest continuous run in Canada's history — it hasn't an impressive record of performance and it's hard to see an end of time.

Little more than three months remains if the MPs are to be out of the trenches by Christmas, probably not enough time to get final approval for the Pension Plan.

But this isn't so vital as it was before the recent White Paper on Pensions revealed that the first premium collections have been postponed a year and new won't start until January, 1966.

The first Canada pensions will be paid in the centennial year, 1967.

What's more important, in the view of many Quebec people, is that the general parliamentary attention will work against careful answers to the big, basic pension questions such as these:

Can the country afford the Canada Pension Plan? What will it do to the pattern of savings and investment? Is it the most urgent use for the money? What's to be done for the million Canadians already retired and the million more who will retire before the Canada Pension Plan reaches maturity?

The question of cost and economic effect has been raised by the report of the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance which flashed a warning signal that the result of the Pension Plan might be to cut investment funds, increase the power of the Government in the economy and lead to increased reliance on foreign capital.

The Government's answer, given in the recent White Paper, was that there is nothing to worry about — the effects on cost of protection and on investment in Canada will be minimal.

These two viewpoints will probably clash before the Parliamentary Committee while it is studying the Pension Plan once it gets second reading in the House of Commons.

But the Committee study itself — hard to say and detailed — may turn out to be an exercise in futility if the fears recently expressed by New Democrat Stanley Knowles turn out to be correct.

Mr. Knowles pointed out that the present form of the Pension Plan — after three revisions — is the result of long negotiations with provinces especially with Quebec. If the Government decided to change any important feature of the plan now, it would have to go back and negotiate with the provinces all over again. In particular, it would have to persuade Quebec to make the same changes in the separate-but-equal pension plan proposed by that Province.

This means that Parliament won't be debating an ordinary piece of legislation, according to Mr. Knowles. It will be ratifying a treaty. And this means that no material changes can be made. All Parliament can say is yes or no.

There is little doubt that the answer will be "yes" despite the doubts raised by the Banking committee and Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin's call for a look first at the whole question of Government priorities in spending.

No politician in his right mind can be against pensions. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker challenged the Government several times during the flag debate to bring on the Pension Plan and his Conservative party would speed it through the first stages and into committee.

These first stages are where the pension plan is accepted in principle. But students of Parliament have been noting recently that instead of trying to curb spending — the traditional role — opposition now compete with the Government in thinking up ways to spend money.

The Government hasn't settled for Parliamentary approval to go ahead with one aspect of the pension plan — that is to register Canadians for the plan. Already 4.6 million Canadians hold the new social insurance number cards and are thereby registered for the Canada Plan.

This number includes about one million persons who weren't required by law to register. The other 4.5 million employees now signed up were required to do so under the unemployment insurance law, which also makes use of the social insurance numbers.

But another one million Canadians not covered by unemployment insurance haven't applied for a social insurance number and this group presumably includes the hard core of those who will resist the numbers game as long as possible.

CAPITOL HILL CAPSULE

Finance Minister Walter Gordon is wending cautiously into the area where he almost drowned, politically, in 1963 — the area of appointing outside budget advisers. Still smarting from the walloping he got over appointment of three outside advisers on his first budget, he has been careful to announce the appointment of three more well in advance and to make it plain that they'll be paid by the Government and nobody else.

IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN — IT'S YOU!!
(from the Invermere (B.C) Lake Windermere Valley Echo)

The man down the street greeted, "Mo, I didn't go to the meeting. There are too many darn meetings and I'm fed up."

The man in the bloe car complained, "Why doesn't the council do something about those potholes? The streets in this town are a disgrace."

The woman in green had another hour tired of being asked to join things or donate this and that or to go and help with projects. I can't call my soul my own anymore."

Of course there are too many meetings but how else can the wheels of community activity turn?

Certainly, the potholes are bad but the council is not right for fixing them. The council has many problems and that man wouldn't serve on council unless he was paid. He's the first to complain about his taxes though.

Sure there are a lot of organizations and fund-raising campaigns. But they are all worthwhile causes.

And the chairman of too many committees would wonder if he was being left on the shelf if he wasn't asked to serve with his wide knowledge of the matter concerned.

Of course we all get fed up sometimes — another tax notice, another committee, another meeting, another donation . . .

Brother — there's no end to it! But it's your town isn't it? If it doesn't matter whether it is Canal Flat, Edgewater, Invermere or Athalmer, Brisco, Radium or Windermere. You live there. It's your town and your town is the way you make it.

Darn this town, you say. They don't do this and won't do that. It's a heck of a place to live!

But, Brother, let the other fellow say that! Let the other one of the valley say your town is a hole in the wall, that the people are unfriendly or unco-operative or just plain ornery and brother they've had it.

Remember this — your town is just a shell; just a framework for the spirit within. Your town is its people — you and your neighbors.

It isn't your town . . . it's you!

30 YEARS AGO
(From the Press of Sept. 18, 1924)

The Daysland Council voted at their regular meeting to accept the bid of Anderson Ltd. for gravelling the streets.

The Sterling Mutual Telephone Co. at Strome was recently organized. This comprises lines two and eight. Instruments will be installed this week.

Threshing is now quite general in the Longheed district. Several machines started at the first of the week.

Local residents were surprised this morning to find the ground a white blanket of snow. Winter is coming, and the time for filling coal bins is at hand.

Average yield this year will be about 35 bushels of wheat per acre, oats 40 and barley 30. Quite severe damage was done by frosts. Bulk of wheat will likely grade No. 3.

20 YEARS AGO
(From the Press of Sept. 7, 1944)

The Rev. and Mrs. N. Lagfred of Cowcross arrived at Killam on Thurs. to take over the Pastoral duties of the Killam Pentecostal Assembly.

Mrs. Art Scharman brought an ordinary sized egg into the Press office this week. It contained 4 yolks. A full course meal in one shell.

The gentleman of Loughead turned out in full force on Monday, the purpose being to paint the Community Hall. By all observations they have done a grand job. The painters included, Messrs. Denham, Glass, Hilbeck, Kenny, Godbarson, Bartlet, McCain, Chapman, Crosier and Hall.

The staff of the Killam school for the coming year will consist of Mrs. H. Roberts, Miss M. Carbon, and Mr. E. Bruder.

10 YEARS AGO
(From the Press of Sept. 8, 1954)

The Hardisty IOOF Hall was the scene of a big gathering to bid farewell to the Herb Bricker family.

It was a new one on us seeing the sheeting going on the new Loughead Seed Plant. It was painted as it went up, yet we never saw the painters at work. They give them one cent before nailing on. I'm waiting to see if they take them down for the 2nd coat.

Don McKinnon, Glen Roggenrueh and Norm Denham caught 61 fish averaging 21/4 pounds in Iron Creek last week. Not bad for a place supposedly fished out years ago.

At their first meeting of the fall term, the Hardisty Legion Auxiliary made plans for a picnic to be held on September 12th.

LOANS FOR STUDENTS
Guaranteed by the Government of Canada

Purpose: The purpose of the Canada Student Loans Act is to facilitate bank loans for students who need financial help to continue full-time studies beyond secondary school level at Universities and other educational institutions.

Who can apply: Any Canadian citizen, or anyone resident in Canada for one year who intends to live in Canada after completion of studies, may apply for a loan under the Act. An applicant must be enrolled or intend to enroll as a full-time student at an educational institution approved by provincial authorities and must meet the standards of academic qualification and financial need established by the student loan authority in the Province in which he applies.

Amount of loans: Depending upon individual circumstances and financial need, loans up to $1,000 a year may be made, with a maximum of $5,000 during a student's academic career. The Provincial Authority receiving applications and determining eligibility will issue a certificate to each eligible student stating the maximum amount the student may borrow. This Certificate of Eligibility is required before a student can arrange a Government Guaranteed Student Loan with the bank of his choice.

Repayment: Interest-Free and Delayed Repayment Period
To assist students, the interest on loans during the period a student continues full-time studies, and for six months thereafter, will be paid by the Government of Canada. During this same period and repayment of principal is required, nor will any service charge or fee be payable by the student.

Method of Repayment
Borrowers will begin to pay interest and to repay loans six months after they cease to be full-time students. The current interest rate to students is 5 1/2% per annum. Normally the repayment period will be five to ten years. Borrowers have the right to repay loans in part or in full at any time without penalty.

File Insured
In the event of the death of a borrower responsibility for repayment of the loans will be assumed by the Government of Canada.

Where to apply: Students resident in Alberta, regardless of where they intend to study, should apply for a Certificate of Eligibility to:

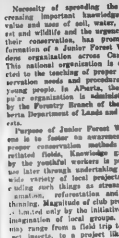
Jr. Forest Rangers Learn Conservation

Teamwork is stressed in all phases of Junior Forest Warden's training. It is in evidence on this two-rope bridge at the Jarvis Lake Camp. One visionary could send the voiture group plunging into the muskeg below. The bridge is one of 18 obstacles on the camp's half mile obstacle course. The course is run daily, with timed competition at the end of each ten-day camp.



Verne Patterson (centre), a forest biologist with the Canada Department of Forestry is one of several qualified men who instruct the junior wardens. He is seen (centre background) lecturing the first 19-64 group on forest entomology. Lectures run two hours in the morning and three hours in the afternoon. They are often combined with field trips.

Necessity of spreading the increasing important knowledge of value and uses of soil, water, forest and wildlife and the urgency of their conservation, has prompted formation of a Junior Forest Wardens organization across Canada. This national organization is dedicated to the teaching of proper conservation needs and procedures to young people. In Alberta, the junior organization is administered by the Forestry Branch of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests.

Purpose of Junior Forest Wardens is to foster an awareness of proper conservation methods and related fields. Knowledge gained by the youthful workers is put to use later through undertaking of a wide variety of local projects, including such things as stream rehabilitation, reforestation and tree thinning. Magnitude of club projects is limited only by the initiative and imagination of local groups. They vary range from a field trip to collect insects, to a project like the being carried out by 38 Junior Forest Wardens at Crooked Creek with involve the planting of 50,000 trees.

Twenty Junior Forest Warden clubs, with a total membership of about 500, are currently active in the province. This includes about 26 members of the Lone Patrol, open to youngsters in areas where there are no organized groups.

The First Junior Forest Warden club was started at Hinton in 1958, with Edson and Slave Lake joining the following year. A promotional program was launched in 1961, when nine more clubs were established. Since then the organization has grown steadily and now includes clubs on two Indian reserves. Membership is open to boys ten years of age and over. The clubs must be sponsored by a local organization or a group of interested citizens, who supply club leaders. Assistance in setting up and running the clubs is given by the Forestry Branch.

Summer camps have been held annually since 1961 for about 160 junior wardens at the North shore of Jarvis Lake, 16 miles Northeast of Hinton. Youngsters attending camp are selected on merit by their local leaders.

Three ten-day camps were held this year, with a full schedule of activities beginning daily at 6:00 a.m. The camp timetable includes chores, lectures, field trips, and planned recreation. A team of qualified men, most of them from the Department of Lands and Forests, lecture the groups on weather, compass, forestry and entomology, and mapping, wildlife biology and management, bush survival and fire fighting. A two-day hike puts to test the knowledge acquired from these lectures. Planned recreation includes swimming and water safety instruction, besides in handling the camp's two 17 foot freight canoes, games and contests, and the half mile obstacle course. Leisure hours are spent swimming, boating, fishing or enjoying a sing-song around the campfire.

Don't Neglect Summer Fallow During Harvest

Keeping perennial weeds down on summerfallow operations is the reason why Canada must take this type of weed control.

W. Lobay, Alberta's Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control, says there is a very good chance of excellent weed kills when summerfallow are kept back during harvesting operations. Perennial weeds can be very effectively controlled if regrowth is not allowed to appear above the ground for more than a week at a time and if cultural or chemical operations are carried out during the growing season.

Too often, however, farmers cultivate their summerfallow faithfully until harvest, when they temporarily let them for other work. Mr. Lobay points out that Canada and new varieties as well as other perennials produce an abundance of plant food during the latter half of July until about the end of September. This food is stored in the roots to carry the plants through the following winter unless the green growth is removed. Consequently, much of the work done earlier in the season can be wasted if summerfallows are neglected at this time of year.

Mr. Lobay strongly recommends thoroughly cultivating all fallow fields immediately prior to harvesting. This will keep weed growth down for about three months, depending upon growing conditions. An alternative method is to spray the fields with 16 ounces of 2,4-D acid per acre when the weeds are well above the ground. Chemical treatment is preferable at this time of year to cultural on land that is subject to erosion and in areas where pale western cutworms are a problem.

If regrowth appears before harvesting is completed, it may be necessary to cultivate or spray a second time. Once harvesting is over, cultural or chemical operations should be carried out regularly until frosts up.

Central High Activities

Lee "Chuck" Keatly, Reporter

Central High School was in a flurry on September first and second as grades 10, 11 and 12 students from Killam, Sedgewick, Morgan, Lougheed and Hardisty came to register. The grade 10 students registered on the first and 60 students were admitted to the school. One hundred and forty-five 11 and 12 students registered on September second. The number of students attending Central High this year is 204.

Art is being taught in High School this year for any students who take an interest in art. The class is being taught by Mr. Johnson who also teaches wood and metal.

SPORTS

A school football team is being organized for any of the boys interested in sports. For the girls who like exercise a basketball team is being arranged.

SCHOOL CHOIRS

The school choirs has been started in school again this year with mostly girls present at the first meeting. The chorus is being led by Mr. Chapman. Mr. Chapman hopes to get more boys interested in the chorus, but he says they're pretty shy when it comes to singing.

BE CAREFUL OF WILD MUSHROOMS

Mr. Bolfoz says are people were hospitalized in this province recently after eating a meal of poisonous mushrooms. The mushrooms were one of our most colourful but most dangerous species.

Recent rains in the Peace River Country have brought on a heavy crop of many different types of mushrooms. According to Mr. Stalfox there is no truth in the popular belief that specimens which 'peel' easily are safe. Some of our most poisonous varieties are easily twisted.

The surest way to enjoy a meal of mushrooms, says Mr. Stalfox, is to buy the cultivated variety. There are several up-to-date farms a Alberta where a steady supply of safe tasty mushrooms are produced all the year round.

Amateur mushroom collectors will find the publication "Mushroom Collecting for Beginners" a very useful guide. Published by the Canada Department of Agriculture, "Mushroom Collecting for Beginners" can be obtained from district agriculturists and the Plant Crops Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Donald Curtis of Victoria, B.C., visited for a few days with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Curtis and with his niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Nesdoly. He also renewed acquaintances in town and district.

Trevor Lubash has gone to Edmonton where he will apprentice accounting service.

Miss Jean Jacobs was home over the week end before leaving for New Norway where she is on the teaching staff. Jean was a supervisor at a playground in Red Deer during July and August.

Craig, Grant and Alan Webb of Hay Lakes have holidayed with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Pudsicard.

Students from 44 Junior and Senior High Schools throughout Alberta attended a Junior Red Cross Study Center at Banff August 23-29. The delegates, all Junior Red Cross Members, were chosen by their schools on the basis of their academic and leadership ability. Miss Virginia Troehler, Box 41, Rimbey, a grade 9 student was chosen to represent Our Lady of Fatima School.

Some of the highlights of the Study Center included; Swimming Instruction, First Aid, Home Nursing, History, Philosophy and origin of Junior Red Cross, Discussions on furthering international understanding, High School Entrance Programs, How to give speeches and conduct meetings, The covering of International Relief and Local Disasters, Discussions on human involvements (how far to get involved), a Handicapped Children's Program and in general, how to improve the Red Cross Image.

Special features of the Study Centre included a picnic, a tour of the Banff Zoo and a Hootenany for which the teachers and students of the Banff High School were invited.

Among the guest speakers were Mr. T. Steele of the Calgary Optimist Club, Mr. and Mrs. Arjamand and Shahzad Sadiq, UAC students from Pakistan and Mr. R. Nettle of the Calgary Red Cross Blood Transfusion service. Other guests were Mrs. H. E. Bolingfield, President, Alberta Division, Canadian Red Cross Society, Dr. M. E. Bow, Junior Red Cross Sick and Crippled Children Sub-Committee Chairman, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. James, Mr. James is the Chairman of the Junior Red Cross Advisory Committee, and Mr. R. C. Hilton, Commissioner, Alberta Division, Canadian Red Cross Society.

HARDISTY HI-LITES

The annual meeting of the South Sunshine Club was held August 5th, at the home of Mrs. Daisy Meis with a small number of members present.

After the reading of the annual report the members elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Daisy Meis; Vice President, Mrs. Ethel Elm; Secretary, Mrs. Hilda Fischer; Fruit Committee, Mrs. Ethel Elm and Mrs. Lottie Kelln. Mrs. Daisy Chesnyshen was the hostess prize. The next meeting will be held October 2nd at the home of Mrs. Phyliss Wissinger. A tasty lunch was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Korol spent the long week end with relatives in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Matthews visited at Duhamel over the Labor Day week end.

St. Mark's Parish Hall was the scene of a large gathering on Wednesday evening in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Fred Alderyce and family. After many years in the district, they have moved to a farm at Gunn, Alberta.

Community singing with Carol Powell at the piano started off the evening, with songs by Mrs. Carol Powell. A Bingo drew and a game or two provided amusement.

After the serving of a delicious lunch, Mr. Pete Guenard, on behalf of their many friends, presented Fred and Margo with a purse of money, wishing them all the best in their new home. Speaking for St. Mark's WA, Mrs. Nettie Johnston also presented the couple with a cheque. As a surprise gesture, "Happy Birthday" was sung to Margo and Mrs. Doris Powell, whose birthdays were on the following day.

The singing of for "They are Jolly Good Fellows" with Fred and Margo, Gerald, Linda, Louise and Frances in the circle, ended a very pleasant evening, tinged with regret at the leaving of this fine family.

Congratulations to Gail Tharp on the winning of a Legion Bursary. She plans to study for Dental Hygiene at the University of Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walther and family of Edmonton and Mrs. McAdam of Three Hills visited in Hardisty and with his mother Mrs. Walther in P.B.A. Hospital at Killam recently.

"THE WEDDING OF THE WATERS"

In a special ceremony known as "The Wedding of the Waters", the Year of International Friendship at the Port of Long Beach, California, was enriched recently by the addition of half-a-gallon of water from Lake Louise.

Each contestant in the International Beauty Pageant, held annually at Long Beach, poured a sample of water representing her country into the pool. Canada's invitation to participate was extended to the Alberta Government by the Canadian Consul-General in Los Angeles and the Alberta Department of Industry and Development arranged to provide a sample of Lake Louise water for Miss Canada to add to the pool.

The container for the water was in the form of an early clay water jug, designed and crafted by Mr. Walter Drohan, Ceramic Instructor at the Alberta College of Art. It was contained in a special leather case, designed and hand tooled with the Alberta Crest and symbols of the Province's resources by Mrs. Phyllis Pasnek, Instructor in Arts and Crafts for the Alberta Recreation & Cultural Development Branch. Once emptied the jug was put on display in the Long Beach Harbor Department Exhibit Gallery, where it will remain until required for the ceremony next year.

Tech School Addition To Accomodate 1400 More Students

Two construction projects at the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology will provide facilities for an additional 1,400 students by the fall of 1965. The seven storey Tower Building and the one storey Industrial Annex Building will make up the fourth phase of development at the institute. Only one quarter of the estimated $3 million cost will be borne by the Provincial Government, as the project comes under the Federal-Provincial Cost Sharing Agreement for Technical and Vocational Education.

On completion of this phase the Institute will have 252 classrooms and laboratories, available to 4,-200 students. Cost of constructing the institute at the end of the fourth phase will have neared the $15 million mark. Total floor area will be 796,500 square feet.

Location of the new Tower Building will be east of the Pool Services Wing between the gymnasium and Services Building, while the Industrial Annex is slated for construction in the northwest corner of the campus between the Mortar Trades Building and 119th Avenue.

Twelve will be added in the fall on the Tower Building, with construction to be completed in time for the 1965 enrollment. The 192 foot building is to have eight floors, including basement, for a total area of 132,160 square feet. Estimated cost is $2.5 million. Elevator installation calls for poured in place reinforced concrete, with brick veneer to blend neighboring buildings. Corridors are to be of glazed concrete block, plastered and painted, all floors are to be tiled.

Fifty-four classrooms and 21 laboratories in the building will house facilities for Business Education and Vocational Division, Mathematics and English Departments of the Technology Division and the commercial and vocational preparatory courses of the Canadian Vocational Training Programs. As well, the building will have offices on each floor to accommodate a total staff of 74. Normal student capacity is 1,200.

Tenders on the Industrial Annex are to be called in the fall, with completion scheduled for the spring of 1965. Estimated cost of the 160 by 280 foot structure is $600,000. It will house six classrooms and eight laboratories to accommodate 280 students, as well as offices for a centre in it Total floor area of 54,-400 square feet includes 2,600 square feet of mezzanine area.

The annex will provide permanent facilities for Forestry, Building Sciences, Sign Writing, Metallurgy, Industrial Production and Foundry, and Heat Treatment, to well as a machine shop and auto body shop.

Exterior construction will be of concrete in tilt up veneer. Specifications call for corrido rs of glazed concrete block, with exposed concrete block in classrooms and laboratories. All laboratories in the building will have concrete floors, while remaining floors will be tiled.

SMALL TOWNS CAN MAKE CENTENNIAL

Canada's small towns can do more to make Canada's centennial a success than can the major governments, Centennial Commissioner John Fischer told weekly newspaper editors last week

In a rousing speech to the 45th annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, Mr Fischer called upon weekly editors to take an active part in promoting enthusiasm for the Centennial in cities and small towns across the country.

"This is not just a Centennial for Ottawa and Toronto and Montreal," said Mr Fisher, but a Centennial for all of Canada. "We have a unique opportunity to celebrate our birthday in a way which will make Canada a much more attractive place for Canadians and others alike.

Centennial projects need not be expensive, but they should be imaginative, he said.

"Many towns will build peculiar things like parking stations and fire halls as their centennial project," he said "but others will show more imagination and undertake projects which wouldn't be done otherwise — campaigns of beautification and community improvement which will be of value both to the resident and the visitor.

"Many things in our home towns offer themselves as worthwhile projects if we have the wit and the energy to tackle them," he said "We can achieve greatness in our Centennial celebrations if all of us work towards that success."

BANK OF MONTREAL
UNIVERSITY EDUCATION PROGRAMME

A comprehensive, life-insured plan for financing a college education for boys and girls now in high school

If you are like most parents with children in high school, you are probably wondering how you are going to meet the costs of financing your youngster's college education. To help parents solve this problem, the Bank of Montreal has introduced its University Education Programme—the first life-insured plan of its kind in Canada.

Under this comprehensive programme, parents, guardians and sponsors of high-school students can spread the cost of a university education over periods of up to nine years, thus keeping monthly payments to amounts they can afford without hardship. And the cost to the parent is only a fraction of the interest paid on a straight loan programme.

HOW THE PROGRAMME WORKS

Under the basic plan, the parent agrees to make monthly payments to the Bank starting, say, two years before the student enters university and terminating one year after graduation. In return, the parent receives an annual sum from the Bank at the start of each of the four university years.

VARIANTS OF THE PLAN

Several optional plans are available under the programme, and these vary as to the number of years in which the parent wishes to make monthly payments, as well as to the amount required annually for university expenses. Plans are based on objectives ranging from $1,000 to $8,000 per year able to the parent in four annual instalments.

OBJECTIVE: $4,000
To be paid to the parent in four annual amounts of $1,000 each

OPTIONS	YOU PAY MONTHLY	PERIOD OF YOUR PAYMENTS BEGINS	PERIOD OF YOUR PAYMENTS ENDS
Plan A	$49.55	7 years before	2 years after
Plan B	42.74	8 years before	3 years after
Plan C	37.80	9 years before	4 years after

LIFE-INSURANCE FEATURE

If the parent concerned should die after the start of the programme, the funds for education specified in the agreement will be advanced by the Bank each year without any further payments being made by the family or the estate.

HOW TO JOIN THE PROGRAMME

See the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch. You will receive a warm welcome from a staff who will be pleased to give you further details and to help you select a plan suited to your needs. Ask for your copy of the Bank of Montreal University Education Programme folder.

P.S. If you need help in financing a student already in University — or planning to register this year — talk to your B of M Manager. Chances are he can arrange a tuition loan with extended payments adapted to your circumstances.

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Canlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

NOTE

Dear Readers:

I stated in last week's article, re "Sellin' McClung", that this subject would be continued in the next issue of this paper.

I have sent away, at the moment, for more material on the above subject, but it has not arrived in time for me to compile an article about Mrs McClung.

We trust said material will arrive in time for next week's publication.

So, rather than discontinue writing about anyone or anything, I am nerve to write basing an article on a certain subject, namely, "Schedules and Routine" Trust you won't be too much disappointed at this change for this week. Thank you.

Mrs. F. M. Canlon

"SCHEDULES AND ROUTINE"

Am I ever glad that Summer Holidays are over. Am I an "old-dilly"?... Maybe (at least the young folks of today term such people). Possibly.

No, I have no youngsters, (now), to run through the house, nor do I have many relatives to entertain and cook for, visiting me during the hot weather. And, I might say right here, I am sorry for that, as I love relatives coming to visit me in summer. Neither am I bored with the day-after day hot, dry weather. Not much, anyway.

However, it might possibly be that all of my adult life I was used to a very strict schedule; i.e., meals at a certain set time, going to bed at certain set time, and the same hours, (Exceptions to this rule, occasionally). Of course when I lived on the farm, these rules had to change a bit, for threshing, too. The family wash was done on Monday, winter and summer, regardless of weather, ironing on Tuesday, mending, and sometimes churning, on Wednesday. I always set aside Thursdays for doing "odd" jobs, such as quilting, sewing garments for my ever growing family, etc., etc. for at times, I would go into town to shop. (We lived on the farm for 25 years.) On rare occasions I would visit at a neighbors', be short, I always referred to Thursday as "My off day".

Fridays were always the day to clean the bedrooms and dining room. And, of course, Saturdays, the kitchen, clean cupboards and that old "monotonity of cook-stove, with all the fuel trimmings, and deep coal black. I suppose one could call that "routine-like" too, as it was there for no other apparent reason, as well as that HAVE kitchen floor to SCRUB. (And I mean SCRUB, too). I did have floor covering during the winter years, but when that was off, it was a matter of scrubbing bare boards. I remember one year my Husband had to get a new scrubbeth for his threshing machine, so suggested we use the old beth for a covering for the kitchen floor. So it was cut into proper lengths, and the strips laid side by side, covering, completely, that huge floor.

As I look back now, at the really HERCULEAN TASK it was every Saturday, to SCRUB that awful porous, light red old belt, I wonder how I ever did it with so much grace as I did. (And, believe me, there were times when Grace was anything but apparent). Especially around the old cook-stove, where the spatterings of grease had more or less SOAKED into the pores of the belt I would rub the bar of lye soap over the scrub-brush, then, with both hands on the back of that brush I would press my whole weight on the brush, scrubbing back and forth until I was satisfied that the belt was as clean as "Soap and elbow grease" could make it. The only redeeming feature of that floor covering was that it did make the floor warmer during those long, cold Manitoba winters.

But back to my subject again. Besides that job, there was always bread to bake, (I always baked bread twice a week, sometimes from 12 to 15 loaves at a time, and big loaves, too. You see, there were 5 boys, 2 girls, a hired-man, my husband and myself. WHEN WE WERE ALONE, and THAT was seldom). During the good years, there were pies, cakes, cookies, tarts, etc., to bake on a Saturday, as well as the bread but in the lean years, we, and everyone else, had to dispense with the "Extras".

The "Company", (Neighbors and friends) always came along on Sundays evening our number, at times, to 26 or more. (We seldom went visiting on Sundays, as Church Services were held in our home during all those years). Sometimes these visitors came before dinner and stayed for supper. (Ironically enough, I can honestly say we enjoyed these times of neighborliness and fellowship, a thing not found in many districts now-a-days, altho' there are a few, even in this day and age.)

At that time, we were young and healthy, and the farm always yielded enough to eat, even in the lean years, there was always heaps of good stacks of home-made bread with that succulent home-churned butter, and, except during the depression, lots of vegetables.

For dessert, (if we had dessert, and we mostly always DID), in the lean years, we served WHIPPED CREAM and HOME-MADE ICE-CREAM in the winter.

With a family of growing children we managed to have a few cows milking the year around, thus, we fortunate in having lots of cream.

On VERY RARE occasions this schedule was broken. Altho' it is 21 years since we left the farm, I find myself automatically falling into the old routine of "A job for each day", also, (and this is hard to believe), I keep to it! I do NOT enjoy lying in bed much after 7 a.m. altho' I have done so, numerous times) AND FEEL SORT OF GUILTY AFTERWARD.

So, now this Summer Holidays have slipped out into oblivion, remaining just a memory, some good and some sad, the children pass the house on their way to school, and things have assumed the semblance of taking on the old routine schedule again.

"Why does this effect you NOW, you may ask. Well, I have a teacher boarding with me, (She was here last year, too), and it is necessary to have a sort of regular routine; get up early, have meals on time, and arrange and plan my work around the fact that again I must follow a schedule.

So, I am happy to have this (Excuse to fall back into, at least, a semblance of the old life.

Remember that old adage: "The habits of a life time are not easily broken".

"OUR ALBERTA HERITAGE"

TWELVE FOOT DAVIS

The top of a high Peace River hill is an unusual place for a grave. But Twelve Foot Davis, who rests there, was an unusual man. In reality, this early Albertan was hardly five feet tall. He got his nickname in the gold rush, digging a fortune from a tiny twelve foot strip claim that other prospectors ignored. But that's not all. Twelve Foot Davis was one of the first to open a string of trading posts in Alberta. While doing so, he proved his strength by trekking miles through rugged bush with two hundred pounds of furs on his back. Then he opened his ribs to the sick, the hungry and the discouraged. In the space of a few years he made - and gave away - a fortune. Twelve Foot Davis was a rough cut man, unlettered and small in stature. Yet in independence, enterprise and generosity he was twelve foot tall, a true pioneer of OUR ALBERTA.

This is an example of the stories of enterprise and courage in Calgary Power's new publication "Our Alberta Heritage". Mail coupon for your free copy.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

How I envy the fellow who has two weeks holidays! He takes his family to a cottage, or on a motor trip, or out camping, and that's all there is to it. He can then go quietly and comfy back to work.

Things are always pretty hectic around our place in the summer, but this was the heetiest ever. As a teacher, I'm almost frantic for time to start on I can get off the ferris wheel.

Five weeks at summer music school for Hugh. Three weeks at a different summer music school for the old lady. Two weeks at camp for him. Two weeks refresher course in English and two weeks as a weekly editor for me.

Now this doesn't sound so bad, when you run it through, But all these things were going on in different places at different times. The result was a combination of the Grand Prix, Musical Chairs, Who's Been Sleeping In My Bed? and Let's Break The Bank.

My wife gets home every Saturday night, bends for the basement with a huge armful of soiled clothes, and we don't see her until it's time to get in the car late Sunday and charge off once again in a flurry.

Last Sunday, for the first time in six weeks, the four of us were under the same roof together. We were all in a state of misery at being with these strangers.

Hugh came through virtually unscathed, despite the tremors and trepidation of his parents. He tells all us into attending his stag at the summer school from three weeks to five, in a letter emphasizing the "invitation" he was getting there.

After deep and midnight consultations, it was reluctantly sent off the requisite extortion for the extra two weeks. Soon after, another letter arrived. In this one we learned he'd been out for dinner — steak and mushrooms, Chianti, the works — with a Yank girl whose father was an English teacher. He was determining just a memory, some good and some sad, the children pass the house on their way to school, and things have assumed the semblance of taking on the old routine schedule again.

"Why does this effect you NOW, you may ask. Well, I have a teacher boarding with me, (She was here last year, too), and it is necessary to have a sort of regular routine; get up early, have meals on time, and arrange and plan my work around the fact that again I must follow a schedule.

PEARSON MEETS JOHN A. Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson meets Robert Christie who played the role of Sir John A. Macdonald in the re-enactment of the Fathers of Confederations' visit to Charlottetown in 1864. The federal-provincial premiers conference was held in Charlottetown during that city's 100th anniversary of the pre-Confederation conference.

New 5c Stamp Will Commemorate Meeting

A new five cent postage stamp to commemorate the 100th Anniversary of the Quebec Conference that led to Confederation will be issued by the Canada Post Office on September 8th, Postmaster General announced today by the Honourable John R. Nicholson, Postmaster General. The stamp will be the first issued in the 1964 program.

In announcing the stamp, Mr. Nicholson recalled that it was at the Quebec Conference of 1864 that delegates from the provinces which are now Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes hammered out the Seventy-Two Resolutions which eventually formed the basis of the British North America Act of 1867, Canada's written constitution. The conference was, therefore, one of the milestones on the road to the creation of the Canadian Nation

The Quebec Conference stamp follows an earlier issue which commemorated the Charlottetown Conference which took place a month previous to the Quebec meeting and at which some agreement had been reached on the principle of a federal union. The Quebec Conference lasted from October 1st to October 27 and saw many political and economic obstacles to Union removed.

The design of the stamp a hand holding a pen and a maple leaf — is based on the wording of agreement among the various provinces reached at the conference. The stamp is being printed in red and brown by steel intaglio process. Designer of the stamp is Philip Weiz of Ottawa, who also created the original runpiece of the Charlottetown Conference stamp and has a number of other Canadian stamps to his credit. A total of 18 million stamps will be printed.

TRY DUTCH CONTROL

Out of the 104 cattle treated with an insecticide for controlling warble fly, 100 animals remained completely free of warbles. The other four had a total of 7 warbles among them. (The formulation used was Co-Ral 4 percent Pour-On.)

The experiment was conducted by the Canada Department of Agriculture on the beef herd at the Indian Head experimental farm in Saskatchewan. Treatments were completed before November 15, 1963.

Untreated animals averaged nearly four grubs each, with some animals having as many as 32 grubs each. The pour-on treatment gave a greater degree of protection to the hides than either spot-on mixes and ryaltigas, than to the less susceptible older animals.

USE OF A.I. STILL INCREASING

Approximately 17.8 percent of the Canadian cow population was artificially bred in 1963, ahead of the 17.1 percent in 1962, according to the Canada Department of Agriculture. The Ontario Agricultural College was also mainly to the fact that the use of beef sires increased over the previous year by 30,643 breedings.

The number of cows bred with beef semen increased by over 16 per cent. While a total of 1,885 of the number of breedings performed through A.I. by each bull, a branch down to not kept to show how many of each breed of cows were bred by beef bulls. Most of the beef breedings are to dairy cows.

The use of frozen semen increased greatly in 1963 and accounted for 54.7 percent of all inseminations, as compared to 27 percent in 1962. A. I. for swine continued to be carried out in Ontario by the Waterloo Unit and plans are underway by the Oxford and District Association to provide a similar service sometime in the future.

MORE AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS NEEDED

Although student enrolment in the Faculties of Agriculture at our western Universities has increased appreciably in recent years there is still not nearly enough graduates in agriculture to meet the demand.

A Challenge

Agriculture today offers a great challenge to the youth of this country not only in farming and in farm management, but also in business, industry, education, research, conservation and other related specialized services. Many of the jobs now available in these services were generally unknown or unavailable even 10 years ago. In the fields of business administration alone, hundreds of new agriculture graduates are needed each year. Education, research, and other fields provide a steadily increasing avenue of employment for agricultural graduates.

Education Essential

As farming becomes a more complex and technical undertaking more education will be required, not only for the young farm people who remain in agriculture but for those who shift to other occupations as well. The increasing size of farm units and use of advanced technical methods makes higher specialized managerial skills and less unskilled labor necessary for successful farming. The young person who plans now for farming should take advantage of the educational opportunities of the high school, and the University, which is among the successful farmers of the future.

Apply At Once

Again we urge farm-raised young people to consider agriculture as a career. Write at once to the Dean, Faculty of Agriculture, at your provincial University for application forms and full particulars concerning entrance requirements, courses offered, and available student financial assistance. In agriculture, education is the key to tomorrow's opportunities.

FLOWER ARRANGING IS FUN

Nothing enhances the beauty of a room so much as the introduction of carefully arranged flowers. Did you know that the Japanese rent their houses with flowers? The people of this area would be wise to do the same. Not only would your rooms be air conditioned but they also would be made more charming. But be sure to have one good arrangement rather than a half dozen bouquets which are just jammed into vases.

FOR COOL-LOOKING FLOWER ARRANGEMENTS

Use glass or light-colored vases. Baskets with a pottery bowl inside are nice for summer flowers. Delicate flowers call for small containers.

Add ice cubes to the water. Besides looking cool, they help make your flowers last longer.

Don't be afraid to use leaves as well as flowers. The green color in cooling, and leaves of one plant can be used with the flowers of another.

Don't use an even number of flowers in an arrangement — or flowers of the same length.

FUN EASY ARRANGING

A needle-point holder, secured to the container with florist's clay, is ideal for arrangements in low bowls or on trays.

Chicken wire, rolled up in a wide-mouthed container or placed across the top can be used as a substitute.

Stems which are too fine to be put on a needle holder can be wrapped with a small piece of paper then squeezed down between the needles. Or small stem flowers can be tied in bundles or they will be easier to handle.

If the stem is too short, an extra piece of stem may be wired to it.

Tall branches may be secured in place by taping to the back of the container.

When you use a clear glass container, secure a leaf of the plant to hide the stems and holder. A clear glass container with tinted water is attractive.

OTHER POINTS TO CONSIDER

The flower material should be at least 1 1/2 times the height of the container. If the container is flat and narrow, then the height should be 1 1/2 times the width of the container.

The arrangement should look balanced. Large, compact, bright, or dark flowers look heavier and should be placed in the centre of the arrangement near the base.

Rythm is important to carry the eye easily from one part of the bouquet to every other part. Color should be massed in clusters rather than haphazardly mixed together. The stems should all come from the same direction.

Flowers are most enjoyed when they are placed against a planned background

Place the centre piece should be kept low.

BAPTIST CHURCH

On Friday evening, September 4, the Killam Baptist Young People had their annual weiner roasting for the coming year. Elected as follows were: President — Anita Erickson; Secretary — Eunice Grymaniuski; Treasurer — Sybil Heffel; Group Leaders — Mary Smoldel, Philip Rett, Paul Grymaniuski; Adult Advisors — Dayner and Lillian Bartunek, John and Caroline Kvill, Walter and Lavina Semenuik, Ralph and Jean Sevenson, Signe Yerk, and Co-ops Williams. Besides the new executive, the youth adopted a new program — one of group competition. The young people are divided into three groups and will be competing throughout the year in many ways. The new program is designed to increase individual interest and participation. The project for the coming year is that of purchasing a 12 inch brick well, from the front door of the smaller safe inside and made off with about $1200.00.

The heavy safe had been turned over on its side, indicating that more than one person involved in the break-in. The door was not blown, but forced open, being torn out of shape. An effort to drill through the door system on a bigger door apparently failed.

The thieves were in no hurry, to beat their job as indications showed that they enjoyed a midnight snack of milk and cookies before taking off with the loot.

Nothing else in the store was taken, nor were the cash registers disturbed.

R.C.M.P. are working on the case. Firms are warned that this is the time of year when thieves are active, and are advised to not leave sums of money on the premises if possible.

Lunch Eating Thieves Crack Co-op Safe

KILLAM — Thieves cracked open the steel safe at the Killam Co-op Store late Saturday night and made off with upwards of $1500.00 in cash.

According to reports from Store Manager, Bob Canavant, the thieves gained entry to the premises through a sky-light in the office. Mr. Canavant visited the store on Sunday morning on a routine check, and discovered the break-in.

After gaining entry the robbers discovered the safe situated in another part of the building, and being unable to force the door of the vault, broke their way through a 12 inch brick well, from the front door of the smaller safe inside and made off with about $1200.00.

The heavy safe had been turned over on its side, indicating that more than one person involved in the break-in. The door was not blown, but forced open, being torn out of shape. An effort to drill through the door system on a bigger door apparently failed.

CENTRAL HIGH NEWS

(By Lee "Chuck" Ensly)

The High School graduation dance is going to be held in the Sedgewick Community Hall on Friday, September 18th. Most of the students planning to go are busy getting dates lined up for the occasion.

Year books were issued on Monday to all the grades 10, 11 and 12 students who attended Central last year. Most of the kids enjoyed it as they were filled in on some more details of their fellow students.

Softball Teams

The school chorus will be going a few members at the graduation and are trying to perfect the some more before the 18th.

Sports

The boys football team has now had a number of practices and a few games are beginning to get rolled the dirt.

U.N. Club

The first executive meeting of the United Nations club was held on Thursday during noon hour. The teacher in direction of the club is Mr. Smith.

Alberta Retailers Honor Trade Pact Says Delegate

VANCOUVER — The fair trade agreement voluntarily accepted by Alberta retailers six months ago is working out satisfactorily, says Calvin Bateman, Sedgewick, Alberta.

Mr. Bateman, chairman of the food committee, spoke at the annual meeting here of the Dominion board of directors of the Retail Merchants Association.

The agreement was adopted after the Alberta division of the RMA noted the Alberta government for legislation that would abolish unfair practices. The merchants were told they were not an agreement among themselves.

Asked by Canadian Grocer for an example of an unfair practice the agreement prevented, Mr. Bateman said: Selling a pound of butter that cost 80 cents for 85 cents with the purchase of $20 worth of groceries.

The board meeting adopted recommendations of the food services programming committee, as outlined by:

Appointment of a study group to bring its recommendations on the Alberta Fair Trades Agreement with a view to implementing it in other provinces.

Opposition to the introduction of a 30-cigarette pack proposed by a manufacturer.

Formation of an RMA food committee in each province and that each be represented at national meetings by a voting delegate.

"We need another size of cigarette package like a pig needs two tails," said Mr. Bateman.

Canadian Grocer.

FLAGSTAFF LODGE

The Women of the Seventh Day Adventists Church and the children entertained at the lodge for the month of August. The children enjoyed the meal by the guests. Lunch was served. It was very much enjoyed by the guests.

Thanks is extended to Mrs. Andy Peterson for donating a set of dishes to the lodge which is appreciated very much.

Thanks is extended to all who took the interest to donate vegetables and flowers to the lodge.

There new guests have entered the Flagstaff Lodge since the first of August, they are: Mr. William Reed, Alliance; Mr. C. Johnson; Alliance; and Mrs. Finnigan, Sedgewick.

18 Students Graduate At Daysland Exercise

(Dolores Dolene)

The United Church Hall was decorated with orange, black and green streamers for the grade 12 graduation banquet on Friday, September 12th. Rev. McNeil gave the Grace.

Following the banquet the graduation and their parents and relatives gathered at the Echs Hall for the graduation exercises. Seated on the stage were the graduating students and guest speakers.

Miss Marilyn Lorsen was chairman and called on Mr. J. Polchopba to bring greetings from the Killam School Division. Mr. Brenn, Killam School Division Superintendent spoke a few words to the graduates.

Principal Mr. E. E. Carroll also spoke a few words of congratulations to the students wishing them the best in the future.

A solo was rendered by Mr. J. Eshpeter accompanied by his daughter Karen.

Miss Sylvia Kofoed received the high school diplomas to their teacher Mr. Carroll who in turn called each graduate forward to present them and each one in turn thanked the teachers and parents and told what their plans were for the future.

Mrs. Geo. Scoggs on behalf of the Hospital Auxiliary members presented Miss Sylvia Kofoed with a $75.00 scholorship.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Irving, High School teacher from Camrose.

The students appreciation was given by Eugene Carignan.

Among the graduates were Eugene Carignan, Edward Kosapsko, son of Marcmel, Edward Chobot of Strome, Sylvester Barry, Daysland.

Janet Lansing, Arlene Stefanikhen and Marilyn Larsen, all in Edmonton now. Karen Eshpeter, Strome, Lenore Gordon, Strome, Mrs. Peggy Lehner, Daysland, Diane Bedry, Sylvia Kofoed, Eloise Kostuski, Sharon Caudilah, Bryan Rakas and Maureen Lockhart, Strome, Miss Robbins and Miss Pooler were unable to be present.

The hall was beautifully decorated with streamers and flowers with the graduates names pinned on black.

The evening closed in dancing.

Hardisty Boy Killed In One Car Mishap

HARDISTY — Donald Frank Peters was killed and a companion Edwin Bell suffered scratches and minor bruises last Saturday in a one-car mishap five miles north of this town.

Donald and Edwin were out on a shooting expidition with a special permit, when the car driven by Donald Tatro failed to make a sharp turn on the Municipal road. Mr. Rod Stuart, who lives in the area, was the first person to come upon the scene of the accident, and along with Edwin Bell went about taking the proper precautions to notify police and other officials.

Donald, a young man of sixteen was attending Central High School in Sedgewick at the time of his death, taking an academic course in grade 11. He was active in church work and young people's activities, being vice-president of the Hardisty Teen Town. He was born in 1948, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harding Tatro of Hardisty. The family moved to Hardisty in 1962, where Mr. Tatro is in the trucking business.

DAYSLAND HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

(Dolores Dolene)

The first meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary after the holidays was held Thursday evening in the hospital with 14 members and Sister Superior present.

Mrs. N. Crise, the new secretary replacing Mrs. Rice, read the minutes of the last meeting. This was followed by the Treasurer's report.

The secretary read a news report on the Hospital Auxiliary Convention being held in Calgary this year.

The President then read parts of a report sent in by different Auxiliaries on the work they have been doing to raise money for their hospitals.

Sylvia Kofoed qualified for the Scholarship that the Auxiliary gives out each year to the girl in Daysland with the highest marks going in for nurses training.

The president thanked the ladies for the hospital center articles they brought to the meeting. A motion was made for the ladies to each donate another article at the December meeting.

The meeting closed with a delicious lunch served by the Ladies.

Editors Elect New President

EDMONTON — Mr. Ron Newsom, editor of the Bashaw Star, was elected President at the 61st Annual Convention of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association which was held at the MacDonald Hotel in Edmonton last Friday and Saturday. Art (Jess) Easthy was once again elected to the post of director of the Association.

Among the many activities of the convention was the passing of resolutions by the editors. One of particular interest locally was a resolution calling on the Post Office Department to provide lobby service on Monday Holidays such as the recent Labor Day Holiday.

One of the features of the annual convention is the presentation of awards to the competition winners. At this year's meeting the Community Press received three awards which were: The Jessop Memorial Trophy for the Best Editorial Page. A certificate for winning second place in the Best All Round Newspaper competition, and the 3rd place award in the province-wide Commercial Job Printing competition. These three awards along with the national awards announced in this paper two weeks ago will be on display in the office for your viewing.

CORP HOLD FIRST MEETING OF SEASON

(Dolores Dolene)

Thirty-three ladies of the Royal Purple met in the Ma's Hall on September 7th for their monthly meeting following the month summer recess. Reports were given on the various activities during the summer which showed that even though there had been no meetings the lodge members had not been idle.

H.R.L. Anne Ewack gave a concise but interesting report on her trip to the Supreme Lodge Convention held in Saskatoon, where she attended as a delegate. She was accompanied by Ladies R. Ewack, Robinson, Crise and Rood. All reported a very pleasant time.

The attendance prize was won by Lady Waldorf.

Following the meeting a Delicious lunch was served by Ladies Schmidt, H. Ewack, Stutz and Gaabo.

SISTER LOURDES GETS ADMIN. MEMBERSHIP

KILLAM — Early in July Sister Lourdes, Administrator of the Killam Hospital Complex had been advised that she had been awarded membership in the American Hospital Administrators College, and would receive her Certificate at a later date.

Sister Lourdes, accompanied by Sister Angelica, returned last week from Chicago where they attended the Convention Exercises, and where sister Lourdes received her membership in the College.

The two Sisters flew down to Chicago, and on their return informed that reporter that they both thoroughly enjoyed the visit, as well being very interested in the courses of instruction available at the meetings.

Stinkers Behind the Wheel!

The other day we observed an act of sheer madness, involving an irresponsible youthful driver and a souped-up jalopy. This young idiot was careening madly around in a school zone at a time when children were going to and from school. I could only conclude from his activities that his sole intent was to make an impression on a few of the opposite sex, who, by the way, seemed to think he was quite a clever driver.

My personal reaction was that this young fellow had no business driving at all. My hope is that his driving will be caught up to, and his licence lifted. I wonder if he realized what would have happened had a youngster dodged out in front of his vehicle? I would be happy to have him read the following plea.:

"Dear Driver: Today my daughter who is six years old, started off to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is 'Scoot' sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved good-bye and started off to the halls of learning. Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her — the girl with the yellow curls — and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher who has eyes in the back of her head — and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things — tremendously vital unimportant things; then we studied spelling, reading and arithmetic — then to bed. She's back there now, back in the nursery sound asleep with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm. You guy's wouldn't hurt her would you? You see I'm her Daddy. When her doll is broken, or her finger is cut, or her head gets bumped, I can fix it — but when she starts across the street, then she's in your hands. She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses, and swim and bike with me in the late afternoon. But I can't be with her all the time — I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So — please drive slowly past the schools and intersections — and remember that children run from behind parked cars. — Please don't run over my little girl."

A Rough Harvest!

With two weeks of almost steady rain behind us and the long-time forecasters saying that it will continue to be unsettled until around the 21st of September, the 1964 harvest season could turn out to be a rough affair. Thousands of acres are lying in the swath, and with the light stubble could create a problem for combines. Those with standing crops may be better off, but it is assured at this time that harvest is bound to run well in to October.

Several inches of rain have fallen during the past two weeks, and with little sign of a let-up, more could be added to this figure, thus intensifying the problem the farmer already faces.

If there is one thing that the Western farmer is well equipped with it is a sense of humor. Goodness knows he has to be or farming would become an unbearable chore. In this rain he can see a good sub-soil condition for next spring, and the hope of a good yield in 1965. However he would like to see an end to such good things for the time being if at all. With him we agree wholeheartedly. We'll take the rain in November, if you please.

Safe Thinking and Safe Driving!

Of course it is well known that the automobile is one of the greatest institutions today in our way of life. The pleasure and business created by the automobile simply cannot be measured or put into figures. Without it we could not live the way we do. It is also recognized that the automobile today is engineered and built to perfection, and is almost fool proof in operational performance, providing it is kept in top mechanical condition. But in spite of these facts we seem reluctant to realize that the automobile is also one of the greatest killers in our modern way of life. Bringing death and injury to thousands of people on this continent every year, and with property damage amounting to millions of dollars annually.

Statistics are proving that over 85 per cent of all accidents are accounted for by human failure to observe traffic rules and the use of common courtesy and common sense. The driver is the problem, for he is not fool proof; at times he is the reverse, and is a proven fool because he took a chance once too often. Far too many drivers, once behind the wheel seem to get an air of superiority and indifference, losing all thought of courtesy. Drivers, and pedestrians too should learn that a moment's haste may mean hours, even years of suffering — even death.

Traffic officials are always stressing to the motoring public to observe all traffic regulations and road and weather conditions. Important as these rules are — the most important of all is the practice of courtesy.

Have A Heart!

At this season of the year, we in the newspaper business likes you're to the dry-dock equipped with rush orders on the Thursday before Easter — or the barber coping with tardy delinquents on Christmas Eve . . .

There's no rhyme nor reason to the way people leave their news till the last minute; and when St. Peter blows his celestial trump, we bet they'll miss the deadline!

This is the season of resumed activities in a dozen clubs and groups in every community. The Community Press is happy to be in their confidence — to be informed of their proceedings — and to help by reporting their achievements . . . But why is it that mid-week or week-end functions are not reported until Wednesday of the following week? Why is it that Saturday paper until a few hours before our deadline?

and Sunday sports are not committed to it is only through the grace of an indulgent editor and a co-operative staff, that most of these affairs find a place in our columns. With correspondence and classified advertising piling it on Tuesday and Wednesday, mails and telephones loaded to capacity, and our typesetting machine operating at a hot pace — news of last Friday's meetings, or weddings over two weeks old, are unwelcome grist at this hour of the weekly grind.

Like the dry-cleaner, and the town barber, we keep a year-round staff. No extra shifts to call in before the deadline, no spare equipment or operators to be pressed into service on unneedful demands. If you have news for your local paper, or advertising that clamors for immediate space — HAVE A HEART and send it in early!

CUTTING THE APRON STRING

★ MACDUFF REPORT

The Flag Filibuster

OTTAWA — There is a growing sentiment among Liberal supporters in favour of a general election to solve the impasse in Parliament over the flag, if no progress can be made towards arriving at a compromise solution. Referring the flag problem to a committee of the House may be the compromise, but if that does not succeed in resolving the flag issue it could end in an election.

The outcome of the by-elections in two Federal constituencies on Waterloo South, in Ontario and Westmorland in New Brunswick will play a major role in determining how soon the country goes to the polls. Date of the by-election has been announced as November 9.

Westmorland is regard by the Liberals as a "marginally Liberal" seat, while Waterloo is regarded as "marginally Conservative" seat. If the Liberals win both by-elections then those within the party who are advocating an early general election will have their arguments strengthened.

It is no secret that Keith Davey, Liberal party national organizer, is in favour of an early general election. It is also no secret that he will find an increasing number of Liberals coming around to his point of view if the two by-elections go Liberal.

John Turner, member for Montreal-St. George and Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Northern Affairs has said: "The Waterloo South riding is a most important riding in the Federal picture today. If we win we have cracked Western Ontario." Mr. Davey has described the riding "a barometer for the rest of Canada."

Prime Minister Pearson has consistently taken the position that at all costs an election over the flag must be avoided. He argues quite properly, that to have an election with the flag issue could split the country into English versus French and do substantial if not irreparable damage to Confederation. Consequently, in Mr. Pearson's view, an election on the flag issue should not take place.

But as the Conservatives continued the flag filibuster in Parliament many Liberals were beginning to take the view that gradually, and imperceptibly the issue was sharpening. It was becoming no longer an issue of the Red Ensign versus the Maple Leaf flag but rather an issue of Parliament and whether the institution of Parliament could be brought to a halt by a blockade by a minority opposition group — this way the minority can keep the question from ever being voted on by Parliament.

It could be that no matter how much Prime Minister Pearson wanted to avoid an election with the flag as an issue he might be forced into it by general election brought developments in the Commons. As the debate dragged on the New Democratic Party and the Creditistes introduced motions to adjourn the debate. The first such motion by the NDP saw the Creditistes voting with the Liberal Government to beat it down. But the next day the Creditistes moved a motion to adjourn the debate and all opposition groups in the Commons united to vote against it.

The Liberals are in a minority. If all opposition members rose up to a vote together they can defeat the Liberal Government. While a motion to adjourn the flag debate for the day would not be a vote of confidence motion, the Liberal Government could not afford to lose more than one such vote.

No Government can afford to find itself in the position of being unable to determine what business will be dealt with in Parliament. The Liberal minority Government has declared that in keeping with the Liberal promise during the last two election campaigns it wants to have a national distinctive flag approved by Parliament. If the impasse continued to thwart the Government's determination to have Parliament adopt a new flag, and forced adjournment of the flag debate sine die, then the Liberals would have no choice but to go to the country.

It was noticeable that when the four opposition groups joined to support a Creditiste motion to adjourn the flag debate they were unable to defeat the Liberal minority government. All four opposition parties were only able to muster 64 votes including that of Ralph Cowan the Liberal from Toronto's York Humber riding who wants to retain the Red Ensign. The Liberals backed by one Social Crediter had 86 votes. There were only 44 Conservatives voting in the House.

Thus it would appear even when they all combine to vote against the Liberal minority government the opposition parties are not able to "solicit" enough of their members to defeat the government. Of course there are a number of worried members on the opposition side of the House who are just as concerned as Mr. Pearson and many of his Liberals that an election with flag as an issue must be avoided at all cost. If Confederation is to survive.

But as the flag filibuster continued in the House there were more and more Liberals who were beginning to wonder if in the long run the issue was going to have to be settled in a general election. As the flag fight seemed trending Agar Democratic Leader Douglas appealed to the Conservatives and to the Liberals to stop battling their bones like two old bulls in a pasture. His speech was applauded by Prime Minister Pearson proposed yet another compromise.

However, Mr. Pearson is becoming wary of these compromise proposals because each time he makes a concession it is not matched by a concession from Mr. Diefenbaker. Whether this time the proposal to refer the flag to a committee of the House for consideration and a report within 60 days would be acceptable to the Liberals remained to be seen. Mr. Pearson has declared himself in agreement with sending the flag issue to a committee providing the majority report of the committee is not to be debated interminably in the House by the Conservatives.

This would just postpone the present flag debate until the year end. Mr. Pearson wants a time limit on the debate that would eventually take place on any report made by the flag committee. But Opposition Leader Diefenbaker has been opposed to any such time limit being imposed. He also insists that at least 20 per cent of the 15 committee members should agree. This would effectively give the Conservatives the veto.

Meantime the attitude of the Canadian public appears to be one of mounting annoyance that Parliament has become embroiled in such a filibuster. Canadians generally are fed up with the flag debate — and if the present compromise negotiations fail they may soon have a chance to express their views in an election.

If you're trying to kick the smoking habit and finding it difficult, think of the problem in terms of dollars and cents. If you smoked just a package a day, it would cost: 48 cents a day; $2.16 a week; about $14.00 a month; and over $168.00 a year. Project that over about 40 years (if you don't get lung cancer first) and enough cash for a nice cottage on the lake will have gone up in smoke.

Many people express a wish to stop smoking but say they need some help in breaking their "addiction." They cast about for drugs or pills which will eliminate that desire for a "fag". Now, a foolproof formula has been found: it's called "determination," and its secret ingredient is "will power."

TAKE CARE WHEN CHOOSING YOUR CHILDREN'S CLOTHES

School has started, local stores are having their September sales, and family budgets are being broken because junior wants "a shirt like all the other kids have".

If you want to make the most of every dollar you spend for clothing, it is important to have a clear picture of your family's wardrobe before buying any additional items.

Mrs. Fluhr suggests that smooth and evenly stitched. Seam allowances should be well finished. Hems should also be flat and even in width.

It is important for strain points to be reinforced. Are bathed with pockets to have double stitching or under term.

Buttonholes should be firmly bound or stitched very closely. They should be fit neatly over buttons.

There should be medium-sized, flat fasteners that are sewed on securely and re-inforced.

Are garments should have well finished openings that are preferably at the front and large enough for easy dressing.

Lining, padding, interfacing trim and belt should be substantial and washing treatment the garment is given. Trimming should be secured or attached.

Allow Room or Growth

For comfort, comfort and economy choose clothes with features that provide for growth but don't buy over-sized clothes. If a school child's clothes are awkward or difficult from his friends, he will feel self-conscious and shy. Clothes which are too big can limit movement as much, as those that are too tight. With growth in mind, look for expandable features such as:

Deep hems in dresses and trouser cuffs to allow for lengthening.

LOANS FOR STUDENTS

Guaranteed by the Government of Canada

Purpose: The purpose of the Canada Student Loans Act is to facilitate bank loans for students who need financial help to continue full-time studies beyond secondary school level at Universities and other educational institutions.

Who can apply: Any Canadian citizen, or anyone resident in Canada for one year who intends to live in Canada after completion of studies, may apply for a loan under the Act. An applicant must be enrolled or intend to enroll as a full-time student at an educational institution approved by provincial authorities, and must meet the standards of academic qualification and financial need established by the student loans authority in the Province in which he applies.

Amount of loans: Depending upon individual circumstances and financial need, loans up to $1,000 a year may be made, with a maximum of $5,000 during a student's academic career. The Provincial Authority responsible for determining eligibility will issue a certificate to each eligible student stating the maximum amount the student may borrow. This Certificate of Eligibility is required before a student can arrange a Government Guaranteed Student Loan with the bank of his choice.

Repayment: Interest-Free and Delayed Repayment Period

To assist students, the interest on loans during the period a student continues full-time studies, and for six months thereafter, will be paid by the Government of Canada. During this same period no repayment of principal is required, nor will any service charge or fee be payable by the student.

Method of Repayment

Borrowers will begin to pay interest and to repay loans six months after they cease to be full-time students. The current interest rate to students is 3½% per annum. Normally the repayment period will be five to ten years. Borrowers have the right to repay loans in part or in full at any time without penalty.

Life Insured

In the event of the death of a borrower responsibility for repayment of the loans will be assumed by the Government of Canada.

Where to apply: Students resident in Alberta, regardless of where they intend to study, should apply for a Certificate of Eligibility to:

Students Assistance Board,
Department of Education,
Edmonton, Alberta.

The above notes are based upon the Canada Student Loans Act 1964 and are for reference only. All applications and loans are subject to the full terms and conditions of the Act.

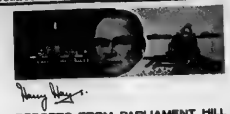
A. P. Crop Report

LOCAL — Heavy rain has again fallen in this area, ranging generally from 1 1/2" to as much as 4". The amount of swathing that was done prior to the rain varies considerably but would average about 30 per cent and very little of this grain has been combined. There are numerous reports that swaths have been driven to the ground, which will make harvesting difficult, and that swathed grain is sprouting.

GENERAL — Cold, rainy weather has again prevailed over Alberta during the week, preventing any appreciable progress with harvesting operations. In the south, operations had been well under way and would be resumed with a few days of favorable weather. In the north about a third of the crops have been swathed but very little combining has been done, and there are numerous reports that swaths have settled to the ground and are sprouting. In the Peace River District, showery weather and wet fields continue to delay harvesting, with very little swathing and almost no combining reported. Early heavy frost covered in the west central area.



REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

I think it would be fair to say that our Government is now well along the way toward establishing a comprehensive and specific blueprint for greater Canadian farm efficiency.

We are very interested in the question of farm efficiency because in a real sense in this world of today, Canadian farmers are really more than just Canadian farmers. More and more we've got to think of ourselves as world farmers because not only do we have to compete with farmers from outside our borders, we have to face the prospects as our world continues to work toward ever-lower tariff barriers of more and more competition right at home with the products of farmers in other countries.

I don't have any doubts about the ability of Canadian farmers to compete with farmers from any other country. I think Canadian farmers are the best in the world — we have to be because of our special climate problems.

But we also have to go on being the best and we can do this only by paying constant attention to efficiency in every aspect of our operations.

There isn't a better yardstick for measuring Canadian farmers' efficiency than our food prices.

In the development of the Consumer Price Index, (1949-100) stood at 131.3 in March 1964. It has risen fairly steadily in the past 15 years but is still well below that for health and personal care, recreation, transportation and housing.

However, the increase in consumer food prices which has taken place in the past decade has been largely the result of increases in the costs associated with distribution and processing, such as increases in labor, transportation, packaging and retailing, and not due to any major increase in the farm price of agricultural products.

This is borne out by the fact that in 1949 the index of farm prices of agricultural products stood at 239.3 and in 1963 it had risen only to 271.3 or an increase of 32 per cent.

This is in sharp contrast to the rise in the food component of the Consumer Price Index 1949-100 which, in 1963, stood at 139.2 or an increase of 39.5 per cent in the same period.

In fact, throughout this period farm prices have declined from their high peak of 2283 and have tended to offset an even greater rise in food prices to the consumer which might have occurred.

Consumer expenditure on food relative to other goods and services is smaller now than in the pre-war period. For example, 1960-36, consumers spent an average of 27 per cent of their personal disposable income on food, in 1946-50, an average of 22.4 per cent, and in 1962 about 21.3 per cent.

But while farmers have done such a demonstrably good job of keeping efficient in their food production, I think we must and can do even better. I think Canada, that is, we could produce another $100 or $200 million worth of produce from currently the same farms and land now in production by paying more attention to this question of efficiency.

For example, in hogs. It takes us something like three pounds of feed an average to make a pound of pork.

But in Denmark, through constant attention to efficiency, they have cut this down to 2.5 or 2.6 pounds of feed per pound of pork.

For Canadian hog producers that difference in feed requirements represents about $4 per pig. If you applied that to all the 7-million hogs marketed in Canada in an average to an over-all difference of nearly a year you realize that this amounts $30-million-dollars.

And that means Canadian hog producers are losing that much every year because they haven't achieved maximum efficiency in their production.

Another example, is barley. Last year we raised about 6-million acres of barley. Most of this, particularly in western Canada, was grown for malting purposes, yet only 15 per cent of it was actually used for malting.

If the Canadian farmer had grown more feed barley, we would have been able to export a lot more than we did, and if we'd had these 6-million acres sown to the most productive varieties, we'd have had an increases in production of about 10 bushels per acre.

When you add that up it comes to another $30 or $40-million per barley growers could have produced on exactly the same acreage.

Something else about barley production. It's estimated that our barley production could be increased as much as four bushels per acre just by applying known techniques for wild oat control.

What about wheat? We put about 27 million acres into wheat every year on the prairies. If we just manage to improve our efficiency in wheat by two bushels to the acre, we're talking about more than another $100-million.

You can see why the government and why I as Minister of Agriculture believe that our research and information programs are among the most important jobs my Department has to do.

QUESTIONS about the CANADA STUDENT LOANS PLAN?

...talk to the B of M NOW

Details of the new Canada Student Loans Plan have been released. And your local branch of the Bank of Montreal has the information on how to apply.

The Plan will provide bank loans to students who need financial help for full-time studies towards a degree or diploma at universities or other educational institutions above high school level. No security is required and repayment will not begin until six months after you graduate, or discontinue your studies. Up to that time, all interest will be paid by the Federal Government.

In a recent statement on the Plan, G. Arnold Hart, President of the Bank of Montreal said, "Support of education has long been an established principle of the B of M.... Any practical measure that extends the educational horizons of young Canadians will always find a ready, sympathetic response from Canada's first bank".

If you'd like to learn more about this new Plan, call on the Manager of your local branch of the B of M. He has all the details and he can give you a folder on the subject. Why not see him now!

Canada's First Bank

P.S. for Parents. If you have youngsters in high school, you will be interested in the Bank of Montreal University Education Programme—a comprehensive, life-insured plan to spread the cost of a college education over periods up to nine years. Your B of M manager has details on this, too.

How Long Did It Take To Court Your Wife?

Did you just happen to see her, walk up to her, ask her to marry you and call in the minister . . . right on the spot —

PERHAPS NOT . . . it probably took a lot of calls, and trips, movies, flowers, candies, and a lot of putting-your-best-foot forward tactics. You had to "sell" yourself. She had to know all about you!

IT'S THE SAME WITH ADVERTISING of time . . . you've got to win their confidence . . . you can't "woo" customers with one Ad . . . you've got to "Call on Them" over a period and be convincing.

CONSISTANT ADVERTISING wins the customers if it's truthful, if it gives helpful information, if it saves shopping steps, if it is backed up with intelligent, courteous and honest values.

Neal Nelson handed a load of coal for the town on Friday. That time of year seems to have arrived once more and it makes us wonder what happened to our summer. It has seemed to be so short this year.

Snap-on, adjustable cuffs on sleeves or legs of pants. Pants should be short enough and cuffs added at the same time to prevent tripping.

Two-piece outfits or separates which allow for greater lengthwise body growth than do one-piece garments.

Home Theories

Because needs change rapidly with age and activities it is practical to have a child's wardrobe small.

You, mother, must be master of the special skill and good judgement that is required when buying clothes which match the children's needs and the family budget.

THE CHECK STRIP TELLS THE STORY

Checking the results or added crop returns is one of the most important steps in using fertilizer, according to A. W. Cantell, Assistant Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control with the Alberta Department of Agriculture

To evaluate this response, a fertilized and non-fertilized check strip must be left in the same field for comparison. This practice is an important f r the farmer who has mixed fertilizers pay on his farm as it is for the man who is trying them for the first time.

Accurate fertilizer results is often more difficult than it might appear Visual observations by a trained eye can be fairly accurate when differences are great but not so accurate when they are small. For example an eight bushel increase in a 30 bushel crop may be easy to estimate but hardly noticeable in a 80 bushel crop.

One method of determining differences in yield, is of course, to harvest the areas separately. One swath width the length of the field should be taken from each area. This may not be very practical, however, for anyone who has not had such experience machinery. Another method is to cut at least five and up to 10 square samples from each fertilized and non-fertilized strip. The samples should be taken at equal distances down the strips for an approximate average. The samples must then be threshed separately and the results averaged.

After three or four years of observing crop responses, one may elaborate an adjustment in fertilizer rates. According to Mr. Cantell, slightly higher fertilizer levels than those being used would often give higher returns for each dollar invested.

Anyone considering starting out in hogs or extensively expanding his present enterprise is strongly advised by the Alberta Department of Agriculture, to do some serious thinking before embarking on such a project.

A. J. Charnetski, Live Stock Supervisor, reports that in the last five or six months an unusually large number of farmers in this province have indicated intentions to increase their hog enterprises. In addition, many people with little or no previous experience have shown an interest in raising pigs. Some of these plan to manage operations by remote control.

Mr. Charnetski points out that despite the fact that farmers grown and prepared hog feed costs today's farmer $50 per ton. Commercially supplied feeds cost approximately $60 per ton. In terms of hog production costs, the farmer growing his own grains and buying protein concentrates can produce a 200 pound animal for an approximate net cost of $28.00. Costs to the farmer whose feed bill is ton will be in the neighborhood of $36-.75 for a 200 pound pig at a rate of 400 pounds of feed per hundredweight of live gain. These figures are based upon conventional hog production methods.

The most up-to-date fully mechanized and slatted floored barns could cut down cost by as much as $2.00 per hog. However, capital outlay for a mechanized production unit to handle 500 to 1,000 hogs a year can range anywhere from a minimum of $10,000 to about $20,000.

While immediate hog marketing prospects are fairly good, the long term position must be taken into account. Present indications are that Canada's hog market between 7 and 7 1 2 million hogs in 1964 compared to 6 1 2 million in 1962. Production of this magnitude will completely meet domestic pork requirements. Marketings above this figure will, in all likelihood, create a depressed market situation.

The northernmost point of land in the U.S. proper is in Canada because 20 years ago a mix-up in defining the boundary made American territory of a peninsula that juts into the Lake of the Woods, north of the 49th parallel. It is part of Minnesota, but can be reached by land only through Manitoba.

DON'T NEGLECT COWS AT HARVEST TIME

A drop in milk production, caused by insufficient attention to the dairy herd during harvest operations, can be very costly in the months ahead.

A. A. Hughie, Production Specialist with the Alberta Dairy Branch, says the few minutes saved each day by using "short-cuts" in daily milking operations can result in production problems throughout the winter months.

Milking at regular intervals and proper stimulation are both important, says Mr. Hughie. Milk manufacturing by cows is more slowly done and finally stops when accumulated milk is not removed at regular intervals. Research studies have shown that 12 hour intervals between milkings yield the best results. In the 10 & 14 hour intervals, the action of the milk "let-down" hormone may be lost before all the milk has been removed in the longer period. Irregular and uneven milking will start the "drying-up" process, says Mr Hughes.

Neglecting sanitation procedures for even a day is dangerous. It could be the start of trouble in the form of infection or disease. Milking one or two streams of milk into a strip cup from each quarter removes possible bacteria and will show up infection before it becomes firmly established. Besides removing dirt and dust, washing the cows' udders with a warm chlorine solution stimulates milk "let-down".

Maintaining milk production into into the grazing season is difficult with best of management. Mr. Hughes advises dairymen to supplement declining pasture by feeding more grain. He also points out that silage from corn harvested can be saved if dairymen use their Dairy Herd Improvement Records to cull "boarders" from the herd now.

DESTROY THISTLES THIS FALL

Thistles are becoming increasingly prevalent in many districts throughout the Prairie Provinces. Infestations of Canada thistle, are particularly severe in some areas of grain fields which, owing to poor weather or soil conditions, were not sown, or left unharvested in 1964. Both Canada thistle and perennial sow thistle seriously reduce crop yields wherever infestations occur. They can, however, be controlled by cultural practices and by applying herbicides. For effective control the growth of these perennial weeds must be lowered to develope above the ground for more than a month any time, and control operations must be carried out during the entire growing season.

Fall Control Essential

Many farmers have a tendency to neglect their summerfallow fields during the harvest season. As thistles are at their peak of development at this time, fall control operations are of paramount importance. Spraying with 2,4-D or MCPA at 16 ounces acid or amine per acre. Similar cultivation during the harvest period is also effective, but chemical treatment is not only faster but preferable on summerfallow land that is subject to soil erosion, and in areas where pale western cutworms are a problem.

Crop land infested with thistles should also be given careful attention this fall The stubble should be sprayed with 16 ounces of 2,4-D or MCPA as amine per acre about two weeks after the crop is swathed. If the thistles have made considerable growth, and combining is delayed, it may be necessary to spray between the swaths immediately after the grain has been cut. If we experience warm weather in September and Oct. this year, farmers should make a special effort to control thistles during this period. Once harvest season is over, cultivation or spraying operations should be carried out regularly until the first hard frost.

Seek Advice

The best neglect your thistle infested summerfallow & crop fields during the harvest season this year By effectively controlling thistles in the fall pre-crop and during the fallow year, until freeze-up, it is possible to completely eradicate even the worst infestations of thistles. Proper timing of control operations is the key to thistle control. For more detailed information on the control of thistles consult your local Agricultural Representative, Field Supervisor, or Weed Inspector.

NELLIE McCLUNG

The information for which I went in regard to the life of Mrs. Nellie McClung could not be procured, so I will have to cut short the article which I had started two weeks ago and fill out with the balance of what I can learn personally, of the famous Canadian author.

Nellie McClung was born in Ontario—the youngest of a family of children, the year of 1873 (Thus, if she were living now, she would be 91 years of age.) The family came West in the year of 1880 when Nellie was almost 6 years of age. So, one might say that all of her accountable years were spent in Western Canada.

In her early 20s she was married to a "Wesley McClung", an "up and coming" young druggist, whose drug store was in the town of Manitou, Manitoba at the time.

Their first home was in rooms above the Drug Store, reached by a covered stairway which went up at the back of the store. Here their first child was born, a boy, followed a few years later by a wee girl, then another 2 boys. All together, the McClung's had 4 boys and one girl. When I first met her, she was about 35 years of age, the mother of 5 children.

When she could be in a reminiscent mood, she was many a laugh recalling some humorous incident which had taken place when the children were quite small. I have heard her relate the following incident myself, but as I was reading one of her books, ("The Stream Runs Fast"), I came across the same story. So, may I quote it as she has put it down so aptly. (Quote), "In this book Horace was born, in the early hours of a June afternoon. Paul, age 5, had been sent to school with Jack and Florence, to have him out of the way, and came back at 4, bursting with news. Grandmother had told him on his way home. He raced upstairs, had a look at his young Brother, expressed satisfaction, and took to the street. He rang all the doorbells in the neighborhood and gave out the bulletin; "It gin a Boy. If it his a girl, we would a called her "LIZZIE." (Unquote).

She had the heart-breaking experience, like thousands of other Mothers all over the world, of seeing her eldest son, Jack, go off to the First World War, years later. And also had the joy of welcoming him home again, to finish his University training to be one of the famous Lawyers of Canada. (One can really get a most vivid picture of this time in her books, "Next Of Kin").

She lived to the ripe old age of 83 years. Again may I quote a bit from her last book, "The Stream Runs Fast", just to depict, to the readers, what a wonderful woman Mrs. McClung was, right up to the last. When she KNEW she "Would be going out with the Tide" at any time, she wrote, "That night, when it seemed that I would be going out with the Tide, I knew I had no reason for feeling cheated, for I have had a good innings and a long run. I had warmed both hands before the fires of life". What a marvelous way to live and die.

When Nellie McClung "Crossed over the Bar", the people of the English speaking world, but more especially of Canada, can say, "The world is richer and better for having had Nellie McClung amongst us these years."

I cannot draw this short Biography to a close without telling of a letter which I received from her in the year of 1944, which I shall always treasure as a very precious keep-sake.

I had the idea, at that time, that possibly, with a bit of "know-how", on what an experienced columnist or person could procure, I MIGHT get a few of my stories and articles printed in some paper or magazine.

With this in mind, I decided to impose on our past acquaintance, (After a good many years had passed since we had met). With my letter, I enclosed a sample sample of my stories for her to judge.

Imagine my surprise, when, in about 2 weeks, back came a reply. It was just a few lines at of 25 years now but we had seen each other.

I shall quote a part of her letter. "Yes, my dear, I do remember you very well, and pleased to hear where they are, too. So you have a desire to write? Good luck to your pen, my dear, and may God bless you." As ever, N. McC.

Believe me, I did feel encouraged, as I knew she would have told me if she did NOT think I had a chance.

So, I can truthfully say, with hundreds more of her admirers, "Earth's loss is Heaven's gain" when after a life of doing good for her fellow-man, she slipped quietly "Out with the Tide".

ASSOCIATION WANTS TO REPRESENT FARMERS

An Alberta land owners' association, which claims that oil is not a mineral, has been seeking membership in rural areas of the province, particularly in the Drayton Valley region.

The Hon. Harry E. Strom, Minister of Agriculture, says he is worried by some of the claims being made by the association in its drive for membership.

This new organization claims it will represent farmers before the Right of Entry Arbitration Board to get them a better deal. It claims that oil is not a mineral and that it will go to the courts to prove it. This has been part of the association's pitch for its $100 membership. In interviews, several Drayton Valley farmers who have joined the association, said they joined because they felt they would be helping their neighbors.

Mr. Strom feels that farmers, when considering buying a membership, should realize that Alberta legislation and numerous court decisions have already decided that oil is a mineral.

SUMMER: WHO NEEDS IT?

Warm summer is a sad time, on a way. The halcyon days are upon us—days of dust and dog heat, burning, baking strength. The nights are sweaty and cooler.

Young lovers who have had a summer affair part with a last embrace, desperate promises to write, and a great heart-wrenching, a feeling that something is going to be hot, sweet-realize. And they're right.

There is a slightly fevered, lonely air about the beaches and the resorts and the summer places. They have generated a certain air of shabbiness that goes with the end of summer.

Candidates fall asleep every year, in June lulled by the whispered, genteel promises of that lush and lovely month, they dream of dazzling beaches, pine-scented woods, fun and sun, health and happiness.

And then the dream turns into the reality. The sizzling irritation of the July heat wave, when they have decided, for a change, to take their holidays in August this year. And the cold, wet blanket of August, which turns camping trips into shivering family feuds, cottages into miniature mental institutions, and resort owners into wild-eyed neurotics.

But don't let this end-of-summer sadness bother you. It's phoney. Canadians are not really sad in summer ends. At least, they're no more sad than I am, when I dream I'm flying to Hongkong with Elizabeth Taylor, and I've just drifted off with her head on my shoulder, and she shakes me gently and bears intimate words in my ear. "I think I WILL have a double brandy", and I suddenly wake and the Old Battleaxe is shaking my shoulder, the one with the burrillo in it, and mumbling, "Gemme a drinka water-doc."

Summer in this country is an absolute fraud, something which no sensible Canadian would put any more faith than he would in San Irish Sweepstake ticket, or his old Aunt Maud who has changed her will six times.

Summer in this country is a fraud, an illusion. Every time I lie out in the backyard, on the grass, with green trees enclosing a circle of blue sky above me, I shake my self and pinch myself, until I have it's a dream, and that if I tried the same thing four months later, I'd be buried under three feet of snow.

That's why I feel no real sadness as summer draws to a close. The Canadian summer is about as real as Gilbert and Sullivan.

In fact, I am elated at the thought that another two months of mindnumbing ground and thickening relatives, irrational golf balls, reluctant fish and young lovers who have had a summer affair part with a last embrace, desperate promises to write, and a great heart-wrenching, a feeling that something is going to be hot, sweet-realize. And they're right.

WIND BAFFLES PREVENT LOSSES

The use of a wind baffle on your truck box is a convenient and inexpensive way of keeping grain losses low in business and may even eliminate them altogether.

Alberta's Extension Engineer J. L. Reid, advises farmers, who do not use a tarpaulin, to try a wind baffle. Although a tarpaulin is the most effective way of eliminating grain losses and preventing the spread of weed seeds, many farmers do not use it because of the initial cost and a certain amount of inconvenience. A wind baffle, on the other hand, costs only about $5 or $10 and does not have to be put on each time the truck is loaded.

The wind baffle, recommended by Mr. Reid, is made of two 1" x 3" boards and two pieces of plywood. The plywood is joined to the ends of the boards at an angle to form wings. The baffle, which can easily lifted off, is placed on the truck directly behind the cab.

Mr. Reid reports that a number of tests have been conducted on truck grain losses with and without baffles. Wheat started to blow off a truck without a baffle at a speed of more than 35 miles an hour on a calm day. With a baffle, however, the truck's speed could be increased to 60 miles an hour before the wheat started to move. The wings on the baffle were found necessary to protect the grain from crosswinds. They prevented the grain from blowing off at a speed of 40 miles an hour with a 25 mile an hour crosswind Although tests have not been conducted on other types of grains, it is reasonable to assume that a comparable increase in speed could be obtained with oats, barley and flax.

Mr. Reid's recent encounter with a farmer in the Hemleigh district bears out the results of these tests. The farmer told Mr. Reid he had lost little or no grain from his truck since he started using the baffle over a year ago.

A plan showing how to make a wind baffle is contained in the leaflet entitled "Wind Baffles". It can be obtained from district agriculturists and from the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Doris Taralson Married To Mr. Ben Anderson

A lovely wedding was solemnized recently in the Killam Pentecostal Tabernacle when Miss Doris Joy Taralson, daughter of Mrs. Agnes Taralson and the late Mr. John Taralson, was united in marriage to Mr. Ben Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Anderson, all of Killam, Alberta. Rev. A. A. Lewis officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with white and blue streamers, white gladioli and tapers. Mrs. Talmage Tarlson played the wedding music and Miss Arlene Weeks at the piano. The candlelighters were the bride's eldest niece and two nephews.

As she entered the church on the arm of her brother, Harold, the bride looked lovely in her floor length gown of white satin organza, over taffeta with embroidered iodine and shirt, bouffant bow at back and lily point sleeves. Her full length viel of tulle and lace was held in place by a crown of pearl and crystal. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of red roses. Her only jewellery was a pearl pendant. She was given in marriage by her mother.

Close friends of the bride, Miss Hilda Mueller was Maid of Honor; Miss Anna Anderson, sister of the groom and Miss Sharon Shapiro, cousin of the bride were bridesmaids. Their dresses were full matching blue embroidered nylon over taffeta with pillbox hats of the same material. They carried crescent shaped bouquets of pink rose buds. Junior attendants were four nieces and three nephews of the bride. The little girls were in matching dresses of white ruffled nylon carried bouchets of pink roses. The boys were blue corduroy vests, white shirts and and black trousers.

Attending the groom were Mr. Sven Anderson, brother of the groom, Mr. Talmage Tarelson, brother of the bride and Mr. David Larsen, all of Killam. Ushering the guests were Mr. Walter Manning and Mr. Bernard Holmstrom.

During the ceremony Mr. Talmage Tarelson sang the "Lord's Prayer" and during the signing of the register Mrs. Talmage Talmage Taralson sang "Tenderly He Watches Over You".

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother chose a pale blue flocked nylon over taffeta with matching hat and accessories and corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore a two piece deeper blue flocked nylon with hat and accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses. The bride's grandmother, "Grandma Kile" of Amisk, was present and honored guest in her navy nylon patterned silk dress and hat of contrasting color, complimented by a corsage of pink rose buds.

A reception in the Church Hall, where a delicious meal was served followed by a program which included several musical numbers and speeches. Mr. Talmage Taralson proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded. Mr. Ray Sorensen was Master of Ceremonies. Rev. Lewis gave good advice to the happy couple and offered prayer at the close of the program.

Mrs. Harold Taralson was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Ervin Hansen and Miss Minnie Mueller showed the wedding gifts

For their trip to Edmonton and points north, the bride looked lovely in a turquoise caped suit with matching hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Killam U.C.W. Ends Vacation

(By Doug Kinnear)

After a vacation of two months the Knox U.C.W. resumed their meetings by opening for this season at the home of Mrs. R. Peterson. Members were pleased to have Miss Winnie Hampshire as a visitor after her long stay in hospital. A devotional period opened the meeting.

Following the reports of various committees the members entered into lengthy discussion concerning catering, shipping of used clothing and the cleaning of the church. It was decided to start immediately to gather used clothing and old hymns for shipment to Korea.

Anyone having some here in the church basement by October 15th and these will be shipped as soon as possible. These are urgently needed.

A letter was received asking as many ladies as possible to attend the workshop at Red Deer on Sept. 24 and 25 where the Rev. Carwright will be the topic of discussion. The film strips and stories shown or told in the youngers' children during the church services for the past year or two will be continued with our members being in charge during October.

The October meeting will be held in the Church with the film "The Beloved Stranger" in the evening instead of the usual study from "God and His Purpose."

Baptist Church

Mrs. Davison led the study period and a questionaire followed. This closed the meeting after which a lunch was served.

Several young couples attended the Young Couples meeting recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Olson. Donnie Johnson was the guest speaker.

A short business meeting followed the regular Wednesday night prayer service. The motion was passed to accept the request that the Semi-annual Conference of the Alberta churches on October 20-21, be held at Killam.

The Pastor was in charge of the Sunday services. Following the Sunday evening service a short time of fellowship and lunch was enjoyed in the lower auditorium in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Penner. Gayner Bernhardt presented them with a purse of money on behalf of their many friends. We extend our best wishes to Ken and Myrna as they resume their second term of teaching and studying at Prairie Bible Institute.

"OUR ALBERTA HERITAGE"

WOP MAY'S FAMOUS RESCUE FLIGHT

Wilfred May - known as "Wop" to his friends - was an Alberta pioneer with wings. After winning his DFC in World War I, this enterprising Edmonton flyer helped start a one-plane charter service. Then, in the 1920's he made aviation history - a 700 mile, mid-winter solo flight - in an out-dated plane - rushing vital drugs north to epidemic-stricken Fort Vermilion. After two days the news came back that Wop May had succeeded. Two thousand proud Edmontonians cheered the frost-bitten pilot when he touched down at home base. News of the historic flight made world headlines, and led to year-round air contact with the north. Wop May went on to win more honours for leadership in Canadian flying . . . a winged pioneer whose exploits are written into the heritage of . . . OUR ALBERTA.

This is an example of the stories of enterprise and courage in Calgary Power's new publication "Our Alberta Heritage". Mail coupon for your free copy.

Government Works Hard For Road Safety

Governments are working ceaselessly in an effort to make our highways as safe as possible for the motoring public. Traffic officials are literally plastering main routes with signs and various kinds of warning arrangements, to try and cut down the high rate of road fatalities.

Just recently one of the finest examples of this was displayed to the public, with the installation of guard posts bearing luminous tape reflectors, on all curves and load-in side roads, along Highway 12. This is one of the best improvements in recent years and should improve night driving hazards considerably.

In spite of these efforts however, it would appear that a percentage of the motoring public feels such things are unnecessary, for already a good number of these white posts have been knocked over and partly destroyed. This is not because of accidents (the road is too safe for that) but a deliberate act of vandalism.

Some people just cannot accept progress in any way, but feel they must go about destroying every thing from which the public derives any benefit.

Donna Cookson Top Student At Central High Graduation

SEDGEWICK — An overflow crowd attended the Graduation Exercises in Sedgewick last Friday evening when the largest graduating class in the history of Central High School received their diplomas and pins. In all there were 23 in the graduating class, made up of nine boys and 14 girls.

Proceedings commenced with the usual banquet for the graduating, teaching staff, parents and invited guests. The banquet was catered to by St. John's W. A.

Mr. Wm. Johnson introduced the guests and teaching staff, and turned the program over to Pat Maddon, one of the graduands, who conducted the toast list. Sandra Cookson proposed a toast to Her Professional Staff, to which Chairman Russell Grant replied. Other toasts were, Curtis Storo to the Teaching Staff, replied to by Mr. Al Smith; To Parents by Donna Cookson with the reply by Mr. P. Maddon; Toast to the Graduands by Mr. Steve, and replied to by Carolyn Cotton.

Mr. Steve in his toast reminded that this was the largest class ever to graduate from Central High. He complimented the class on their high average standing and thanked them for their co-operation.

Student Council

A large crowd gathered in the Community Hall for the Exercises in the evening. Following O Canada, Capt. Bloom gave the Invocation.

Mr. Burns, principal opened the evening with a few remarks, pointing the high achievements of the high school during the past term.

The regular program was interspersed with vocal numbers by the school chorus led by Mr. Chapman.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. George Carter of the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology. He directed his remarks to the graduation on the theme, "High School Education, Threshold to What?" Mr. Carter said that knowledge is being developed so quickly today that it could be likened to an explosion, as more knowledge is accumulated today in one week, than formerly in 10 years of high school learning. He said that education today is expensive, but not nearly as expensive as ignorance. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Carter was presented with a gift from the students.

Valedictorian

The honor pin, presented to the grade 12 student for scholastic and extra-curricular activities, was won by Donna Cookson, who obtained an average of 82 percent in the Grade 12 examinations. Donna was also awarded the Central High Scholarship by Mr. Eastly, for highest marks in grade 12. Donna also received an Award Scholarship from the School Division, along with David Grynalchuk, as the highest average students.

Logica Awards were presented to David Grynalchuk, Betty Welsh and Gail Thorpe. Kinmen Awards were presented to worthy grade 11 students, Barbara Cameron and Corrine Ley.

The school presented a gift to Mr. Spencer, and the staff an Executive Chair, in token of his work and cooperation at the school.

Miss Sandra Cookson won the A. T. A. Scholarship Award, given to the student with the highest average marks, who is going on to Education. This was donated by the Killam Inspectorate of the A.T.A.

The Valedictory was given by Donna Cookson in a very capable manner. A dance followed.

It was decided to negotiate a loan of $500.00 for various expenses accruing and to pay up a small liability. It was also decided to buy 60 yards of sand for the Arena. The President was appointed to interview the Town Council for some road gravel for in front of the Arena.

The Daysland Lions Club representative attended the meeting and offered the Daysland Arena a donation of $200.00 as prepaid children's skating fees. The donation was accepted with thanks and appreciation by the Arena executives. The Daysland Lions Club also offered their P. A. System free of charge to be used in the arena. During the latter meeting Fred Schmidt and Jerry Karpovich will be in charge of the P. A. System and each have a boy to the control room.

SCHOOLS ENTERED AND MONEY TAKEN

B'nois at Daysland, Strome and Sedgewick were broken into during the past week and sums of insurance and textbook rental money taken. The Daysland and Strome schools were hit on Wednesday evening and Sedgewick Public School was burglarized Monday evening.

In addition, several pay phones in the area were stripped of their coins.

DR. J. HRDLICKA COMPLETES COURSE

DAYSLAND — Dr. Joseph Hrdlicka has returned from Guelph, Ontario where he completed an intensive course on diseases of the digestive system of ruminants at the Ontario Veterinary College. The course, attended by veterinarians from across Canada, dealt with the most recent studies on the physiology, nutrition, pathology and treatment of ruminant digestive diseases. In addition new cropping systems and livestock housing concepts were discussed.

School Board Will Leave Merna Open

A regular meeting of the Board of the Killam School Division was held with the Superintendent and trustees R. Grant, Nichaus, Clouston, Polehoyke, and Steadman present. Minutes were read and adopted.

It was passed that Galahad's pay schedule for contract bonus operation had been adopted for those busses for the 1964-65 school term.

Payment of bills numbered 62 to 143 were confirmed, and approval given for the payment of bills numbered 144 to 155 to August.

The application of Grace Mary Krill and Bessie Lee James for $200 teacher training bursaries were approved. Grace Mary Krill was granted a $600 loan only if the present Federal Government scheme for the granting of loans to University students was not materialize.

The following appointments and resignations to the teaching staff were approved: Rachael Anderson, Principal and Junior High, Merna; Hazel MacPherson, Grade 3, Alliance, Donna McLeod, High School, Daysland; Arnold Oscar Jacobson, Vice-Principal and Junior High, Hardisty.

It was moved and passed that the 4-day week remain circuit exception, at the schools at Hardisty, Daysland, Sedgewick and Killam be continued and arrangements made for the purchase of 22 Melodians.

Mr. John Hill was allowed $60.00 expenses for attending the International Science Education Conference at Banff Sept. 17 to 20.

Lorraine Spaulding was granted permission for the use of a clean room and piano for private music lessons after school hours and on Saturday, and arrangements for the Janitorial services would be her responsibility.

Mr. Raymond Pettagy, Mr. Harry Anderson and Mrs. Marvin Rosebough attended the meeting and presented a petition opposing the closing of the Merna School. The delegation informed the Board that there was almost complete unanimity of opinion in the district that the school should remain open. They expressed a strong opinion that everyone was content with present arrangements and regarded them as superior to those which members of the Board had proposed at a previous meeting. The Board had informed the public at this meeting that they were considering immediate closing of the Merna School.

The delegation was assured that at least three rooms would remain open in the school for the 1964-65 school year.

GRAMOZONE IN RUM BOTTLE

WEED KILLER HIGHLY TOXIC

Gramoxone, which contains Paraquat, may be a meaningless type of name to agriculturist, but it is a very strong weed-killer designed to diminish weeds anything over a vegetal nature which it touches. It is designed to do an efficient and thorough job in effect and very poisonous to humans and animals alike. It is to be banned for the sport, with container labels clearly marked.

A former in Flagstaff M.D. requiring a small quantity of this weed killer, had the desired portion transferred to an old rum bottle and upon arriving home put it up on a shelf in one of the farm buildings. Upon feeling the need for a liquid of another kind he used the first container, with the result that he put himself in an uncomfortable situation.

The result was a few hurried phone calls to find a suitable antidote. First call was to the R.C.M.P. office in Sedgewick by the unfortunate victim, but lack of suitable information here led to phone calls to the Department of Agriculture in Edmonton, higher echelons consulted and finally to England here the stuff was manufactured.

The patient is doing fine now, but the moral of the story is to see that all containers are properly labelled. Try a spill further good idea to always take a second look to be sure you have the right material.

Directives are going out from the local M.D. office warning all people to take precautions to see that nothing of this sort happens again.

Rev. Christopherson Installed As Lutheran Church Pastor

The Rev. Sidney J. Christopherson was installed Sunday, September 20th at regular worship services as resident pastor of Bethania, Shane on and Trinity Lutheran congregations. The installation and the service was conducted by The Rev. Dr. S. T. Jacobson, Asst. to the President of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada.

Mr. Christopherson graduated from Luther Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minnesota in May and was ordained into the ministry of the Lutheran Church in his "old home church" at Sutton, North Dakota, Sunday, August 30th, 1964. Rev. and Mrs. Christopherson expect to arrive in Sedgewick September 17th and will take up his duties immediately.

The Christophersons have two sons, Lynn, 23, is a U.S. Peace Corp volunteer in Columbia, South America and is a graduate of the University of Montana and Yakima Junior College, Yakima, Washington. Mark 18, graduated from Wilson High School in St. Paul, Minnesota in June, is presently employed on a ranch at Glenfield, North Dakota and expects to enlist in the U.S. Air Force this fall. Mrs. Christopherson attended Valley City State Teachers College in Valley City, North Dakota.

Mr. Christopherson has varied interests being an author, lecturer, dairy farmer, rancher, evangelist, businessman and farm leader. In 1947 he received first award for service in North Dakota State Writers' contest. The Christophersons have always been active in Church, government and community affairs. Mr. Christopherson has written his parish, "A new parish in a foreign nation is challenging and exciting and we are eager to take up our duties there. From all we have heard and read of Alberta and the Sedgewick area we are sure we will be very happy in our newly adopted land."

A large crowd, representing Sharon, Trinity and Bethania Lutheran Congregations, assembled at the new Lutheran parsonage in Sedgewick, for the Dedication Service on Thursday afternoon. Dr. S. J. Jacobson of Saskatoon, the assistant to the President of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada, conducted the service. After the reading of scriptures and prayer by Dr. Jacobson and Rev. S. J. Christopherson, the parsonage was dedicated to the service of the True God. Two audience joined in the singing of "Bless This House." Mr. Rolf Jacobsen, chairman of the building committee, welcomed Rev. and Mrs. Christopherson, and thanked all who had helped to make this new home available. He then cut the ribbon, unlocked the door and ushered the Rev. and Mrs. Christopherson in, followed by the assembled audience.

"Bless this house.
Bless the folk who dwell within,
Bless us one and all we pray
May dwell, O Lord, with Thee"

Is There Hope In A Committee?

The longer the flag debate continued the more ridiculous Canada appeared, not only in the eyes of the world, but in the opinion of her people at home. Parliament became so ludicrous in fact that every indication pointed to the merit of invoking Closure. But now that the matter has been referred to a Committee it causes one to wonder if very much, if anything, will be gained by the move. It is difficult to fully agree with Mr. Robert Thompson's statement that the agreement to send the flag issue to a committee proves that "Our politicians have been able to agree in a responsible way on a responsible decision for the country". It seems apparent to most that responsible politicians would have settled the flag issue weeks ago. Even with the question going to a committee, there is no guarantee that a settlement is in sight.

There is only one redeeming factor about the committee and that is that it has the opportunity presented to it to redeem some of the lost prestige and public respect that Parliament has lost during the past few months. The big question in the minds of Canadians is: will the committee grasp the opportunity? Is the forming of a committee a thinly veiled defeat for Prime Minister Pearson or a device to save Diefenbaker's face?

There will be no answer to these questions for several weeks when the committee brings in its report, but some clues are available now that the membership of committee members has been disclosed. Are they all free to express their own views and determine their own courses, or have they been selected because they are party men first?

Mr. Diefenbaker is insisting that at least 13 of the 15 members must subscribe to a majority report, and that if they do not, he will insist that no limit be placed on future debate on the floor of the House. In fact with this sort of arrangement he can still scuttle the committee report by making sure that three of his party's members resist in committee.This is not to mean that he will do so, but the opportunity is there. Several concessions have been made to him in the whole issue without reciprocation on Mr. Diefenbaker's part. The committee is not necessarily choose between the maple leaf design and the Red Ensign, but it to come up with a distinctive Canadian flag. There is plenty of room here for reciprocation on Mr. Diefenbaker's part without loss of face. Will he have the courage to meet the situation, or will he scuttle anything less than his own personal demands?

His way out is to allow the committee to reach near unanimity on some design, distinctive, if only bearing faint resemblance to Mr. Pearson's original suggestion. Whether he will do this or not depends on how deeply he realizes that his performances during the past few weeks have damaged his public image.

We hope that all members will come to see, that for the sake of Parliament's stature and national unity, it is time for them to set aside personal demands in favor of national necessity.

Citizens In A Democracy!

According to Dr. Hugh Keenlyside of the United Nations, Democracy demands more of its people than any other form of government. It is true, he says, that it will not work, in fact cannot survive, unless we as its people work at it. Democracy in Canada will not work unless we as Canadians take an informed interest and vigorous interest in public affairs.

The hitch today seems to be that many people feel that the individual is more or less ineffective in directing public affairs. They feel that government has become so complex and conclusive that the ordinary man has become a small cog in the wheel of events. This in turn has led to futility and an accompanying disinterest in our democratic way of life. If the ordinary citizen is content to sit back and let himself be run and governed by paid officials and politicians, then he is accepting dictatorship in the guise of democracy.

First, and perhaps foremost is his right (some even say his duty) to cast an intiligent vote. In this way he helps to determine who will carry on his business affairs, whether it be national, provincial or municipal. He indicates his choice, in fact his preference, for the individual and his policies, from among the candidates. He may even run for office himself, and if a winner, take a direct responsibility in government.

With the casting of a vote, his duties do not cease, for from then he should take an informed interest in public affairs. Observe governments in action and from it form opinions on their effectiveness, leading to a decision on his next voting procedure.

Government policies are determined on public opinion, and the alert citizen keeps abreast of public opinion and makes his own contribution to it.

A community or country where the citizens are well informed will hold opinions more intelligent than where they are ignorant of public affairs. A democracy of informed citizens is able to govern itself more intelligently.

The government must keep itself attuned to public opinion because it is in this way that it receives its authority. Any policy which has not the backing of the people is enforced only with great difficulty. Governments simply cannot afford to ignore public opinion.

Legislation nearly always results from a balancing of public wishes and individual views. The individual views. The individual may exert his influence in the directions important to him. But to do this he must be well informed, and to do it in a democratic way, he must have the welfare of all the people at heart.

LIGHTS IN THE STUDY

September means back-to-school for our elementary and secondary school children. The beginning of a new school year is a good time to take a look at your child's study area. Is it large enough? Is it away from television noises and other potential distractions? Is it bright cheery and uncluttered? Is the lighting adequate? The lighting is particularly important, for inadequate lighting will lend to eye strain and a subsequent loss of efficiency and interest. Remember that ceiling lights alone are not enough — there should be a non-glare light close to the reading subject.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Christmas Present

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson has made it abundantly clear that after the flag committee reports late next month, his Government will take firm action to get the new Canadian flag approved by Parliament. The Prime Minister has virtually pledged that Canada will have a distinctive national flag by Christmas, based on a Maple Leaf.

There was a general sigh of relief around the country when the members of Parliament concurred with the agreement, reached among the political party leaders, to refer the flag question to a special committee of the Commons. That followed 33 days of debate and nearly 200 speeches.

Now it will be the job of the 15-man committee to come up with a design for a distinctive national flag. The committee consists of 7 Liberals, 5 Conservatives and 1 each from the N.D.P., Social Credit and the Creditistes.

The Prime Minister told the House: "It was agreed (by the leaders) that the committee would report back to the House in the normal way within six weeks." Later he explained that by "the normal way" he meant that by a simple majority report.

By agreeing to the flag question going to a committee Mr. Diefenbaker has substantially reduced the opportunities his Red Ensign group has the official opposition will have to filibuster the adoption of the flag the committee may recommend.

When the Committee makes its report a motion will be made that the report be now concurred in. That motion will enable the P. C.s, who are determined to have the Red Ensign preserved, or some semblance of it on the new flag, to debate at length. There may be 80 or more Tory speeches. The Conservatives may also move a motion that the report be not concurred in, and this again will provide a springboard for 80 or more Conservative speeches.

This would almost exhaust the Progressive Conservative filibuster. But if the Tories come up with some other procedural manoeuvre to try and stall adoption of the committee report Prime Minister Pearson will be in a good position to either move that the previous question be now put, or to move closure.

All this of course is based on the assumption that the Commons Committee may bring down a maple leaf design which Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker and his group of Red Ensign advocates cannot accept. It may be that the Committee can work out a compromise design which Mr. Diefenbaker and his party may be able to approve as a new Canadian flag. However, this is regarded here as extremely doubtful.

Shortly after the Prime Minister announced that the official leaders had agreed to set up the committee, Mr. Diefenbaker was interviewed by newsmen and his words taped for radio and television. He said he would prefer a flag that had a symbol of Canada's historic links with Britain and a symbol of French Canada in its design.

Mr. Pearson was informed by radio reporters who interviewed him after they had spoken to Mr. Diefenbaker, that the Opposition Leader was interpreting the committee as another "retreat" by the Government. He learned that the Opposition Leader was suggesting that the Government was "on the run" and had given up its desire for a distinctive maple leaf flag".

The Prime Minister was annoyed. He had hoped the committee could get off to a good non-controversial start.

Mr. Pearson agreed to a national television broadcast over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and bluntly served notice that his Government expected to have a distinctive maple leaf flag by Christmas. This was interpreted in some quarters as an indication that the Government was ready to get the flag recommended by the committee adopted by Christmas even if it meant using closure to terminate the debate.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker charged in the House that Mr. Pearson was pre-determining the findings of the Commons flag committee thereby destroying its integrity. He argued that the committee was not impartial. "I protest very strongly" he said.

The Prime Minister rejected the accusation that he was interfering with the committee. That charge he branded as "nonsense". He was confident that no instructions had been given to members of the committee by any of the party leaders.

However, Mr. Diefenbaker has made it obvious that he will not accept the report of the committee unless it has 80 or 90 percent of the members of the committee in agreement. He wants virtual unanimity with at least 12 or 13 members of the committee agreeing to the report. But Mr. Pearson insists that Mr. Diefenbaker in agreeing to the establishment of the committee concurred with the idea of a report "in the normal way" i.e. with a majority of one or more, or eight out of the 15 members reaching agreement. At the same time the Prime Minister has acknowledged that Mr. Diefenbaker objected that his party would want time to debate the report in the House.

There will be a meeting of all the party leaders after the report is presented by the committee. That meeting will seek to fix a time limit for the debate on the report in the House. If it is a report acceptable to the Conservatives the debate in the House will be short. If the Tories don't like the report the debate will be prolonged. But it cannot be too prolonged. By accepting the idea of a committee Mr. Diefenbaker has in effect relinquished his opportunity to carry on a filibuster indefinitely.

PEACE LOST AND FOUND

Peace of mind — how hard it is to find, how easy it is to lose. It is a fragile tender plant which withers with neglect and must be carefully tended and nurtured.

Self-indulgence can blast it. The pursuit of pleasure does untold damage by making life shallow and sinful. The pursuit of pleasure is responsible for the general promiscuity, the discard of inhibitions, the fact that there are three times as many criminals as college students.

Before the Second World War a journalist wrote a book about his journeys and experiences entitled, "I Found No Peace". Another man, named Danielson, tried to escape the tensions of American society and settled down lonely island in the South Pacific. Natives were peace-loving, there was abundant sweet and life had no tensions or struggle. He could only stand it for one year, then returned to the land of effort and conflict!

Peace of mind is not freedom from struggle. It is awareness of beauty and truth and a wholehearted quest for truth. It is singleness of purpose. It is sensitive, loving work. It is eager brotherhood. It is the perception of reality, reception of the presence of God. It is finding nor sheltered life, closed to sorrow and suffering, but an open life which fills the heart with tears and darkens the days with pain.

An old English saying runs that the secret of peace of mind is to accept the impossible, do without the indespensable, and bear the intolerable. It is struggle and victory. One does not find it in a rest home but on the highway. It was said of Roseberry that he carried his shrine

His claims he was absolutely sober and in his right mind, and to prove his contention demonstrates that the keys of the cars were interchangeable. It probably wouldn't happen again in a hundred years.

Hays-Ross Wedding In Mannville United

A beautiful summer wedding took place in McQueen Memorial United Church at Mannville on July 18th, when Evelyn Agnes Ross, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Ross, of Mannville, and Harry Lewis Hays, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hays of Hardisty, were united in Holy matrimony. Rev. Carlton Miller of Vermilion performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor length gown of nylon tulle over bridal satin, with lace and pearl appliqus, and tiny pearl sleeves. The four-tiered finger-tip veil was held in place by a flower cluster of the same material and pearls. She carried a heart-shaped bouquet of deep pink roses, the gift of the groom's mother.

Miss Janet Clark, cousin of the bride, and Miss Connie Ross, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were identical street-length dresses of pink nylon tulle over pink satin, matching head pieces and white accessories. They carried bouquets of white carnations.

Attendants of the groom were Mr. Francis Ross of Mannville, brother of Henry Hays of Hardisty, brother of the groom.

During the signing of the register Fay Ellen Polen of Minburn, sang "This Happy Hour." The organist was Miss Jennifer Kiborn, of Grimshaw, cousin of the bride.

The altar was adorned with bouquets of mums and carnations. The pews were decorated with satin bows centered by lily-of-the-valley.

A family reception was held in the church social room for 55 guests. The bride's table was laid with a white crocheted lace table cloth, a gift of the groom's mother, and was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake made by the bride's mother and tastefully decorated in white, edged by pink flowers embedded in icing. Masters of ceremonies Mr. Andrew Clarke, uncle of the bride, called upon Mr. Roy Hay of Mannville to lead in the blessing. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. John Kaye, another uncle of the bride, to which the groom fooligaly responded.

For a honeymoon trip to Calgary, Banff and Lake Louise the bride chose a three-piece suit of blue cotton knit, with white accessories and a corsage of pink baby mums. Upon their return they have made their home in Edmonton.

Out-of-town guests were from Amisk, Carr, Edmonton, Grimshaw, Hardisty, Lethbridge, Minburn, Mannfarly, Rosyth and Vermilion, Alberta; Welland and Toronto, Ontario; and Wilkie, Saskatchewan.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

This column will be made up, for the most part, of excerpts from letters from my son. The first one was found, in the breakfast, one morning a couple of weeks ago.

I'd eat up until midnight with Hugh, convincing him that for financial and political reasons, his ambition to spend a couple of weeks in Quebec, on his own, was foolish.

The letter read "Dear family: this is not a suicide note. By the time you read this I will be sailing along the highway towards the midnight sun (or noonday moon). I'm off to leave the grass green greener still.'

Don't think that I've run away from home. I'm a little too old for that and anyway the idea's revolting. I may be disillusioned and be back on my doorstep by dinner time but if everything goes as I plan, I will spend the next two months in Quebec, learning French and discussing everything with fiery French radicals. I know you think I am a communist and will probably wind up in jail or hospital, but believe it or not, I'm quite capable of handling myself any French radical.

"Now, don't dare send the Mounties after me. I'd be so embarrassed. I'd run away from home for good. Besides I have my supply of heroin with me. Have yourselves a cringearoo at the convention."

There was more to the letter, but that was the gist of it. You can imagine the ensuing scene.

His father was ready to horsewhip him, or call in the police and charge him with committing-or-other.

His mother was ready to have a good cry, cut him off without a cent, or run down the highway in her bare feet, calling after him.

Then society intruded, as always. What will the neighbors think if he comes home in a police car? What will the neighbors think, and that, if he doesn't come home at all? Why did he do this to us? Has he no gratitude for all we've done for him? And son on. Each one repeated, "What a dope."

People are tough. We cooled off, we realized there wasn't a sensible thing we could do about it, and we went to the convention. But not before we'd blown some shocking, and found he'd cleaned out his bank account, taken his guitar, and, to his mother's utter mortification, absconded with only two clean shirts.

Back from convention, we received two letters. Excerpt: "A really friendly Indian drove me from Kingston to Ottawa and bought me a sandwich and milk-shake. I insisted on paying, of course, but they told me to that I was a friendly, bloody nice some time."

Excerpt: "I am going to Grand'-Mere, Quebec, to spend a couple of weeks with a French family. I met the boy at the station in Ottawa. He is 19, his name is Michel, and he's going to U. of Montreal in the fall."

Excerpt: "I'm staying with the Ricards. He is a painter (in houses). Mrs. Ricard is 49 and rather pretty, a bit tubby, but pretty. She just doesn't speak a word of English. They are all wonderful people and hospitable. At first, I could not understand a thing. They have an accent which sounds more like, more and newer, sire; most is some and Tol, Tomes."

There's a lot of other stuff, then: "Last night, Michel and I double-dated with one of his girl-friends and her sister (they are both really cute). We went to Shawinigan for a beer concert. There were about three times as many boys as girls and they all stood 'bumper to bumper' on each side of the path while the couples trekked between them. Soon it started pouring, so we went to a dance.

Well, the kid's getting some sense. He knows enough to get in out of the rain. There was a little message on the outside of the envelope of his last letter. It was the latest literary thing he's written. It said "Please send $10."

When the whole thing started, I was ready to send him to jail for 20 years. Instead, I sent him the 10 dollars.

Boy's Jeans

Polite society may express dismay, but a boy's mother knows reasonably when she sees one. What keeps the output of boys' dungarees steamed the million pairs a year independent mostly on their usefulness and durability throughout the ages of boyhood.

Examined superficially in the store, all blue jeans may look pretty much alike. However, to get maximum wearability, there are some basic decisions to be made in shopping for jeans.

A Little Nylon Goes A Long Way

Boys of different shapes, ages and habits finish off their jeans in different ways. There is the grinder, the seat thinner and pocket ripper.

It has been found that a denim's resistance to tearing and bursting (under pressure of knees or bulging pockets) depends almost solely on fabric weight.

Resistance to abrasion also increases with fabric weight but it is further enhanced by the presence of nylon.

A 12 to 14 oz. blend of cotton and nylon gives longest wear, followed in descending order by 13 to 14 oz. cotton; 10 to 11 oz. cotton-nylon, 10 to 11 oz. cotton. This rule should be applied with reference to your possible desire for a cooler or more pliable lighter weight denim, especially for the small child. Look at the label for fabric weight and fibre content.

A Shopper's Guideline

A good pair of jeans should, in addition to satisfying fabric needs, have the following features:

Waistband — The top of the jeans should be made up of a one-piece waistband of double-layer fabric. The ends of the band, where it closes over the fly, should be fold-ed back and stitched down, not merely finished with overcast stitching.

Pockets — The mouth of each pocket should be reinforced with a bar tack or rivet at each end. Inspect all rivets by pulling on surrounding fabric to reveal sloppy insertions. The bottom seam of a side pocket is less likely to break open if a french seam is used rather than an overcast plain seam. Have your boy jam his hands into the side pockets as a check of their room-iness.

The Fly Zipper — The zipper tape should be one-quarter inch wide and should be of brass, or be chromium-plated, rather than of aluminum. The pull tab should be self-locking. The zipper should be double-stitched in the jeans, and the fly bottom should be reinforced by two bar tacks or rivets, not just one. Of course, the zipper should always be long enough for its purpose.

Seams — Look for double or triple rows of neat stitches wherever stress is likely and that includes the crotch, the outside and inside of each leg, and the pockets. Avoid bunching of fabric layers, especially in the crotch seam. Seam allowances should have selvedge, overcast or turned-in edges. Belt loops should be ruggedly secured to the waistband.

Fabric Inspection — Look for uniform color and texture; and make sure the denim is not too stiff or bulky if the jeans are for a tot. Important claims to watch for are vat-dyed and pre-shrunk fabric.

Do they fit? — Western style jeans fit snugly; stretching growth room you might want in more expensive children's clothes. But there should be several inches of turn-up cuff to allow for vertical sprouting and also a little room in the crotch. Warning To Mothers

Even if they are vat-dyed, jeans leave the wash water blue so keep them aside for the dark fabric wash. Whether the jeans are wet or dry, color may rub onto other fabrics, so don't let your son sit in the white chair!

(Dolores Dolan)

DAYLAND — Dayland Home and School opened the season with the very popular Color Night, September 16th at 8 p.m.

The business meeting covered a variety of interesting topics. Mr. F. Schnell, Mr. N. Nickerson and Mr. D. Wald were nominated as President, Secretary, and Treasurer respectively. The possibility of an Honor Roll in the School for the Junior High will be received in committee. The date for the October meeting was set for Thursday, the 22nd. If this date proves popular the Home and School date may be changed to the fourth Thursday of each month. Mr. Schnell urged good attendance.

The presentations were the highlight of the evening.

Margaret Monroe received the Dresdiger Agency cup for best all round student in Grade VI.

Garry Reist received the Home and School Plaque for highest honors in academic subjects. Linda Schaffer received a similar plaque for grade VIII.

Randy Broemling received the scores for grade X and Anne Bailey of Strome received the grade XI honors.

Ekaros Grabruck received a cheque for $30.00 for highest marks in Grade IX Language.

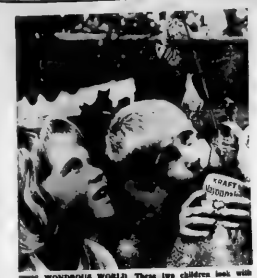
There was no presentation for English honors this year as no one qualified (better luck next year students).

Mrs. Terry presented Typing Certificates to the following students, Anne Bailey, Rat Coward, Lenora Koshli, Linda Little, Doris Mohawerski, Audrey Marvinhoski and Pat Pauley. The highest rate was won by Linda Little and been secretary by Ruth Coward and Doris Mahowerski.

Mr. John Tomich of Dayland Lions presented a set of beautiful volumes to Mr. Carroll, for use in the class.

The meeting closed on a light note, a solo by Mrs. Harmer, a sing song conducted by Mrs. McNeil and a special tribute to the students by Adelle Dredz who sang "Our Best To You."

Everyone enjoyed lunch and coffee before going home.



THIS WONDROUS WORLD. These two children look with glowing eyes at a bright-winged butterfly they captured while at play in their garden. It is the best thing of your fair collecting good specimens of Monarch butterflies.

U of A Enrollment

Student enrolment at the Edmonton campus of the University of Alberta is expected to reach an all-time high of close to 11,000 this winter. This figure represents a 10 per cent over-all increase and includes approximately 1400 evening credit program students and close to 1,000 graduate students.

It is anticipated that 2,600 of these students will be new to the campus and that the Faculty of Education will have the largest number of new admissions with approximately 650. Next will come Science with 500, Arts (th 450, and Engineering with 200.

These figures are only predictions and cannot be verified until after next week when the bulk of Registration takes place. Registration of all students in Agriculture, Arts, Commerce, Education, Engineering, Graduate Studies, Household Economics, Medical Laboratory Science, Nursing, Pharmacy, Physical Education, Rehabilitation Medicine, and Science will take place between September 21 and 25, classes begin on September 28. Registration of students in Medicine, Dentistry, Dental Hygiene, and Law has already taken place and classes are now in session.

Daysland Council Considering Plans For New Sports Grounds Facilities

(By Dolores Dolan)

DAYLAND — The regular monthly council meeting of the Town of Dayaland was duly held in the Town Office on Tuesday, September 8th. Six councillors were present with Mayor Pryor presiding.

Mr. A. F. Blatz, councillor for the M.D. of Flagstaff explained to council of the Town of Dayland that the M.D. grid police wages on a pro rata basis. A raise in wages would be handled the same way. Town Council asked if Dayland rural Constable Bekaluk wages $10.00 per month, would the M.D. of Flagstaff consider giving him an equal raise. Mr. Blatz agreed to discuss this with the council of the M.D. Flagstaff and send a reply as to their decision.

The next delegation was comprised of the Dayland Bell Club and the Chariot Racing Association. Mr. F. Schmidt was spokesman for the group and gave council a blueprint and estimate of the cost of remodelling the present sportsground to include a race track, 2 ball diamonds, etc. He asked that this project be undertaken through the Federal Provincial Centennial Grants Program. It was moved that applications be made in the Federal Provincial Centennial Grants Program for a grant to build a sports ground. Carried. It was also suggested that the secretary contact the Provincial Committee and see if someone was available that would come out and give us further advice and information.

Mr. Martin Mandrusiak of the Dayland Hotel again approached council in regards to reducing the sewer service charge. Council informed him that the engineers had suggested it be reduced from $50.00 to $40.00 and had showed figures as to the reason for this reduction. This letter was forwarded to the Local Authorities Board who would give their consent to the change.

Mr. Wm. Erkinal thought his assessment was too high and asked Council if they could give it consideration. He was informed that a General Assessment was being undertaken this year and the proper time to appeal would be after he received his assessment notice.

Mr. B. Samels and S. Ellis of Associated Engineering Services presented their estimate of a Proposed Water System for the Town of Dayland. The brief was read over and discussed. Council thought they would likely proceed with a water testing program they would present any proposal to the raleigan, or hire any engineers.

Mr. Raymond Brown applied for a building permit for an addition 20x30 onto his present dwelling. It was moved that this permit be granted, as long as he complies with present regulations. Carried.

Alberta Government Telephones wrote a letter enquiring if the Town would sell them lots 15 and 16, block 3, plan LV. They would construct a new telephone office on this site. It was moved that the town sell them these lots with the usual building permits and option to purchase agreement. Cd.

A letter received from Calgary Power stated they would sell Lot 20, block 3, plan LV to the Town for one dollar. They would forward Certificate of Title, transfer and easements in the near future.

The Public Utilities Board had sent their decision of the hearing in regard to Natural Gas for Highway 13, which was read to Council. The decision was in favor of Killam and Sedgewick receiving approval to apply to the Public Utilities Board for a natural gas system providing they meet certin requirements stipulated by the Board.

A letter received from the Hon. A. Holowach, Provincial Secretary gave Council the permission to set up a Public Library Board. Grants were not to exceed $1000.00 as this question had not been referred to the electors. Mayor Pryor appointed Cr. Schnell to be the representative on the Board from Town Council. The Mayor is automatically on this board.

The Dept. of Public Works informed Town Council, if they were interested in acquiring Lots 23-30, block 7, plan LV, they would have this property appraised by an independent appraiser and the Town of Dayland could then acquire it for that price. Council instructed the Secretary to ask the Dept. of Public Works to proceed with the appraisal.

Other correspondence received was from Municipal Engineering Services, requesting to spend another evening with Council to discuss the proposed water system. A letter from the Department of Education explaining that requisitions would be paid direct to the school division, with the Department's permission, the yearly statement from Alberta East Central Health Unit and two Emergency Measures letters, one stating that we must apply to qualify for say reimbursements for 10-66-66 year and that an E.M.O. Police Service Course would be held in Camrose on the 16th of September. Mayor Pryor said he would notify Cmst. Schetz of this course.

Resolution No. 87. — A resolution to appoint a returning officer. Whereas it is necessary to appoint a returning officer for this year, therefore be it resolved that we appoint Mr. Wm. Hanrahan of Daysland, Alberta as returning officer for 1964.

Be it also resolved that nominations be received on the 23rd day of September in the Town Office and should there be a need for a vote polling place be at the Elks Hall in Dayaland. Carried. Dated at Dayaland this 8th day of Sept. 1964.

Council discussed the renovation of the present sports ground and many were of the opinion that there was not too much room for any expansion. With the shortage of lots on sewer, it was decided this would also be a good building spot. It was decided the Parks Committee should look into the possibility of starting a new sports ground on the west end of the Town Hall and south of the hospital. Other organizations interested should be contacted and informed of Council's thoughts.

(By Dolores Dolan)

Miss Sylvia Kofoed left on Sunday to take up nurses training at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton.

Visitors at the home of Mrs. L. Dolans on Thursday were Mrs. L. West, Kelowna, B.C., Mrs. E. Brewer, Red Deer, Mrs. Mary Schoolar, Penoka, Mrs. G. Frankhanel, Holsler.

Mrs. Schroeder returned home on Sunday from England, where she visited with her brother and sisters. This was her first trip in 35 years since she came out in 1929. The day after her return home, Mrs. Schroeder received a telegram stating that her brother, Herbert Taylor, had passed away.

The Hospital Auxiliary is planning a Turkey Bingo in the Elks' Hall, September 30th. A price for advance ticket sales. The proceeds are going to assist in buying cribs for the hospital.

Early in October the Brethern of the Dayaland Elks Lodge will be canvassing for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The Ladies of the Royal Purple Lodge, Dayaland will be assisting in this task with a tag day during this same period. You are asked to give as generously as possible. Donations will be accepted by Bill Stevens and Paul Schnell.

The Lions Club are planning a turkey shoot on October 4th 1 1/2 miles east of Dayaland on Highway 13 at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Agnes Miller went to Edmonton for a few days to visit her sister Mrs. Kate Kuntz.

The Dayaland Lions Club was host on Wednesday night to Miss Lois Everitt of Telfield, who showed slides and spoke on her trip to Colmar France. This trip was sponsored by the Lions of Zone 3B of District 37-B.

The pay phone at Pryors Service Station was wrecked at the week end and the money taken, other phones damaged that night were at Meeting Creek, Bawif, Strome, Killam and Sedgewick. The same evening Mr. Ed Ouhlo had his car pushed out of Lorn where it was found with the tires stripped off. Wednesday night of the same week, the school was broken into and a number of the school insurance envelopes were missing.

Postage Stamp Honors Queen

ANNE NEWS

Sharon Lehne Marries Mr. Robert Cummins

Amish Bethel Tabernacle, July 28, 1964, was the scene of a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. K. D. Ashell, uncle of the bride, uniting in marriage Sharon Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lehne of Amisk, and Robert George, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cummins of Edmonton. Pianist was Mrs. V. Nordin and soloist, Mr. Wedel Ashell, uncle of the bride.

The bride entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and was given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional full, floor-length gown of chiffon over taffeta with round neckline and long sleeves. Chiffon rosettes on the skirt and panels embroidered on a front panel accented her shoulder length bouffant veil which was held in place by a single white satin rose. She carried orchids, beauty roses.

Maid of honor, Virley Sampson, cousin of the bride and bridesmaid Joann Odegard, were identically dressed in street-length sheath dresses of yellow chiffon over satin. The overskirt gordured with fabric flowers was trimmed with a bow at the waist. Aurora Borealis crystals matched that of the bride.

Flower girl, Shelley Ashell, cousin of the bride, wore a dainty white summer frock with matching headband, trimmed in rollew. All of the bride's attendants carried bouquets of yellow carnations and wore matching veil headpieces.

Attending the groom were Mr. Garry Acres, cousin of the groom, and Mr. Dardette Lehne, brother of the bride. Janice boutman was Jim Cummins and ring-bearer was Garth Ashell. Messrs Murree Lehne, brother of the bride and Trevor Selbeck, cousin of the groom acted as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pretty dress and duster set of turquoise with white accessories. The mother of the groom was attired in an attractive two-piece dress in a shade of blue with hat to match and white accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

At the reception in the school auditorium, Mr. Ely Ashell, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded. Master of ceremonies was Kenneth Ashell, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Heather Peter presided at the guest register.

The program consisted of vocal selections by Mrs. Doris Powell, Mr. Howard Selbeck, uncle of the groom gave an amusing and interesting biography of the groom.

-- TV Talks --

New and returning programs continue to pop into the CBC-TV schedule this week as the fall pattern becomes more firmly established.

One the CBC has big hopes for, "Show of the Week", debuts Monday night, September 28th at 8:30 p.m. This versatile new series will be hosted by Wayne and Shuster Hours, 14 serious dramas, a progressive variety shows, 6 programs in which Wayne and Shuster take an affectionate look at the great comedians of the past and present and 3 Percy Como specials.

Monday's opener is a Canadian variety show featuring host Donald Harron, singer Betty Roberston, comedian Dave Broadfoot, dancers Lynn Seymour and Christopher Gable of the Royal Ballet of London England, and Maynard Ferguson's band.

Another premiere Monday night is Danger Man. In the first episode of the new hour-long series, Patrick McGoohan, as agent John Drake, is sent to the Mid-le East to rescue an important espionage agent befo'e the man is betrayed. Drake is exposed to two beautiful female complications and saves undercover treachery as he races against time to rescue the agent. Dongar Man debuts on the 59th at 9:00 p.m.

An exciting special for theatre-goers, Wednesday, Sept. 30th at 9:30 is a television version of the smash-hit off-Broadway musical PARADE on TCH, now in the 6th year in the Sheridan Street Playhouse in New York. The cast includes Richard Monette, Bert Lahr, Susan Watson and John Davidson.

THE SERIAL, which this year will stress more action and adventure

The Bible Today

Arrangements have been made with a Christian newspaper in Belgium for a weekly Scripture reading to be intended free in the Sunday edition. The Gospel of Mark in the first book to be serialized in this fashion. Each week will begin the caption "God's Word for a New Age,, and the reader is invited to the Bible Society Office for a free copy of the Gospel that is being quoted.

An agreement has just been concluded with the Radio Committee of the Evangelical Church of Vietnam to include a regular four-minute Scripture reading on one of their programs. Listeners will be invited to write for a free copy of the Gospel. These programs are given on free time on government radio stations throughout the country.

A new postage stamp to honor the visit to Canada of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, will be issued by the Canada Post Office on October 5th, 1964, it was announced today by the Hon John R. Nicholson, Postmaster General.

Her Majesty plans to visit Charlottetown, P.E.I. and Quebec City, marking the centenary celebrations of the two famous conferences that led to Confederation three years later. Special postage stamps commemorating the Charlottetown and Quebec Conferences have already been issued by the Canada Post Office.

The new stamp will be of the large size in a vertical format. It will depict a portrait of Her Majesty from a photograph by Anthony Barkley of London, England. The wording Postes - Canada-Postage and the denomination, five cents, complete the design of the stamp. As is customary, the special stamps issued to commemorate Royal Visits, no other wording will appear on the special issue.

The portrait depicts Her Majesty in a seated position wearing a simple white gown and a tiara. A model of the stamp was submitted to Her Majesty, as is customary, before engraving and Queen Elizabeth expressed her satisfaction with the design.

The stamp will be printed in purple ink by steel engraving intaglio process. The stamp was designed and printed by the Canadian Bank Note Company of Ottawa.

EMO Hold Surprise Exercise

(Dolores Dolan)

DAYLAND — A simulated plane crash at about 8:45 Saturday morning in the Coal Inspiration Ice brought the R.M.O. into action. About fifteen minutes after the crash the 1st customers arrived at the hospital with a victim. With the fan cast system put into effect all the victims were at the hospital with in 40 minutes of the crash. The spiritual assistance, runners and police were there in a matter of 10 minutes.

Everything went very smoothly considering it was a surprise emergency practice.

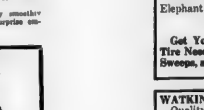
Biography Of New Minister Of Education

Hon. Randolph Hugh McKinnon, Alberta's new Minister of Education, has been sworn in as successor to Hon. Anders O. Aalborg, the new Provincial Treasurer. Mr. McKinnon, 47, was born July 22, 1917 at Dalhousie, Alberta, the son of John Donald and Ruth Rebecca McLeodie Home and School Association, a member of the Dinosaur Board of Religious Education for the Anglican Church in Edmonton and a past president of the Edmonton Junior High School Sob Local Council of Teachers' Associations. While operating a general store in Alix from 1945 he served a two-year term on the board of the Alix Consolidated School District. On August 28, 1943 he married Margaret Maureen Marshall, daughter of Jamies A. and Edna M. Marshall of Bashaw. The couple have three daughters. Kathleen, 16, Marion, 12, and Corrine, 6.



Kinnon. He received his early education at Dalhousie public and high schools, attended normal school in Calgary and received his bachelor of Education degree from the University of Alberta in Edmonton. Then Social Credit MLA for Strome-Wetaskiwin Mr. McKinnon first was elected to office in the June 18, 19-4 general election and again in the 1963 election. A language and Social Studies teacher for nine years at McKernan Junior High School in Edmonton, he is Treasurer and past president of the Al-

Baptist Church

Following the Graduation Exercises in Sedgewick on Friday night, thirty young people gathered at the lower auditorium of the Killam Baptist Church in honor of Shirley Hamberger, who will be leaving to attend Briercrest Bible Institute, Bay and David Grywinski who leave to attend the University of Alberta. Petah Katt who will be attending College in Camrose, and Norman Rancier who has also attained to the diploma. Many fellowship and lunch were enjoyed. Group Two served meter that they plan to have a party next month as they had three visitors and all sponsors present.

During the Sunday morning Sunday School Hour a letter was read from the Korean orphan boy whom we sponsor. Preparations were made for Promotion Sunday to be held on Sunday, September 27th, at which time a number of boys and girls will be promoted to higher classes.

The Pastor ministered at both services.

MASTER FARM FAMILIES

Next time you pass a farm that impresses you by its efficient, well-kept appearance, check to see if the gate has a Master Farm Family plaque. This title is awarded by our Provincial Government to those enterprising, independent businessmen, our Alberta farmers and their families. Every year, five Master Farm Families are chosen - one for each of our five Alberta soil zones.

What makes a Master Farm Family? Good farming, yes . . . but leadership in other areas r the farm home and the comm ra equally important. If the fa so is not a master farm today, the chances are it will be picked tomorrow. Agricultural leadership is one more reason why we're proud of OUR ALBERTA.

This is an example of the stories of enterprise and courage in Calgary Power's new publication "Our Alberta Heritage". Mail coupon for your free copy.

Standard equipment: a bank loan

It has become almost standard practice today for people to go to their bank to finance the purchase of cars and other family items. You, too, may have found it a good idea to borrow where you save — at your local bank. It is often simpler, because the bank already knows you as a savings customer. And it also may save you money because bank loans are low-cost loans. For borrowing and saving, and for any other bank service you may need, just visit your local chartered bank. It's the one place where you can get all your banking done, under one roof.

THE CHARTERED BANKS SERVING YOUR COMMUNITY

Through 5,650 branches, all across Canada, the chartered banks bring full-range banking within the reach of everyone.

FIRST CANADIAN CHRISTMAS POSTAGE STAMPS

The first special Christmas stamps in Canadian postal history will go on sale October 16th, it was announced today by the Hon. John R. Nicholson, Postmaster General. There will be two stamps of similar design, a blue five cent denomination and a red three cent issue.

The stamps, which will be printed by the steel engraving intaglio process, will show a family group of a man, woman and two children in silhouette, walking towards a Christmas star in a typical Canadian winter scene. The design is intended to express the feeling of Christmas as a religious and family occasion, and at the same time to portray the scene in a Canadian environment. It is also intended to tie in with the beauty of the family's plate in contemporary Canadian life which was held last summer under the sponsorship of the Governor General and Madame Vanier.

The present design had been decided upon, Mr. Nicholson said, after studying and rejecting dozens of sketches and drawings by a variety of Canadian artists.

Although in 1898 Canada produced a stamp bearing the words "Xmas 1898", the 1964 issues are the first Canadian postage stamps provided especially for use on Christmas mail. The three cent denomination is the stamp normally used for unsealed Christmas cards and the five cent issue is the usual rate for first class or sealed letters.

Although the special issue will be issued as postage any time, the stamps will be withdrawn from regular sale at post office wickets immediately after Christmas.

The new stamps are both in the regular small size, similar to the general issue postage stamps. A total of 100 million five cent stamps and 200 million three cent stamps will be printed.

The stamps were designed, engraved and printed by the Canadian Bank Note Company, Ltd., of Ottawa.

FUA Plan Convention

Art Musgrave, President of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, Hon. Harry Hays, Federal Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Harry Strom, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, John Fisher, Centennial Commissioner, and Mr. A. M. Brewster, well known Alberta lawyer, have accepted invitations to speak at the next FUA Annual Convention in Edmonton, December 7-11.

The O.F.A. President it to present the Ontario experience with produce marketing boards. There are about 17 such marketing boards operating in that province at present, with experience going back over a decade.

The Alberta Farm Machinery Act will be Mr. Brewster's topic. This piece of legislation is under fire from farm organizations because among other dealings, responsibility for defective implements is not clearly fixed by law. Mr. Brewster has been asked to explain the workings of the present act to the convention delegates.

"Mister Canada", John Fisher, well speak Wednesday evening. As Canada heads down the final stretch toward the 1967 Centennial Celebration, the plans and projects slated for the observance are receiving increased attention from the public. Mr. Fisher will discuss the part farmers can play in the celebration of Canada's 100 years of nationhood.

A return engagement is also on the program. Federal Minister of Agriculture Harry Hays spoke to last years' convention in Calgary. At that time he had not been a minister of the crown very long. Since then, Mr. Hays has made a name for himself with his original methods and ideas. He has also had time to tour agricultural areas in Europe and Russia.

Hon. Harry Strom will speak on provincial agricultural matters.

In the weeks to come, the FUA will be announcing the names of other speakers, and items of interest on the program of the forthcoming convention.

The Junior Farm Leader of the Year, Miss Carol A. Szymanek of Erkville, has just returned from "a very enjoyable and educational trip to Bailey, Colorado" as a guest of the United States National Farmers Union. Miss Szymanek took part in an N.F.U. Leadership Seminar at the N.F.U. Youth Center.

While there, Miss Szymanek talked with James Patten, President of the N.F.U. They discussed possible future exchanges of young people between youth camps in Alberta and Colorado. Mr. Patten said he hoped this could be arranged, and on a fairly large scale.

CENTRAL HIGH ACTIVITIES

Football Season Opens Saturday

Central High survived with two less teachers on Thursday and Friday of last week. Mr. Walker was in the Killam Hospital and Mr. Hill attended a Science Seminar at [illegible].

The school chorus presented 3 numbers at the Central High graduation last Friday. The first number was entitled "Graduation Day" and the second was entitled "Via Con Dios". The third number was a song about Central High. Mr. Chapman directed the choir during the assembly.

Sports:

St. Patrick's and Camrose Composite High, in Camrose were joined to make one football team because of the lack of players. Also the St. John's College in Edmonton was admitted in the league. This year no team will be able to dress more than 20 players a game. The eligibility rules were tightened up to prevent over-age players from entering the teams.

ROBERT J. C. STEAD

A few months ago a serial entitled, "Grain" was run in the magazine section of the Free Press Weekly, written by Robert J. C. Stead.

I knew something of his life as a young lad, later as a man, as he lived for some years in the district just four miles from Myrier, our district. Although he was born in Ontario, he came West with his parents when he was quite young. He started going to school at the age of six, attending the little old log school in that district (Chesterville) right through grade eight, then riding horseback every day into town to high school.

Robert, although rather shy of his girls, did love to play ball, football, hockey, etc. with the boys. But the teachers declared Robert was a dreamer, staying away in the distance when she was trying to explain some problem or other. Robert was not a dull pupil by any means. He almost invariably had his class in every subject especially in literature.

The Stead homestead was situated on the banks of a lovely little creek, an ideal place for community picnics. Every year at the close of the school, young and old came from near and far for this annual event. All forms of recreation and entertainment was always well attended, as there seemed to be very little diversion at best for these hard-working pioneers, to break the monotony of their daily grind.

For prizes for the youngsters who were more fleet of foot in the various games, the older people pooled their resources and together would bought a keg of dried prunes, giving possibly three or four to each child.

The lucky girl of boy, upon receiving the much-coveted prizes, would eat the meat off the stone, then the most of them would crack the stone on a rock to get the nut inside. Never let it be said these lads and beaus wasted any part of anything eatable, especially if it happened to be in the line of a treat.

Robert's best friends and chums were the two oldest sons of an old Scotchman, Mr. Munroe, living four miles North of the Stead homestead (the names of these boys were Jim and Jack). Although Robert seldom missed going to school every day, poor Jim and Jack Munroe went only if they were not needed at home to help their father with the work.

It was the last day of school before the annual picnic, and summer holidays. The youngsters could talk of nothing else. Of course Jim and Jack were as excited as any of them (as was Robert). Then the night before the picnic Mr. Munroe announced, with no reason whatever, that Jim and Jack didn't need to go to that silly picnic. They were too old for such child's play, anyway, he added. Therefore, he told them to get everything ready for a trip to the bush the next day (picnic day), and chop down, trim and bring home a load of poles for summer burning. That meant that Jim and Jack must leave very early (before daylight, very like) and getting home until after dark (the distance was a matter of some 30 miles). Mr. Munroe was known for and was for his slave-driving meanness, especially to his family, and was never known to even give a kind word to a kind word.

Those poor little boys were just 11 and 12 years old, and the tempter was the only diversion they ever had. They looked forward to the picnic for a year, having had a good feed they could eat, and to wiener and buns of the coveted prunes. So that morning they were too choked up to even eat their tasteless porridge, and with a lump in their throats the weak, submissive type whose hearts seemed to be "open at any price," so she said and did nothing to relieve the whole horrid situation. So although the mother-heart of her man; have been nigh to breaking to see her two boys so disappointed she was afraid to speak up.

Robert, of course, nothing at all of this abominable plot to keep Jim & Jack from going to the picnic, wiener and candy-coated prunes, would eat the meal

Around Sedgewick

We are indeed sorry to report the sudden death of Mr. Audrey Gevlatin. Mr. and Mrs. Gravlatin were on vacation in B.C. when Audrey was seized with a heart attack. Mr. Gravlatin was employed by the M. D. of Flagstaff.

It has been brought to our attention that there are people dumping garbage along our scenic country roads. In this day and age with the roads beautified, grass and trees planted, this garbage makes an unsightly mess of the surroundings. We ask those concerned to please cease such activities, and make use of the proper disposal facilities.

The winners were selected by a panel of weekly newspaper editors. The Junior Citizenship program is sponsored by Calgary Power Ltd. with the enthusiastic co-operation of Alberta's weekly editors, to outstandingly recognize girls and boys between the ages of 6 and 16 who made real contributions to their communities. The field of qualification is broad. Acts of physical heroism, achievement of scholastic success under adverse circumstances, outstanding work with a church, school, social or other organization, or the shouldering of unusual home responsibilities, are but a few.

This year Calgary Power entertained the Junior Citizenship Program to include group awards. It was felt that there were many boys or girls who, as a group, had performed some act of merit or courage together and should be given the recognition they deserved.

As guests of Calgary Power, the young award winners from various communities in Alberta were entertained at lunch in Edmonton. G. H. Milligan, Director of Employee and Public Relations for Calgary Power presented them with their awards.

Winners of the 1963-64 awards were:

LYNDA DANN of Vulcan, Alberta, who saved the life of her friend when she was caught in an icy mountain pool.

GARY FRY of Jasper Place, Alberta, who is only 12 years old and had to assume complete care of his invalid mother and total responsibility for their home.

DAVID KILFORD of Sherwood Park, Alberta, who saved two of his friends from drowning.

PHILIP MONCREIEFF of Cayley, Alberta, who showed great courage and unselfishness by caring for his crippled brother each and every day.

ALBERTINE COCKERMOUTH of Bashaw, Alberta, who cheerfully assumed ever-increasing responsibilities in her home before and after her mother's death.

HUGH C. McLEOD of Jasper Place, Alberta, who in spite of his loss of sight, successfully completed his school year.

JUNIOR RED CROSS GROUP, Grades 5 and 6, Cayley School, who worked steadily knitting squares to be made into afghans and assembling "Health Kits" so desperately needed by the Red Cross.

Business Newly Open

DAYSLAND — Dayslend Building Supplies Ltd., a new business enterprise, opened for business this week in the growing Town of Dayland. The firm will handle all varieties of building supplies, paints, floor coverings and hardware.

Operating in the former Elgin Brown farm machinery building, the new firm is being operated by John Molzner, formerly from Vegreville; Bill Mazick of Wetaskiwin and Ken Mildes of Viking. All the owners are married men and will soon be permanently residing in Dayland along with their families.

Residents of Dayland are well acquainted with Bill Mazick, who for the past few years has been the pool tender for the North Star Hockey Club.

A. P. Crop Report

LOCAL — Scheduling of Crop Districts was completed through most of this area, and about 50 per cent of the crops were cut. Continued dry and hot weather is needed to get the grain in condition for combining, very little of which has been done. Sprouting in early swathed grain is reported from many parts of this area, being most serious in the north-east portion.

GENERAL — After about two weeks of rain and damp weather, conditions improved over Alberta the latter part of last week. Except for the Peace River District, cutting is fairly general throughout the province and is nearly completed in the southern half. Combining is being resumed as the condition of the grain permits. Frost occurred in most areas and some lowering of grades will result. In the Peace River District very heavy frosts were reported, which will cause considerable damage to the crops. Sprouting of swathed grain is serious in some northern areas of the province.

St. Boniface - Spring Lake C.W.L. 35th Anniversary Celebrated

35TH ANNIVERSARY — Mrs. Carl Zimmer cuts the cake at the thirty-fifth anniversary of the St. Boniface - Spring Lake C. W. L. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. C. Lutgen.

(Delores Dalum)

The thirty-fifth anniversary celebration of the St. Boniface, Spring Lake C. W. L. took place in the hall at Spring Lake Sunday, September 13th. The hall was very suitably decorated with a three-tiered shrine in line at the front of the stage. The shrine was mounted with mauve gelds and at the top a statue of The Lady of Good Council". The shrine was surrounded with gold streamers and in gold letters the months of the C.W.L. "For God and Canada."

Seated at the head table were the guest speakers, Monsignor J. A. MacLellan, Very Rev. Canon Schmittner, Father Hickey, Mrs. F. G. Timperley, Mrs. L. T. Mellon, Mrs. J. E. Wilson and J. J. Bench.

The afternoon celebration was opened with everyone singing O Canada, accompanied by Mrs. John McRae on the piano. The President Mrs. J. J. Kench then introduced the guest speakers and called on Mrs. Wendell Mrs. J. P. Macevoy of Edmonton who were also guests for the event.

Very Rev. Dean Schmeitner gave a very interesting history of the St. Boniface C.W.L. which was organized September 22, 1929. The first President being Mrs. Kastt.

Monsignor MacLellan, the Diocesan Director congratulated the ladies on their anniversary and said he would like to see more large conference as it makes it easier to get in contact with the Councils and give them any help or advice that may be needed.

Mrs. F. G. Timperley, Diocesan President, of the Arch Diocese of Edmonton then congratulated the General on the wonderful turnout and on the accomplishments of the past years. She said every Lady should be proud to belong to the C.W.L. as it is a very essential part. The ladies were at extended activation to the Centennial year project of a group home for wayward Indian and Metis girls, with a small portion of 10c a week from each member of the CWL in this Diocese for two years this home could be built.

Mrs. J. E. Wilson, second vice president of the Arch Diocesan Council congratulated the St. Boniface Council on their many years of work and went on to explain the importance of sending in our council reports on time, as a late report is as bad as none.

Mrs. L. T. McKee, Provincial Convenor of Organizations and Developments in Alberta congratulated the Council on the tremendous work done and then gave service for God is a service to our Country. We are now a League of 183,000 strong.

The presentation of scrools was then made by Very Rev. Dean Schmeltner to the Charter Members: Mrs. Kathleen Rakos, Mrs. Alex Klein, Mrs. Albert Jacobs, Mrs. Carl Zimmer, Mrs. E. J. Bahne, Mrs. G. Lutgen, Miss Annie Wallace, Mrs. Lee Waller and Mrs. Leonard Vos. The scroll for thirty years was received by Mrs. Geo. Zimmer; the twenty-nine year to Mrs. W. Rath, and Mrs. Jack Lennon. The twenty-five year scroll to Mrs. Mike Stefanchiven, Mrs. Kate May, Mrs. Andrew Tolk and Mrs. John Wolbeck.

Mrs. Carl Zimmer had the honor of cutting the cake which was baked and decorated by Mrs. G. Lutgen.

The President, Mrs. Kench, then thanke everyone for coming and the other Councils for the lovely cards and gifts, also any one that helped in making their anniversary a success and in the past 35 years for all their years of helpful service.

There were approximately 140 ladies present including the surrounding Councils of Dayland, Heisler, Rosalind, Bruno and St. Peters. A delicious lunch was served by the St. Boniface CWL.

Baptist Church Has Busy Week

The regular W.M.S. meeting was held at the Baptist Church parsonage on Thursday evening. Nineteen ladies answered the roll call with a scripture on "Spiritual Harvest". Scripture and prayer were given by Ethyl Heffel. Our President, Dorothy Blomberg, gave a report on the recent Conference held at Lethbridge. A special number in song by Signe York and Hilda Cotton was enjoyed, followed by the devotion "Continuing with Christ in Our Neighborhood" by Bertie Coyne. Much business was discussed which included plans for a "Christ for the Homeland" service to be held on Sunday evening, October 11th. Plans were made for the Semi-Annual Conference to be held in Killam October 29 to 31st. It was decided to purchase 100 place settings of dishes for the church kitchen. A shower to be held on October 23rd in honor of bride-elect Miss Sybil Heffel was also planned. Our next meeting will be postponed one week due to the Conference being held at the regular meeting time. Lunch was served by Rev. Grymaloski ministered at the Sunday service.

Open session was held on Rally Day in place of the regular Sunday School classes. A program was presented by the entire Junior Sunday School. Promotion certificates were awarded to: Cathy Krull, Shelley Erickson, Kevin Sorenson, Danny Abbott, Beverley Sorenson, D'Arcy Munro, Valarie Sorenson, Brian Hamberg and Barry Munro.

John Krull spoke on "The Importance of Sunday School."

Different laymen will be participating briefly during each Sunday evening service in the future. The church treasurer was the first to take part in this manner when he spoke on "Giving to Missions and the Blessings that Follow."

Because of erection of rock, Magrath Falls is estimated to have increased seven miles upriver over the past 25,000 years.

Over the past ten years the total of personal income taxes collected by Ottawa has increased from $434 million to $3,271 million.

Alberta Lost $36 Million

Since January 1, 1964, Alberta has lost $36,925,000.00 of economic power through the deaths of 211 Albertans. The 211 deaths resulted from traffic accidents.

The figure of $36,925,000 is obtained by pegging each traffic death at a $175,000 loss to the community The pegged figure is supplied by the National Safety Council in Chicago.

In its August Traffic Accident Summary The Alberta Safety Council reports a 23% increase in deaths over the corresponding 8 month period last year, from 171 deaths to 211.

Forty-three persons died on provincial roads in August. Plus show R.C.M. Police reported 32 deaths, with Edmonton reporting 5, Calgary 2 and Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Mn-Me-O Beach one e- piece.

Accidents and injuries have remained constant with only small increase increases over last year, Accidents are up 4% — August's total: of 1,846 mishaps pushed the 8 month the figure to 10,908. injuries mentwhile rose 8% to 3,106, of which 312 were reported in August.

During the 31-day August period RCMP reported 1,267 accidents with 522 injuries. Edmonton had 1,014 mishaps and 137 injuries while Calgary tallied 434 collisions and 112 injuries. The statistics story in other Alberta centres looked like this: Lethbridge — 32 accidents and 14 injuries; Red Deer — 45 and 18; Medicine Hat — 17 and 2; Camrose — 18 and 5; Grande Prairie — 11 and 3.

Rainy, Cold Fall Has Hurt Crops

Almost constant wet weather during September has not only delayed the harvest but has done considerable damage to both the grade and yield.

After a spring and summer when you couldn't beg, borrow, or steal a small shower let alone a rain, or week of constant rain. Since then it has rained every five or six days. Just when the grain gets dry enough for combining and the farmers are nicely going another shower halts operations for a few more days.

It is estimated that only a very small portion of the wheat in M.D. Flagstaff is safely in the bin and several weeks of dry weather are needed to complete the harvest.

Hundreds of acres of wheat are in the swath, and because of the thin stubble most of it is laying on or very near to the ground. The constant wet weather has caused considerable sprouting in the swath. Much of the wheat lost is still standing will probably be threshed by straight combining according to one informant.

The wet fall has not been entirely bad in the rain has built up the sub soil moisture levels on summerfallow and has helped the pastures. With favorable weather next summer the crop prospects are considered very good.

HARDISTY — The first monthly meeting of the Hardisty Home and School Association was held Monday evening, September 21 in the local school.

The minutes of the last meeting were read; a report from the Treasurer was heard. After a discussion regarding membership fees, it was decided that the fee of $1.50 per year per member or guardian or $2.50 per family or two guardians.

It was decided that the next meeting be held in the evening of October 19th in the school gym, at which time a presentation of pins, and scholarship awards would be made. Guest speaker will be John Kvill, principal of Sedgewick Public School talking on Pre-Employment and vocational training.

After the Principal, Mr. Miller gave a report on the school activities, he introduced the teaching staff. Program chairman Mrs. F. Crowe then introduced guest speaker Mrs. Ann Hilgartner, Home and School Regional Director, and she in turn introduced the former Regional Director Mrs. Betty Hooker. They both gave interesting talks on ways by means of promoting the most interest in the home & school meetings and problems of home & school how they can be remedied.

Coffee and sandwiches were served to the nominated thirty persons in attendance.

A. P. Crop Report

LOCAL — Some progress was made with cutting during the week, and the average amount cut is now about 30%. Damp, rainy weather has prevented grain from drying & while some combining has been done, most of the grain his been tough or damp.

GENERAL — Poor harvesting weather continues to delay operations in all parts of Alberta. After a few days of dry weather last week, rain again brought operations to a halt. Fairly good progress was made with cutting prior to the rain. this operation being almost complete in the southern half of the province and about 80% completed in the north. In the south, Wheat is about 80% combined; Oats and Barley 70%. Only a small amount of combining has been done in the north; and in the Peace River, while some cutting has been done, it is estimated that approximately 25% has been harvested. Frosts have been reported in the Peace River area for one or more seasons, i.e., Evot, Bleaching, mildew and sprouting.

CBC Extends Alberta Service

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will complete a major step in the improvement of national radio service in Alberta with the opening of new transmitters near Calgary and Edmonton on October 1.

The newly-created radio station, CBR, which will serve Calgary and the Southern Alberta area, will also open new studios in the existing Video Tape Centre on Westmount Boulevard in Calgary. It's 50,000 watt transmitter is located at Shepard, about 10 miles eastward of Calgary and consists of two 472 ft. high towers.

Service in the Northern Alberta area will be greatly improved by the relocation of station CBXA, which will have its new studios combined with the present CBXT television facilities on 16th Street in Edmonton. Its 50,000 watt transmitter, consisting of four new 325 ft. high towers, is situated near Leduc, about 15 miles south of Edmonton.

Until this present major development the CBC owned and operated radio facilities in the province of Alberta consisted of one 50,000 watt CBX transmitter located at Lacombe in 1948 and a low-power booster station CBXA, located in Edmonton. CBR, Calgary will now assume the 1010 frequency previously used by CBX Edmonton. CBX will operate on the 740 frequency previously used by CBXA.

With the opening of CBR and the change-over of CBX on October 1, the transmitter at Lacombe will be closed down. The transmitter staff from Lacombe has been transferred to Calgary and to Edmonton. At the same time radio station CFAC in Calgary, long a CBC affiliate will disaffiliate from the network, relinquishing its network programme to CBR.

Mr. Norm Lacey, a veteran of 16 years with the CBC in Winnipeg was recently appointed Manager of CBC Calgary. He will be in charge of CBR, of the CBC daisy centre in Calgary, and of CBC operations generally in southern Alberta.

In Edmonton, station CBX will continue to be under the jurisdiction of Mr. Ralph Hordey, Manager of CBC Edmonton. Mr. Hordey is also in charge of CBXT-TV and of CBC operation generally in Northern Alberta.

There are 370 radio and television stations operating in Canada, of which 280 are privately-owned and 60 are state-owned.

Since 1949 consumer prices in Canada have risen by 38.2 per cent; in the same period the average of wages and salaries have risen by 100 per cent.

The Groom Was Also There!

Some day, somewhere, an Editor is going to take his courage to the typewriter and come out with a wedding writeup that will, if nothing else, shock the reading public into the fact that when a wedding is performed, the groom was also there.

While the editor of this paper has not yet gotten so old that he no longer appreciates the physical attributes of a beautiful and well proportioned bride, and has every desire to do her justice in his writeup, he entertains the feeling that the groom is the party of the second part. He is an also ran. He's the fellow who dirties up the knees of his pants convincing the coy little maid he's the chap she should team up with for better or for worse. But from then on he is relegated to the background and the bride and her mother take over just as though they originated the whole thing to start with.

Yes, some day an editor (and it may be this one) is going to introduce to the reading public, a wedding writeup that does justice to the manly attributes of the virile man who has the courage to abandon his freedom in favor of domestic dictatorship. It may run something like the following.

The groom, conservatively attired in a dark mourning suit, waited expectantly at the altar, slightly nervous, but determined to go through with the performance. His only suit was freshly pressed, and a white shirt with French cuffs accented with a pale blue tie fashioned in a Windsor knot. From his breast pocket protruded a three-pointed white handkerchief. Black patent oxfords with silver eyelets completed his ensemble. His hair swept back from the forehead to be met at the back by a duck-tail and high hairline.

The bride was led down the aisle by her father, becomingly attired in traditional white. She was accompanied by 3 school chums attired in red, white and blue respectively.

The groom was attended by two of the boys from the factory similarly dressed in dark trousers and white coats, with white shirts and yellow ties. They wore red roses a la buttonhole.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the groom's home. where his father and the bride's father greeted the guests as they arrived. Both parents were dressed in gray suits, accented by white shirts and pale gun-metal ties.

For a trip to the local lake resort, the groom boarded his 1962 hot-rod, donned in coveralls and sun-visor. The bride accompanied him.

On their return the groom will resume his employment at the local cheese factory, and the bride will augment the family income by clerking in the grocery store.

While the above sounds reasonable to me, I feel certain that the nation's mothers-in-law won't let me put it across.

We Must Gamble - Freedom Is Dangerous

Freedom is something we all talk about endlessly but very seldom do anything about. In fact the word freedom is used today rather loosely, with a good percentage of people not even knowing the real meaning of the word itself.

The following editorial taken from the Franklin (N.C.) Press is one which is timely at any period in our era. While it refers particularly to the U.S., we ask our readers to substitute the word American for Canadian, and any other references to our neighbor to the south, to one applicable to Canada, and see how closely the editorial applies also to this country.

"Isn't it dangerous to allow Communists to speak on college campuses?" asks a Press reader in a personal letter to the editor. "After all," continues our correspondent, "aren't most college students ill-informed about American history and woefully ignorant of the reasons for our form of government?"

The answer to both questions, of course, is an emphatic "Yes."

Consider the second question first. It is true that our homes and our schools have done a poor job in educating American youth for American citizenship. Most young people know only a little of ideas about such things as our system of government checks and balances and the reasons for these foundation stones in our system.

But is the college student in worse position, in this respect, than the average American adult? Even many of the best educated and most intelligent adults, in other fields, are incredibly ignorant of American history and government. If we are going to protect the college student against the false philosophy of Communism, shouldn't we protect the adult also? And if we start doing that, what happens to the basic American concept of freedom of speech?

If we're going to protect people against Communists' ideas — by guaranteeing those ideas — wouldn't it be logical to protect them against other false ideas? Protect Protestants, for example against the false ideas of Catholicism and Catholics against the error of Protestantism? Protect Democrats against false philosophy of Republicans and vice versa?

Of course it is dangerous to allow Communists to speak on college campuses! It is always dangerous to give people, students or adults, the freedom to choose between two ideas, two philosophies. But every freedom we Americans possess rests upon that one — upon freedom of the mind. That is by freedom itself is so revolutionary, so dangerous a concept. For people are never really free unless they are free to be wrong.

It's a gamble we have to take. It's a gamble the men who set up this nation had the courage to take. They recognized that sometimes people would make the wrong choice, but they were convinced that most people usually would be able to distinguish the from the false.

It's a gamble we must continue to take today. It's a gamble we will take, unless we've lost the courage, the faith in humanity, that transformed the highly improbable American dream into the miracle of reality.

MASTER FARM FAMILIES!

Master Farm Family Awards have just recently been given to two of Alberta's farm families. This is done each year by the Provincial Government to deserving farmers who reach certain standards in their farm operations. Awards have been won by various sections of the province, for instance this year's winners in the Didsbury and Peace River regions.

The farming area served by this paper has some of the best farmers in Alberta, many lovely farmsites, and a good percentage of diversified farming. Many of these farms are well managed and well tended, and the surprise is that seldom, if ever, is one of them up for these awards. Are they not good enough to meet competition, or do they lack sponsors? Why should we not look into the matter.

MACDUFF REPORT

Electoral Map Myth

OTTAWA — The idea that one man's vote should be exactly equal to another's is a noble democratic concept that is difficult and perhaps even impossible to apply.

Each elector of course gets only one vote on election day. But because of the constituency system the weight of that vote varies a great deal, depending on where it is cast.

The 13,800 people of Ile de la Madeleine in Quebec, for example, send one member to the Federal Parliament. The 307,000 people of York-Scarborough in Toronto also send one member to Parliament.

While no amount of human ingenuity is ever likely to create a perfectly balanced system, it is the constitutional and moral duty of Parliament to try to redress the balance from time to time.

The B. N. A. Act, foundation of the Canadian constitution, requires that electoral redistribution be carried out immediately following the decennial census.

After the national head-counting, in other words, the law requires that the number of seats allotted to each Province be redistributed in accordance with the new population figures.

At the same time, the boundaries of the individual constituencies are redrawn in an attempt to come as close as possible to the ideal of giving equal weight to each vote, no matter where the voter lives.

In ordinary times, redistribution following upon the 1961 census would long since have been carried out. But two elections in 1962 and 1963 interfered with the normal process.

It would not have been a normal process anyway, for former Prime Minister Diefenbaker had announced almost to a man and important approach to redistribution. The Liberal Party, when it was in opposition, accepted the principle.

The principle is that redistribution should no longer be put into the hands of members of Parliament, who are frequently quite partisan individuals, and particularly so with the issue of their own ridings are involved.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested appointment of an impartial and independent commission to carry out changes in the electoral map. But he never had an opportunity to get the legislation through Parliament.

The new Liberal government took up where he left off, and introduced legislation which would set up ten independent commissioners to do the job.

There have been some serious differences of opinion between the major parties on how the commission should be appointed, and on how much leeway the legislation should allow to exist in the relative sizes of constituencies. But there is no difference of opinion on the new urgent need for redistribution or on the desirability of having it done by impartial men.

Constituencies in Quebec, for example, now vary in population from 13,000 to 233,000; in Ontario, from 29,000 to 267,000; in New Brunswick, 23,000 to 101,000; in Saskatchewan, 27,000 to 95,000.

Even these figures are now out of date, since they are based on a census taken three years ago. Population growth, and the shift from country to city, from city to suburb have created radical changes in the face of Canada.

It can be fairly said that the present Parliament does not represent today's Canada. In fact this Parliament was elected on the basis of the 1951 census, taken fifteen long and eventful years ago.

In a country with Canada's geographical and regional dividend, there will likely never be a time when each constituency is exactly the same size, when each member of Parliament represents exactly the same number of voters.

That would probably not even be desirable. That is why most parties recognized that the legislation must allow for some variation in size.

In the present Parliament, voters who live on farms have far greater voice through their elected representatives than do urban voters.

No party has been so rash as to suggest that there should be no variation, that the rural riding with its special problems should not be given some extra consideration.

That is why the Conservatives with their predominant farm representation held out for a 25 to 30 per cent variation either way from the average, as opposed to the original Government suggestion of a 20 per cent variation.

Even allowing a 25 per cent variation, however, the boundaries of practically every constituency will change. The independent commissioners will have 14 to 16 months of steady detailed work to redraw the electoral map.

If an election is held before mid-1966, it would have to be held on the basis of the present electoral map, now almost hopelessly out of date.

This redistribution may be the most important one ever held in Canada. It will be an impartial one. It will bring Parliament into closer relationship to the ideal of representation by population.

That in itself is good and sufficient reason for trying to postpone an election until after mid-1966, or until after redistribution has been completed.

The Letter Box

DEAR SIR:

May I take this opportunity through the columns of your prize-winning paper, to extend my congratulations to you and your staff on your excellent showing in the recent Weekly Newspapers "Better Newspaper Competition." The fact that your paper won 9 national award and three Provincial Awards shows your readers very clearly that the paper you publish is on a par with the best in Alberta, and in fact Canada in its circulation class. This is no mean achievement, and you must feel justly proud of your accomplishments. My sincere congratulations and best wishes for the future. — Harry Abbott, Sedgwick.

PREVENTIVE DENTAL PRACTICES

There's nothing like seeing to believe. Unfortunately there were too few present to see what the ravages of dental decay can do, at a Seminar held in St. Paul last week.

After seeing some vivid color slides on the screen followed by explanations of the lecturers on what can happen to teeth neglected it simply made us shudder and resolve to send our children more often for check by a dentist.

And there is the point of the whole reason for the Seminar. Preventive medicine is the solution to dental decay and if the people of this province and Canada learned that lesson, the incidence of dental trouble would be restored by as much as ninety per cent.

It was pointed out that adults will care for their teeth, but children must depend upon the attention of their parents. It is not always neglect but unawareness, lack of education on the part of the guardians who allow mouths of their children to deteriorate to a degree which becomes very costly to correct when emergencies arise.

If the people could only realize and understand how little preventive dental care costs compared to corrective surgery in the later stages of life, there would be a tremendous trends towards prevention.

In the words of one Dentist, we have the means at our disposal, but a great lack of understanding.

Canning Wild Berries
Bringing Nature Indoors

Dried arrangements can be year-round pleasure for your family and guests.

Now is the time for you to gather your material. Cattails, weeds, grains, grasses and poppy head will to drying.

Weeds and grasses can be picked after they've gone along the roadside or in the field. If they are not dry and you wish to preserve their straight lines, hang them or small bunches with their heads down. To make the stems curve, place them loosely in a container allowing the stems to bend gently over the edge of the container. Dry rapidly in a warm area.

To preserve your cattails, dip in shellac or paraffin. Perhaps you've had the experience of shattering cattails!

Stamps for Christmas

An idea you might wish to follow is to gather materials now for your winter bouquet to be used during the festive season. To add sparkle, cattails could be dipped in silver, gold or bronze paint. This would serve to preserve them.

The simplest method of painting large, and particularly delicate, materials is to spray or dip them. To dip cattails, fill a large can or bucket with cold water. Pour the paint on top of the water. Plunge the cattail into the container. When drawn out, the paint attaches itself to the Once your material is thoroughly dried it is ready to use, or perhaps to store away for future use. Like other accessories in decorating, your winter bouquet is not meant to be a permanent piece in the room Perhaps you might have it out for several weeks. Then it could be dismantled and stored away. Bring it out again at Christmas, add a few festive ornaments and arrange in a new line. Your gifts of nature will take on a new look.

Daysland C.W.L. Plans Smorgasbord

(By Dolores Dubno)

There were twenty-five members and one director at the first meeting of the holidays. The meeting was opened with the Rosary led by Father Klhn.

The Secretary and Treasurer reports were given. Mrs. F. Krasnerr, the card convenor, reported that she sent one get well card out to Miss Mary Scarth. Mrs. V. Dytho reported one new member had joined. Mrs. E. Koehler asked the ladies to remember to save their stamps and Christmas cards.

It was decided to save Mabob coupons and get a coffee urn for the kitchen.

A smorgasbord will be held at the annual supper on October 12th after the opening of the addition to the church.

The President thanked the ladies for attending the Regional Conference and Anniversary at Spring Lake.

The ladies thought it would be a good idea to have some handicraft to work at for the meetings during the winter months. The articles could then be used at a bazaar.

Mass intentions for the month of October is to be for Thanksgiving.

The lunch committee for the next meeting are Mrs. H. Swack Mrs. G. Helmig and Mrs. V. Dytho. Mrs. F. Krasnerr was the attendance prize.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ragsdell, Mrs. John Smit, and Mrs. S. Tarway.

AG TOUR POSTPONED

OTTAWA — The visit of the Standing Committee of House of Commons on Agriculture and Colonization to agricultural areas in various parts of Canada, which had been planned for late this month and early October, has been postponed until next spring, it was announced by Agricultural Minister Harry Hays.

The Minister stated that pressure of parliamentary business would make it difficult for Members to be absent from Ottawa during the time for which the visits had been planned and that the advancing season made it impractical to consider a later date this year.

Yes, indeed, something is missing from a marriage without children. No matter how devoted a husband and wife may be, one to the other, their relationship cannot be truly complete without the tenderly shared experiences of parenthood . . . those never-to-be-forgotten moments that shine like jewels in the memory . . . school achievement days . . . birthday parties . . . family vacations or just happy hours at home.

If you have an empty place in your home and your heart, a void that can only be filled by the love of a child; if you cannot have children of your own; and if your marriage is otherwise happy; then you owe it to yourself to find out about adoption.

There are many misunderstandings about adoption, and it is a tragic fact that these false ideas may sometimes discourage eligible adoptive parents from pursuing their plans. To help dispel such misunderstandings, the Department of Public Welfare has prepared a leaflet, "The Chosen Child . . . and YOU" in which twenty of the most frequently asked questions about adoption are answered. Send today for your copy. Your enquiry will be treated in the strictest confidence, and will not involve you in any obligation.

Rosyth Old-Timer, Mrs. Anna Rodin, Passes

Family, neighbors and friends of the Rosyth district were saddened by the passing on September 18th, 1964, of Mrs. Anna Rodin in the Hardisty Hospital at the age of 88 years, 1 month and 1day.

Mrs. Rodin was born in Mora, Sweden, August 17, 1876, she came to Minnesota, at the age of 25, a year later she was married to Mr. Andrew Rodin.

Three children, Harry, Inez and Keith were born to them.

In 1909 the family home standed in the Sedgewick district, where they still resides, Harry and Inez reside in Seattle and have done for a number of years.

It would take volumes to relate the many experiences of this family, through the good years and the bad. Mrs. Rodin was family known for and wide in Grandma Rodin's door was always open to friend and stranger alike, and she knew how to make everyone welcome.

Mrs. Rodin was predeceased by Mr. Rodin in 1937.

Rev. Zeribar conducted the funeral services from St. Pauls United Church in Hardisty, September 21 and interment took place at the Amisk Cemetery where Mr. Rodin was buried.

Honorary pall bearers were: Mr. Jim Brady, Mr. Christ Bush, Mr. Ben Bennefield, Mr. Hayes Longman, Mr. Samuel Nelson, Mr. Ray Moody, and Mr. P. W. Kobitzsch. Acting pall bearers were Mr. Glen Mitchell, Mr. Fred Dreger, Mr. Arne Bush, Mr. Maxwell Bennefield, Mr. Francis Bloe and Mr. Bennie Plaase.

She will never quite leave or ever friend who has passed, a thousand sweet memories are holding her fast.

Kirkman and Son's Funeral Directors were in charge.

The respect and esteem of Grandma Rodin was shown by many memorials and floral tributes.

LIONS PLAN TURKEY SHOOT

(Delores Delaun)

DAYSLAND — At the Daysland Lions Club meeting on Wednesday night the President Lion John Temmirk appointed Lions Keith Feierstein, Ed Elvinson and Jarvy Karpowich as a committee to draw up rules for the Zone Rosebowl Trophy, won by Daysland last winter at Camrose.

Lions John Polehoyko and Tony Kennaberg were encouraged to go ahead with a club bullclin. A Ladies night is being planned for the near future. The annual slave and runmage sale date has been announced as November 4th. Some of the members have been out getting acquainted with members of other Lions Clubs in the district.

A Zone meeting was called by Zone Chairman Tony Kennaberg last Sunday in the Daysland Hotel Dining Room. There were 13 Lions present from Camrose, Forestburg, Hughenden, Wainwright and Daysland.

A data to remember in the Lions' local Turkey Shoot, Sunday, Oct. 5th 1 1/2 miles east on Highway 13.

TV Talk

This is one of those weeks — 7 days filled with interesting and exciting television fare — when viewers can really appreciate the difference television makes in their lives.

Firstly, there's extensive coverage of the Royal Visit of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip to Canada. The royal couple will arrive in Canada at Saskatoon. Prince Edward Island on Monday, October 5th and their arrival will be televised "live" at 2:30 p.m. CBT in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, at 1:30 p.m. MST in Alberta.

The following morning, October 6, CBC-TV cameras will cover the opening of the Confederation Memorial Building in Charlottetown, P.E.I. by Her Majesty and the Duke of Edinburgh. Telecast time is 11:30 a.m. MST, Manitoba and Saskatchewan 10:30 a.m. MST, Alberta. A videotape repeat of the opening will be seen on all stations Tuesday night at 10:00 p.m.

On Wednesday, October 7 there will be live coverage of the Queen and Prince Phillip visiting the Memorial Confederation building, and chatting with school children at the Charlottetown race track. The "live" telecast will begin at approximately 9:30 a.m. CBT Man. and Sask., 8:30 a.m. MST in Alberta.

Barring play-off activity for either pennant the National and American baseball league winners clash in the World Series opener, Wednesday, Oct. 7th. Times are not confirmed yet because at this writing no one knows for sure, who'll be in the World Series. It will, however, open in the National League city, probably Philadelphia and after 3 games, revert to the American League city, very likely New York. Since both are far Eastern cities the series games will start very early. After the opener Oct. 7th, there'll be games Oct. 8, 9, & 10. Watch for announcements of starting time in your area.

The Labor CBC series debut this week — the public affairs blockbuster THIS HOUR HAS SEVEN DAYS and the prestige music and drama series FESTIVAL.

Two of the cleverest producers in Canada, Douglas Leiterman and Pat Watson combine on "Seven Days", which shall circle the globe probing world affairs and talking to the men who make the news. The premiere includes an interview with Allen Dulles, former chief of CIA, one of the world's largest spy systems; a report on the "brain drain", a loss of 50,000 Canadians to the U.S. every year; an interview with outspoken head leader Artie Shaw; a report on spy fiction hero James Bond; a conversation with William F. Buckley, right-wing editor of the national review and friend for Barry Goldwater; and an interim report on the TCA plane crash near Montreal in which 118 people were killed.

THIS HOUR HAS SEVEN DAYS is scheduled for Sunday, October 4 at 10 p.m.

FESTIVAL returns Wednesday, October 7 at 9:30 p.m. with "The Feast of Lupercal", a drama adapted by Fletcher Markle from the novel by Brian Moore. Peter Donat and Nuvia Fitzgerald star in the story of a university schoolmaster who falls in love with a 20 year-old, the niece of one of his colleagues.

That's only a sampling of a very interesting week of television entertainment on the CBC-TV network.

With deepest gratitude we extend our words of thanks for the many acts of kindness and sympathy expressed by friends and neighbors at the time of our bereavement. Their kindness will never be forgotten.
— Frank and Alice Tatro and family.

Card of Thanks

The relatives of the late William Gowan Gair would like to express their gratitude for the many expressions of sympathy and tributes to his memory that have been shown since his sudden passing; their thanks to the many people and organizations who sent flowers and memorials and to all his friends who helped to make Bill's life happy and pleasant during these last few months since his health declined from its old standard. We are sincerely grateful.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy and kindness in our bereavement. Special thanks to Dr. Turnerelf, nurses and staff of St. Anne's Hospital, and to all who brought or sent baking to the home, or helped in any way.
— Reelu and Whiteland families. 21-1p

CARD OF THANKS

The Hardisty Ladies' Softball Club wish to express their thanks to all who made the year such a success.
We would especially thank Bud Young, who donated a shirt to be raffled and Don Wilder who made a generous donation at the banquet. 21-1p.

the difference is dramatic for '65!

Impala Sport Coupe
A General Motors Value

'65 Chevrolet

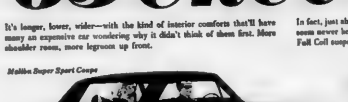
It's longer, lower, wider—with the kind of interior comforts that'll have many an expensive car wondering why it didn't think of them first. More shoulder room, more legroom up front.

In fact, just about everything's new right down to the road. And even that'll seem newer because the Jet-stream ride is smoother than ever, with a new Full Coil suspension and new Wide-Stance design.

Malibu Super Sport Coupe

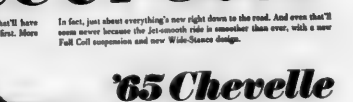
'65 Chevelle

New style, new ride—and plenty of Six and V8 stuff. Here are all the things that have made Chevelle Canada's popular new-sized car—plus some new surprises that promise to make it come on stronger than ever for '65.



'65 Chevy II

It may very well be the expensive-cost looking thrift car you've ever laid eyes on. But thrifty it is. The big difference this year being that Chevy II's marvelous mechanical efficiency now comes decked out in a debonair new look.



Chevy II Nova 2-Door Sedan

Corvair Sport Coupe

'65 Corvair

How's this for sport with an international flair? It's a new top-of-the-line Corvair for '65—the Corsa Sport Coupe. One look at it, or any of the Monzas or 500's, and you can tell there's a Corvair revolution underway—all over again.

HARDISTY HI-LITES

Mr. and Mrs. S. Matthews returned from Calgary on Saturday, having had to postpone their trip to Ottawa for a time. During their stay in Calgary they visited Heritage park. This lovely spot, attended everlooking the Glenmore Valley basin, is preserving some of our early Alberta history, particularly the early 1900's. On the Main Street is a dentist office, and people of Hardisty and Sedgewick district will be interested to see the sign, "Dr. G. R. Harray" in the window. The equipment in the office is that used by Dr. Murray in his early days at Sedgewick and was given by his son David to the Park.

Gena Dragor returned to her duties at the University Hospital after a two week holiday at her home here. Mrs. F. Dragor and Freda accompanied her to Edmonton, where they attended the rose end services of the PPCLI on the anniversary of the regiment.

Darrell McClements was the lucky winner of the beebeers set raffled by the Ladies' Softball Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Le Gouerrer (nee Agnes Kenbrough) of North Surrey, B.C. have been visiting her aunt Mrs. Earl Oliver and uncle Henry Kenbrough. Mrs. LeGouerrier has not been back to Hardisty for 25 years, having lived here in the 20's.

Mr. Jack Thery is a patient in St. Anne's Hospital. Mr. Pete Gressa was also a patient there last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kenbrough went to Edmonton to attend the funeral of Henry's brother, Mr. Bob Kenbrough.

Mr. and Mrs. Cam Clandfield are away on holiday.

Mrs. Lundholm has her daughter visiting from Barsis, Ontario.

Mrs. Mary Todd, her daughter, Mrs. Isabel Nelson and grandson Alan Nelson visited Mr. and Mrs. Benain Todd in Metiskow last Sunday.

Larry Sutter was transferred to the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in High River recently. Mrs. Harold Moody is now working in the bank here.

Sympathy is extended to the Rodin and Whitehead families in the passing away of Mrs. Rodin.

A number of young people gathered at the Pat Maiden home last Saturay night to with Patrick all the best at Camrose Lutheran College. After a number of recorded selections, a nice lunch was served.

Sympathy is also extended to Mrs. Frasier and family on the passing away of Mr. Frasier after a lengthy illness.

Mr. David King spent the week end in Edmonton.

Mrs. Coreen Golbn is a patient in Edison Hospital.

Judith Anderson Married At Seventh-day Adventist Church

A lovely summer wedding took place on Sunday, August 16, at the Sedgewick Seventh-day Adventist Church, when Judith Ann, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Anderson of Sedgewick, and Mr. Vance Cornelius Peters, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Peters of College Heights were united in marriage.

Miss Constance Befus of Saskatoon played the wedding music, and Mr. Harry Anderson was soloist.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, was radiant in a floor-length gown of French taffeta ending in a slight train.

The form-fitted bodice of silk organza featured a princess waistline with pleated band, round lace applique neckline and sheer sleeves. The sheer elbow-length gloves ended in a lily-point at the wrist. The elbow-length, bouffant veil was held in place by a double crown of pearl, cut glass, and lace headpiece. She carried a star-shaped cascade of yellow roses.

Attendants of the bride were her three sisters, Joan as maid of honor, Jessy as bridesmaid, and Joyce as junior bridesmaid. They were dressed alike in varied shades of green satin with matching shoes and pillbox hats. They wore white gloves and carried star-shaped nosegays of yellow roses and white daisies.

Attending the groom were his groomsin, Terry Raisenen of Killam, Donald Lanning of Melfside, B.C., and Clinton Anderson of Sedgewick, cousin of the bride. The ushers were Ray Rich, Kenneth Peters, Ronald Bournes and band saber, David Taylor, uncle of the bride.

Little brothers of the bride and groom, Clarence Anderson and Erwin Peters carried on the white satin kneeling cushions for the wedding prayer.

Ti- bride's mother chose a pale green and beige figured dress with matching three-quarter length coat, with matching hat, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception was held in the Mennes school auditorium for approximately 150 guests. The bridal table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, baked by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Marie Myrehaug of Sedgewick.

Mr. John Anderson was master of ceremonies and Mr. Malcolm Fisher of College Heights proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded.

REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

I don't think the importance of research, both to the farmers who grow food and to all the people in all our cities and towns who use it, can be over-emphasized.

Research keeps the farmer up to date on the best and most economical methods of raising food, which is profitable for him and ensures that the consumer gets the best quality food at the most reasonable price.

It's because of the importance of research that I'm having my department make a thorough-going review of all our research facilities and activities at the present time. We want to be sure we're making the best use possible of our research staff and facilities on behalf of both the farmers and the consumers of this country.

We're going ahead with plans to put hog testing stations right across Canada so we can select the hogs with the best feed conversion rate and have them developed to the highest possible degree of efficiency.

I expect soon to be able to move on a federal-provincial program for beef testing station across Canada. The objective will be uniformity in bull testing procedures and reporting results of performance tests for individual bulls and sire progeny groups. Results will be forwarded to the Livestock Division of my department to be put in an annual report. The program will give beef producers better evaluations of their breeding programs and will be an important source of information for buyers of bulls.

We recently moved to ensure that research work carried on at my Department's experimental centr across the country is as closely related as possible to current and future needs of farmers. I appointed an advisory committee of local farmers to work with our people at our station at Manyberries, Alberta, to make sure the program there is as closely related as it can be to the problems of the farmers around Manyberries. We plan to extend this idea right across the country once we've seen how it works at Manyberries.

We have also initiated steps to make better use of the farm fairs — which include the Calgary Stampede — across Canada as research information centres. The prize qualifications at our farm fairs have gotten away from an emphasis on utility. They pay more attention to the appearance of show stock. We want to get the emphasis back on utility. So at six major agricultural exhibitions, including the livestock show at the Stampede, we're running a pilot project this year.

The Hereford Association and the fair boards agreed to cut the number of classes from 15 to 20 down to seven and the prize money for each class is being substantially increased with my Department paying half of it.

We expect this will bring out our best breeders and in this way make sure that any important and useful developments by individual breeders come to light for the benefit of the whole farm community.

It will give the research people in my department a better chance to keep in touch with what the individual breeder is doing, and at the same time encourage breeders to keep in touch with the latest knowledge available from my Department's research efforts in order to win these prizes.

If this pilot project is successful, as I have every confidence it will be, we plan to extend this idea into all the things that are shown at our farm fairs — this idea of utility.

We have also recently shown that I think is a fairly radical new step forward ensuring the competitive position of Canadian livestock, but I keep the significance of which does not seem to have been very widely understood yet.

I and my officials have carried on extensive discussions with the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture and his officials over a period of several months, and we were able to announce not long ago that both of our countries are working on new procedures which will be of use to bring in animal blood lines from other countries.

Up to now this has been prevented by regulations in both our countries aimed at protecting our livestock from certain diseases in animals from countries outside this continent.

But there have been livestock developments in some countries, particularly in Europe, which I have felt for a long time would be very useful in Canadian breeders. And so we initiated these discussions with the Americans to see whether we couldn't come to some joint agreement on bringing in the-e blood lines without the risk of bringing in these diseases.

We think we pretty well have this problem licked now and we hope that before very long Canadian breeders will be able to take advantage of improvements in livestock developed abroad by importing the semen of these animals under testing procedures which still ensure complete freedom from any risk of disease.

OLD-TIMER LAID TO REST

WILLIAM GAIR

KILLAM — The Killam district was saddened on Friday, September 18, by the sudden death of Will'am Gowans Gair, one of the old-timers of the area. Although Bill's health had failed during the past few months the news came as a great shock to his many friends, as he had been carrying on his various activities as usual right up to the evening before his passing.

William Gowans Gair was born in Scotland on July 31, 1882 and came to the Killam district with his grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William Gair, and lived with them on the farm north east of Killam until their deaths. Mr. Gair moved in to Killam 10 years ago. He was an active member of the Masonic Order, having been a member of Tuscan Lodge No. 43 since 1925, and the secretary for many years. He was also a member of Mt. Olivet Chapter R.A.M. and of the Order of the Eastern Star. His interests were wide spread in the community and there were few enterprises that could not count on Bill for a helping hand. His cheerful personality, his kindness and helpfulness gained him many friends over a wide area and passing leaves a vacancy in the life of Killam. A faithful member of Knox United Church he could be found in his usual pew Sunday after Sunday.

The funeral was held from that Church on Monday, September 21st, conducted by the Rev. Kes Morris, his minister and personal friend who spoke of his many virtues. The pall bearers were all cousins: A. G. Phillips, J. D. Gair, R. G. Hampsaire, J. W. Hampshire, W. J. Gair and Fred Forster. Mr. Gair was laid to rest in the Killam Cemetery.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Anne Cory, of Hartford, Conn.; one aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Finlayson of Victoria, B.C.; and several cousins.

proudly presents the
GROUP AWARD WINNERS
1964 JUNIOR CITIZEN OF THE YEAR PROGRAM
Junior Red Cross Group, Cayley
School days are often considered carefree days. But many young Albertans spend hours working for underprivileged children at home and abroad. One outstanding group is the Grades 5 and 6 students of Cayley School. Under the supervision of their teacher, Mrs. K. Curran, they dedicated their spare time to the Junior Red Cross.
In the past school year alone, they knitted 837 nine-inch squares to be made into afghans for disaster areas.
This is one of a series of Junior Citizen Award announcements. The people at Calgary Power thank R. Hewis, Editor of the Nanton News and the group's nominator Mrs. C. Beaton of Cayley.

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

Years passed. We moved West and took the log of contract pleasing hops tracts of prairie land in the unsettled, and the, little known Southern Alberta.

In the meantime, Robert had acquired the status of manhood, and had married one of the local girls. As I mentioned in my previous article Robert was more than an average scholar, especially along the line of literature, so what would be more natural than that he had a yen for newspaper work. So, after considering the pro and con of the matter, he decided to start up a little newspaper in the home town in which he and his wife lived, and where his Mother had made her home after retiring.

This newspaper was an immediate success. Indeed it was considered one of the most avid editors: The most devoted in the cause of bringing about public improvements to their little town, the most eager to get any and all the news items that he figured would be of interest to the reading public, in short, it was one of the most popular weeklies in southern Manitoba.

While he was deep in the job of editing his paper, he took a stab at writing stories. Some days he was sure he could write poetry, probably the next day he would discard that idea in favor of story writing.

Then we completely lost track of Robert. However, during this period he had sold his newspaper to a brother-in-law. Incidentally, I might add, that same paper is still being edited by one of Robert's nephews, and has never lost it's popularity.

After disposing of his business, he took his wife and one son and went East, to Ottawa I believe, where he settled down in real earnest to realize his dream of writing.

His first book was titled, "Prairie Born" a very, small book, but it was monthly, if not all, poetry.

Before moving East, he became a very special friend of my mother-in-law, for her earlier years had owned and edited two small-town newspapers. Thus, both she and Robert had ideas in common in regard to what interested the reading public.

Also, what was the best to bring before the public eye through the columns of a small town newspaper.

So he autographed and sent Mother one of his first books. Mother really treasured this little volume, through out her lifetime.

Another stretch of years rolled on. Robert's mother and her brother passed away. Also till of Robert's wife's close relatives passed on.

Several times, after disposing of his newspaper business, he made periodic visits to see small town, but after the passing of all the bloodties, these visits gradually petered out, and it has been a good number of years since the people of our little town have had the pleasure, and I might add, privilege, of seeing and talking to Robert J. C. Stead. But I am sure most of you have read his latest book "Grain" which was in serial form, recently, in the Free Press Weekly and, I trust, thoroughly enjoyed it as much as we did.

I cannot finish this short biography without mentioning Robert's only son who was married in Ottawa some years ago, to (I believe) the daughter of a very distinguished M. P. having as one of the many guests at the (then) Prime Minister of Canada, and his wife.

Thus, we can easily see how a mere farm lad, a son of one of the old, humble pioneers of the early days, can, against sometimes almost insurmountable obstacles, (If they have the ambition, and stick to that ambition) make an important place for himself in the annals of Canadian literary history. Robert's books are still being read and enjoyed all across the length and breadth of our wide Dominion.

IT'S THE HAPPIEST DAY!

Everybody happy now that school has re-opened? You should be. With the possible exception of Christmas Day, it's the happiest and most excited occasion in the year, for a large part of our population.

When I was a kid, we all hated going back to school. And it was real. Schools were grey and grimy. Classrooms stuffy and poorly lighted and smelled. Teachers were maiden ladies of eighty or ninety years old, and crabby as hell.

Nowadays most youngsters are thrilled to enter the portals in September. They've had enough summer. They want to get back with their peers, and gossip, play, work stretch their minds, find somebody to hate besides their parents.

Nothing is quite so charming as the gossens entering Grade 1. Shined and curled and starched beyond recognition, they march off to an opening day with the new schoolbag, crammy hand clutched by a disgraced older brother, or pompous sister. They're so scared and excited as a pilot on his first solo flip.

Next in sheer delightfulness, I think, are the kids entering high school. Last year they were the big wheels in Grade 8, the monitors, the safety patrol members, the seniors. Suddenly they are plunged into a vast high school where they are nothing, the youngest of the young, the rookies, the chickens just out of the nest. Their bewilderment is something to behold.

Mothers either weep or breathe a sigh of pureed relief on opening day, depending on whether they have lost the first of their nestlings, or have just got rid of the last of the little horrors who have been ravaging them towards an institution for the past twelve years.

Fathers, too, heave either a sigh or a groan, depending on the age of the kids. If the students are young, it seems the old man at least knows they're in school and safe, not being buried alive at the sandpit, or falling into the water-filled ditch, or running out in front of speeding cars to get their ball. If they're university types, they're heavily and greatly with a mingling of pernatory pain with wild elation at no longer the first of many exams for tuition fees, plus room'n board.

The "drop-outs" are happy as rooms. They quit last Easter, took a job, the job petered out, and now they fervently agree with their mother, who said they were too stupid to make a living unless they had a university degree. So they've dropped back in, to keep warm for another winter.

The school board is happy. The long dull summer, with nothing to do but make money, is over, and they can get back to the fascinating topic of how much the new boiler will cost, how lousy the new teachers are, how much they dare summon to the council in their budget, and how different things were when their day at school.

The caretakers are happy. After all, it's rather frustrating to spend all summer sweeping, waxing and polishing with nobody to appreciate. Now, their two months' hard work vanishes in a twinkling, and they can go back to 19 months of grousing about dirty kids and sloppy janitors.

The merchants are happy. Their "Back-to-School" advertising campaign went over pretty well. Now they can relapse comfortably into criticism of the stupidity of the school board, the hours and salaries of the teachers, and the paranoid paranoia of to-day's students, compared to those of their own generation.

Theoretically, the teachers are happy. They return to school clear-eyed, refreshed, bushy-tailed, dedicated, after their long vacation, which they spent lying on the beach, pounding a golf ball, or touring Europe.

In reality, most of them totter in, red-eyed, wrung-out and broke, after seven weeks of summer school and one dreadful week visiting relatives, during which their kids were holy terrors and it rained every day.

Rams Lose Opener

SEDGEWICK — The Central High Rams Football Team lost their first game of the new season last Saturday when they were hosts to the Camrose Lutheran College Vikings.

The game was played at the ball park at the Recreation Centre in Sedgewick starting at 2:00 p.m.

Rams only outstanding effort of the afternoon was the blocking of four conversion attempts by the Vikings.

This year's team has a considerable number of rookies on the line up and the fact showed as they failed to run, tackle, block, or catch kickoffs. Kickoff receiving was particularly sorry as the Rams receivers failed to catch a single one, preferring to stand back and let the ball bounce and then chase it.

A surprise for the fans was the arrival of the Rams on the field all dressed in matching sweaters. The sweaters were given to the team by the Edmonton Eskimos who used them last year.

One department where the Rams team excelled over the Vikings was in Cheer Leaders. These girls cheered stronger and louder and out-sang their counterparts from Camrose many times over. They were obviously better organized and practised.

GREEN ACRES

WEEDY AUTUMN FALLOW IS TIME WASTE, SAY AGRONOMISTS

Farmers hesitate to give the summerfallow another cultivation in the fall to kill the last crop of weeds. Cultivation at this time of the year would add to the danger of soil erosion by wind or water or both this fall and in the spring too.

Weed control with chemicals can answer a purpose when used in the fall. An application of 16 to 24 ounces of 2-4D per acre will kill most of the annuals and biennials now and give the perennials a severe set-back.

Fall spraying with chemicals has several advantages. Chemicals work quicker where time is a factor.

Don't encourage erosion.

Are a cheaper way of controlling weeds than cultivation where 16 Oz. of acid of 2-4D is used.

Consider chemical weed control in the fall. It may do a better job.

SEED CLEANING PLANTS

Seed Cleaning Plants are rolling again after the summer months of repairs and holidays. Farmers are encouraged to book their grain for early cleaning, to avoid the spring rush and to take advantage of the cheaper rates. Clean seed is always a good investment. Along with clean grain the farmers are getting a selected grading of grain as to size of kernels. This means sweeter germination and stronger plants next spring. Be help yourself and help the plant by cleaning early.

Grain can be treated with Fungicides in the fall and stored until spring. If there are conveyors in your bin (and find 1 worn per square foot) it pays to treat for them. Fungicide treatment is far more than the control of Smut. It also controls seedling blight and root rot fungicides are also a possibly more injurious to-day than smut. Even though haven't been present in your crops for years it pays to treat with Fungicide to control seedling blight and root rot.

Treated grain should be handled with care too. The treating chemicals are dangerous. Whether local reports of treated grain arriving in elevators or fed to cattle. Small amounts of treated grain are hard to handle we know. But they create the need for special and blotterage used for cleaned and treated grain only. Don't feed or ship your left-over treated seed. Carloads of wheat arrived at the Lakehead can be and are being rejected for treated grain.

This is a loss to your Grain Elevator Co. and could result in a lawsuit with the Farmer found responsible. Yes, handle chemicals with care. This is the farmers' responsibility to his fellow men.

HANDLE CHEMICALS WITH CARE!

This is an old saying, & you have heard it before, & often in fact that it really doesn't register any more. But raise your guard and the person hurt may be yourself. Let's hope it isn't someone else.

We had an accident in the M. D. this past week. A farmer put a new Weed Chemical in a rum bottle this spring but didn't identify the bottle as to contents or cross out the old label. We can guess what happened. Yes, he got a mouth-full of chemical last week. Luckily it wasn't swallowed, and he rinsed his mouth well afterwards. He had a sore throat for awhile and certainly frightened a lot of us. Phone calls reached as far as England in search of the suicide. This was too close to a catastrophe for comfort. HANDLE WITH CARE is important. It's part of SAFETY ON THE FARM.

MASTER FARMERS

Congratulations are extended to Alberta's two new Master Farm Families, the Ken Burns Family of Didsbury and the Charles Moore Family of Dalhalt in the Peace River.

The Master Farm Family Award is designed to recognize farm families who have high standard of achievement in terms of good farming and good citizenship. Nominations are made each year and the several winners are recommended by a selection committee. Winners of the Master Farm Family Award is truly a real honor. We salute Alberta's two new Master Farm Families.

CENTRAL HIGH ACTIVITIES

Hold Pep Rally

By Chuck Hastly

A Pep Rally was held for the Central High Football team, the Central Rams, in the school auditorium. Players and cheerleaders were all decked out in their uniforms for the rally. The cheerleaders went through most of their songs and version for the students. Music was supplied by some of the students who played instruments. After the rally the cheerleaders sold tickets for the three games to be played in Sedgewick. The first game was held on September 26 at Sedgewick against Camrose Lutheran College.

The students of Central High got out early last Friday because of the last Friday in the month. Some of the students were in such a hurry they put their jackets on while changing classes before the last period.

U. N. CLUB

The first open meeting of the U. N. Club was held in Mr. Smith's room on September 30th during the noon hour. A talk was given on the United Nations Association Banff Summer School by last year's delegate from Central High.

Pre-Employment Program Being Tried In K. S. Division

Editor's Note — The Pre-Employment Program for students who are not academically minded, is being tried out this year for the first time in the Killam School Division. It is a different approach to preparing normally "drop-out" students to take their place in the business orld. The aspects of the program are outlined below.

OPENING THE DOOR ON '64 CROP — After five weeks of rainy, damp weather which has held the harvest at a stand still, good weather has finally returned and the combines are rolling. This picture was taken as one of the first loads was pouring out of the great mouth into the auger and up into the bin. The sun has been shining for almost a week now and it is estimated that at least two more weeks will be needed to finish the harvest. Yields are running as good or better than earlier estimates with many farmers reporting close to 90 bushels per acre. Grade has been hurt by the wet weather but in many cases not nearly as much as had been expected.

Objectives of the Program

To provide a program for Junior High Students who are unable to cope successfully with the academic program of studies and who are likely drop outs.

To encourage students to set realistic goals of academic and social assist them in reaching these goals.

To develope in students a sense of: self-reliance and self respect; responsibility; and good work habits and attitudes.

To provide pre-vocational training in large scale. The main purpose of these vocational oriented programs are:

To provide students with an opportunity to sample work in different general areas without committing them for any one specific job.

To provide learning situations wherein students will develope attitudes of responsibility and come to realize the importance of acceptable social behavior in getting and keeping jobs.

To serve as the magnetic force that will keep students in school where their academic potential can be fully developed.

Criteria of Enrollment:

Class size will be limited to 30.

Candidates must be the full age of 15 years by December 31 of the year in which they enroll, with priority being given to those who are 15 years old by September.

Candidates must have good attendance record in their previous grades.

Students who have serious emotional and discipline problems will not be eligible for enrollment.

Candidates must have passed one year in Junior High School.

Initial nomination by Principal; then application by parents followed by committee yet to be named.

The Pre-Employment Program

Program A Girls and Program B Boys:

Mathematics 1; Science 1; Language 1; Reading 1; Citizenship 1; Phys. Ed 1; Typing 1; Record Keeping 1; Law 1; Home Economics 1 (Program A Girls only); Industrial Arts 1 (Program B Boys only); Music 1; and Guidance 1.

The Courses

Kinsmen Will Host '65 Zone Curling

At the fall zone meeting of the Kinsmen Clubs of this area the Sedgewick Club was picked to host the 1964-65 zone curling playoffs. The local club won out over Wainwright and Vermilion in the voting to see which club would be the host. The seven clubs in this zone will gather in Sedgewick sometime in January to compete for supremacy against each other for the right to represent the zone in the Provincial curling playdowns.

In last year's playoffs two of the Kinsmen teams entered were also the Brier representatives for their respective areas and it is likely that these same two teams will again compete in the zone playoffs.

Five members of the Sedgewick Club attended the fall meeting which was held at Provost last Sunday. This was strictly a business meeting held to handle business matters of the organization. Each club presented a report on his club's activities and operation, and matters concerned the zone as a whole were discussed.

A guest speaker from the Edmonton Kinsmanet Club gave a talk on World Council to which the Kinsmen belong. This is a world wide organization with clubs in most parts of the world. The Guest speaker will be attending a World Council meeting in Berlin, Germany, at the end of October and will report back.

The next zone meeting will be held in the spring at Bassyville.

ACT OF KINDNESS LEADS TO TREACHERY

The story comes from law-enforcement officers of an incident down Amish way which started with difficulty, leading to an act of kindness and ending in treachery.

It seems some young travellers ran out of gas, and got a farmer out of bed. He kindly consented to provide enough gas to get them to the next service station. In payment the motorists proffered a $20 bill. The farmer, upon reaching into his pocket for change, had his wallet grabbed from his hand. He ran to the house for a rifle, whereupon the thieves took off, escaping before he could return.

Police were called, and before the night was over, one thief had been caught, while the other two were apprehended the following day.

(Mrs. Marie Butler)

On Thursday after school 18 girls met at the home of Mrs. J. Butler for the first meeting of this year's term. Four of these girls are newcomers to the C.G.I.T. Kay McEnaith, Margarnita Clark, Peggy Hauck, and Gail Johnson graduated from the Explorer group.

Our leader this year is Mrs. J. Butler and Mrs. Mel Johnson is teaching us Mission and Bible study.

Committees were formed for various undertakings with the girls having an assistant. If anyone is following is the agenda for the year. Christian Reading (Story), Janice Gordon; Hand-Crafts, Carol Robbins and Kay McBeath; Community Projects, Patsy Robbins and Gail Johnson; Church Projects, Janet Poulsen and Peggy Hauck; Entertainment, Terry Mitchell and Margarnita Clark; Roll call, Colleen Cramton and Judy Mitchell.

Henry Froehler's Married 55 Years

(Marie Butler)

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wesbaum was the scene of a family gathering on September 27th, in honor of the 55th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Froehler of Camrose.

Present for the occasion were 9 of their ten children and their families. Ostha (Mrs. Hesh Stoll), Melvin and Eileen (Mrs. Henry Nicholas) of Strome, Clarence and Edmonton. Al of Calgary, Lloyd of Bonhaer, Madge (Mrs. Ted Zimmer) of Gimli, Manitoba. Jee and Johnnie of Camrose. Unable to attend were Stanley of the RCAF at Greenwood, Nova Scotia. Thirty-four of their 37 grandchildren as well as 4 of their 10 great grandchildren were also present. Also attending were Father McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. F. Djeve of Camrose and Mr. and Mrs. John Nielsen and Gilbert of Strome.

For a buffet supper the honored couple were seated at a table centered with a three tiered wedding cake, baked and beautifully decorated by their daughter Eileen.

Father McDonald extended good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Froehler and wished them many more years together. Congratulatory letters were read from Arch Jordan, Premier Manning and Lt. Governor J. Percy Page. Several selections were sung by the grandchildren including "Keep the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," after which the couple were presented with gifts from their family and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Froehler were former residents of Strome district where they farmed for many years before moving to Bonhaer in 1944, and then retiring to Camrose in 1947, where they now reside.

Our press photographer was out to the last Rams home game and tried for three quarters to get a picture of the two teams scrimmaging. Each time the referee got right a touch in the road so finally he got his picture taken. That's the Rams on the left and Camrose College on the right. The Camrose bench can be seen in the background. Next home game is on Sunday, October 18th when the Wetaskiwin High School will play the Rams at the Recreation Centre.

A PAUSE FOR THANKS — In this modern day we rush through life, hurring past our blessing without even noticing them. But once a year, on Thanksgiving Day, we pause to remember that here in Canada there is always food when we're hungry, doctors to care for our ills, and the freedom to speak out when we're angry. And for all this, and more, we give thanks.

WETASKIWIN 15, RAMS 7

After conceding a safety touch and a converted touchdown the Rams defensive platoon soon established mastery over the Wetaskiwin offense and managed to keep them off the score board until well into the 3rd quarter. Unfortunately the Rams offense could not capitalize on this situation until late in the 3rd quarter when they endenly took fire and began to put pressure on Wetaskiwin which finally resulted in Brewer going over for a major midway through the 4th quarter, Cumberland adding the extra point.

Rams continued to press but were held off by an often desperate Wetaskiwin defence.

The game may have proved costly to the Rams as John Pyra had to leave the game with a leg injury which may keep him out of some of the remaining games.

Nobody Wins!

The daily newspapers in Toronto have continued to publish in spite of the printers' strike which began in July, and once again it has become apparent that nobody wins a strike. In this particular case there are obvious losses to the printers, the publishers and the public. Part of the cost to the public is the curtailment in the obligations of the press. Papers are not as well printed, editions are fewer and smaller and news coverage is far from complete. The 800 printers involved are drawing Union pay meagre in comparison to their regular income. Retailers have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars in business. Publishers have lost revenue from advertising. The main loss of course is being born by the striking printers, and not only in thematter of income. In any strike each side goes into it knowing that hardships will result, but at the same time convinced that the work stoppage will be brief and that their side will win. However it seems that the longer a strike is allowed to go on the further apart the two sides get. Attitudes seem to harden, and then antagonisms arise. Often the major issues are resolved long before a settlement is reached, but the introduction of new points of conflict that were not even involved at the outset, put the two parties further apart than ever.

Even though it is said that strikes are an outmoded weapon, it must remain that in a voluntary society, the employee's right to strike, and the employer's right to declare a lock-out remain an essential to free collective bargaining. While this is true, yet both parties should, and must realize that every dispute must come eventually to a settlement, and both parties must go on living together. The party which forgets this truth becomes the instigator of his own misfortune.

How to Raise a Criminal in Twelve Easy Stages

An article elsewhere in this issue where treachery resulted from kindness, shows once again the kind of minds that work in the heads of some people. This sort of thing is not an isolated instance, for such happenings are occurring every day. But it does make you wonder what prompts such things. A contributor to the letter-box this week apparently is wondering too.. The Covenanter has come up with 12 easy lessons on how to raise a criminal in twelve easy stages.:

1. From the time he is a baby give him everything he wants. By the time he grows up he will believe the world owes him a living.

2. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is old enough to decide for himself. He'll really surprise you.

3. When he uses bad words, laugh at him — this will make him think he is cute. This will encourage him to increase his vocabulary of unprintable words.

4. Never tell him he's wrong. You will hurt his little feelings and perhaps develop a guilt complex. Later on, when he is arrested for breaking the law, he will recognize that society is persecuting him. He will be morally untouchable.

5. Do everything for him. Pick up his clothes, his books and toys. Do not allow him to do any helpful work around the home. In this way you will prepare him for throwing all his responsibilities on other people.

6. Give him all the money he wants. Spare him the undignified process of earning his own cash. Why should he have things as tough as you had them.

7. Take his side against neighbors, teachers and policemen. They are all picking on your child.

8. Quarrel with your Co-parent in front of him often. It will come as no shock to him when the home finally breaks up and you will have taught him the value of rugged independence.

9. Allow him to read all the printed rubbish he can get. Insist that he wears clean clothes, washes his hands and eats from sterilized dishes, but let his mind have contact with every possible filth and garbage.

10. Satisfy every physical appetite that he has. Let him eat, drink and be merry. Self-denial will blunt his personality.

11. When at last the judge pronounces sentence on him and you are asked to explain his behaviour, tearfully tell him, "I never could do anything with him."

12. Be ready for a life of grief. You probably will be.

The Queen's Visit!

The Queen must and will make her visit to Canada as planned. To postpone or cancel her visit would encourage and promote violence. Such postponement or cancellation would be an admission that the Queen is not safe in one of her realms. It would be an admission that Canadians are not able to maintain order. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police and others concerned are the only ones who could advise that the visit be postponed, and for the police to give such advice would be an admission that they cannot perform their duties under present conditions here.

Timely reminder is that when the Queen and her sister were children, their father King George VI let it be known that they would stay in Britain, taking their chances, along with ordinary people and their children, in the bombing and other assaults by the King's enemies.

The Queen will come; she will be safe. The assassination last November of President Kennedy in Dallas, Texas, may have been a warning in one respect, and it also will have a lesson for those who guard celebrities. — Letter Review.

World Olympics!

For a good portion of this month, the world's attention will be focussed on Tokyo, where the best amateur athletes in the world are attempting to bring honor to their countries.

Competition is the essence of the Olympics. Each athlete must give an all-out effort to win, to defeat his rivals. Yet, away from the field of battle, these athletes are not representatives of different, often opposed, countries. They are not of different races, different colors. They are of a brotherhood, bound by ties of common interest and demonstrating common respect.

Those of us who cannot compete at Tokyo can certainly learn a lesson from these Olympics. It is possible to differ ideologically, religiously, racially, and still be brothers. When we can all recognize this fact — and not until we do — we can hold out real hope for lasting world peace.

Fyodor Dostoevsky pointed this out when he said "Until you have become really, in actual fact, a brother to everyone, brotherhood will not come to pass."

★ MACDUFF REPORT

A Bell For The Cat

OTTAWA — Parliamentary reformers in Ottawa are a little like those mice in the old fable who decided to belt the cat then couldn't decide who was going to do it and how.

The tiger they're out to tame is Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker. They have the bell ready in the form of simple-sounding change in the rules of Parliament. But they're jostling and fighting about who is going to tie it on.

This is how the new rule would work: before every debate, representatives of all parties would sit down and try to agree on a fixed number of days for the debate.

If they couldn't agree unanimously, then the debate would run on as long a the present rules allow. In other words, no cure (apart from closure) has yet been worked out for flag debates.

But if all parties agreed, the time limit would be binding on everybody. At the end of the agreed number of days, the talk would end and the Commons would make its decision.

The only real effect of all this would be that Mr. Diefenbaker would have to give advance warning of his next move. As it is now, he's running a canny and confusing opposition that often seems to have the Government going around in circles.

He waits until the Commons is in to a debate, he feels out the Government's position for weak spots, he tests the temperature of public opinion, and then he makes his move and decides his tactics.

Under the new rule, Mr. Diefenbaker would have to accept or reject a time limit in advance. Either way, the other parties would have some warning.

This idea of advance limits on debates is used in the British House of Commons and it was one of the first proposals to come before the Committee which the Chaudi 5 Report set up to review its rules this year.

The proposal got support in the committee headed by New Democrat Stanley Knowles and including several Conservatives. But it has never got past the main committee which still meets every Wednesday for lunch with Speaker Alan Macnaughton but hasn't produced anything in a bit of Wednesdays.

Mr. Knowles has tried various means to break the log-jam in the main committee, including personal appeals to Mr. Diefenbaker and his Tory floor general, Gordon Churchill, who now reputed to be the two men blocking the rule changes.

The New Democrat then tried open letters to the party leaders and appeals through the press.

Recently the NDP went on a new tack and launched a public campaign for the rule changes, including a new idea that Parliament should be on an annual time-table, with 2 months of session, then a month of committee work, and about five months off every year.

For MP's who have gone seven months without a break, such a time table must look enticing. Finance Minister Pearson personally issued a statement welcoming the NDP request for parliamentary reform.

But he was roof-faced the next day when political scientist and Liberal backbencher Pauline Jewett, who hadn't seen the PM's statement, ripped into the NDP for trying to get partisan credit aff the risk a jeopardizing the work of the rules committee.

Then the fat was in the fire and everybody got into the act, including Mr. Diefenbaker who said outside the House that an annual timetable smacked of the methods of dictators.

And he wagged a warning finger under the nose of Mr. Pearson who has been talking about bringing in the rule change as a Government measure if the committee stalemate continues.

The New Democrats are trying to hand off unilateral action by Mr. Pearson and at the same time bring public pressure to bear on Mr. Diefenbaker.

So far Mr. Diefenbaker hasn't showed much sign of feeling the pressure. And if Mr. Pearson does make the move he has threatened, the result could be a parliamentary blowup and an election.

The Canadian debate on rules comes at the same time as a great debate in Britain which has produced a spate of books with titles like, "What's wrong with Parliament?" and "Can Parliament Survive?"

But the British pundits take a slightly different tack. Instead of trying to protect the Government from the Opposition, they see the main problem is a growing power of Government ranged against an Opposition which cannot know enough to criticize in detail such measures as a proposal to set up a new atomic energy giant.

The difference in Canada may stem from our succession of minority governments. But there has also been a growth in the skills of opposition, Liberal and Tory, while the skills of government have fallen into disrepair and disrepute.

It seems that everybody knows how to run the opposition and nobody knows how to run the government.

And while the MP's ponder these questions, the big problem remains: who's going to belt the cat?

Other Editors Say

Now they've zoomed 15 members to a flag committee for a six-week attempt to resolve the flag deadlock. Mr. Diefenbaker says the flag is the most important issue in Canada today. Out of the 15 members named Newfoundland gets a representative on the committee but neither Nova Scotia nor Prince Edward Island have representatives.

There are only four representatives from all of western Canada, 2 from British Columbia and one each from Saskatchewan and Manitoba. None from Alberta, which has a larger population than either Manitoba or Saskatchewan and which his more seats in the Commons than Manitoba and the same number as Saskatchewan. New Brunswick, with only 10 seats in the House and less than half Alberta's population, has two representatives on the committee. With four each from Ontario and Quebec, those two provinces will carry the balance of voting power. It looks as though the west will have to take what the east cooks up — as usual. — Hanton News.

The Letter Box

EDGAR BIM!

The report in your columns of last week regarding the recent robbery involving schools and telephone booths, prompts me to write a letter to the Editor for the first time. It seems to me to bear of these things and makes me wonder what motivates this kind of activity in a buoyant society we live in today. Are these people desperate for finances, or motivated by the law of the jungle with the idea that the way to get something is to steal it from someone else? What sort of mentality do they have? It seems to me that there is employment for most people who are willing to work, and thereby obtain finances in an honest manner. Perhaps I could suggest to you, that too many people today are doing things they cannot afford. For instance look at the young people who are driving cars they can't even afford to buy the gas for. To parents of these people know where they are, what they are doing, and if so, do they care? Today we see many teenagers at public functions under the influence of liquor, driving cars like maniacs. Where do they get their liquor? How do they get it? How do they pay for it? Perhaps it is time for parents to take an evening out sometime, circulate around and see what is going on. Maybe it's even time for the bar to do a bit of sleuthing, and come up with some answers.

Forage Improved With Application Of Fertilizer

In response to their interest, research was done by the Soils Section at CDA's experimental farm here to study the effect of fertilizer on forage quality.

Irrigation Agronomist D. W. Lindsay seems encouraging results. It was possible, by adding nitrogen and phosphorous to the soil, to increase the phosphorous and protein content of the crop, making it more palatable and digestible. The increase in the phosphorous content of the forage was most marked after fertilizer had been applied to soil with less than 15 parts per million of phosphorous. Experiments were conducted throughout southwestern Saskatchewan on irrigated and dryland hay fields and on native and cultivated pastures and the effects of the fertilizer were related to soil characteristics such as phosphorous, salts and soil texture.

Soils low in phosphorous occur in much of southeastern Alberta and southwestern Saskatchewan, areas of the experiments.

Best results came from a combination of nitrogen and phosphorous. The largest change in the phosphorous content of the native grass was from .24 per cent phosphorous in the unfertilized plot to .2 per cent (seven times as much) in the adjacent fertilized plot. On cultivated brome-alfalfa the increase was two and a half times — from .1 per cent up to .25 per cent phosphorous in the hay. The protein content of the hay and pasture showed a similar increase. And, of course, the forage harvest was greater.

Mr. Read notes that fertilized forage follows the normal trend of plants to be higher in phosphorous and protein during the early summer and lower in late summer and fall. But in many instances the fertilized forage sampled in late fall still had more phosphorous than crops clipped from adjacent unfertilized plots in June.

Laboratory analysis showed the fertilized forage to be more digestable and observation confirmed the fact that animals preferred the fertilized forage, particularly when pastured.

Tests are continuing to measure the continuing effects of fertilizer. On irrigated hay the yield and phosphorous increases have persisted up to seven years in some locations but not as long in others. On native grass the effects have persisted for at least three years.

The tests show that the quality of forage can be improved in many locations by the use of fertilizer. How the value of the increase in quality and yield will have to be carefully considered to determine if the use of fertilizer is economical, particularly on native range.

Fred Frasier Laid To Rest At Hardisty

Fred Harter Frasier passed away in St. Anne's Hospital, Hardisty, September 28th, 1964 at the age of eighty-one years and 24 days.

Mr. Frasier was born August 27, 1883 at Claremont, South Dakota. He came to Canada in 1913 and settled in the Bellshill district south of Lougheed, where he was actively engaged in farming. He was retired for his extensive interest in farming, raising cattle and threshing in the days before combines were introduced.

In 1907 he moved with his family to Hardisty but still remained active in farm operations until the age of 70 years when he retired to a quieter way of living. He was known by all his neighbors as a friend when in need.

He leaves to mourn him; wife Mildred; four sons: Donald of Hardisty, Lee of Missoula, Montana, Lynn of Riverside, California and Rod of Edmonton; four daughters, Ethyl of Moscow, Idaho, Florence of Van Nuys, California, Greta of San Bernardino, California, and Jean of Winnipeg, Manitoba; two sisters, Nettie of Red Deer and Annie of South Dakota; two brothers, Charlie of California and Lee of Oregon; and twelve grandchildren.

Funeral services were from St. Paul's United Church, conducted by Rev. W. G. Switzer.

Interment took place at Hardisty Cemetery.

Lynda Dann

of Vulcan

AN ALBERTA JUNIOR CITIZEN OF THE YEAR

It was a warm Sunday, and the water of Racehorse Creek, near Coleman, was temptingly cool. Suddenly, young Robert Comin and his cousin Roxanne Graham stepped into a deep depression.

Robert was rescued but his father drowned trying to reach Roxanne.

15-year-old Lynda Dann, who was fishing upstream, raced to the disaster scene. She dived in and saved Roxanne. Then, while Staff Sergeant Hall Cecil revived the rescued child, Lynda went back and recovered Mr. Comin's body.

This courageous girl is an honors student and Junior Church Camp lifeguard. She has her Bronze Medallion for life-saving proficiency.

We congratulate Lynda, and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year Program — sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

25th Anniversary At Daysland

(Delores Delany)

Saturday evening the Elks Hall as the scene of a happy gathering of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chet Jones who were present to help them celebrate their 25th anniversary.

The hall was decorated suitably for the occasion and dancing was enjoyed to the music of the Daysland orchestra.

At midnight Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their hostesses for the evenings entertainment Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Kent Mielke were seated at the table which was centred by a decorated tier wedding cake flanked by vases of flowers. Emcee Elgin Brown spoke a few words of the popularity of Vera and Carl in our Community and presented them with a chrome table and chairs and a set of copper bottom stainless steel pots and pans and also a purse of money. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones thanked the gathering for the lovely gifts and to those responsible for helping them to celebrate their 25 anniversary in such a happy way.

SHOWER HELD FOR JUDY BLATZ

(Delores Delany)

The Catholic Church basement on Saturday evening was the setting of a shower for Judy Blatz, with a number of ladies present, some were from Strome and St. Peters. The evening was spent playing cards. Judy was assisted in opening her gifts by Arlene Stefanishion, Irene Blatz and Joan Zachowski. Judy very ably thanked the ladies for the lovely gifts. A delicious lunch was served.

Baptist Church

"Youth for Christ" was held on Monday night with a very good attendance. The Billy Graham film "Under the Shadow of the Mountain" was shown. Election of officers for the coming year took place.

The regular Young Peoples service as held on Friday night. Group No. 1 was in charge of the program which was centered in the theme "Portraits of Power".

Rev. Dyrsmehaul ministered at the Sunday services.

During the Sunday School hour a letter was read from Rev. Jespersen of the Bethany Home at Gwynne, giving thanks for the gift of money and inviting any who were interested to visit the Home. "Loyalty to God's World" was the theme of our first Sunday School lesson of the fourth quarter, and proved most appropriate for these days.

Salads for the morning worship service was Mrs. Wm. Frendrick.

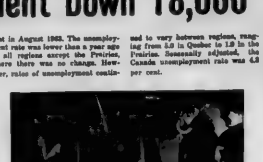
The Vice-Chairman gave the sermonette during the Sunday evening service when he stressed the importance of church attendance and encouraged all to attend regularly.

We have noticed reports that stores and schools have had property stolen recently, and we are sorry to report that the church has felt the loss of a new projector, which disappeared in August.

Of Canada's 4.7 million households, 89 per cent have electricity, 86 per cent have mechanical refrigerators, 80 per cent have television sets and 67 per cent have powered washing machines.

Unemployment Down 18,000

Employment was estimated at 6,997,000 in August. As usual, the change from July was small. Unemployment declined by 18,000 between July and August. The decrease in unemployment was concentrated among teenagers, many of whom as usual, left the labour market in significant numbers in August. The estimated labour force in August was 7,204,000, an increase of 158,000, or 2.7 per cent, over a year earlier. Employment was 211,000 higher and unemployment 52,000 lower than in August 1963. Compared with a year earlier, total employment was up 211,000, or 3.1 per cent. Non-farm employment increased by 271,000, or 4.8 per cent. The largest gains were in service, manufacturing and trade. Construction employment was somewhat lower than a year earlier. In other non-farm industries, employment either showed little change or was higher than the year before. Farm employment in August was estimated at 714,000, down 89,000 from August 1963. Employment was noticeably higher than a year ago in all regions except the Prairies which showed little change. Relative gains were particularly marked in the Atlantic region and in British Columbia. Unemployment decreased by an estimated 18,000 between July and August. Of the 347,000 unemployed in August, 186,000 were men and 61,000 were women. Compared with a year earlier, unemployment was down 23,000. Unemployment in August represented 5.4 per cent of the labour force compared with 2.8 per cent in August 1963. The unemployment rate was lower than a year ago in all regions except the Prairies, where there was no change. However, rates of unemployment continued to vary between regions, ranging from 5.0 in Quebec to 1.9 in the Prairies. Seasonally adjusted, the Canada unemployment rate was 4.9 per cent.



A QUICK VOTE. These Swedish divers were taking part in underwater diving championships near Stockholm, but didn't want to take voting in the Swedish elections. They made a quick trip to a polling station, voted, then rushed back to the diving competition . . . and won!

STROME UCW HOLDS OCTOBER MEETING

(Mrs. Marie Baxter)

The October meeting of the afternoon group of the U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Jean Reeve on Thursday with ten members and two visitors present.

The President, Mrs. Earl McDougall brought the meeting to order and welcomed Mrs. McBeth and Mrs. Mikkelsen who have recently moved into the village.

The Devotion was led by Mrs. Seward. Mrs. Mel Johnson gave a very interesting reading on the life of the famous Hymn Composer, Samuel Wesley.

Unit Secretary Mrs. A. McDougall read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved.

The flower report was given by Mrs. Wheeler. The sick committee reported on the visits made. Members were reminded to bring pickle dishes, etc. for the church kitchen, to answer roll call for the General meeting which is to be held at the Church October 14th.

President was soliciting for two wedding showers, one in October, one in November, for which the U.C.W. serves.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. Seward. Meeting closed with Benediction. Hostess served a delicious lunch.

About 965,000 Canadians now receive the old age security pension at age 70; in addition, 186,000 persons in the 65-69 years age group receive old age assistance pensions, and 57,000 disabled persons and 8,000 blind persons also receive public pensions.

'65 COMET

Comet sales doubled last year. We loved it. Just as much as people obviously loved Comet.

Comet Caliente 2-door sedan

Comet Caliente convertible

Now, here's the '65 Comet, young, spirited, handsome as all get out and luxurious to boot.

Comet Caliente 2-door hardtop

A new young look of luxury takes shape in the lower, wider, forward-reaching lines of '65 Comet. Inside this great new shape, rich colours, textures and patterns (vinyls, fabrics, stripes, plaids) have never been more beautiful. Are touches like walnut-toned trim and deep-pile carpeting your style? The choice is yours. You'll take to the comfort of Comet's suspension the way it takes to the road. More good news: extended power range from the 170 "6" to the spirited 289 V-8's, including the big new 200 "6" with 3-speed automatic transmission. There's a special brand of excitement in each series . . . 202, 404, Caliente and the high-performance Cyclone.

One other thing you'll want to know. How much? The answer is, how little! Drive a Comet for '65, for fun with a touch of luxury to it.

Sig Johnson Discovers Unknown 2nd Cousin

(MARIE BUTLER, REPORTER)

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbertson and family of Stanwood, Washington visited Mr. and Mrs. Sig Johnson at the week end. Mr. Gilbertson is a second cousin of Sig's whom he hadn't heard of until two months ago, when he received a letter from the Gilbertsons introducing themselves. Correspondence followed and they had become aware of the fact quite by accident, as while they were visiting in Norway, an aunt there had received a letter from Mrs. Johnson here in Strome.

Mrs. Gilbertson has a relative at Lougheed and they had been passing through Strome from time to time visiting this relative, not knowing of the Johnsons and their relationship. This cousin is from Sig's Dad's family tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Simmons and Beverely and Lynn of Gimli, Man. were visitors at the Hugh Stell, W. Trochler, and Henry Niskaus homes during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lorenz attended the St. Thomas Aquinas graduation at Provost for Donna Reinhart last Saturday.

Miss Janice Porter was a week end guest at the Fowler home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McDougall and Mrs. James Thompson visited Reg. Wollman's in Edmonton last Sunday.

Mrs. Alastair Huddleston of Wildwood visited relatives and friends here for a couple of days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Eshpeter of Red Deer spent the week end at his parental home.

Mrs. Colin Thorburn, Barry and Stacy of Guisford, spent Monday and Tuesday at the James Thorburn home.

Mrs. May Hawkins visited Rodney of Red Deer last Sunday, also Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rasmussen, at Innisfail. She was accompanied to Red Deer by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bartosik, who visited their son Gordon and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hesh Ritchie and family of Edmonton spent last week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hawkins.

Mr. Alf Mikkelsen is home after spending several days in Killam hospital on Saturday having suffered a slight stroke.

Colleen Cranston suffered a painful accident while playing in the Gym at school on Thursday. Her bone and wrist were badly injured. She was taken to Killam Hospital where she was kept for a couple of days for x-rays and treatment.

Mr. Henry Hawkins is home from a two week stay in Daysland hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Watkins and Rodney visited the Verne Bouchards at Killam, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Weichester spent last week end in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Pettem and family visited Mrs. Pettem's mother Mrs. Wollman's in Edmonton last Sunday.

Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Chris Parks of Sedgewick visited Mrs. Scott and other friends here last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Johnson and family of Edmonton visited Mr. and Mrs. Sig Johnson over last day.

Mrs. J. Butler and Bob visited the Maurice Starks at Sherwood Ly's last Sunday.

Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hutchinson and family and Linda Robbins ate Dwight's 21st birthday. Friends from Daysland and Killam were present.

Albert Sprague who has been working for an oil company in the north has returned home and is now employed at Beck's Garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz visited his mother at the Killam Auxiliary Hospital last Sunday.

A shower will be held for Miss Lois Curtis in the basement of the United Church on Saturday evening October 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lorenz and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Zimmel drove to St. Anthony's College in Edmonton last Sunday to visit their sons Dwayne and Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Pettem have returned home after spending a few days at Histon with their son Jack and family.

Linda Robbins was home for the week end.

Economics in Daily Living

How are the table manners in your family? Is mealtime a pleasant, relaxed time of day, a table surrounded with reaching, stretching, mumbling children? Is it a time to look forward to — or a time to endure?

Perhaps you should take a look at your table: Is it well-set and attractive, a setting in which good manners thrive? Better in single-service dishes, milk in bottles or cans, dishes in layers of newspaper, perhaps, but hardly suggests that good manners are important.

What are Table Manners?

Let's start with the table covering — table-cloth or place mats. You may find place mats more time with small children — spills are confined to one mat. Place mats are available in plastic, bamboo and homespuns — all of which require little or no care. But they do provide a background for the place setting and cut down tremendously on noise. Choose bright, gay colors that compliment your dishes.

Napkins are no problem with the colorful paper ones on the market. You'll be pleasantly surprised to find they save laundry and dry cleaning — no more spotted pants and dishes.

Jams, jellies and pickles are much easier to serve from a dish from a dish than from a jar. You'll find, when you look, you have lots of dishes that will be attractive — glass fruit dishes, old sugar bowls, even pretty saucers.

Invest in a good salt and pepper shaker but stay away from the "cute" ones. Animals and vegetables that turn into salt and pepper shakers are hard to handle, hard to fill and have odd-sized all-or-nothing holes.

Arrange cookies on an attractive plate. This is a job for your young daughter.

What about a centerpiece? It needn't be fancy but it does add to the appearance of the table. A bowl of fruit is often all that is needed. Children notice when a table looks attractive — just remember the "on's" and "ah's" over the Christmas dinner table. Don't underestimate the effect this can have on their table manners.

A well set table won't solve the whole problem but I think you'll find you have children who behave a little more like ladies and gentlemen at mealtime. Try it and see for yourself.

Canada's Balance Of Trade Improves

MONTREAL — The substantial improvement in the balance of merchandise trade, which has been one of the principal sources of strength in the Canadian economy during the current preliminary period, has been accompanied by a decline in the "terms of trade" — the relationship between import and export prices — according to the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for September, just issued.

Factors that influence prices include the general level of business activity, stockpiling policies, weather, technological change and changes in the exchange rates.

Since prices of imports is determined in foreign markets, the Canadian dollar cost of imports by and large rises by the extent of the devaluation. And because Canadian exports are sold at prices established in foreign markets, the first effect of devaluation is to raise the price in Canadian dollar terms, the bank continued.

Increase In Supply

The resulting increase in profit margins may tend to induce an increase in supply from Canadian sources, as well as some downward pressure on prices. At the same time, the review says, Canadian producers of other goods that have no "world price" may quote more competitive prices in an attempt to capture a larger share of external markets. The net effect has been a reduction in terms of trade considerably less than the 12 per cent decline in the exchange value of the Canadian dollar.

Overall terms of trade are strongly influenced by the nature and composition of imports and exports and there has been a decline in prices of primary commodities, and a rise in prices of manufactured goods over the past ten years. The result has been a deterioration in the terms of trade of countries which export mostly raw materials, the B of M says.

The Canadian Case

The review points out that Canadian imports are heavily concentrated in manufactured goods and processed industrial materials. On the other hand, while the proportion of exports of manufactured goods has increased substantially, a large part of Canada's exports still consist of primary commodities.

Clearly then, some of the changes in Canada's term of trade in the past decade are attributable to the composition of exports and imports, as well as to movements in the exchange rate, the bank says. Most of the decline has taken place since the Canadian dollar began to move downward in 1960, and a large part occurred last year, paralleling a similar movement in the United States and United Kingdom. At the same time, Canada's merchandise trade balance has improved markedly, and further diversification of Canadian industry has been encouraged, the B of M concludes.

A. P. Crop Report

LOCAL — Cool, showery weather continue to prevail, with heavy rain in some areas. Cutting is nearing completion at most stations but the grain is not drying, and only a small amount of combining has been done with most of the grain being tough or damp.

SUMMARY — Harvesting has again been delayed by damp, rainy weather. Some cutting was done during the week, but the lack of drying weather has kept combining to a minimum, and what grain was threshed is tough or damp. Cutting operations are nearing completion throughout the main body of Alberta, and fair progress has been made in the Peace River District. In the southern half of the Province, cereal grains are 60% to 75% harvested, while in the northern half and the Peace River District, only a small amount of combining has been done. Swathed grain continues to deteriorate due to adverse weather conditions.

A detailed Interim Report of the studies completed by the committee to end of 1964 will be submitted to government early next year for tabling at the 1965 session of the Legislature. The report will be submitted prior to the Session in March.

The Public Expenditure and Revenue Study Committee consists of the following twelve members, representing the government or nominated by various provincial organizations: Hon. A. O. Aalborg, Provincial Treasurer, Chairman; Hon. R. A. Willmore, Minister of Lands and Forests, Deputy Chairman; Hon. R. Reierson, Minister of Labour and Telephones; J. M. McKay, Alberta Federation of Municipal Districts; C. E. Parry, Associated Hospitals of Alberta; Dr. G. L. Burton, Alberta Federation of Agriculture; F. C. Bodle, Alberta Federation of Labour; H. H. Hinn, Alberta School Trustees' Association; E. Newman, Union of Alberta Municipalities; J. K. McIntosh, Farmers' Union of Alberta; V. M. Dantzer, Alberta Catholic School Trustees' Association; and C. W. Carry, Alberta Chamber of Commerce.

Until his resignation in July, the former Provincial Treasurer, Hon. E. W. Hinman, was the Chairman of the committee. Last month the present Provincial Treasurer, Hon. A. O. Aalborg was appointed chairman, and Hon. R. Reierson was named a member.

The Secretary of the Committee is Mr. R. A. Spinne, Administrative Accountant in the Treasury Department.

Soil testing has been used for many years by soil scientists as an aid in determining the fertility of the soil. Recent investigations have indicated that when used in conjunction with other available information on soils, crops, field fertility trials, etc., soil testing information is a valuable tool in determining the best kind and amount of fertilizer any given crop needs.

Good Samples Important

The first step in any soil testing program is the proper collection of samples. Soil tests can be no better than the samples on which they are made. Furthermore, soil test results are of little value with more knowledge of soil type, physical condition of the soil and past treatment. Therefore, when soil samples are submitted to a soil testing laboratory they should be accompanied by a questionnaire which gives information sheet. This information not only helps in making a more accurate interpretation of the results of soil tests, but in making more reliable fertilizer recommendations. For spring seeded crops it is recommended that soil samples be taken in the fall. Before farmers start collecting soil samples this fall, however, they should discuss their soil testing programs with their Agricultural Representative or District Agriculturist.

Interpreting Results

In order to fully value the results of soil tests must be considered in conjunction with the results of field fertilizer trials. Again, farmers should discuss the results of their soiltests with their agricultural representative or provincial agronomist. These people are able to assist farmers in making the most efficient use of their fertilizer dollars.

Soil Testing Valuable

Soil testing is not, of course, the ultimate in evaluating soil fertility levels. It is, however, the best method available today. Every farmer who is using, or considering using, fertilizer in 1965 should make the fullest possible use this fall of the soil testing service in his province. For detailed information on soil testing contact the Soil Testing Laboratory at your provincial University. It is now generally recognized that soil testing is one of the important keys to efficiency in crop production — and efficiency production is, of course, the key to increased profits.

Committee Studies Public Expeditures

The Public Expenditure and Revenue Study Committee has held four meetings since its establishment by the Alberta Government in November 1963.

The purpose of the committee is to conduct a factual study of public expenditures and the manner in which they can best be controlled and financed, having regard to the legitimate needs and best interests of the Province as a whole. The study being conducted by the Committee includes:

A survey of current and projected municipal public expenditures to determine the extent to which they are necessary and justified, having regard to all the factors involved.

An analysis of the various categories of public services and expenditures to determine the ways and means by which they can best be controlled and the order of priority to which they properly should be assigned.

An examination of the incidence of taxation and other revenue sources to determine the most equitable methods of obtaining the revenues required to finance necessary public expenditures.

To date, comprehensive and thorough surveys and analysis have been made of the operations of the Department of Public Welfare and the Department of Highways. In conducting these studies, the Committee has received representations and has held consultation with officials of The Salvation Army, the Edmonton Family Service Bureau, Catholic Charities, Archdiocese of Edmonton, the Edmonton Welfare Service Council, the Canadian Association of Equipment Distributors, the Alberta Roadbuilders Association, and the Alberta Motor Transport Association.

A survey of the operations of the Department of Public Health is now being undertaken, and the Committee also plans to make further surveys of various departments, particularly Education and Public Works. In keeping with the practice already established, provincial organizations in various fields will be consulted and invited to present their views as the operations of various departments are being studied.

Present plans of the committee call for a thorough study of the best methods of securing the revenue required to finance public services, the allocation of these revenues to the provincial and local levels of government, as well as examination of other aspects of the relationships between these governments levels.

Paul Soles and Anne Cameron, hosts of CBC-TV's popular afternoon network show Take Thirty, always resumch their upcoming programm. Fee a series on Take Thirty this fall, show will be filmed in Toronto and Montreal and spent months learning all about the country before spending three weeks in Tokyo and Kyoto filming interviews with all types of people — from nightclub entertainers to high government officials.

In Memoriam

BERGERON — In loving memory of our Dad Gus Bergeron, who passed away October 6, 1962, and our Mother Rose, who passed away November 11, 1960.
Thinking of you always
But that is nothing new;
We thought about you yesterday;
The day before that, too.
We shall think of you both together
And each day through the years.
We care to see you never;
Oh, Heaven is not far enough.
For we have no Dad and Mother up there.
—Never forgotten, by their family.

Alberta Fires Claim 43

Why does fire destruction warrant a National Proclamation for Observance of Fire Prevention Week? Just how serious is the waste of life and property by fire? As Fire Commissioner, I can give my evaluation of fire damage in Alberta. Our problem is typical to that of other areas of Canada, in that we suffer needless waste of human and material resources.

Up to this time in 1964 more people have been burned to death in Alberta than in all of 1963. Yesterday's accident list lost the total attained to 4th. 43 cases, 14 children and 4 women. In the city of Calgary alone there were three fires, each claiming 2 or more lives, and one in Edmonton there has been one fire this year in which four perished. Losses in rural areas have amounted to 20 so far this year, while there have been 23 in urban areas, with apartments and dwelling incidents accounting for 37 of these. Industry claims six, with 2 of 5 lives, and one person has died in a manufacturing fire. Of the 18 children in fires so far this year, the greatest majority had been left at home unattended.

From these figures it is fairly obvious that greater precautions against fire in the home are necessary to accomplish any reduction in the death rate from fire. Daily care and attention must be given to heaters and stoves. They are more prone to failure and more likely to ignite nearby combustibles than furnaces or central heating systems. Smoking materials igniting clothing and bedding take lives — accidents with gasoline and other flammable liquids dictate that such materials should never be taken into or used in the home.

It is only by constant reminders of the danger from fire that people may be discussed from silencing to exist the dangers from carelessness. I repeat year after year a fire silence. The long and tried experience of the fire service has produced a wealth of evidence that can be taken as a sure guide to avoid death by fire.

People readily accept medical advice from a doctor, or legal advice from a lawyer, only advice which is accepted in fire-saving advice which is available for the asking from fire officials.

In my office, and in other fire Commissioner's offices throughout Canada the recorded findings of the fire officers are summarized. By every possible means we try to emphasize life hazards from fire. Fire Prevention Week, however, gives us a few more channels of communication, for legal advice forms to register the oft-repeated warnings:

Never leave young children alone at home.

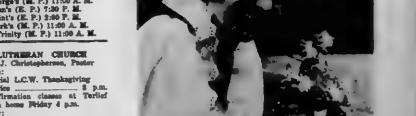
Never have flammable liquids stored in your home, especially solvents in dwelling area.

Never smoke in bed or light up cigarettes when wearing clothing which is known to be flammable.

Never hang clothing or bedding close to stoves or heaters.

Seek advice Now! From your fire department as to means of ridding your dwelling place of fire hazards.

Think Fire Prevention Every Day — don't be a victim of fire!



Sailing and vivacious Peggy Neville is featured guest singer each Wednesday night on Red River Jamboree. Host Jim Fielding, the Allstars and other members of the cast start their 39th season of lively country music and dance September 23rd on the CBC television.

Style? This big, beautiful car almost owns the word. Inside, the lap of luxury was never so great, with deep-pile carpeting, supple vinyl and rich fabric. Meteor looks after little things like a key that works upside down or downside up (doesn't matter). Big things are doing with Meteor's hot new 240 cubic inch Avenger "6". The designers of Meteor's new frame and suspension think they're beautiful. So will you when you feel the difference in ride and handling.

Any place is scenic where there's Meteor (your Mercury dealer's, for instance). And it looks like it costs a lot more than it does. So see a '65 Meteor. Now you've started something wonderful.

WITH HARVEST DONE. Most of the hard work of harvesting is over, and this farmyard, and thousands of others like it across Canada, seem to take on a note of serenity, as though satisfied with a job well done. There are still a few harvest preparations for the coming winter, but by the whole, the guns for farmers now become just a little more leisurely.

F.U.A. Newsletter

Those going along include Tour Chairman Paul Bailey, Tour Secretary Ken Nelson, Tour Co-ordinator Russell Love, FWUA President Mrs. Rosalie Johnston, Alberta Wheat Pool President Lionel Barrold, U.F.A. Co-op Board Member Andrew Silver, C.C.I.L. President J. S. Brown, A.L.C. Vice President Carl Anderson, representatives from the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, Western Pool Executive, and other farm organizations.

The agricultural press is included, with Al Richardson of the OBC Farm Department, H. Gordon Green of the Family Herald, and George Ells o fthe Edmonton Journal, going along.

Part of the tour will come directly back from the tree-week look at China. The others will stop over to take a quick glance at the Phillipines, Formosa, and Japan. Everybody should be home by November 1st.

The tour idea started two years ago. Behind it is the hope that an increase in trade, especially in agricultural commodities, can be generated. Of more immediate value will be the development of increased understanding between East and West which a tour such as this is likely to influence.

Pictures and recorded interviews obtained in the orient by the group will be made available through the FUA later. It is hoped that many people will be able to share the experiences of the group, at least on a second hand basis.

Paul Bailey, FUA President, has congratulated the two farm families who recently received Master Farm Family Awards.

"We are extremely pleased to see these two families, both members of the FUA, receive agriculture's top award in Alberta. They have brought honor and prestige to their communities and to Dayning generally.

Mr. Sabey concluded, "Let there be no mistake. You cannot win a Master Farm Award. You can only earn it! My heartiest congratulations to the Charles Moore and Ken Burns families on their achievement."

LOUGHEED CLOTHING CLUB ELECTS EXEC.

LOUGHEED — The first meeting of the Lougheed Clothing Club was held on September 22. A committee clothier and cooking club was discussed. If leaders for a cooking club are available we will have a combination cub this year. Officers were elected as follows: President, Verna Stoebakken; Secretary, Carol Valcart; Treasurer, Margaret Ann Probst; Vice-president, Judy Watts and Club Reporter, Lorna Stoebakken. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read. Membership fee will be 25 cents as in former years, and meetings will be held every first and third Wednesday of every month. The meeting was adjourned. The girls would welcome anyone interested to attend the next meeting which will be held on October 7th in the Lougheed School.

GREEN ACRES

By A. E. EDWARDS
Dist. Agriculturist
Sedgewick, Alberta

The old saying "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" certainly holds true for shipping fever in cattle.

Dr. W. P. Brisbane, Supervisor of Alberta's Brucellosis Program, says research workers now believe a virus is the main cause of shipping fever. The pasteurella organisms, usually associated with the disease, are thought to be a secondary but still important.

Stress and lowered body resistance are the underlying factor precipitating the disease, says Dr. Brisbane. Keeping stress and chills to a minimum and a little extra care in handling new additions to the herd greatly reduces the chances of shipping fever.

Many animals, being shipped are weaned calves. The stress brought on by weaning plus fatigue during transit makes them likely candidates for shipping fever. This susceptibility is greatly increased if the animals are chilled or not fed and watered regularly.

Shipping fever is a respiratory condition. The main symptoms are a high fever, coughing and distress and breathing. The disease usually occurs shortly after new additions have been brought into a herd or feedlot. It takes only a short time to spread to the other animals.

Pasteurella bacteria are considered to give some protection against shipping fever but they must be administered at least 14 days before the cattle are shipped. Administration of long lasting drugs at shipping time has become popular recent years and seems to have some benefit.

An early diagnosis by a veterinarian is strongly advised by Dr Brisbane. Prompt treatment with antibiotics has greatly reduced losses. In some cases, however, it is necessary to use other drugs because treatment efficiency varies in different areas.

A publication entitled "Shipping Fever of Cattle" gives a complete story of useful information on this disease. It can be obtained from district agriculturists and the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

END OF SUMMER CATTLE SITUATION!

Canadian cattle slaughter is up over 10% so far this year with very steady prices throughout most of the summer. Plentiful supplies of feeder cattle are expected this fall. Hog marketings are 12% higher, with prices showing a surprising upturn in late August.

After quite a stretch of stable prices this spring, the cattle market took a slight rise in July, but then settled back fairly quickly again before the start of August. In Toronto, choice steers sold at $24.25 per cwt. consistently for 15 weeks between the end of February and the beginning of July. They returned to this price and held through August.

For most of this period, 1964 prices were better or equal to those of a year earlier. Last year during the month of July however, Toronto prices rose to $27.00 for choice steers. This year, July prices were $2.00 to $2.50 lower in comparison and August prices were $2.75 lower.

Total imported slaughter of cattle in Canada at the end of August was 1,498,800 head this year up over 10 percent from last year. Eastern slaughterings were 9.8% higher; the West was up 10.5%.

Weekly cattle slaughterings averaged 43,000 head up to early August 1964 compared to 36,400 a year ago. Included in this larger supply there continued to be a growing proportion of choice and good cattle which averaged 54,400 head each week or 56.6% of all beef cattle graded.

This is substantially higher than the comparable figures of 51,200 and 54.1% respectively for the same period in 1963. The improvement is noteworthy because the 1963 figures themselves represented a significant increase over 1962.

Exports of beef cattle during January-August were down about 75% from last year. For a few weeks this spring, some U.S. slaughter cattle moved north into Canada. While they amounted to about 21,000 head by the end of August compared to only a few hundred last year, this number does not represent 1 week's Canadian domestic requirements. On the bright side, exports of dressed beef from Canada to the U.S. rose to 9.3 million pounds, about 34 percent above the previous year's midsummer totals.

With fairly plentiful supplies of feeder cattle being forecast for this fall, feeder prices started to show signs of weakening in July. For over a year now, particularly in the East, feeder cattle have sold for $1.50 to $2.00 per cwt. above slaughter prices. Currently however the two price levels are running closely together — a situation which approaches what was usually considered to be the more normal pattern.

Domestic disappearance during the first seven months of 1964 rose 6% for beef, the equivalent of 44,300 cattle per week compared with 40,900 head a year previous. — From The Meat Packers Council, Canada.

FARMERS IN TRANSITION IS RADIO FORUM THEME!

National Farm Radio Forum celebrates its 26th birthday this year with a long look at agriculture in the sixties.

"Farmers In Transition" the theme for 1964-65, covers the spectrum of changes affecting the farmer. From the opening session on November 2nd, entitled "The Price Of Life" and ending with the question of medical care and costs, to the final topic in March, "New Patterns For Our Land", Farm Forum will critically and objectively review the new rural society.

Of major interest, on November 9 is "The Sunday Farmers," a look at the effect of part-time farmers on Canada's economy. "Farmers In Transition" on Nov. 16th is a look at mechanization and its promise in agriculture. "Two Need To Market," on November 30th examines the conflict between co-ops and marketing boards when the two handle the same commodity in the same area.

If you are interested in forming a Forum, or in taking part as an individual listener or family group, write to National Farm Forum, 113 St. Georges St., Toronto 5.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Phooey to you Mrs. F. J. Glanblta, president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations.

Mrs. Glanbits was widely quoted recently as "expressing concern that some persons are attracted to the teaching profession because of high salaries rather than a genuine interest in teaching."

The lady is reported to have said that persons in the past have been drawn to teaching because of a sincere interest in human beings, but the higher salaries of recent years have brought an increasing number who consider it "just another job."

Dear Mrs. Glanbits, you're all wet! Where are all these people who are flocking into teaching for the big salaries? Every spring, principals do everything but turn over stones to see what they can find under them, in search for teachers.

Where are those big salaries, Mrs. Glanbits? Now, I'm not going to get personal, and ask how much Mr. Glanbits is making these days. But if there is a Mr. Glanbits, I'll bet he's making a whale of a lot more than this teacher.

Teachers' salaries are reasonable after years of shabby gentility, like they're a long way from being opulent. They make less money than engineers, dentists or bone-benders. They're about one jump ahead of the preachers, about on a par with the skilled craftsmen.

Anybody who has a wild idea about getting into the high-salaried profession of teaching should immediately take a tranquillizer, followed by a short course in hotel management, hair - dressing, or some in which he can make real money.

The story continued: "Mrs. Glanbits was pleased that the number one does not oppose high salaries for teachers because 'the whole future of the country rests in their hands'."

Well, holly for Mrs. Glanbits and the association. But isn't that taking a very dim view of the church, the government, and the parents of all those who will make up the future?

It's a bit much to saddle the teachers with! Isn't it? Frankly, if the whole future of the country rests in my hands, I'm going to put my hands in my pockets and stroll quietly away.

Mrs. G., in the same story, suggested that greater care be taken in choosing candidates for teaching training using such means as aptitude tests to weed out unsuitable persons. Now, I realize that teachers have not the pristine purity of medical or law societies, where there is never a bad apple in the barrel, but I'm afraid aptitude tests are not the answer.

Here's the type of test Mrs. Glanbits might approve, with the answers that would be given by one of the best teachers I know, a master experienced man whose students worship him, whose colleagues respect him, and whose results are excellent.

Q. Do you have a sincere interest in human beings? A. Well, not really. I like dogs, though.

Q. Do you smoke? A. Sure.

Q. Do you indulge in alcohol? A. Just beer, except on the week ends.

Q. Do you enjoy helping people? A. Hell, no. I only do it because I have to.

Q. Are you interested in a higher salary? A. Are you kidding.

Q. What cultural interests do you have, aside from your profession? A. Watching football on TV.

Q. What sort of home life do you have. A. Well, the kids drive me crazy and I fight a lot with my wife. About average, I guess.

And so it would go, the aptitude test. This chap should be hurled out of the profession, by rights. He's not dedicated or anything. He's just a crushing good teacher.

BIG "FALL EVENT" SALE Continues All This Week.

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

"BUSHING"

So Autumn is with us again, with its beautiful multi-colored leaves falling from the trees and shrubs, carpeting the lawns with a gold and bronze covering; Autumn, with its cold, frosty nights and cool, mostly sunny days.

Can it be as we grow older that the seasons seem to slip by so much faster than they did a few years ago? Probably, it could be that now that we have more time to do the thousand and one things which we wanted to do when we were youngsters and busy raising our families, that the time does fly faster, spring and summer are past, fall is with us, and winter is "just around the corner."

In the real early "wood-burning" days on the old home-stead in southern Manitoba, this time of the year, autumn, was my favorite season, when with the old steam threshing engine back up on the hill, the separator cleaned and put away in the shed again for another year, the vegetables all taken care of, the potatoes dug, storm windows and doors all hung on, that was when we could relax, heave a big sigh and snuggle down for my sort of winter the old weather-man cared to hand out to us. There was sufficient feed up for the horses and cattle, the barn all "bushed up" and everyone seemed so care-free and happy, looking forward to a winter of parties, social gatherings and neighborly gossip, which during the busy time we just had to dispense with.

However, the men-folks still had the big job facing them of hauling the year's supply of wood for the cook-stove and heater. True, some of us used some coal for the heater, but seldom, if ever, (that is in the very early years), did we use coal in our cook-stoves. We just could not afford it.

Our district was really not on the bald-headed prairie, the nearest bush where one could get wood being a matter of about twleve miles north of us.

During the summer, the men tried to plan their ork so they could snatch a day now and again to go back north to chop down the green poplar trees, trim off the branches and pile up the poles so they would be a bit drier then they would have been had they been cut down and hauled home right away.

Then when winter came and there was sufficient snow for good sleighing, the wood was hauled home where it again was piled, each man awaiting his turn at using the community saw. Then, the sawing bee.

It agin as piled, each man awaiting his turn at using the community saw. Then, the sawing-bee.

Moreover, if circumstances prevented a man from getting his poles cut down and piled in summer, he faced the inevitable task of driving to the bush, twelve miles each way, with team and sleigh, cutting down and trimming, loading up and hauling these poles home, slaps saving it is one day, but believe me, it was a long tiring day.

The weather, in those days, seemed much colder with more snow than we have now, so a man generally waited beside his load, most if not all the ay home. He did this partly to keep warm, and partly to lighten the load for the horses. For example, in our own case Dad would have everything ready the night before, being doubly sure his axe was sharpened to the right sharpness, (the only tool he needed on a job such as this), then, with hay and oats for the horses, his own lunch and pail of tap, he was away before daylight.

He could always count on his pail of tea to be frozen, as well as the lunch. So one of the jobs was to get a fire lit to thaw out these commodities. I have often heard Dad relate how his fingers would be so numb with cold he couldn't locate a match in his pocket, then finally when he did find one, what a job it was to get it lit.

One time, it had been colder than usual. It was one of those times when everything went wrong, right from the start of a bitterly cold morning. There were just two more loads to haul, so the hired man was to go with Dad on this last trip. They were anxious to get this horrendous task over with for another year.

They drove out of the yard just as the sun was peeping up over the horizon, an exceptionally bite start, which didn't land to make the most folks too sweet tempered. The weather had played a trick on us that year by sending a few rather warm days at just that time (it was about the middle or last of February), causing the roads to be "out off", which meant that a sleigh could easily slip from the rute and dump the whole load into the ditch. So our men were doubly anxious to get these last two loads home.

Apple Time Is Any Time

It's apple time once again. For genuine eating pleasure, no fruit can equal the Canadian apple.

When buying apples remember: Buy by the grade. In order of quality we find — Canada Extra Fancy, Canada Fancy and Canada Commercial or "C".

Buy apples by variety according to their cooking and eating quality.

Buy firm, tart apples for cooking purposes.

Buy the largest amount that can be stored conveniently.

Our best eating varieties include: McIntosh, Jonathan, Cortland, Delicious, Stayman, Northern Spy, Golden Russet, Fameuse (Snow) and Wealthy.

For tasty recipes using Canadian apples send for the booklet "Apples". This is available from your District Home Economist or Fresno Apples for Enjoyment Later

Peel, core and slice apples into a brine of 1 teaspoon salt per 1 qt. water. Leave in the brine up to 15 minutes. Drain. This step will prevent darkening of the apples.

Blanch for 3 minutes in boiling water or steam. Cool in ice water and package in quantities suitable for pie.

A syrup pack may be used for fruit salads. Use a medium syrup, adding 1/2 teaspoon ascorbic acid per quart of syrup.

For a dry pack, sprinkle 1/2 to 3/4 cup ever each quart of apples; or pack sugarless and dry.

THE ROYAL VISIT and WORLD SERIES play major roles in the CBC-TV schedule this week.

On Saturday morning Oct. 10th at 9:00 a.m. in Alberta, there will be coverage of the arrival of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip at Quebec City. Included will be scenes from Her Majesty's visit to the Quebec Legislature.

Also on Saturday in the afternoon, the Queen will go to the Citadel for ceremonies with the Royal 22nd Reg iment, including dedication of the Memorial Chapel. This event will be video-taped for broadcast at the end of the World Series game.

CBC cameras next record the Queen and Prince Phillip at a wreath-laying ceremony in Ottawa. That will be at 5:30 a.m. in Alberta on Monday October 12th.

THE ROYAL VISIT coverage will conclude on Tuesday October 13 when Her Majesty and Prince Phillip depart from Ottawa for England. The delayed presentation begins at 8:30 a.m. in Alberta.

All schedule times for ROYAL VISIT telecasts are very tentative and could be changed at the last minute due to weather problems or alterations in the itinerary.

Also up in the air, at this writing, is the scheduling of baseball's intima extravaganza the WORLD SERIES. The series is scheduled to begin October 7th but with the possibility of a play-off in the National League, the starting date could be delayed. Suffice to say that whoever plays, whenever and wherever they play, the series will be carried in its entirity on both the CBC radio and television networks.

The week's sports calendar is very heavy as at least two major sports events and the Olympic Games begin in Tokyo.

In addition to the WORLD SERIES, there will be: A telecast of "The Breeder's Stakes", 1 1/2 mile test of Canadian-bred 3-year-olds for a purse of $35,000. That's 2:0., Oct. 10th at 2:30 in Alberta.

The NHL Allstar Game, pitting Toronto Maple Leafs against the best of the other five NHL clubs. Game time on TV Set. evening is 8:30 in Alberta.

A CFL football game between the Montreal Alouettes and the Calgary Stampeders Sat. night at 8:00 in Alberta.

The first of many Olympic Games reports from Tokyo Sunday, Oct. 11 at 5:00 p.m.

"Instant TV" on SHOW OF THE WEEK, Monday Oct. 12th at 9:00 was produced in Germany and presents many of Europe's top singing stars. It should be worth a look. The German Kessler Twins who are featured, are rumored to be superb.

With the great number of live events this week and the uncertainty surrounding the WORLD SERIES and ROYAL VISIT, TV advise readers to listen carefully to their stations for announcements of any schedule changes.

Killam Will Erect Centennial Park

KILLAM — The Hon. Ambrose Holowach, Provincial Secretary, has announced that the Alberta Centennial Committee has granted approval to three applications for provincial centennial grants to assist in the completion of projects to commemorate Canada's Confederation Centennial. Following provincial approval the applications will be forwarded to Ottawa for approval by the Federal Centennial Commission for payment of the federal grant.

The Village of Killam proposes to erect Killam Centennial Park, to commemorate the occasion, and in addition to the centennial grant in which the park will be established, will utilize a portion of the grant for which Municipal District No. 43 is eligible and is contributing to the projects.

The city of Edmonton will erect a Public Library, and the Village of Coutts has received approval for the publication of a history of the area as its project.

Each of these communities is entitled to receive a provincial centennial grant, which is determined on the basis of $1.00 per capita of population. In the case of the village of Coutts the grant amounts to $460.00, while total cost of the project will be $6,774. The city of Edmonton's grant will be $339,254, although the total cost of the library will be approximately $3,100,000.

The Village of Killam will receive $772.00 as its own provincial grant, plus the $462.00 waived by Municipal District No. 43 from its own centennial funds, towards the total cost of the project of $6,100.

The deadline for submission of applications is December 31st, 1966. A centennial projects must have a reasonable chance of completion by 1967 to be approved. Enquiries regarding projects may be addressed to R. D. McLean, Director of Centennial Programs, Legislative Buildings, Edmonton.

Sedgewick Cadet Corps Holds Farewell For WO2 Severn

On Thursday evening, October 8, the Sedgewick Cadet Corps held a farewell party for WO2 Severn. WO2 Severn is from the Alberta Area Cadet Command office in Edmonton. He is due to go into retirement in January, and the corps decided to hold a farewell party in his honor. Over the years he has rendered much valuable assistance, and has been a friend of cadets at Vernon Cadet Camp. Special guests at the farewell party were Mr. Steve, principal of the High School; Mr. Brian Lee, Legion President; the Deputy Mayor and his wife; and Mr. and Mrs. McKee, First Aid instructors.

Mr. Calvin Beairsto was present to show some slides which were taken at Annual Inspections of past years.

Highlights of the evening were the presentation of certificates to those who attended camp, and also promotions. Sergeant Chapman, Lance Corporal Wilson, and Lance Corporal Truss received certificates for passing their courses at Vernon Cadet Camp. Promotions were Sgt. Chapman to WO2, Sgt. J. McBride to Staff Sergeant, Corpora. Henderstrom and Lance Corpora Truss to Sergeants, Lance Corporals Johnson and Wilson to Corporals, and Cadets Bailey and Robertson to Lance Corporals. Three badges received rank also: Kadet M. Robertson to Corporal, and Kadets C. Boyer and J. Stevens to Lance Corporals.

Teachers Executive Study Amendments

The Killam School Division A.T.A. Local, wishing to streamline and make more effective organization, last year re-organized its structure so that A.T.A. business is discussed at the staff level. The purpose of the Council, to which each school sends one representative, is to deal with all routine business and cut the number of full local meetings to a minimum.

On Tuesday, October 4th, fourteen members of the local council met in the Killam Public School with Mr. Peter Pawlenty presiding. Highlights of the meeting were a report from the Provincial Council, the proposed amendments to the general bylaws of the provincial ATA, and the setting up of special committees. An executive committee was set up under the chairmanship of Miss Alelunas, Forestburg.

Within this committee four study groups were arranged, as follows: English: Keith Robson, chairman; Social Studies: Alex Bostik, chairman; Mathematics, Mrs. Long, chairman; Science, Mr. Coward, chairman.

THIRDY CIRCUIT TRIGGERS FIRE

SEDGEWICK — The citizens of this village were called away from their dinner tables on Wednesday last by the wailing of the fire siren, and in a game of follow the leader, ended up at the Hedley Bailey home which adjoins the highway. There they proceeded to jam up the highway, all parts of entry rooms, and the entire yard area at the scene of the fire. The fire engines managed to squeeze in and soon had the blaze under control.

Source of the fire is believed to have been a short-circuit in the wiring hooked to a small radio in a chesterfield, situated just too far from the main beam. Fortunately there was no wind, and no further damage was caused.

Following the all-clear signal, the five volunteers found themselves alone, with all the excitement disappearing as quickly as they had arrived. The Fire Department feels that perhaps the time has come to slot them should at least stay out of the way and not clutter up the scene with cars, trucks and people. The Community Press photographer managed to sneak his way through the crowd to get the above picture, showing Hedley Bailey using a garden hose to keep the fire from spreading in a nearby garage.

A. P. Crop Report

LOCAL. Combining is being resumed following a few days of dry weather. Most areas report that wheat and barley are still tough or damp, but with continued favorable weather, operations will gain momentum and be finished in ten days to two weeks in most parts of this area.

GENERAL. Warm, sunny weather spread over Alberta at the end of last week and has continued this week. In the southern half of the province, harvesting is in full swing and most stations, except the extreme west, report operations to be completed within a week. In the parts and Peace River, most of the grain was tough or damp, but is drying out, and harvesting is being resumed. About two weeks of favorable weather should see harvesting almost completed in these areas. In the Lethbridge area, strong winds have buffeted flax swaths, resulting in reduced yields.

Lougheed To Host U.C.W. Workshop

LOUGHEED — St. Andrew's U-CW met in the church at Lougheed on Thursday evening, October 1st with seven members and two visitors.

Rev. Lewis started the evening with a study and discussion period taken from the adult new curriculum study book "God and His Purpose."

The UCW meetings will all start with this discussion period and anyone wishing to attend are most welcome. Next month's discussion leader will be Mrs. M. Saggenuck.

Gifts to the Mental Health Story should be handed to Mrs. O. Probst before the end of October.

Plans are being made for a Presbyterial Workshop to be held in Lougheed, October 25th, Alan for the fall strawberry shortcake, pie, tea, bazaar and sale of home cooking to be held November 7th.

Mrs. Edworthy from Hardisty, vice president of the Carmelian Presbyterial was present at this meeting.

Next meeting to be held November 8th.

Rec. Centre Paying Way

1st Annual Meeting Told -

SEDGEWICK — A fairly large and representative crowd attended the first annual meeting of the Sedgewick Recreational Centre, and took an active part in discussing reports, and projects for next year.

Reports were given by the Recreation Centre Board on the year's activities. Some discussion took place on various problems which confronted the Board during the year, and suggestions made for overcoming them in the new year. A major problem seems to be getting volunteer workers for the kitchen. The financial report, which follows below, indicates that while profits are not on a large scale, the Centre is paying its way, with some money being put into capital expenditures.

Other reports were submitted by the curling club, hockey assn., bowling league, kitchen operations, the minor ball league and senior baseball clubs. Practically all of these showed a well spent season with all showing profits in varying degrees.

Messrs Bert Whitehead and Frank Mayne Jr., were ected to the Board, replacing George Anderson and Tom Bruce, who's terms were expired.

More land is being levelled and seeded to grass in order to better take care of a runo truck, football field, and a new addition for incision of a Gymkhana area.

It seemed quite apparent that the people attending the meeting were quite satisfied with the operations of the Centre in its first year, and a vote of thanks was proffered to the hard-working Board.

Minister Defends Butter Exports

OTTAWA — I have been asked why we have been selling some of our surplus butter at lower prices to export markets than it is selling for in our stores at home.

This is a rather complicated answer to cover adequately in a few words, but I'd like to try since I believe public servants like myself have a responsibility to provide every bit of information possible to the public about the conduct of the public business.

In any agricultural program, the Government has two main people to keep in mind: the farmer and the consumer. Sometimes I think it is not quite accurate, in fact, to call it an agricultural program. It would be more accurate if we called it a food program, since we try to keep the interests of both the producer of food and the consumer of food in mind when we carry out those programs.

The butter situation goes back several years, to May 1966, when the government of that day raised the support, or minimum price for butter to producers from 56 cents a pound to 64 cents a pound. This was to give the farmers who sell milk for butter production a better living. But it also had the effect of raising the price of butter in our grocery stores.

Gradually, housewives stopped buying as much as they used to and the government found itself with large stocks of surplus butter on its hands — butter for which it had paid producers 64 cents a pound.

Finally, in May, 1965, the Government introduced a consumer subsidy for butter of 12 cents a pound. This meant that Agricultural Stabilization Board bought butter from farmers at 64 cents a pound and sold it to wholesalers at 52 cents a pound, so that the price in our grocery stores would go down to a level where housewives would buy more butter again.

This was the general effect of the consumer subsidy. Butter sales began to rise, but they weren't enough to take care of current production and at the same time clear out our surplus stocks.

When I became the minister responsible for the butter program, there were something like 80 million pounds in storage, costing all of us taxpayers about $820,000 a month in storage costs. Some of that butter was getting a little old, too, so we decided the best thing to do was sell it as fast as we could and at the best price we could get.

We did sell most of the surplus

Advice To Land Buyers!

Mr. A. W. Goettel, Assistant Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, has some very good advice for prospective land buyers, and the first precaution, he says, is don't buy land sight unseen or during the winter months. The soil's resources is probably the most important of all the factors which must be considered when buying a farm. A farmer should try to get as much information as possible on the topography of the land, the soil itself and the presence of stones or serious weeds. He should also realize that one farm may consist of several different soil types, each of which may have to be managed differently. The soil often determines the type of farming which will utilise resources to the best advantage.

Walking over the land is the best way of finding out about the soil. Going over each field separately gives the best idea of the soil's capacity to produce. A spade should be used to check such things as the depth of top soil and the texture and the depth of the sub-soil. In this way the land can also be checked for sand lenses, compact layers, poor drainage, stones, salts.

But where does a farmer go for technical information about the soil? The first place to go is the district agriculturist's office in the area where the farm is located. If a soil survey report is available, he will have it on hand and be able to help interpret it. Soil survey reports and other technical information are also available from the Soil Survey Office of the University of Alberta and from the Field Crops Branch of the Department of Agriculture. The municipal office may be able to give some idea of the type of land from their assessment records.

Soil tests are not meant to determine the value of land, but show whether it will grow crops. They are designed to show the amount of available nutrients and whether the soil is acid or alkaline, or contains harmful salts. The amount of available nutrients at any one time depends upon previous cultural practices, and is not an indication of the soil's productivity. A soil test is useful if harmful salts are suspected over a large area.

Well Spoken Mr. Hunter!

On his return from a lengthy visit overseas Mr. D. B. Hunter, Provincial Liberal Leader, issued the following statement: "The Alberta Liberal party completely disassociates itself from all irresponsible statements and innuendos that have been made by private individuals. These individuals have no authority whatsoever to speak on behalf of the Liberal party. It is regrettable that during the past several weeks some statements made by individuals have been attributed to the Liberal party. All provincial Liberal policy statements will continue to be made through the provincial leader's office in Edmonton and will carry the full support of Liberal M.L.A's. Mike Maccagno and Wm. Dickie". Some individuals, lacking any constructive programs or thought of their own, but apparently thirsting for political power in Alberta,attempt to tear down the government by issuing innuendos and untrue statements, hoping that by pulling down they can build themselves up. No one wants these type governing the province, and Mr. Hunter's statement indicates definitely his stand on such activity.—Vermilion Standard.

730 Albertans Will Die This Year!

Yes, close to 730 Albertans will die accidentally this year. It makes sad reading, but according to past records an average of 2 people per day die in a car, at home, while working or playing, yearly, in Alberta. While reviewing some of the latest accidental death reports, the Alberta Safety Council pulled these stories from the files to show that accidents can happen anywhere. As in all cases the following 15 deaths could have been prevented.

(1) An eleven-year-old boy was crushed to death when a forklift truck fell on him during a joyride.

(2) While operating a crane an 18-year old youth died instantly when the crane came in contact with high tension wires.

(3) A young 10-year-old died in hospital from injuries received earlier when he was thrown from his bicycle into an iron guard rail.

(4) Two children, 8 and 6, died instantly when a 10-foot-high wall of earth on which they were playing collapsed, causing the youngsters to fall into the engulfing soil, suffocating them.

(5) Three members of a six-man hunting party died in a home-made truck cabin-trailer after a propane stove used up most of the oxygen in the tightly closed trailer.

(6) An elderly woman died in hospital of burn suffered when her housecoat caught fire from a gas heater.

(7) While hooking up a snow plow to a small tractor, a 44-year-old man died instantly when the plow stuck in the snow flipping up an attached bar which struck him on the head.

(8) An eight-year-old boy accidentally hanged himself when a window he was attempting to crawl through slammed on his head.

(9) A soot-clogged chimney diverted odorless, deadly carbon monoxide gas into living areas and killed three children.

(10) During an inspection of a 22 rifle a 15-year-old boy was accidentally shot through the head.

(11) An elderly farmer drowned when he tried to rescue a lamb from the thin ice of the farm's stock pond.

(12) Apparently while getting into the bathtub at home, a 7-year-old girl drowned after slipping and knocking herself unconscious.

(13) A six-year-old boy died instantly when he was crushed beneath a toppling 1200 pound tractor tire display.

(14) After climbing to the kitchen counter-top where the toaster was located, a 20-month-old boy placed a metal knife into the plugged-in toaster and inserted the other end into his mouth electrocuting himself.

(15) While cleaning some pipes in the feed mill, an 18-year-old youth fell into 25 tons of sunflower meal suffocating him before rescuers could save him.

Most persons will think that these deaths were odd and can only happen once, however, the same tragedies occur with shocking regularity.

This year's file will tell the very same stories, or will they?

You're an old-timer if you can remember when setting the world on fire was a figure of speech.

Turning over a new leaf is no problem —it's the writing on it that really counts.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

The Queen Of Canada

OTTAWA — Tight security arrangements with the inclusion of things so foreign to Canada as bullet proof cars has done a good deal to rob the Queen's 1964 welcome of its warmth and genuine welcome.

There could be no repetition of the incidents of the first Royal visit in 1939 when a King and Queen separated themselves from the official party and were lost in a crowd cheering war veterans. They rode in open cars in Quebec as well as other provinces and never a thought was given by the men on the street to possible danger. Crowds were pressed on them as they were on this occasion but few knew it and still fewer cared.

Even more unfortunate was the fact that reports of assassination memories also clouded the emphasis on the constitutional importance of the visit which had been carefully planned in the light of Canadian development. It was at least a major reason why the Queen's Canadian Ministers at no time seriously considered advising Her Majesty to cancel or shorten the visit. It had too many positive values vital to the future of Canada.

The Queen herself struck the first note in her first speech on Canadian soil. She declared she was proud to participate in Confederation celebrations as "Queen of Canada". Again in the course of the same speech she said: "A hundred years of unbroken democratic practices embracing the Crown, Government, and Parliament mark Canada as one of the world's oldest and most stable nations".

The British North America Act which may soon be replaced by a Canadian constitutional statute stated that "the executive Government and authority of and over Canada is hereby declared to continue and to be vested in the Queen". This and the Letters Patent of 1947 which, for the first time, delegated to the Governor General in respect of Canada all powers held by the Monarch are the roots from which the whole Canadian Parliamentary system has grown.

The concept of a Canadian Monarch as distinct from a Canada subject to a British Monarch has not been developed easily or quickly. Constitutionally it was established clearly with the Statute of Westminster in 1931 but as late as 1939 Prime Minister Mackenzie King had a difficult time explaining it to Lord Tweedsmuir, then Gov.-Gen.

Mr. King insisted that while the Monarch was on Canadian soil he, Tweedsmuir had no real status and the King must be accompanied and advised on Canadian matters directly by his Canadian Ministers. The Gov.-Gen. in 1939 was given far less part in the Royal tour than the place given today to the Leader of His Majesty's Opposition about which there has been complaint.

The concept of a Canadian Monarch today is being deliberately aired by advocates of republicanism who are using the British Crown to foster resentment against a mythical subjection.

M. Marcel Faribault, brilliant Quebec lawyer and President of the General Trust of Canada, would certainly not be classed as an extremist nor does a Conservative confederation on national goals hold records in Fredericton appear the most appropriate place for extreme ideas. Yet out of Fredericton and drafted by M. Faribault comes a suggested preamble to a new Canadian constitution one article of which reads:

"Canada is a free independent member of the British Commonwealth of nations and as such it acknowledges the Queen of England as its titular head".

Not only would she no longer be Queen of Canada but would no longer have any part in the Government of this country. Republicanism is not confined to Quebec but it is ironic that such sentiments should even stem from this quarter where French minority interests have been protected over the years by the monarchical tie. Nothing, the Liberal Government at Ottawa has felt, could better restore the strength of the Monarchy in Canada and with it national unity than be presence of the Monarch herself.

SASKATCHEWAN STEPPING OUT?

There was a period when the neighboring province of Saskatchewan was the most populous of the three Prairie Provinces. Now Alberta is the leader with close to 1,500,000 people while Saskatchewan is nearing 1,000,000.

Oil and gas discoveries and development gave Alberta's economy an impetus and this province far exceeded all other provinces in the production of petroleum products. This trend is likely to continue in the present ahead.

Now a new resource is being developed in Saskatchewan which is certain to bring much wealth to that province. Exploration has discovered deposits of over 60 billion tons of potash. Reserves are double that existing from 8,000 to 7,000 feet, in an area 480 miles long and 200 miles wide.

Potash is a key ingredient in chemical fertilizers and the latest is the spirredi. Saskatchewan has the largest reserves of the product in the world and big U.S. corporations are spending around $100 million already in developing potash mines. Previous small efforts at mining the potash there proved that big money was needed for mining on a large scale.

Four big corporations are now engaged in mining or carrying out plans for mine operations. By 1970 Saskatchewan will be the world's largest producer of potash, according to forecasts by some experts.

30 YEARS AGO
(From Press Files Oct. 19, 1934)

A meeting was held to arrange preliminary details and elect officers for the Sedgewick and District Schools Festival to be held in the spring of 1935.

Last Sunday sparks from a freight train set the stubble afire in Weir's field at Lougheed. A straw stack caught fire and a granary filled with grain also caught fire. Several hundred bushels of grain were scorched.

The Altheon COIT Club of Daysland met at the home of Miss Joyce Simonsen on October 10th under the new leadership of Miss Freddie Mirtsen and Jean Thompson. The new officers elected were as follows: Pres., Hazel Boggs; Vice-Pres., Jean Gardner; Sec.-Treas., Betty Anderson; Pianist, Shirley Anderson. The fee this year will be 25c for the term.

20 YEARS AGO
(From Press Files Oct. 12, 1944)

A social evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Keney of Lougheed, in honor of Miss Yvonne Phipps who has been primary teacher in the school for the past few years, and is now a member of the Camrose staff.

Mrs. Jack Richardson has been crowned Queen of the Carnival held recently at Camrose. She is just an ordinary little girl as she was here.

The Killam United Church Auxiliary of the W.M.S. met on Oct. 6th at the home of Mrs. R. York. They decided to visit all the Baby Band mothers at one time during the month.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Bowler has grown some potatoes, any one of which would be enough for one meal for any Irishman. The tubers are in proportion with one measuring 6 feet and six inches in length.

10 YEARS AGO
(From Press Files Oct. 14th, 1954)

Civil Defence Schools are being held at Hardisty and Killam by Mr. F. Maclean of Red Deer.

The egg grader at Strome was sort of gyped of a little business when he had those cases of eggs sitting outside. I saw some kids getting nice fresh eggs.

We are almost afraid to say it but once again we are enjoying a lovely Indian Summer, and the farmers are taking full advantage of it.

Construction has started on the new United Church in Sedgewick. It is expected that the basement will be ready and the building roughed-in before winter.

REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

at lower prices than it costs in Canadian stores. But by doing this we cut out those expensive storage costs and we cleared the way for trade better for the needs of Canadians from now on.

At the same time, of course, we did our best to see that nothing happened to reduce the income of our producers.

It might seem pretty impractical to a city person for the government to be paying producers more for butter than the price at which it sells it to the wholesalers. But let's remember that if farmers could not make a living, then we would soon not have any farmers and then we would not have any food industry of our own at all.

Granted we might have butter for 60 cents a pound for a little while if we took all the government support away. But it wouldn't be very long before butter was 90 cents or a dollar a pound because farmers just wouldn't be able to take a chance on producing a product on which they might lose their shirts. Before long we'd have such a butter shortage that no one could afford to buy it at all.

Government support prices for farm products — which remember are food products, too — keep farmers' income from dropping to disaster levels. But they also benefit our city consumers by ensuring a regular supply of food at reasonable prices.

I can think of no better substantiation of this than the fact that in Canada any food costs amount to a smaller percentage of the worker's dollar — about 21 cents, to be exact — than in any other country in the world.

In other words, it takes a smaller proportion of the consumer's income for food in Canada than in any other country — a condition for which I think all Canadians can be thankful.

Landed value of the catch of Canada's sea fisheries totalled $145 million in 1963; landed value of the inland fisheries to about $30 million annually.

In the first half of 1964 immigration to Canada totalled 81,822 of whom 28,184 were wives and children or other persons not destined to the labor force.

LOUGHEED 4-H

CLOTHING CLUB

The second meeting of the Lougheed 4-H Clothing Club was held on October 7, 1964. We have 17 members in the club this year. Leaders were chosen for 4 committees visiting and coffee club are as follows: Business leaders, Mrs. R. Slowbohm, Mrs. H. Burden; Cooking leaders, Mrs. S. Waite, Miss M. Furnbaugh, Mrs. J. McCammond; and Clothing leaders, Miss S. Waite and Mrs. V. Probst. Roll call was for ideas for suggested activities for roll calls during the rest of the year. Correspondence was read. It was decided that "Needlebasting" no longer suited the club so the new name will be "Lougheed Homemakers". The meeting adjourned with a treat from the Queens and lunch followed.

CAPITAL HILL

Chancellor of Finance Minister Gordon's next budget containing some healthy tax reductions are growing brighter; the basis of six months' revenue experience it appears that Mr. Gordon is going to end the fiscal year with a deficit not very much above $200 million or about half the $400 million predicted in March. A year ago and even more recently this would have led to predictions of an estimate to balance the budget in 1965-66. There is a change of thinking. With an economy that must continue the eight per cent growth rate experienced for the this year if it is to keep pace with a rapidly growing labor force Government may be expected to be in the next few years. Also, the Federal Government may be hard on to offset by deficits and borrowing the deflationary effect of Canadian savings poured into a vast pension fund which will be turned over to the provinces. Deliberate deficit financing for a few years could accomplish this purpose.

TV Talk

With the departure of Queen Elizabeth and the conclusion of the WORLD SERIES the CBC network television schedule will return to its normal fall pattern this week.

There'll be an interesting sports menu with extensive Olympic Games coverage at the main course. There will be reports daily at 4:30 p.m. & additional broadcasts at various times as on local stations. For the time of these additional programs listen for announcements on your local station.

The Olympic reports, as usual, will all come direct from Tokyo via the Syncom Satellite, will cover all major events, with particular emphasis on those in which Canadian athletes are participating.

The N.H.L. hockey season opens on CBC television Saturday night, October 17th when the Canadiens who finished first in league play last year, host the New York Rangers, who finished fifth and set of the play-offs. Danny Gallivan, the voice of the Canadiens, will once again do the play-by-play commentary. Game time 8:30 p.m. in Alberta.

The CFL football game Saturday promises to be one of the year's crucial battles. It pits the Calgary Stampeders, battling for the league lead against the rugged Saskatchewan Roughriders, who have also been out in front all year. The 2 clubs carry many of the players who'll be top choices for All-star honors this year — great ball players like Lovell Coleman, explosive Ed Jenkins, George Reid and Eagle Day. Kick-off time for the game from Taylor-McAden Stadium will be 2 p.m.

The NFL telecast Sunday afternoon, following five weeks of action in the Western Conference, switches to an Eastern Conference battle between the Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants. Game time is 11:00 a.m. in Alberta.

On Monday, October 19th the CBC-TV network will go on its winter hours, commencing network broadcasting at 10 a.m. with the National Schools telecast. Also returning in the morning block will be two long-time children favorites, the Friendly Giant at 11 a.m. & Cbc Helene at 11:15 a.m.

Wayne and Shuster head a large Canadian cast on the show of the week, on Monday, October 19th at 8:00 p.m. Appearing with the comedians will be Shirley Harmer, Doug Crosby, Don Gillies, Carla Carter, Jack Duffy and a host of others.

Other Voices, an unconventional series, Tuesday at 10:30 p.m. 1.04 week presents "The Songs of Joe Hill". Hill was a U.S. labor pioneer of the 1900's who was executed by a firing squad in Utah early in this century. Don Francks, who's slated for the first star building on Broadway in the near future, sings Hill's songs while the events of his life are depicted by Toronto actor Gregory Lascombe.

Speed Isn't Always Fast

"One sure sign of an amateur driver is his ridiculous and highly dangerous notion to try to get ahead of every other car on the road," the Canadian Highway Safety Council. The Council is promoting nationally a summer vacation campaign called "Slow Down and Live".

"This type of driver either ends his hysterical dash in a wreck, usually involving other people and other vehicles, or finds himself only one or two positions ahead of the place he left in the line of traffic. Either way, he gains nothing," the Council said.

Speed, claimed CHSC, is a variable thing. In darkness, fog or heavy rain, with slippery pavement, 30 miles an hour could be too fast. When CHSC advises motorists to "Slow Down and Live", it is not advocating a crawling speed which, it claims, is often more dangerous than the legal limit since it goes on to say in pace perilously or ruffles tempers to the danger point. "Use common sense," the Council advises. "You are never compelled to drive at the posted limit. On the other hand, don't dawdle when you can drive safely at that speed."

Thanks to God for my Redeemer,
Thanks for all Thou dost provide!
Thanks for times sent lest a mean'ry,
Thanks for Jesus by my side!
Thanks for pleasant, balmy springtime,
Thanks for dark and dreary fall!
Thanks for tears by now forgotten,
Thanks for peace within my soul!

Thanks for prayers that Thou hast answered,
Thanks for what Thou dost deny!
Thanks for storms that I have weathered,
Thanks for all Thou dost supply!
Thanks for pain, and thanks for pleasure,
Thanks for comfort in despair!
Thanks for grace that none can measure,
Thanks for love beyond compare.

Thanks for roses by the wayside,
Thanks for thorns their stems contain!
Thanks for hope and thanks for fire-flies,
Thanks for hope, that sweet refrain!
Thanks for joy and thanks for sorrow,
Thanks for heav'nly peace with Thee.
Thanks for hope in the tomorrow,
Thanks thro' all eternity!

Gary Fry

of Edmonton

AN ALBERTA JUNIOR CITIZEN OF THE YEAR

Imagine yourself, as a twelve-year old boy, having complete charge of a household — shopping, cooking, cleaning, washing, ironing and maintaining a large kitchen garden. Gary not only does all this, but also cares for his mother, who is confined to a wheelchair. He takes her for walks after school — helps her with copper tooling and ceramic tile work. He can stuff and cook a turkey. He waxes and polishes the floors, and still maintains above-average grades at school. We congratulate Gary, and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

(Mrs. Doug Kinnee)

KILLAM — At the October meeting in the church there was a poorer attendance than was anticipated. Mrs.... Christenson, as pre. had not contacted the KUC Club to catering. The cleaning of the church being taken care of. The treasurer reported that two memorial donations had been made and that $9.60 had been raised by "Sunshine money" for the five summer months. Holland bulbs were again purchased. A motion was passed to turn over to the stewards a sum of money to help them meet expenses.

The worship service was led by Mrs. Morris with Mrs. J. Forester giving the Bible reading. The topic "Thanksgiving", Two hymns, "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven" and "For the Beauty of the Earth" were sung. Following this devotional period a film was shown.

Members were urged to attend workshops at either Camrose or Lougheed in the near future. All were requested to bring vegetables for Thanksgiving Sunday.

Again the UCW urges all to bring their vegetables and old spices to the church basement for shipment to Moose Jaw and Kerse.

The next meeting roll call will be a jar of jam or pickles or preserves of any kind for Anniversary Tea rehabilitation centre for alcoholics.

HARDISTY— Prior to her marriage on September 10th to Rodney Allerdice, a miscellaneous shower was held for Miss Linda Zimmer in the Catholic Parish Hall. A large number of ladies attended. During the evening a cake was served, the cake as well as several contests. Seated at the table with her were her mother, Mrs. J. Allerdice, Mrs. Phyllis Allerdice, Shari Green, and Pat Zimmer. All assisted her in opening the many gifts.

After graciously thanking the ladies and inviting them to visit her in her new home, the hostesses served a dainty lunch.

WINTER FEED FOR THE DAIRY HERD

Alberta dairy farmers are urged to take inventory of winter feed supplies now to avoid shortages later.

The wise dairyman plans his winter feed requirements every fall. This year, with a possible feed shortage in the offering, planning ahead is doubly important.

R. P. Dixon, Supervisor of Alberta Dairy Herd Improvement Service, says the most economical rations, as a general rule, are those which furnish an adequate amount of high quality roughage. The average dairy cow weighing 1200 pounds requires from 2 1/2 to 3 tons of roughage during the winter. If her milk production is 10,000 pounds a year, she will need about 1 ton of grain during the same period.

The quality of the roughage, is one of the most important factors in balancing rations. The average milk cow's protein level can be maintained on grain if the roughage is a high quality alfalfa hay. However, when the roughage is of poor quality, or consists of only grass or cereal hay, added protein must be supplied to the grain mix. Silage quality also varies, depending upon the crop ensiled and the handling method used.

The only way to get an accurate account of hay and grain quality is to have them tested. Mr. Dixon says the visual appearance of roughage can be very deceptive. Information on how to submit samples and the necessary plastic bags can be obtained from district agriculturists.

Maintenance of young stock must not be overlooked when calculating winter feed requirements. Each calf will need well over 1/2 ton of hay. Yearlings will require about 1 1/4 tons each and up to 1/2 ton of grain depending upon how clean they are to freshening.

When calculating bedding needs for the herd, nearly 1 ton of straw should be allowed for each cow in a stanchion barn. Roughly twice this is needed in a loose housing unit, depending upon the management.

Planning ahead for these requirements, says Mr. Dixon, will ensure sufficient winter feed and bedding as well as balanced rations for the dairy herd.

Killam Presbyterian Ladies Association

KILLAM — The September meeting of the Killam Presbyterian Ladies Association was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Brewber.

The meeting opened with a Devotional Period under the direction of Mrs. A. F. Grant. The first hymn was 500 followed by prayer. The topic was taken from "Tilled Tidings" and dealt with the Thanksgiving theme. The Devotional period concluded with singing hymn 691, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

The Business meeting opened with roll call followed by the reading of the minutes. The various committee convenors gave a busy month.

The visiting committee report the usual home and hospital calls and calls to Home Helpers.

Plans were discussed to hold a social evening in the church basement on November 20th at 8:00 pm. The Galahad Group will be included and there will be an auction sale.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction followed by a lovely lunch served by Mrs. Ralph Brewer and Mrs. Harold Grant assisted by the hostess The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Ken Grant in the evening of November 12th.

A CLOSER LOOK AT CHEESE

The month of October has been proclaimed Cheese Month across Canada! With this in mind, let's take a closer look at this well-known and versatile foodstuff. Cheese makes a very important and valuable contribution to our diet. It is a concentrated source of protein; contains riboflavin, a vitamin which keeps certain eye and skin tissues healthy, and calcium which builds healthy bones, teeth and blood. Canada's Food Guide, always a trusty reference for homemakers, recommends that cheese be eaten at least three times a week. This makes a minimum of twelve servings of cheese in the next month, ladies!

There is a variety of cheese to suit every taste, and purchasing. Take a long interested look at your grocer's shelves.

STORE PROPERLY

After purchasing your favorite type of cheese, store the product with care to ensure top quality and flavor right to the last morsel. Packaged or loaf process cheese should be re-wrapped in the original wrapping or in a double thickness of waxed paper, aluminum foil or plastic; and then refrigerated. Jar spreads and cheeses with strong aromas should be refrigerated with the lid tightly in place. Any mold on cheese is not harmful. Simply cut or scrape off the mold and an away! Since very few cheeses freeze well without damaging the texture, buy it as you eat it.

ADD INTEREST TO MEALS

The uses of cheese are endless — breakfast, dinner, supper, in-between snacks, party foods all have a place for cheese. Did you know that a one inch cube of cheese contains the same food value as one glass of milk? Because of the concentrated flavor of cheese products, it is a wise homemaker who combines it with bulky foodstuffs such as succulent fruits and green leafy vegetables. Bread, cereals and potatoes also complement cheese by aiding the digestion of the large amount of fat in the cheese. Our Prune Minister's favourite breakfast is cheese and jam with toast.

Cheese is an adaptable to dessert-time favorites as it is to main dishes. Used at room temperature, cheese is delicious eaten with crisp crackers and sweet, tasty fruits. Try bite cheese spread on thin apple slices that have been dipped into lemon juice. Serve with salted nuts or hot crackers.

Try using cheese as a garnish. Cheese croutons add interest to piping hot bowls of soup. Grated cheese and melted butter poured over freshly popped corn is scrumptious. Grated cheese sprinkled over almost-scrambled eggs is a delight at any time, many ways to use cheese. Use your imagination and use the combinations you can come up with. Remember, in October, cheese will become an important part of your daily meal planning.

A publication entitled "Cheese Dishes" is available from my office and will give you more ideas for combining cheese successfully in your diet.

HARDISTY — At a double-ring nuptial mass at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in Hardisty, Lorna Lavina Zimmer and Rodney Walter Alderdice were united in marriage. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs Bob Zimmer and the groom the son of Mrs. J. Alderdice and the late J. Alderdice, all of Hardisty. Rev. Father Heffernan performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father the bride looked lovely in her floor length gown of white nylon organza over taffeta with appliqued border and short, bell back and hip panel sleeves. Her four tiered chapel veil was held in place by a tiara of white roses. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Her attendants were identical waltz length gowns over taffeta gowns.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Harold Alderdice, sister of the bride, wore a yellow gown and carried a mauve and white bouquet with matching headpiece. Shari Crene, close friend of the bride wore a turquoise gown and carried a pink and white bouquet with matching headpiece. Pat Morgan of Killam, also close friend of the bride wore a pink gown, carried a blue and white bouquet with matching headpiece. The groom's attendants were his brothers Harold and Frank, and nephew, Larry Brymiuon of Alliance.

The mother of the bride wore a dress with white accessories and corsage of white roses. The mother of the groom wore a two-piece blue figured silk with at to match and corsage of yellow roses.

A reception was held at the IOOF Hall catered to by the Ladies of the Royal Purple The Misses Wanda Wilder and Carol Petersen were in charge of the guest book. The bride's table was covered with a hand crocheted tablecloth with three-tiered cake in the centre and flowers and candles on either side. Father Heffernan proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded. Telegrams of congratulation were read by Harold Alderdice.

Upon house was held at the home of the bride's parents in the evening followed by a dance at Smyth Hall After a short honeymoon to points in Alberta and Saskatchewan the happy couple left for their home at Prince Rupert, B.C.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hill, the bride's grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hill and Shirley, all of Kerrobert, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deruse and Kathleen of Millerdale, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Slack of Prince Rupert, B.C. and guests from Dayaland, Sask., Sedgewick, Lougheed and Killam.

CENTRAL HIGH ACTIVITIES

(By "Chuck" Emily)

Nominations for the Student Council took place during the last week. Those nominated for positions were: Pres., Anne Harris; Sec., Carol Temple; Treas., Marilyn Harris. For grade 12 room representatives, Jean York and Ron Routledge; Grade 11 representatives, Debby James, Neil Long and Richard Parr; Grade 12 representative, Corrine Fee.

There were a lot of tests in school this past week, and most of the students were, or should have been studying. The first report card will come out on November 12th.

Sports

The last football game was played against Wetaskiwin, on October 2nd. The score was 17 to 5 for Wetaskiwin. It was a pretty rough game but John Pyra's leg is not broken as at first thought. There was no football game on the 10th because of the long weekend. Next game in Sedgewick will be played on the 23rd.

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

"BUSHING"

As I mentioned in last week's article, everything went wrong that day. It just definitely was NOT their day for bushing.

The man had the habit of, just as soon as they arrived at the bush, they would clear out their pail of tea, also thaw out a couple of the sandwiches, and have a mid-morning snack before starting to work. But when Bill, the hired man, looked for his lunch, he could not locate it. It had evidently slipped off the load along the road.

So, although I always made sure each man had lots of lunch, there naturally was not enough for two hungry men, working at such a heavy job for the whole day.

However there was no choice but to share, so they ate a few of the sandwiches with an eye to saving enough for noon and the mid-afternoon lunch. (Incidentally, the sandwich Bill's tea hadn't suffered the same fate as his lunch).

After eating their lunch, they went to work. But before the first hour, Bill broke his axe handle. They whittled a handle of metal from a piece of green pole, then went to work again. Bill sized up his load and figured he should add one more log pole, although he already had as much as was wise, considering the condition of the roads. So Bill chopped this large tree down. Dad noticed too late that this tree, when it fell, would crash right across his load of poles. Well, it did just that, breaking the bunker under this big load of green poles.

No choice but to unload the whole thing, fix the bunker the best they could, and go again! but they didn't get so many poles on as previously because of the uncertainty of the bunker holding).

All of this teasing around made it so that it was really late when they left the bush. The roads had been bad enough when they got to the bush, but with the sun beating on the snow all day, the roads were in a terrible condition. This part of the country is real hilly, so when they came to a steep place they had to hook both teams onto the load, pull it to the top, then unhooking all four horses from that load, hook up to the other load and get it to the top of the hill. As there were several hills, you can imagine the time that took. Of course this was not necessary when the roads were good. Poor men. As I think of it now, I wonder if we women realized what a terrible back-breaking job it was to get the wood home for each year of burning.

The day when the two men never came at last, hours late, the poor old horses quickened their pace, knowing that a good feed, water and rest awaited them.

I suppose being so near to home, Dad sort of became careless, because suddenly, just about ten rods or so from where they would stop, the runners started to slide and slip and slide off the trail. Dad noticed, unable to right it, and the whole load slid off into practically the deer yard. The men were so bone-weary, so disgusted with the whole day's mishaps that they just unhooked the teams, unharnessed and fed them, and came in to a very belated supper, almost too tired to eat.

The next day saw those poles piled upon the rest of the poles. But from then on Dad made sure he had all his wood home before the thaws came.

TESTING GRAIN FOR SEED QUALITY.

Seed quality is determined on a number of separate factors. By far the most important of these factors is high vitality, that is, the ability to germinate and produce strong healthy seedling. The different seed quality factors cannot be properly assessed by casual examination. They can be evaluated, however, by reliable seed testing procedures. The main object of seed testing is, of course, to establish the field planting value" of any grain sample. And in so doing to find out the ability of the seed to germinate, its freedom from seed-borne disease, its freedom from weed seeds and other impurities, and if it is pure as to the variety.

Seed Tests important. In many areas, particularly in the northern areas of the Prairie Provinces, the general quality of small grain crops each harvested this year for one or more of the following reasons: frost, mildew, harsh discoloration, weather ing and sprouting. The results of germination tests already completed by our own Seed Testing Laboratory on farmers' home-grown seed samples, particularly of oats and barley from the 1964 crop, show that an unusually large proportion of samples have low germination. We have completed enough germination tests on this year's grain samples to convince us that all grain growers in Western Canada would do well advised to have all the grain they intend to keep for seeding purposes in the future tested for germination.

Free Seed Tests. To help farmers to find out the seed quality, and hence the "seed value" of their home-grown grain, the Line Elevator Farm Service operates a modern, efficient cereal seed testing laboratory. We invite farmers to make use of this free seed testing service. Without charge, any farmer in Western Canada can have his seed stocks tested for germination, seed-borne disease and weed seed content. Seed tests can be no better than the samples from which they are made. Therefore please be sure the seed sample you send us for testing is clean and truly representative of the seed lot you want tested. Local Agents of any of our member Line Elevator Companies (listed above) will be glad to forward your seed samples to Winnipeg for testing. Now is a good time to determine the seed value of the grain you intend to use for seed in 1965. The use of good seed is basic to the production of profitable grain crops.

Fire Knowledge

nis among the contents of the building. Combustible waste materials, if allowed to accumulate, provide a breeding ground for fires. It requires special instruction to recognize the degree of hazard presented by certain chemicals, both liquid and solid and a special knowledge to avoid the dangers and to observe the precautions that will prevent fire.

For example, it is usually appreciated that both stocks of flammable liquids present a considerable fire hazard. But the dangers inherent in flammable solvents, thinners, paints, and lacquers are often ignored. Negligence in handling of small quantities of such substances which are found in most farms, shops and industrial plants, has caused many fires.

Similarly, we could examine into the hazards of machinery, accumulated waste, poor storage arrangements, heating and lighting hazards, smoking, the need for careful maintenance, until we would finally realize that there is so much to do and it is of such importance that a senior member of staff must be made responsible for necessary fire precautions. There is need of daily supervision and inspection of premises. A plant fire warden, and, in cases of a large plant, a fire brigade, should be appointed and trained.

The responsibility for preventing fires rests with the individuals and with the management. Without the necessary knowledge, this responsibility cannot be discharged. There is a wealth of information available for the asking from fire departments, the Privincial Fire Commissioner, the electrical and gas inspection branches, the Workmen's Compensation Board, insurance companies, and from companies selling fire alarm and fire protection equipment.

The way we look at it, such fire is a mistake — sometimes a disastrous mistake. The more we know about fire and how to control it, the less chance there is for costly mistakes to occur. Take advantage of FIRE PREVENTION WEEK to improve YOUR knowledge about fire.

SUGAR and SPICE
By Bill Smiley

CANADA, ACT YOUR AGE!

There is one country in the world that I feel sorry for. It has all the outward attributes of a spoiled-rotten juvenile.

It is good-looking, if a little gangly. It is strong and well-made, if a little inclined to flabbiness. It has always had a big allowance because its mother and father came into a lot of property.

But all the signs of the mixed up adolescent are there: the endless flaring resentment over nothing; the great desire to be loved and made a fuss over; the confusion when things don't go right; the sullen apathy towards anything unrelenting; the absorption in material things; the flashes of decency; and the impulses towards vandalism.

It must be dreadful to see a child like this, one who has brought pain and laughter as an infant, pride and joy through the growing years, to be the butt of such contempt.

It is equally sad to see a country one loves turn into a sullen, phrenic, whining with self-pity one moment, swaggering with threats the next, bragging with one breath, complaining with another. I'm talking about Canada.

There is something sick in our country today, and I feel for it the same baffled sorrow that I feel for the teenager who has a good mind, with nothing more on it than bashing around in a big car and chasing things up, who has a fine body, with nothing more to do than let it go to pot.

I don't know quite what has brought me to this state of gloom, but the flag debate certainly helped. An insignificant issue, hastily introduced by an inadequate prime minister and immediately attacked by an incredible leader of Her Majesty's loyal opposition.

People complain, periodically, that Canada gets little or no attention in the world press. Thank goodness! If newspaper readers in other nations could see some of the pettiness that has occured on debate in our House of Commons on the flag issue, they would shake their heads in bewilderment, and write us off as a nation almost one jump ahead of the Congo.

Personally, I don't care whether our national flag is three mangy maple leaves, or three hundred. But I do care that the high stuff of Sir John A. Macdonald, or three roosters crowing "O Canada" from a dunghill. But I do care that my country shows some of the signs of strength, maturity and wisdom that might be expected from an adult democracy.

Another thing that has produced my present mood is the threat to the life of the Queen, if she has enough gumption to visit Canada, on invitation. Which she has. Would that the shrivelled pouks who threaten her had as much.

Canadians are not made for bowing and scraping before royalty. But who, except a few fanatics of desperate penalty of soul would want to harm this rather plain, rather sweet, quite dignified and extremely courageous woman who does her earnest best in an extremely difficult role?

The answer is, only those who have adopted the philosophy of the communists and the fascist — that the end justifies the means. The Queen has nothing to do with imperialism or colonialism or any other "isms" that Quebec is belatedly excited about. She is, after sitting complacent under a dictator, and a curious one at that.

I hereby announce that if anybody takes a potshot at the Queen when she visits Quebec, I will personally call up a crowd of cranky old fighter pilots and march on that province. I doubt if we'd have a banner, because if you told an old fighter pilot to follow a flag into action he'd tell you promptly where you could do with your flag. And it would be painful.

Perhaps I'm wrong. Perhaps the mixed-up teenager will, as so many have done, grow up, stop bashing things down, and turn into a real old reactionary like me. I hope so.

IN EDUCATION NEW HORIZONS

Camrose Composite High School was the scene of general sessions, panel discussions and workshops on Tues. and Wed. October 13 and 14, when teachers from the Camrose area held their annual convention. About 400 teachers, representing the Camrose, Killam and Provost locals of the ATA attended.

In accord with the theme, "New Horizons in Education", the convention was planned so that it featured a good variety of general and sectional meetings for teachers of all levels and interests. ATA guest speakers, Dr. G. L. Berry, associate professor of secondary education at the U. of A., outlined the changing role of the family and responsibility of the school in education. "We have to be constantly made aware of the many things that are happening on the social scene which have direct bearing on education", Dr. Barry said, "in order that we may understand the need for changes and can take an active part in implementing these changes for the benefit of our students".

Representing the Department of Education at the convention was Dr. R. E. Rees, director of special education services, who pointed out to the teachers in a general session and during panel discussions some of the changes on the educational horizons in our province that teachers are not even aware of as yet.

Dr. Marion Jenkinson represented the Faculty of Education of the U. of A. Other speakers and consultants included Miss Marjorie Kaupp and Mr. N. P. Hrynyk.

Home & School Holds Award Night

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick Home and School held a meeting recently to give out awards of $10 each to the top students in grades 9 and 10. First prize in grade 9 went to Helen Jacobsen and Doug Bailey. Highest Grade 10 awards to John Chapman and Debbie James.

The members were advised that an executive meeting was held and it was decided to donate $25.00 to the grade 12 scholarship fund.

A motion was made and carried to discontinue the associations. A discussion followed and it was felt that most parents just aren't interested enough to come and with such a small membership paid enough we were not accomplishing anything.

Mrs. Reggreseck from Lougheed gave a short talk on the auxiliary that was formed at Lougheed when they decided to fold up. This was not affiliated in any way with the Home and Schoel Assoc. and any funds raised go directly to the school. A discussion followed and it was decided, due to the small attendance not to form another organization at this time.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $7.01. It was decided to turn this money over to the High School Library for use as they see fit.

The meeting was adjourned and lunch was served.

Two adjoining towns on the Caribou Trail, built a century ago at the time of the Fraser River gold rush, are named Whiskey Creek and Soda Creek.

About $2.1 billion is spent annually by Canadians for health care, of which $1,165 million is provided by governments and $945 million is provided by private insurance.

BIG MAJORITY VOTE FOR GAS

FINANCIAL FACTS

—Total cost — $280,000 in 6% debentures.
—Each town must sell $70,000 locally and the Provincial Government will buy $140,000 of the debentures.
—Each town will be over 20 years from profits of the gas system.
—No frontage tax or other tax revenue can be used.
—Gas will be sold at 60c MCF plus a service charge of $2.00 per month.
—Gas will be purchased at 12 1/2 MCF, rising at 0.3c per annum to 19 1/2 in twenty years.

WHERE SOLD

KILLAM — By-law No. 293. 146 votes cast, 136 for, 10 against, and 6 spoiled. 93% for the by-law.

On Friday, October 16, the ratepayers of the Villages of Sedgewick and Killam voted on the proposed natural gas distribution system to serve the two villages.

The voters in each village passed the by-laws with large majorities and the work of building the system can now start.

WHEN SOLD

KILLAM — By-law No. 293. 146 votes cast, 136 for, 10 against, and 6 spoiled. 93% for the by-law.

SEDGEWICK — By-law 154. 162 votes cast, 137 for, 8 against, and 1 spoiled. 94.8% for the by-law.

By-law No. 155. 162 votes cast, 160 for, 2 against, and 0 spoiled. 98.2% for the by-law.

THE SYSTEM

The gas will be brought from two wells located between Sedgewick and Killam. One well is in section three and the other in section ten in township fourty-four, two and a half miles east of Killam and four miles west of Sedgewick.

A two inch pipe line will connect the two wells with a two inch line running from the north well to each of the towns. Gas will be brought to the edge of the towns at a pressure of 1000 psi where it will be reduced to 30 psi for distribution around the town. Three, two and one and half inch lines will be used to distribute the gas through the towns. These lines will be buried about three feet deep. One inch service lines into buildings will be about eighteen inches deep.

Anyone who signs to accept the gas while the contractor is in town will have the line to his building and meter installed free although he doesn't have to start using gas until June 1st next year. No service charge will be charged until June 1st unless the gas is actually using gas.

Construction is to start immediately and progress step by step to completion some time in December. First step will be to drill the second gas well and test both wells. At the same time substations will be sold, then the gas supply has been tested the pipe lines will be built and the distribution system installed.

The gas system will be a not liquidating utility and under no circumstances will tax revenue be used to pay of its bills.

Councillors Elected At Hardisty & Daysland

Hardisty and Daysland were the only two centers in this area which had elections for mayor and council this year. The others were all by acclamation.

Results of these election appear below:

HARDISTY

The following are the results of the election, held in Hardisty, October 14, 1964.

The Mayor, Reginald J. Harrison by acclamation, 2 year term.

Nominees for councillors: Dreyer, W. Kennedy (1141); Gillespie, Richard C. (79); Redman, Mildred G. (90).

Elected for three year term: W. Kenneth Dreyer and Mildred G. Redman.

Total number of votes cast 145.

DAYSLAND

With two councillors to be elected, the results were that Wm. Stevens and Jean Wirth were elected, replacing Les Cockburn and Doug Welsh.

Allan Pryor was returned by acclamation as Mayor of Daysland.

POST OFFICE TO OPEN AT PINE POINT, NWT

EDMONTON — Mr. G. Walker, District Dirs tor of Postal Service, Edmonton, announced today that a Post Office will be opened at Pine Point, N.W.T., and will receive its mail daily except Sunday. The new Post Office will open this month.

It will be served as a point of call on the Edmonton and Mackenzie Air Routes Service for First Class Mail and Air Parcel Post. Other classes of mail will be forwarded to Pine Point by the Peace River and Hay River service.

Details as to schedules and rates of postage may be obtained from your nearest Post Office.

SEDGEWICK TO HAVE FIVE MAN COUNCIL

SEDGEWICK — On Friday, October 16th, the ratepayers of the Village of Sedgewick voted on Bylaw. No. 156 which was to authorize the Village council to increase the number of councillors to five from the present three.

The voters passed the by-law with a majority of 73.4% of the votes cast.

Voting was as follows:
168 votes cast. 123 for, 36 against and 4 spoiled ballots.

BOBBY FORSTER HEADS LADIES' CURLING CLUB

SEDGEWICK — The annual meeting of the Sedgewick Ladies' Curling Club was held recently at the Recreation Centre with twelve members present. A committee was formed to see if the propane stove from the old curling rink could be used, and if not, could it be traded for an electric stove. Another committee was formed to convene the lunch at the ladies curling clinic dance on October 23rd.

The results of the election of officers for the coming year were: Pres., Bobby Forster; 1st Vice, Mary Simmons and Vice, Lillian McPherson; Sec.-Treas., Harriet Wilson; Prize Com., Doris Smith and Jessie Cumberland.

Vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring officers by the new president.

W.I. Members To Help 4-H Club

LOUGHEED — The October meeting of the Lougheed Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Coates with 12 members and 4 visitors present.

The President, Mrs. M. Stuberg, conducted the meeting. The committee in charge of the C.N.I. canvass reported $73.55 collected. A special vote of thanks was given to the members and the CGIT who helped in the canvass.

A sale of home baking will be held in the Red and White Store on Saturday, October 24th, at 2:30 pm.

The W.I. members plan to help the 4H Homemakers Club when they have their banquet. They also plan to help the Explorers Group collect pennies for UNICEF on Hallowe'en.

The roll call was answered by giving donations from garden and pantry to be sent to Flagstaff Lodge. The president presented Branch Chadwick and Ronald Routledge each with $5.00 as they had tied for highest marks in the Grade 9 exams last June.

The program on Health was given by Mrs. E. Lamson. Her topic was "The Use and Abuse of Insulin."

A donation to the Mental Health Store is to be turned in to Mrs. O. Probst before the end of October. This will take the place of the roll call donation for November.

The next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. Harold Forster, lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. G. E. Probst.

A. P. Crop Report

LOCAL — Pine harvesting weather has prevailed over this area and operations have gone ahead rapidly. Except for odd northern districts, harvesting of cereal grains is now about 75% complete. Light rain at the end of the week caused delay in some areas but operations are again under way and should be nearly complete this week.

GENERAL — Light rain fell in some areas of Alberta on October 9 but elsewhere warm, sunny weather has prevailed over the entire Province and harvesting has progressed rapidly. In the southern half, operations re all but complete. Only 15% of the crops are harvested, and in the Peace River District, much of the grain harvested early last week was tough or damp, but to-day dry in most areas, and with continued dry weather harvesting should be completed in a week to ten days.

Church Preparing Special Services

A number of young couples from the church recently attended the regular Interdenominational Young Couples meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gaynor Barkwell.

The Young Peoples Group held a panel discussion on Friday night with a mother, father, Sunday School teacher, deacon, and Jr. and Sr. young person as panel members. The Young Adult Group was recently entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Evill following a time of recreation.

Rev. Grymalouki ministered at the Sunday services. A special announcement was made calling for a week of prayer prior to the Evangelistic services to be held October 8-16 with Rev. Russell Kliss of the Edmonton Department of Three Hills Bible Institute as guest speaker.

Much Improved Central High Rams Defeat Wetaskiwin Sabers 18 - 6

(Rams 18 - Sabres 6)

Last Sunday afternoon the Central High Rams defeated the Wetaskiwin Sabres for the first time in seven or eight years.

The whole Central team was working together like a real pro machine even in the pre-game warm up and when the game started they took control and monopolized the play except for a few brief drives by the Wetaskiwin squad.

As usual the Rams were outnumbered as they only dressed 26 men but those old Eskimo uniforms never played such a good game when they called Edmonton home. If the Rams give them more of the same type of experience the Eskimos may be asking for the uniforms back next season.

The Rams defensive squad was especially sharp through the whole game. In the first quarter they early allowed Wetaskiwin the ball on downs and then took the ball away from them on the next play. Their pass defence was really clicking and Wetaskiwin came up with only two completed forward passes. One of these plays was the outstanding effort by the Sabres and netted them a good gain but they couldn't score on the following plays as the Rams swarmed all over them. The defence was especially good at defending against forward passes as they intercepted several and knocked down many more.

If the Rams were weak anywhere on defence it has to be on the end runs which gained most of the yards for Wetaskiwin. But then you have to give the opposition a few yards and they only allowed the Sabres to really move the ball on one occasion. This was in the third quarter when Wetaskiwin got their only points of the game. An unconverted touchdown.

On the offence the Rams started out fast using their ground game to score twice in the first quarter. Both majors were scored by quarter-back Larry Burden, but credit must go to the whole team. Neither T.D. was converted.

One thing we especially liked about the offence was the fact that when Wetaskiwin finally was able to stop the ground gains they switched to throwing passes and this completely shook up the Sabres' defence as the Rams haven't been noted for passing in the past. With the Sabers trying to defend against those long forward passes the Rams were able to again move the ball on the ground and several times came close to reaching pay dirt.

At 5.55 of the fourth quarter, Glen Great scored the third major for the Rams on a short pass and then ran over the left end. This play had been set up by Glen on the play just before when he ran for a big gain.

The scoring in the game was:
1st quarter at 8.07 and 10.23,
4th quarter at 5.55 for the Rams.
3rd quarter at 10.15 for the Wetaskiwin Sabers.

Next Sunday the Rams play Camrose Composite High at Camrose.

Why All This Crime?

Much is being written these days about the increase in crime, but not enough of us realize that when law and order break down, one's very life is in danger.

People are murdered in secluded spots, and on our city streets. Young girls are forced into cars and criminally assaulted on lonely back roads. Business places and private homes are burglarized. As a youth I read thriller stories on wise detectives, who whenever a murder took place, sought a motive, but much of today's killings seem to be for "kicks" and looking for a motive is a waste of time.

Those concerned with the welfare of family and fellow men are anxious about the reason for the increase in crime being so far out of line with the population increase. Why is this so? Social workers and even psychiatrists try to explain it away by blaming it on poverty, poor civic pride, Police forces are being ridiculed for undue interference.

Blood-curdling literature describing methods of torture and the sordid side of life on sale on newsstands, cannot be absolved of responsibility for the tremendous upswing in crime.

Then add to all this the recently contrived laws which seen to give the breaks to the criminal. Our overcrowded courts where justice goes out the window with jam-crammed dockets, and the people who ask "why" is all this going on, have their answer.

The frightening increase in crime is the product of today's mass defiance of the law, disrespect for order, and our failure to do what we should have in past years.

School Dropouts!

Many, if not all sections of Canada are fretting about the school drop-out problem, and various programs are being undertaken with the aim of keeping under achievers in school. This fretting and accompanying programs, have, at least an even chance, of being misguided and perhaps even useless.

Hugh J. Irving is on the teaching staff of a high school here in Alberta, and in a recent article in McLean's Magazine, said in part:

"Quite wrongly, they blame the dropout problem exclusively on the schools. To me, and to many other teachers who KNOW potential dropouts, this criticism is mostly piffle. Moreover, it's doing unspeakable harm because it misleads the public, which is coming to expect the impossible from its schools. I claim that the time has arrived for placing the responsibility for dropouts where it belongs; not on the teacher, but squarely on the dropout himself. To convince the incorrigibly lazy student that he's wrong we must drop the consequences of his irresponsibility in his own lap. He must go. Some dropouts SHOULD drop out.

"I'm not talking about students who drop out because their families must have their wages. Nor, for the moment, am I discussing those students who finally and honestly realize that they've reached the limit of their ability to absorb classroom learning. My concern is those students who CAN learn but, for a variety of unappealing reasons, refuse to try. They are known in the educational jargon as 'under achievers' but I prefer shorter, sharper terms, like laggard or shirker...

"Certainly all the clamour to give the shirker special treatment doesn't have the effect of arousing a sense of responsibility in the delinquents themselves. My experience has been that it teaches 98 per cent of them only one thing: that the squeaking wheel gets the grease. It suggests to the laggard's knotted-up little intellect that to get somewhere he need not be productive, competent, reliable, or upright; he need only be a first-class stinker . . . .

"The arguments for keeping dropouts in school are almost always based on the indisputable fact that most jobless people are jobless because they're under-educated. But these arguments usually go on to adopt the premise that keeping the potential dropouts in school will eventually bring them up to par, and in a great many cases this is nonsense. We could keep low-ability students in school till they die of old age and still not make them competitive in highly skilled jobs. Instead of trying to force learning upon those who cannot learn, we should exploit the fact that even in this technological age there are still a great many unskilled and semi-skilled jobs to be done — jobs that can be done well, and contentedly ,by people who can't manage to graduate from high school . . . .

Mr. Irving's views contradict the idealistic idea of complete equality, and flays the concept that any Canadian boy regardless of race, color or origin can become president of a national organization or the Prime Minister of Canada, is he only tries hard enough. This is something to think about when the hearts of those in authority start bleeding for the young fellow in his souped-up and stripped-down jalopy with the gutted muffler, who doesn't seem to be making satisfactory marks in his school work.

Parents used to know best, but now they know better.

Automation is man's effort to make work so easy that women can do it all.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

How To Slice The Pie!

OTTAWA — Premier Duff Robin of Manitoba seized the occasion of the meeting of the tax structure committee at Ottawa to again hammer home his point that there must be a determination of priorities for public spending. As Treasurer of his Province, as well as Premier, he travelled to the national capital to sit in the committee discussions where the 10 provincial treasurers met for a 2 day with Federal Finance Minister Hon. Walter Gordon.

The Federal provincial tax structure committee was seeking to smooth out differences between Ottawa and the provinces over the existing division of taxes and responsibilities.

The committee reported progress in its efforts to work out new Federal - Provincial fiscal arrangements to replace the existing tax sharing system that will expire in 1967. Under study is how best divide the seven billion dollar federal revenues. The whole body of government finances in Canada will be dissected as these studies continue in the months ahead.

The study will involve spending priorities and the division of taxing powers at all levels of Government, including municipal.

Premier Robin said the proposed terms of reference for the tax structure committees were very good in their way and that Manitoba was ready to carry forward the studies being proposed. But he pointed that the essential ingredient was missing.

What was the use of a study of the Federal - Provincial tax structure if the Ministers did not also consider, in the first place, what they were taxing for? asked Mr. Robin. He suggested that the prerequisite of a practical approach to the tax structure question was a realistic assessment of the expenditure responsibilities of the Government involved in terms of function, jurisdiction, and especially priorities.

He advocated a determination of priorities as essential to a meaningful study of the tax structure. The connection between the tax program and priority is direct.

Common sense indicated that there should be some effort to coordinate the total Federal and Provincial tax demands, Robin felt this could be done best by a genuine attempt to establish between Ottawa and the provincial governments, a system of joint national priorities with the simple aim of seeing that first things are done first and with the least burden on the productive capacity of the Canadian people.

Premier Robin cited education as needing a high priority in Manitoba. He wondered where education stood in the system of joint national priorities. Manitoba needed more money for education as did every Province. But how could this province get that additional supply of funds in competition with the other demands confronting them. In particular how could the provinces get the money if the national Government preempted taxable capacity for other purposes, asked the Premier.

The provinces spoke of priorities not in terms of education only, but also in terms of health insurance, and the Canada Pension plan. Considered alone each of these programs had a powerful claim as the available resources. But they must not be considered in isolation. They should be considered together, said Premier Robin, because they were all dependent on the same tax base for financing.

The Manitoba Premier urged that the terms of reference for the Committee be revised to establish first the broad priorities of Government expenditure of expenditure as at Federal and Provincial levels. Secondly, he suggested it taken a look at expenditure trends to be expected in 1967-72 before the projects so established into account.

Premier Robin said that the goal must be a strong and effective central authority working in co-operation and harmony with strong and effective provincial governments. The reconciliation of these two authorities is the acceptance and hazard of the Federal system.

The Federal Finance Minister has suggested that the committee explore the question of equitable per fiscal adjustment or equalization formula under which Ottawa makes payments to the provinces in order to promote equality of living standards and social services across Canada. This formula at present is based on the average per capita return of three standard direct taxes in Ontario and B. C., the two top provinces. Ontario and B. C. as a result receive nothing in the way of equalization payments. This has irritated these two provinces.

The former Federal Government warned the provinces that their demands on the Federal Treasury could not continue to mount with the latter taking the responsibility to tax for provincial needs. This resulted in the proposal that the provinces assume more of their constitutional obligations and levy their own taxes to pay those obligations.

Premier Thatcher has suggested that a common failing in considering this problem was the inability to distinguish between revenue and control. Under the guise of giving the provinces more revenue, the previous Federal Government surrendered the substantial control of tax policy which the tax sharing agreements had given them. He believed this was a mistake and that tax collection agreements are a mistake.

Sympathy Misplaced

Here is sorrow that is indignation, the editor of The Hanna Herald taken to task those supporting members of the hunting groups that take the field every fall.

"We hear the same story every year," writes Editor Bob McCrea, "but as the years roll by the utter disregard by perhaps a few) hunters towards the rights of the farmer, and the rules of 'fair play' have become such other seemed to be on the increase."

He refers to instances where hunting signs have been torn down around a whole farmstead; where fences are blown down with dynamite; where cattle are shot at, and where gates are left open, thus giving trouble to spot the flights and dig in.

After asking permission to hunt, three men turned up a farm later in the day pretty well stoned and managed to knock down one goose after firing enough ammunition for a bombardment. That farmer now asks hunters to move on.

While it is true these incidents are not common, it certainly spoils hunting for a large number of decent average people.

These words are written to remind the impulsive and perhaps the novice hunter that courtesy usually pays off. — Brooks Bulletin.

The Letter Box

Sedgewick, Oct. 16, 1964

Dear Sir:

I would like to extend my heartiest congratulations to Bill Smiley for his column last week, "Canada Act Year Ago". I think he has expressed the feeling of many Canadians on this political rod herring the flag issue. There is no doubt that he has hit the proverbial nail on the head.

Too, we must all be loyal to our Queen. Whether a monarch has become obsolete is another question. Elizabeth II is the queen and should be treated as such. Our international image has been sincerely impaired.

As Canadians we should be proud of our country. Let us hope that future developments can remove the stigma of past actions.

Daysland Council Meeting

(Delores Dalzna)

The regular monthly council meeting of the Town of Daysland was held in the Town Office on October 6th.

Six councilors were present with Mayor Pryor presiding.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

It was moved that new sewer services be billed the same time as the taxes is billed by the caretaker that installs the connection from the main into the house.

Dr. H. Reist and Mr.Elgin Brown attended Council meeting as delegates from the Lions Recreational Club. They suggested a full time Recreational Director for Daysland. As the Alberta Government paid a grant of one-third of the salary providing it did not exceed $1500.00 it was suggested the town should pay one-third and the Lions Club would pay one-third. Dr. Reist suggested Council contact a Mr. L. Frankson in Red Deer, in regards to this job.

Building permits were applied for by the following; Mrs. B. Ristau-ney, Mr. Walter Cameron, Mr. J. Polehuyke and Daysland Building Supplies.

A letter received from the M.D. of Flagstaff No. 62 gave the names of all the Towns and Villages within the boundaries of the M.D. that had signed the agreement to establish the Flagstaff Health Unit. It also requested that each Town pass a by-law authorizing this agreement. A copy was also so called for October 13th in Sedgewick, and invited to be represented by the Mayor and one councillor.

By-law No. G122 passed by the Town of Daysland, authorizing them to enter into an agreement with the M.D. of Flagstaff and other towns and villages within the M.D. to establish the Flagstaff Civil Defence Unit.

A letter received from the M.D. of Flagstaff stated they would raise Constable Schatz's salary $10 per month as of October 1st if the Town of Daysland would do likewise. The secretary reported he answered this letter and the raise for October had been received.

The letter giving the Public Utilities Board decision re natural gas for Highway 13 was read and discussed. It was moved that the secretary write the Board urging them to give our case further consideration. This was carried. Copies of the letter also be sent to Stirton, Lougheed and Hardisty.

A letter from the Alberta Fire Protection Association asked for a membership fee. It was moved that the membership fee of $10.00 be paid and that this bill be included with other bills passed.

The Centennial Great and Sports Council were again discussed. As a new suggestion had now been voiced that a new sports ground be started north of the school, the Parks Committee was instructed to meet with the executive of the golf course to discuss the feasability of moving the golf course further west thereby allowing room for a park along the road north of the school.

The by-law No. 124 authorizing the Town to apply for a Canada Grant, also for a Grant-in-aid agreement with the M. D.of Flagstaff to receive a portion of their grant, which they received.

The secretary is to write Mr. L. Fraser in Red Deer re Recreation if his services as a Recreational Director are still available. If so to submit his qualifications, salary requested and what he is prepared to do.

It was suggested that the Lights be put on check into the possibility of a light on Bentley Street, south of Jackson Avenue.

The secretary-treasurer was asked to enquire if Canadian Pacific Railway Co. can be charged for frontage on all their property, for water and sewer service or only for a portion.

It was moved that we obtain the services of Municipal Engineering Services from Calgary to drill, test and if favorable, construct a water system for Daysland. Cd.

Dist. Agriculturist
Sedgewick, Alberta

DEEP TILLAGE DOESN'T PAY!

Don't cultivate deeper than 6 inches. Session being heeded on the experiment and requiring moving to deep tillage (up to 16 inch depths) won't do a number of other jobs as well as shallow tillage. Mr. A. W. Gentlet of the Alberta Department of Agriculture makes these points.

Deep cultivation is not needed to break up a packed soil. Even on clay soils that have been badly packed by heavy tractors and combines, freezing and thawing during the winter will usually bring them back to their North Dakota test, a loosed tractor was driven back and forth over a clay soil and created a "resistance penetration" reading of 90 at the 7 inch depth. The following spring, due to freezing and thawing, the reading was only 60, which is the normal reading for that type of soil.

PROTECT FIELD SPRAYING EQUIPMENT!

Check your sprayer before putting it away for the winter, advises W. Lobay, Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control with the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Some farmers are spraying now for Canada and Sow Thistle control after harvest. Others have already put their sprayers away for the season. In either case, good common sense and careful storage preparations will prolong the life of the spraying unit and ensure good service next year.

Here are 8 points recommended by Mr. Lobay to keep your sprayer in first class condition:

1. Drain and clean out all spray solution from the tank, pump, hoses and boom. Remove the end plugs on the boom so that all coarse material can be flushed out.

2. Fill the tank with clean water and operate the machine for a few minutes to flush the water through the boom.

3. Pill the tank with clean water again and add about 1 1/2 ounces of household ammonia or trisodium phosphate per gallon. Run this solution through the unit so that it is discharged through the boom. This will remove weed spray residues which may have accumulated.

4. Remove all nozzles. Disassemble and clean the screen and other nozzle parts in fuel oil. They can be dried or stored in a jar of fuel oil.

5. Drain the pump and coat it with a soluble oil or an automotive rust inhibitor. This will prevent the pump from sticking next time it is used. Pivot damage will occur if any water is left in the pump.

6. Spray or rinse tanks which are susceptible to rust with an oil soluble in water or a rust inhibitor.

7. Remove, wash and store hoses. Many farmers coil them neatly in a clean 5 gallon pail. Never kink or hang them on a nail.

8. Support the sprayer boom off the ground so that it will not come in contact with soil or manure, livestock or other machinery.

FALL FERTILIZING!

The fall is the ideal time to fertilize stubble, hay and pasture fields. Fertilizers can be applied when there are a few inches of snow on the ground. A. W. Gentlet of the Dept. of Ag. recommends fall fertilizing for several reasons. Fertilizers applied in the fall have the benefit of moisture from winter snow. There is little danger of plant food being lost by run-off or leaching except perhaps on steeply sloping and sandy land.

Another point in favor of fall fertilizing is that most fields are too wet to hold equipment in the spring. Low areas either have to be left unfertilized or the fields are left in a badly rutted condition.

Still another point for fall fertilizing is the fact that the spring brings a rush of work which has to be done in a very short time. When fertilizing is done in the fall, the workload is spread more evenly between the seasons.

Hay and pasture land, and land covered with heavy straw can be fertilized in the fall, by mechanically applying nitrogen or nitrogen-phosphorus fertilizer. When possible the heavy straw cover should be swathed into the land before the fertilizer is applied.

Between 20 to 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre (equivalent to between 90 and 150 pounds of 33.5-0-0) is suggested, depending on the amount of straw cover. The higher rate is required to offset a temporary nitrogen deficiency caused by a large amount of organic matter or straw having been incorporated into the soil at one time.

Fertilizer recommendations for hay and pasture land depend upon the soil zone and the forage mixture. Information can be obtained from your D. A. and from the publication "Fertilizer Recommendations for Alberta."

Setting the fertilizer equipment so that the correct rates are applied is extremely important. There are several types of equipment for broadcasting fertilizers. Among these are the seed drill type machine which give an accurate and even application, and machines which use the cyclone spreading method. These do a good job providing care is taken to overlap sufficiently. Old grain drills can be converted to broadcast fertilizers but they must be thoroughly cleaned and oiled afterwards to prevent corrosion.

WATER SUPPLY AND WATER WELL DEVELOPMENT SCHOOL

Four schools on the above topic will be held this fall as follows: Stettler, Oct. 28th; Morinville, Nov 3rd; St. Paul, Nov. 4th and Vegreville Nov. 5th. The program latest is scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. and run through to 5.00 p.m.

Those schools on Water Supply and Well Development will deal with the following main topics — Occurrence of Water, surface and underground formations; Well Development, drilling methods, test pumping, pumping levels, perforating, screening, gravel packing and casing; Dams and Dugouts, PFRA policy, etc; Pumps, Water Systems and treatment. Information on the pump types, sizes, piping and pressure tanks and water treatment.

Anyone interested is encouraged to note the closest location and the date and time. Your attendance will be welcome. The location of the school in the towns will be announced in a later column.

SAFE STORAGE OF MOIST GRAIN!

Owing to the unusually late, cool and wet fall season, many farmers in the Prairie Provinces, particularly in the northern crop districts, will be faced with the problem of storing considerable amounts of tough and damp grain on the farm.

Major Factors — The major factors in the safe storage of tough & damp grain are moisture content, temperature and time. In wheat & other cereals a moisture content of 14 percent eliminates growth of storage moulds and increases the activity of storage insects. At moisture content increases above 15 percent, mould growth and insect activity increase with temperature and time.

Storing Tough Grain — If properties are taken the tough grain can be stored safely on the farm. The following conditions must be given full consideration. (1) The moisture content of the bulk of tough grain must be reduced as soon as possible before it is stored. (2) Thorough cleaning of tough grain is essential. (3) The tough grain should be stored in small bins where it can be examined frequently, and turned if necessary. Remember, the drier, the cooler and the cleaner any quantity of high moisture content is before it is binned, the easier it will be to keep it from going out of condition.

Storing Damp Grain — Storing grain that contains over 17 percent moisture content presents a more serious problem. Thorough cleaning is a must for damp grain. It is possible to dry wheat that contains not more than 18 percent moisture by mixing it with dry wheat of the same grade. However, the moisture content of the mixture should not be higher than 16 percent. It is necessary to check such grain regularly for changes in moisture and temperature and to keep it free of insects, mites and moulds. Grain containing over 18 percent moisture must be dried before it is put into storage.

Grain Drying — Detailed information on grain drying equipment and methods can, and should be obtained from the Agricultural Engineer of Provincial Extension Service or University. All farmers who operate their own dryers, or have their wheat dried by artificial heat, are urged to make sure that their dryer is taken to avoid damaging the quality of the grain during the drying operation.

SHOWER HELD FOR LOIS CURTIS

Miss Lois Curtis was honored at a pre nuptial shower, in the United Church Hall last Saturday evening when over 40 were present to extend gifts and best wishes to Lois, whose marriage to Mr. Floyd Rawe takes place on October 24th.

The evenings entertainment was ceremonies conducted by Mrs. Ann Johnson. She also read a very rural poem, also written to the bride, author unknown, which was very much enjoyed by all present.

Gifts were presented in a beautifully decorated pink and white basket, by Mrs. D. Robbins. Sharon and Patty Pender, nieces of the bride assisted with the opening of the gifts.

Miss Curtis expressed gracious thanks. A delicious lunch was served climaxing an enjoyable evening.

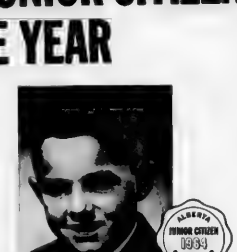
CALGARY POWER LTD.
proudly presents
David Kilford
of Sherwood Park
AN ALBERTA JUNIOR CITIZEN OF THE YEAR



It was early Spring - pussywillow time - and David and his three friends wanted to surprise their mothers with bouquets of these early spring blooms.
Suddenly there was a cry for help! One of the children, Gloria Summers, had slipped into the icy water of a partly frozen lagoon. Her brother Patrick jumped in but was unable to reach his sister.
Quickly, 10-year old David lay down on the ice, while a courageous friend Jonathon Rogers grabbed his ankles. Thanks to this "human chain", David was able to reach and rescue his two friends.
We congratulate David Kilford, who is also an active cub member. We also congratulate Jonathon Rogers for his part in the heroic rescue, and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

tv Talk

Sports events of a varied nature are spotlighted Saturday October 24th on the CBC-TV network. To head the list of events to be seen will be the Canadian Horse Racing Championship from Toronto. Daryl Wells calls the race on top thoroughbreds in North America compete for the $5,000 added purse. The race is run over a mile and 5/8 turf course at Woodbine race track. It will be telecast at 2:30 p. m. in Manitoba and Sask., and at 1:30 p.m. in Alberta.

The 1964 Olympic Games being held in Tokyo will receive further coverage on the CBC-TV network at 5:00 p.m. Later that day, Bill Mazeli reports from Maple Leaf Gardens at the Toronto Maple Leaf team plays New York Rangers. The game is at 8:30 in Alberta.

The CFL football game Saturday night at 8:30 in Alberta accordingly could determine the team to finish first in the Western Interprovincial. It pits B. C. Lions against the Sask. Roughriders.

On Sunday, Oct. 25th at 2:00 A. M. Eastern Canada will return to standard time and although this will not disturb the ever-all CBC-TV schedule, it will mean that the "live" shows will now be seen one hour later in the prairie provinces. Sports fans should take particular note of the change because the 1st program to be affected is the 1964 telecast Sunday afternoon.

This Hour Has Seven Days, a C-BC-TV thought provoking public affairs program at 10 p.m. Sunday presents a candid interview with George Lincoln Rockwell, the leader of the U.S. Nazi party. Mr. Rockwell is interviewed in Washington by Producer Doug Leiterman and reporter Robert Fulford.

Sharing the program with Mr. Rockwell is controversial Pat Buchanan who once was the speech writer for Richard Nixon, Republican presidential candidate.

EGG DEFICIENCY PAYMENT

OTTAWA — Agricultural Minister Harry Hays announced today that a deficiency payment of two cents per dozen will be paid on eggs marketed during the prize support year ended September 30, 1964.

Mr. Hays said payments to egg producers are expected to amount to $11.8 million.

The Agricultural Stabilization Board established that the weighted national average price received by producers for Grade A large size eggs in the 12-month period was 32 cents per dozen — or two cents below the support price of 34 cents, which represents 92 per cent of the 10-year average.

Payment will be made to producers registered with the Board with instructions on the method of filing for payment. Forms may also be obtained from grading stations and from district supervisors of the Poultry Division, Canada Department of Agriculture.

Producers who are not registered with the Board may make application for registration by completing a section of the claim form.

Special music was a feature of Thanksgiving services at St. Paul's United Church on Thanksgiving Sunday, a duet by Mrs. Betts Ritchaller and Mr. Len Anderson being much appreciated by the congregation.

A social evening, in the form of a surprise party was held in the United Church Parlors on Sunday evening, honoring the Birthday of the Minister, Rev. W. G. Switzer. After a sing-song with Miss Carol Powell as pianist, a most delicious lunch was served, the table being centred with a beautiful birthday cake, made by Mrs. Doris Powell.

Ken Drever then presented the guest of honor with the gift from those present in his usual able manner, and Rev. Switzer responding by thanking his many friends for their thoughtfulness and kindness. Thus a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

Mrs. Mary Cockbain

Mrs. Mary Cockbain passed away October 9th, 1964 after a short illness. She was born in Cumberland, England, August 6th, 1884 and was married to Mark Cockbain in 1907. They had two daughters and three sons. Mrs. Mary Metcalf of Lougheed, Mrs. Enot Kelly of Edson, John of Mirror, Leo of Calgary and Henry, who died overseas in 1944. There are 19 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Cockbain came to Canada as C.P.R. Colonists in 1910 and settled on the farm in the Geese Creek district south of Lougheed where they brought up their family. Mr. Cockbain passed away at Millet in 1938. They retired from the farm in 1944 to make their home in Edmonton until the death of Mr. Cockbain in 1967. Since that time Mrs. Cockbain had made her home with her eldest daughter Mary at Millet. She will be missed by many friends in this district.

The funeral service was held in the Anglican Church in Lougheed on October 13th with interment in the Evergreen Memorial Gardens in Edmonton with Captain Bloom in charge.

Kirkman's Funeral Home officiated.

GRAIN DRYING INFORMATION

What can be done to prevent damp grain from heating?

Unfortunately there is no clear cut answer to this question. Circumstances such as the amount of grain to be dried, the amount of money the farmer is prepared to spend on drying equipment and the equipment he already has which could be used to improvise a drying unit all come into the picture.

Alberta's Extension Engineer J. L. Reid says a commercial drying unit is not an economical proposition for the average farmer unless he has a large volume of grain to put through. A complete unit ranges in price from about $3,500 to $5,000. Most units of this type are capable of handling from 100 to 250 bushels of grain per hour when drying from 20 to 14 per cent moisture content. Fuel costs, including tractor gas, usually vary between 1/3 and 1 cents per bushel.

A farm built dryer is the alternative to the commercial unit. According to Mr. Reid, the main difficulty here is to obtain a drying unit consisting of a fan and heater designed to work together. The commercial cost of such a unit is between $1,500 and $2,500. An improvised unit, however, can be made on the farm for around $200. Its capacity will probably be less than 60 bushels an hour and fuel costs could be twice as high as those for a commercial dryer on a per bushel basis.

In cases where drying is impossible or impractical, the grain can be conditioned for temporary storage at least, by moving it with a grain auger or elevator. Cold weather is the best time to move it. The cold outside layer of grain should be mixed with that from the middle of the pile. Cleaning the grain as soon as possible will reduce the number of times it must be handled. Clean, chaff and weed seeds tend to hold the moisture.

Mr. Reid says screened ventilation shafts have been used to dry grain with some success. The shaft can be made of 4 1" x 4" board and two 1" square strips, assembled to form a cross and covered with fly netting. These shafts or flues are installed vertically through the grain about five feet apart in the direction in the bin. The bottom and top of each shaft is open to the air.

Plans for several different types of home-made grain dryers, including the slatted floor and inclined column types, can be obtained from the Extension Engineer, Extension Service, Legislative Building, Edmonton.

RIVER VIEW. Famous as a logging town long before its designation as Canada's capital, this scene of Ottawa from the Ottawa river is reminiscent of the days when the nation's capital was called Bytown. But today the roaring giants of the Parliament Buildings rise over the bluffs, and the river is busy during autumn with the last round-up of logs before winter's snowmobiling freeze-up

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

WHAT HAPPENED

To an outsider, it would seem that the men folks, especially on farms, must have led dull, monotonous lives in the early days. The women could, and did, find all sorts of excuses to get together, for a bit of gossip, exchange of recipes, and new ideas re doing their daily work, also the always present and indespensable "Quilting Bees". To these hard-working, clever women, this sort of diversion from their daily grind was a real holiday.

Winter time, with the long evenings, was the ideal time for these gatherings. The husband would almost invariably bring the wife, although sometimes one of my neighbors in particular, drove herself and two youngsters over for the day on a stone-boat. Occasionally, the husband stayed to help our men-folks at some big job, but sometimes he would go back home to maybe feed and feed for his stock, or some such job, returning at supper time, for his wife, back staying for supper and to spend the evening.

No, the early-day farmer, nor his wife seldom if ever, complained of being actually lonely. However, at about this time of the year or a bit earlier, the men having their fall work pretty well wound up, would buy a couple of boxes of shells, clean up the old gun, and plan on a few days of duck hunting.

Incidentally, our district must have been "off the beaten track" for geese, as I recall only once, during the 20's years that we lived there, of Dad ever getting wild geese. But for that one, one evening (if I'm) seemed to have lost the rest of the flock, as they were just by themselves.

This was during the mid-thirties, and those geese were no thin, it was pitiful. And not only were they thin but they evidently had been feeding for weeks on that awful "French Weed" commonly known as "Stink Weed". That weed permeated the flesh of those geese so badly that the odour was quite prevalent as they were roasting. However, we had no way of knowing of this as we cleaned and prepared them for the oven, but as they were roasting we wondered when we did get a sniff of it, if we had put too many onions in the dressing.

Supper time came, and the whole family were at the table without having to be called twice, all looking forward to the treat of a feed of wild geese.

I lifted one of the geese out onto a platter, putting it in front of Dad's place to carve and serve, as usual. I noticed the family with their heads turned towards the goose, also they looked as though they were sort of "sniffing", but I thought nothing of that, at the time.

However, as Dad carved one leg from that goose and leaning right over the platter and getting a real good sniff, he put the carving knife and fork on the side of the platter and handed it to me, saying, "We can never eat that goose. It's saturated with stink weed."

You should have seen the disappointed looks of my family. They seemed to let out their breath with the last half hour.

But anyone who has ever had anything to do with this horrible stink weed will understand how utterly impossible it was to eat those two geese. But what were we to do? Throw them out? Most seemed almost wicked.

There was a newly arrived Russian family living across the river and I suggested Dad drive over, taking the geese with him, but to first put out a few feelers, casually asking them if they liked strong food.

So Dad asked the man of the house if they were having any trouble with this stink weed spoiling their milk and cream.

"Oh," answered the man. "That don't spoil the milk and cream. We like it." In a day or two, they returned the platter, thanking us for "that lovely feed of wild geese, it was just their first taste of wild geese. "And," they added, "We loved every bite."

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

BIRTHDAY WITH A BANG

Not long ago, I attended a banquet at which John Fisher, the guest speaker, was extolling Canada's centennial year, which is just around a couple of extremely many corners.

Mr. Fisher is an eloquent speaker, a consummate orator. A few years ago, when he was blazing across the country delivering fiery, poetic speeches about this land of ours (at about $100 a whack), he was given the title "Mr. Canada".

If electronically, he ran out of service clubs and things. Now he works for the government. The talent is still there. The golden tongue still wags with pseudo-real brilliance, still throbs with sincerity and hope.

But the audiences have changed. They used to listen with open minds, shining eyes, as Mr. Fisher told them what a great country they lived in. They used to float homeward after the banquet, on the purple carpet he had spun. And even the job of filling the furnace, putting the milk bottle out on the ice-covered porch, and climbing in with a hair-shirters, face-to-face remain didn't dispell the vision.

Now, however, his audiences listen with that careful apathy, that controlled wariness with which the honest, done Canadians always listen on nobody connected with the government. Such as the Minister of Finance explaining in jolly fashion why taxes are good for us.

At this banquet I mentioned, John Fisher was trying to drum up enthusiasm for "Centennial Projects," with which he is connected. I watched the listeners. In the midst of his highest flights, they sat as though carved of stone, with the exception of two or three who had that faraway, wistful look of people who have to go to the bathroom

Admitting that there were some municipalities whose idea of a hot centennial project was to decorate the town clerk's office, or put an extra cell in the jail, Mr. Fisher assured that there were many others with bold, imaginative achemes for libraries, art centres, museums and other worthy and lasting monuments.

Which brings me to my thesis, put best and gentle reader. What has your municipality planned as its centennial project?

Don't forget now. The government pots up two bucks for every dollar the municipality will spend. Never mind where the government gets the two bucks. That's beside the point.

If it works as it should, Canada will have a 2,000 mile ribbon of opera houses in which nobody sings, theatres which nobody attends, swimming pools that Hayfork Centre can't afford to operate, libraries with no books in them, and museums full of junk cast off people's attics and cellars, but never full of people.

Is that what Canadians want, to celebrate the centenary of an event that nobody understands, except a few history teachers? I am not sure.

Why don't we show a little real imagination, throw a party that will resound throughout the world, then forget the whole thing. There's nothing very thrilling about being 100 years old, anyway.

Let's see. Instead of piddling around with thousands of grants to municipalities, the government, for one year, could double pensions to the old, the veterans and the widows, treble the baby bonus, and declare a twelve-month holiday from income taxes. That would put the population in the right frame of mind for the celebration.

Employers could forego all profits for a year and grant an extra two weeks vacation with pay. Municipalities could set aside a special fund for beer and dancing in the streets.

Every day in the year could be Leap Year, as far as spinsters go. And some of them would go far. Teenagers could all be locked in special confinement for a year, fed well, and released on New Year's day, 1968.

All babies born during centennial year would be guaranteed a free university education. Divorce, for one year only, would follow the Moslem pattern, in which the husband merely says, three times, "I divorce thee."

During the twelve-months, anybody who mentioned the word "flag" would be impaled and then roasted over a slow flame during the evening fireworks display. Anyone who breathed "national anthem" would be given a one-way ticket to Mommm

There would be national holidays every Monday, Wednesday and Fridays, with week ends as usual. For one year, children would be seen and heard.

The possibilities are limitless. These are just a few suggestions. Send yours along. Let's forget those crumby projects and have a hundredth birthday party we'll never forget.

Ink Removal

October is the time when Junior wields a fountain pen. The consequences often are hard-to-remove marks on his newest shirt.

Washing removes some types of ballpoint ink, but nothing else. Test first by putting ink on a scrap of similar material and wash it. To lift ink, dampen fabric spot with diluted liquid detergent and rinse with alcohol.

If the ink does not disappear on the test sample then sponge the stain with nail polish remover. However, use caution as nail polish remover affects some dyes and dissolves acetate and Arnel.

What's New?

An electric knife is the newest of small electrical appliances on the market. This new knife is wonderful for carving meats as well as slicing bread, sandwiches, cheese, fruits, vegetables, ice cream and cake, especially angel food and sponge.

Cleaning out a roller paint tray is messy work. Why not eliminate this chore? Line your tray with a sheet of aluminum foil? When painting is finished, simply throw away the foil.

Crochet edge can still be hailed if wrapped in foil to prevent the egg white from escaping.

Fear of spiders may be lined with foil to give you ease in cleaning. If a pie shows signs of running over in the oven, a piece of foil on the rack below. Never cover the oven bottom of the stove with foil. This will interfere with the heat pattern and may damage finish.

Marriage Is Easy Street - For Women!

In direct reply to the arguments of the new feminists who claim that most housewives today are bored and unfulfilled as human beings, Blaney Kate writes in the October 17 Maclean's Magazine that, on the contrary, women have all the best of the marriage bargain — and most writes know it. Kata quotes, and emphatically agrees with, one American sociologist's recent observation that the North American wife is "the best cossed, most luxuriously housed, effortlessly propelled, lavishly costicised, tenderly husbanded and most privileged, purported, supported and petted woman in the world."

If there is a downtrodden member in the modern family, Kate writes, it's much more likely to be the husband. In the first place, "because man is a male animal, monogamous marriage for him is a bizarre and unnatural state." Men share with other male animals the urge to "collect, dominate, protect and impregnate as many females as he possibly can." In the same way, in modern marriage man has surrendered his historically recited freedom from restraint and has lost his deep-seated drive to be a hero. The husband does not come naturally to a state of domesticity, as a woman does.

Once married, a man must endure tremendous economic pressures that his wife is usually shielded from. "Many husbands," Kata writes, "must work at the grade 1 case most frequently because of overly acquisitive or overly ambitious wives," and "the average man suffers many stress and frustration in a single day than his wife does, at home, in an entire month."

Kata disagrees that the "equality" that modern women have claimed for it is making them any happier. Women, in fact, "have a deep felt need for inequality. They have always preferred the masterful authoritative, strong man — and they still do."

B of T Will Sponsor Speaker On Gas

SEDGEWICK — The first meeting of the fall season was held by the Sedgwick Board of Trade last Wednesday evening and twenty members gathered to hear a report while the Board was in recess.

Following the dinner President C. Beairsto introduced the Rev. Christensberson, a newcomer to the Village.

The president reported on the annual meeting of Associated Chamber of Commerce held in Calgary, the Regional Meeting held in Viking and a subsequent meeting at Innisfree last week. No also gave a resume of a Seminar held at Camrose.

The meeting was thrown open for general discussion, and among the items discussed were the tourist shelter which is to be located at the Rec. Centre grounds; special signing for the night of Hallowe'en; July 1st Sports Day. From the latter came the report that the net profits from the day totalled $1140.00.

Mayor Smith, reported on the most recent developments on natural gas, and said that drilling was in progress for a second well, and that debenture bonds would soon be on the market.

During the discussion on natural gas it was intimated that many householders were lacking knowledge. It was decided to bring in a speaker thoroughly acquainted with procedures in converting heating units to natural gas.

Streets and roads came in for some discussion, as did the operating of picture shows in town. The meeting in November will take the form of Ladies' and Newcomers' Night.

Possession By Appropriation!

The rocky road to honesty has been paved with people who have failed to realize that in the long run honesty pays dividends; people who believe that any man's property is open for grabs if he is foolish enough to leave it unguarded; people who would cry long and loud about the failure of law-officers to protect them if something is snitched from their property.

There seems to be an epedemic of thievery prevalent in this section of the country which has reached the stage where people never know what their assets may be the next morning.

Isolated farms and some not so isolated seem to be the main target of these nocturnal and nefarious characters, with everything from gasoline to tools, stock and even entire pieces of machinery disappearing between darkness and light.

Schools are being ransacked, business places robbed, cars stripped of accessories. Somewhere, someone is going to take a personal stand in these things and go to the defence of his possessions with a lethal weapon. Tragedy will be the result, and it will be difficult indeed to find justification for prosecution against a person who's only crime is defending his right to maintain possession of what is rightfully his.

The mania to possess, even by illegal means, has taken ahold of many people today, and the trend will continue until people are imbued with the fact that stealing is an evil thing, degrading to the individual, to the nation, and wrong in principle.

There is a task before the nation, involving all right-thinking people to educate the rising generation in the basic principles of honesty. If this can be carried out to a successful conclusion, we may see a generation in the making, where honesty will prevail, and what a man possesses he obtained through his own honest efforts.

Honest Labor Never Degrades!

When the Thatcher Liberal Government took over the reigns of power in Saskatchewan, feelers were thrown out on the proposition of taking able-bodied men off the relief rolls, or to be more explicit, to have them perform physical labor in return for payments received.

In some quarters this was viewed with dismay, and the argument was advanced that this sort of thing would be degrading to the workers. Whatever has happened to our sense of values, that able-bodied men and women would prefer to lay around and pick up maintenence cheques while refusing to attempt to earn it? What has happened to the old and accepted theory that honest labor never harmed anyone? Advocates of the something for nothing philosophy would be hard put to advance any sensible reason why any man should not earn his keep, so long as he is physically fit, and the opportunity to do so is present.

Los Angeles County, from whence come many sound ideas on social behaviour, is now proposing that able-bodied people who will not work be taken off the relief rolls. Supervisors want them to perform field hand labor normally executed by Mexicans imported across the border. The pay is from $1.00 to $1.50 an hour, a not unhealthy wage for any man who is presently earning nothing, and who has any sense of pride and dignity.

However in Canada suggestions of this kind are met with derision by social workers as degrading to the worker, an attitude certainly contrary to the ancient idea that honest labor harms no one.

UNICEF Is Important!

Zanzibar, a new African republic and Zorra, a Canadian town differ in climate, resources and job opportunities. In common both have concern for the sturdy health and basic education of growing children. Both realize that youngsters should be so trained that they can stand on their own feet and contribute to the world's quota of productive citizens.

It is in this field that UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) actively participates in 116 countries of the world. Funds donated by governments, private individuals and youngsters (33 million annually) go to International UNICEF. A rotating committee of 30 chosen from 116 participating countries allocate funds for disease control, health units and schools.

On Hallowe'en Canadian youngsters enjoy the traditional fun of dressing up, visiting friends and neighbors, collecting the usual treats. But on this night they also carry with them the UNICEF Hallowe'en collection boxes for coins donated to UNICEF. This year half a million Canadian children will provide half a million dollars to help fight hunger, disease and ignorance amongst the world's less fortunate children. It is a Crusade for Children by Children.

UNICEF is important — Important to both the giver and the receiver.

Please Send Your Money To . . . !

The recent case of a Calgary man, head of the Cancer Society for Alberta, being charged with stealing thousands of dollars in society funds, makes John Q. Public a bit suspicious that perhaps this has been and is going on in other areas. It makes him ponder and wonder if his dollar, after all, is doing the job it is intended to do. He is interested in knowing just what percentage of his donated dollars ever reaches its proper destination. And he is wondering if he should continue to contribute his hard-earned dollars to lost causes.

Canadians are being subjected to an increasing barrage of appeals to send money to charities, benefits private and public relief, both national and international. They are being asked to send their dollars to organizations and post office boxes. We are becoming suspicious of some of these public-spirited appeals.

The only advice this column can give is to weigh very carefully every appeal made to your charitable instincts. Some are most worthy causes, but no doubt some of the appeals are a sphony as a three dollar bill.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Things To Come!

OTTAWA — In democratic societies, change in the political and constitutional edifice is usually slow and barely discernable.

Occasionally the process is accelerated, offering at least a glimpse of the shape of things to come. This, it seems, is what is happening in Canada now.

Power and influence is shifting from the federal authority to the provinces, or to a kind of quasi-secret society known as a Federal-Provincial conference.

Just recently, the Federal and Provincial leaders met together in Ottawa and came to what were described as "historic" decisions.

They agreed on a formula to amend the Canadian constitution if, bring it home, thereby opening the way for gradual but important and significant changes in the constitution which will almost surely shape a different kind of Confederation.

They agreed on an intensive joint study of tax structures in Canada which, when it will probably reshape fiscal relations within Confederation.

These decisions were made not by the Federal Parliamentarians alone. They were made by the Federal Government and the provinces together.

They were only two of many decisions which have been made in this manner in recent years, decisions not necessarily momentous in themselves but which, taken together, represent now the driving force behind constitutional development in Canada.

The provinces have asserted themselves. They have come of age. They know their combined fiscal power now equals or exceeds that of the Federal Government. They are willing and able—or most of them are—to take on the responsibilities which the Canadian constitution ascribes to them.

When such areas of education, health, social welfare, are in spheres of the things which most Canadians now regard as priority items. They are also items which fall largely within provincial jurisdiction.

This is one reason why a shift in power from the Federal Government has been smertial. The really important decisions to be made in the next few years will probably be in those fields. They cannot be made by the Federal Government alone. When possible, they will be made by joint action of the two levels of Government. That's why the Federal-Provincial conference has become the chief instrument for changing old concepts of Government.

The historic conference mentioned earlier is only one in a long series of conferences past or planned. Federal-Provincial conferences are going on almost continuously.

Officials, Ministers, or Prime Ministers meet behind locked doors to study and make agreements on pensions, pensions, constitutions, Indian Affairs, mental health, the economy, and almost anything else you can mention.

This in itself is something new in Canadian politics. It is a development that disturbs some people. Mr. Pearson is assailed as a man who is surrendering vast areas of Federal authority to the provinces.

Mr. Lesage has his extremists too. They want to have what is co-operative federalism and Canada, to set up their own independent nation along the St. Lawrence River.

But there is more valid criticism of this still awkward system. It can be said with reason that the Federal-Provincial conference is becoming the true policy-making instrument in Canada.

In secret conclave the Federal & Provincial Governments work out deals which have the practical force of treaties between sovereign governments.

The charge is that the Federal Parliament is by-passed, made a rubber stamp; that the Federal executive branch cannot exercise its constitutional power without the consent of the provinces.

There may be some truth in this. But perhaps the pendulum would not be swinging so far had more people been more solicitous of their provincial rights in the days when the Federal authority was indisputable.

Surely the real point now is that the people of Canada, voting in their respective provinces, have made it clear that the things they want from Government are those things that can be provided only by Provincial Governments or by the two levels of Government acting together.

The Federal Government remains sovereign in its fields. But the Provincial Governments are also sovereign in some areas, and signs have been, through their new prestige, have been defined again & again.

Now the provinces are gaining power and they intend to use it. If the things which must be done are going to be done on a national scale, then there must be a kind of continuous negotiation between the two levels of government.

Mainly through the Federal-Provincial conference, the two levels are working towards more permanent and more valid relationship.

This will in all likelihood lead to gradual changes in the constitution and a sounder base for the legitimate exercise of authority.

This prompt confederation has never really examined itself in terms of what services it wants & needs, and which of its governments should provide them. This is, after all, a federation and it behooves no party to it to infringe upon any other.

This self-examination is going on now, in Federal-Provincial meets, in Parliament and in public discussions. It is difficult to see how any thing but good can come of it.

Accessories In The Home

Just as jewelry, hat or shoes set off a costume you wear, accessories in your home set off the furniture and color scheme.

Simplicity Is Beautiful

To-day is decorating we're using less furniture, simpler lines, plainer coverings, rugs, wall colors and draperies. The ruffled dollies and knick knacks of grandmother's day are out. Housemakers don't have time to bother with them. Easy care fabrics and floors are in.

Does this sound drab? It can be unless you choose accessories that are interesting in color, shape and texture. Use strong, contrasting colors in cushions, pictures, ashtrays, plants or flower arrangements.

Aim For Variety in Unity

Use cushions for a purpose — they should add to the seating comfort as well as the color scheme. Be sure they are practical — you may decide to take a nap and bottoms and bumps don't add to your enjoyment. Choose ones to make for easy care and washable fabrics and shapes.

Pictures and wall hangings can make or break a room. Have do yours rate. Prints and reproductions are available in many art styles at a reasonable price. When you feel you have a collection of paintings that enhance your room, hang them so people can see and appreciate them. Hang pictures at eye level — in a straight line for large pictures, grouped if they are small. Never hang pictures over a step fashion unless they are hung on a wall with a stairway.

Plants can be one of the nicest accessories in your decorating scheme. Be aware of the ever changing organisms is spoiled by crowding. Use a plant stand, table or a planter or window ledge. Try using your plants in individual containers. Keep your eye open for containers that will accent your decor and the plant it will hold. A thought will result in a dramatic effect.

Ashtrays can add another spot of coor and interest. Again, be sure they do the job for which they are intended. Avoid those that are merely "cute".

It Can Be Fun

Shop for accessories in unusual places and use your imagination. Baskets are inexpensive and can be used for magazines, dried arrangements or to hold fresh fruit. With a liner, baskets make interesting containers for plants or flowers. Pottery articles are fairly reasonable and often have unusual glazes and colors. Don't forget copper bowls and vases for winter warmth. Driftwood can be dramatic used alone or in combination with plants or dried materials.

Make your accessories as personal as your budget and ability allows. And then look again — have you overdone it? A few bright spots of color are exciting; too many just look cluttered. Look around your home and plan to add a bright spot.

New Curriculum Widely Accepted In Presbytery

Rev. A. G. McCurdy of the Stettler United Church, presided over three days of sessions of the Presbytery of Coronation at October 19-21. The 50 Ministerial and Lay delegates dealt with matters of concern to the life of the 46 congregations and 4000 members by whom they had been chosen.

Dealing with the New Curriculum, the Rev. Dr. W. F. Clark, newly appointed Education Secretary for Presbytery, said "The reports in the secular press have aroused some alarm in the hearts of some of our people regarding the orthodoxy of the beliefs and interpretation of the Bible. We regret if some have been disturbed or fallen away."

All whom I have known, who were disturbed and have taken the time to read and study the material of the New Curriculum, have been reassured and have had their faith strengthened as they have met with their fellow believers in prayer.

Even a Fundamentalist Pastor, who came to challenge the interpretation of the Scriptures used in the United Church after some time of group study, said "I can go along with their approach".

There has been a great stirring of interest in Intermediate age groups.

Chairman Dr. Clark, "The finest test will not be what the secular papers have printed about the New Curriculum, but what we do with it and the faith we share through it."

The response of the active workers in the Sunday Schools has been tremendous. A pre-printing poll suggested that our Publishing House should print 300,000 pieces of material. By August 12th, our workers had placed on order 809,000 pieces, which meant that our presses have been kept running 20 hours a day to try to keep up to the demand.

So far Alberta leads in Canada, with 92% ordering supplies. Coronation tops the Province with 100 per cent of the Charges placing orders.

HIGHLIGHTS OF GENERAL COUNCIL

Commissioners who attended the 21st General Council held in Newfoundland in September presented a first hand account of the proceedings.

Rev. F. A. McPhee of Camrose showed colored slides of the historic scene of the hill where Marconi sent the first wireless message across the Atlantic and other scenes of St. John, which Premier J. Smallwood claims to be the oldest city in N. America.

Visiting officers imparted much inspiration and information to the assembled Presbytery at Coronation.

Stirring indeed, was the contribution of the Rev. S. Kitchen, secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Department, from head office at Toronto, who stated "If we are to meet the needs for which our Church has accepted responsibility, we cannot go below $5,940,-000 for 1964."

Our cause might well accept as its motto the Epitaph on the tomb of the late Dr. James Creighton of Stettler.

"No night too dark
No road too long
No home to humble."

And our approach too should be humble. Sometimes it has not been in the past. This reminds me of a little story.

In a mental hospital, one patient confided in the other 'I have a hole in my head', to which the other replied 'I have two holes in my head.' That's when I don't like about you' protested the first, 'this holier than thou attitude'.

In the past, in dealing with the people of underdeveloped countries we have been guilty of a holier than thou attitude.

Superintendent of Missions, Rev. C. D. Powell, told of some of the proposals of the General Council.

"The United Church plans to establish five Nursing Homes in the near future."

The outstanding guest speaker at General Council was Rev. Dr. Leslie Cook, of the World Council of Churches, who brought to the commissioners the grim fact of "This Hungry World" of 1606 millions of people who go to bed hungry and of underdeveloped countries where not more than 1 in 100 people ever get enough nourishing food. As a result, the United Church will make its appeal at Christmas for world relief.

IN CORONATION PRESBYTERY

Rev. K. W. Morris of Killam, who is President of the Camp Committee, reported on the activities in which several hundreds of campers of young people at Hardisty Lake and Bar Harbour participated.

Rev. W. J. Huston of Camrose dealt with the promotion of men's work.

In an extensive report on Christian Education, Rev. R. Seal of Provostburg was assisted by Mrs. C. Buringham, Mrs. Brundage, Rev. D. Lewis, John Brennon and J. Simms.

Representing the United Church Women, Mrs. Strasbourg, President of Provost, noted that while last year 91 women attended workshops, this year 221 women came to explore the function and scope of the various offices.

Rev. K. M. Morris reported on Colleges and Students.

The Treasurer of Presbytery, Rev. J. T. Wood of Dunalde, told of new methods of financing.

World Mission, as it relates to Brazil and Trinidad, was the concern of Rev. W. Witewall of Coronation.

In preparation for Confederation year, Rev. G. Park of Provost stressed that people and the soul of the nation should be of major concern.

People in every community are urged to pray, study and act to bring our citizens to accept the sovereignty of God.

Rev. C. Warren of Castor informed the court that Mr. Gerrit DePriss has become pastor of the Big Valley congregation. Hallick-Gadsby will be served by Mr. Richard Bateman.

Rev. A. R. McNeil of Bentley-Daysland pleaded for continued support for the Missionary and Maintenance program of the Church.

Rev. Robert Chrisite, Associate Secretary of Evangelism and Social Service, told of the need of new attitudes and methods of winning people.

Mr. D. M. McBie, pastor of the Consort Church, supported by his lay workers Mrs. Ken Gould and Mr. T. Chalmers requested and received a loan to build a new

The need for keeping accurate Church records was stressed by Rev. W. G. Ewicker of the Hardisty Pastoral Charge.

REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

One of the most disturbing things about the House of Commons is a relative newcomer like myself is the way partisan politics are sometimes played, apparently for the sake of partisan politics alone.

In the months since I entered the Commons as MP for Calgary South and Minister of Agriculture I have learned quite a lot about the way our federal political system operates. I have done quite a lot of thinking about it, too, and I feel that at least part—certainly for the sake of parliamentary sense is one of the most wasteful and destructive forces in the whole system.

My own attitude is that a person should go into public service like this only if he thinks he can offer some service to his countrymen. It seems to me that politics should really be lofted upon as one of the most honorable and responsible professions in the country—as an instrument through which the people of this country co-operate and help each other. There should be no place in our politics for those who would use it primarily to serve themselves.

Lay people active in Presbytery and local Church activities attending the Conference were Messrs. S. Gregerwich, Mervin Glen, T. H. Armitage, W. Preston, Austin Lindlaw, Wm. Walker and Stan Hemblen, and Messrs. McBee, H. Bates, Audry Wood, C. M. Shillinglaw, F. Filipenko, Craig, and M. Allen.

Thanks was extended to the United Church Women of Coronation who served meals and coffee during the three days of sessions.

Some of these thoughts occurred to me as I listened to debate in the Commons recently on the Government's new Farm Machinery Syndicates bill.

This legislation provides for a totally new kind of farm credit in Canada. It would enable three or more farmers to borrow in partnership the equivalent of $10,000 each, up to a maximum of $100,00, with which to buy equipment to use on a co-operative basis. This credit, to cover 80 per cent of the purchase price, would be available at about six per cent per year, a substantial saving over the rates farmers have been paying for this kind of credit from non-government sources.

This legislation that can substantially reduce the investment of small farmers, in particular, in necessary equipment. It can enable them to farm more efficiently and more profitably, to a lower investment in machinery than ever before.

This is the sort of farm legislation which I believe is of a very definite, though indirect, benefit to the consumer in our cities, too. Anything that makes the production of food in Canada a more efficient and economic industry, I believe, is of almost as much importance to the consumers of that food as to the producers.

There is something also about this legislation which I believe is of importance to the people in our cities, too. This is the principle of self-support.

This legislation does not propose a new subsidy for farmers. It offers them a new choice in credit — but a credit plan that will pay its own way. I believe it is an excellent example of the way government can serve as an instrument for co-operation among the people of this country.

Out of the general revenues contributed by the taxpayers of the country as a whole, this would establish a $25,000,000 loans fund. This money would then be loaned to farmers at an economic rate of interest. In other words, this is a self-liquidating plan, using the resources of all our people to help a segment of our national economy upon which all of our people are dependent for a steady, reliable supply of food, at reasonable prices. In the long run, this help will all be paid back — with interest.

In the long run, both the farmers and the consumers will benefit by this co-operation through the instrument of their government.

As debate on this new credit plan proceeded in the Commons, it became apparent that virtually every MP supported it. Yet its passage was delayed for days on end while certain Opposition members did their best to belittle it. I could only conclude that they took this approach for purely partisan political reasons — to take away from the Government as much credit as they could.

Maybe that is what politics means to some members. But I cannot believe this kind of an attitude really finds favor in fact, it shows contempt for the intelligence of our people.

AN ALBERTA JUNIOR CITIZEN OF THE YEAR

Philip won his award for his many years of quiet courage. His young brother Larry is a cripple, needing constant care and attention. For over ten years, Philip, now fifteen years old, has put Larry's interests ahead of his own. He is Larry's constant companion and helper, showing commendable patience and understanding. For example, each day he helps Larry to dress, walks with him to and from school, and takes the time to be sure that Larry is warmly dressed for the walk home, that his coat is buttoned, his overshoes done up.

We congratulate Philip, and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

Wealthy Sportsmen Are Plundering Last Frontier

The hottest — and perhaps the most fiercely abused — fishing spot in North America today, according to Harry Bruce writing in the October 17 Maclean's magazine is a cold green stream in the remote wilderness of the Artic retinue Tree River. Last summer, hundreds of enthusiastic fishermen, mostly Americans, flew into the area in daily plane loads and in a couple of months they were well on their way to killing every Artic char in the Tree.

"There's a lot of evidence," Bruce writes, "that the bullish days of Artic and sub-Artic tourism have finally begun to arrive and that in a few years it will succeed mining as the important industry in the Canadian north." About 2 thousand tourists and sportsmen visited the Artic during the 1964 fishing season and they spent more than two million dollars there. There are now five permanent sport-fishing camps on Great Slave Lake, three more on Great Bear Lake and a branch of one of these 150 miles away on Tree River. Most of these camps are so luxurious as any sport fishing camp anywhere in the south.

But the problem, Bruce writes, that "serious exploitation of the anglers' last Frontier" has been intense and, at times, so glutonous that it has already created a grim conservation problem." The fishermen are not only taking more than the limit permits, but they are leaving good-sized char on the banks to rot and they are handling the fish so carelessly that ninety to ninety-five per cent of the fish they throw back can't possibly survive. At the present rate, it's possible that there will be no more char left in Tree River by the end of 1965.

The Northern Affairs Department is now moving to organize the fishing-camp operators on the area, to enforce a new limit of two char per fisherman — and somehow, to keep this Last Frontier a

SHEEP'S MEAT WINS TASTE PANEL'S APPROVAL!

The Holstein steers produce an acceptable beef? A three-year experiment conducted by Dr. Forrest of the Federal Research Station at Agassiz, B.C. indicates they do.

The test involved Holstein steers slaughtered in three weight groups and although many failed to grade Choice or Good, nearly all passed with flying colors that nevere test of a beef animal's worth — the taste panel.

Seventy-two ball calves were placed on test at birth and individually fed until slaughter. Each animal received colostrum for the first four days, plus 850 pounds of whole milk during the first eight weeks. Free choice hay and restrict ed concentrate mixes were also offered from the first week on.

One-third of the test animals were slaughtered at 700 pounds live weight, and next third at 1150 pounds and final group at 1550.

After slaughter, each carcass as well as specific carcass sections were examined and evaluated in detail. In addition a rib roast section from each carcass was subject ed to a taste panel evaluation.

Dr. Forrest found the results highly encouraging.

Only two of the rib roasts were moderately tough and undesirable. All others received high marks for flavor and tenderness.

The grading results, however, were less encouraging.

The 700 pound group of steers did not put on sufficient fat cover to qualify to choice or even to ap pike consuming 16 pounds of grain daily for the last two months. Animals in the 1550 pound group were somewhat fat, and although acceptable by present grading standards, produced a carcass of over 300 pounds of lean and pep sider with the retail trade.

On the other hand, the 1150 Lb. steers were ideal as far as amount of lean meat is concerned, but failed to meet the minimum fat standards of the top grades.

In addition to proving that the Holstein can give highly desirable beef, Dr. Forrest's test re-affirmed the value of hormone implants.

Half the steers in each weight group received a hormone implant in the ear. The other half were not implanted.

The implanted steers showed higher daily gains, lower feed cost, and were ready for market from 2 to 6 weeks earlier.

Best results were obtained from the group slaughtered at 1150 lbs. The hormone-treated steers in this weight range had an average daily gain of 2.83 pounds and were ready in 64 weeks. This compared favorably with 2.16 pounds and 69 weeks for the untreated.

Dr. Forrest suggests that the meat of every purebred calf should be production of a carcass acceptable to the consumer at the most economical price. He feels that the Holstein steer offers definite possibilities in this direction.

FRONTIER — NEW WINTER RYE!

A new winter Rye named Frontier has been licensed for sale in Canada. Seed of this variety is to be increased by the CDA and distributed to the public in 1965.

Frontier was developed at the Experimental Farm at Swift Current fro ma cross between the Canadian variety Dahold 53 and German variety Petkus. This breeding program was started in 1954 and the final product, Frontier, was tested for three years at 18 prairie locations before being recommended by the Committee on Breeding.

Frontier is as winter-hardy as Dahold 53 and Tetakpe and, while it is similar to these varieties in many characters, it represents a distinct improvement in yield and uniformity of kernel color.

The average yield of Frontier grown in 39 tests over a three-year period was 44 bushels per acre as compared with 40 for Antelope, 38 for Dahold53, and 30 for Petkus. The average percentages of winter killing of these four varieties during the same period were7, 8, 8,56.

It is anticipated that Frontier will be most valuable in Saskatchewan and Manitoba where winter hardiness is more essential than it is in many parts of Alberta.

A. P. Crop Report

Harvesting throughout the main part of Alberta is now virtually completed, and in the Peace River operations are nearing completion and should be finished soon. Crops which were harvested early, principally in the southern half of the province, were of good quality, but in northern areas, as the result of heavy frosts and a long period of wet weather, the quality of the crops has been greatly reduced.

Sedgewick Rams	2
Camrose Composite	0

In comparison of wealth production by provinces in Canada, the ranking applies to take into the net value of the production of all activities as applies to the ranking by population totals.

Rams Play Poorly Lose 13 to 6

The Rams supporters who travelled to Camrose on Sunday must have had great difficulty in recognizing their team as the same one which had defeated Wetaskiwin the previous week, as the undistinguished Composite team scoring touchdowns in the 2nd and 3rd quarters to defeat a very apathetic Rams team 13 to 6.

Apart from Larry Burden, Glen Grant, Curtis Slate, John Muirhead and Dale Grover, the Rams displayed a degree of apathy and ineptitude not seen in their previous games this year

The defensive squad had an off-day as for offensive line, despite the efforts of quarterback John Muirhead repeatedly crumbled before the onslaughts of the much lighter Camrose line to gain Burden either no protection. Nevertheless Burden cast a great game and did all that could be expected of him to rescue his team from their state of "deep dark lethargy" but could get no response except from Glen Grant who came up with some great runs and Curtis Slave who came up with a tremendous effort.

Apart from a great fall by catch in the Camrose end zone by one of the Rams towards the end of the game, there were only two good returns on by one the game wasted by penalties for blocking. Davey Roubaugh also came up with a fine interception.

With Lutheran 20 - 7 win over Wetaskwin, there is no change in the League standings this week, the Rams remaining in 3rd place by virtue of a better points for and against average.

On Saturday, the Rams travel to Lutheran College, and Camrose Composite to Wetaskwin.

LOUGHEED 4-H HOMEMAKERS

LOUGHEED — The third meeting of the Lougheed 4-H Homemakers was held on October 21. After O Canada and the 4-H Pledge the project books were handed out. Sara Verna Storbakken resigned as President, Judy Hicks became President and Margaret Burden Vice-President. Lunch and entertainment committees were chosen. It was decided that we would have a halloween party at our next meeting and the roll call is costumes. After the treasurer's report the meeting was adjourned with Godfrey the Queen. A hearty sing-song followed.

Longtime Lougheed Resident, Mrs. Enger Snethun Buried At Trinity

Lougheed and Sedgewick districts were saddened on September 21, 1964 with the passing of Mrs. Engvr Louise Snethun, a life-time resident of the Lougheed district. Mrs. Snethun passed quietly away at the home of her son John of Sedgewick following a lengthy illness.

Enger Louise Sether was born on February 9, 1902 in Wisconsin, U.S.A., and migrated to the Central Ireland district with her parents at an early age. She was united in marriage to Anders Snethun on February 7, 1931. She was predeceased by her husband one year ago. Mrs. Snethun leaves to mourn her loss five sons, Andrew, Lars, Peter and Kristen of Lougheed and John of Sedgewick, and 10 grandchildren. FIRE

When crops were good, we always made such plans for the future, as did all of our neighbors. Also, practically everyone near and far shopped for clothes through the catalogue, and we followed that pattern, too.

Incidentally, I often smile when I think of what one woman said in regard to catalogue shopping. She remarked, one day as she and I were browsing through a new Eaton's catalogue which had just arrived, "You know, our grandparents brough up their families on ridge and the Bible, but folks nowadays feed their youngsters on Kellog's Corn Flakes and Eaton's catalogue." I could understand what she meant.

Occasionally, when we felt we could afford it, we would take the three younger children tih us and drive into Winnipeg, and go right to Eaton'sMail Order Store, select our merchandise right from the catalogue, and a clerk would bring those articles to us for our inspection. Then, if said articles were satisfactory, Eaton's would ship them out to us at our home address. We could try on any article of clothing right there, if we wished, thus saving the expense and trouble of returning same.

My husband's brother lived in the city, so we always spent a day or two visiting them. Thus, we combined pleasure with duty, returning home feeling quite happy and satisfied with our outing.

One year, when our two oldest kids were eleven and twelve years of age, as usual, we took the three youngest kids with us into the city for the fall shopping and visiting spree. (Our youngest daughter wasn't born at that time).

Earlier in the fall we had purchased a new fire-extinguisher for the house. As always, the two oldest kids had to have it explained to them; how it worked, what sort of liquid it contained that would put a fire out, etc., etc., and, in this way, Dad took time, and had the patience to explain every detail to them.

However, Arthur's insatiable knowledge was never quite satisfied until, if at all possible, he had proved all the answers, decided to try this new gadget, the fire-extinguisher, out.

So while Dad and I and the three younger kiddies were away in Winnipeg, (unnoticed by the housekeeper or the hired man), Arthur took the fire-extinguisher from the wall inthe kitchen, slipped out to the barn, and set fire to the straw in the back part of the cow-shed, intending to try to extinguish the fire with this novel apparatus.

But before he got it working, the flames crept along and were gaining head-way at a most alarming rate. Everet, Arthur' older brother, had come down to the barn in the meantime, and noticing, at a glance, the state things were in, grabbed an old smock which was hanging on a peg, and, lpunging it into the water trough which was nearby and happened to be full at the time, he started to beat the flames, which Arthur, completely terrified by this time, was doing his best to stamp out. This sort of procedure on Arthur's part, naturally horned his legs of his jeans almost up to the knees.

It was fortunate that all of this took place in the barn, and not outside, as there was a very strong wind from the north, blowing straight from the barn toward the house. If the barn had caught fire and really got underway, the house too, would have gone

The lads skipped the fire-extinguisher into the house again, without being noticed, after they were sure the fire in the barn was completely out.

When we returned from the city, there was no evidence whatever of there being any fire in the barn. No evidence, that is, until wash day, when I came across Arthur's jeans in the wash, with both legs burned off nearly to the knees. Observing, I don't suppose we would everhave known of the episode.

In questioning Arthur, I asked if he legs had been burnt, too. But he said his heavy knee-high woolen sox had saved his legs. However the whole business could have been quite disastrous. But at least the lads had learned, first hand, how the fire extinguisher worked. Everet had got it working finally, and used up the whole supply of liquid which Dad replaced the next day. "Boys will be boys."

Over the past 15 years the total of labor income in Canada has more than tripled, although the number of persons with jobs has increased by only about one-third.

The oldest continuous annual sporting event in North America is the St. John's, Nfld., Rowing Regatta. First written record of the regatta is dated 1826, and it apparently had then been going on for some years.

YOUNG SOCIAL CREDITERS MEET

SEDGEWICK— The Sedgewick-Coronation Young Social Crediters met at the home of Elmer Brandigan on the evening of October 20. Plans were finalized for the Hallowe'en masquerade party which is to be held on Hallowe'en night. Each member may bring a guest, and prizes will be awarded to those with the best costumes. Lunch will be in the form of a box social. One of the local members was chosen to act as auctioneer.

The next regular meeting will be held on November 19th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Danielson. Roll call will be answered with the donation of a book, which will be sold at a future book sale.

Lunch as served by the hostess.

Back to Colonial Status

"In the economic, cultural and social spheres, we are becoming more and more a United States appendage, a kind of spiritual colony. If this has on occasion unfavorable consequences, both material and psychological, we have only ourselves to blame. Canadians, unfortunately, are apt to be treated with a high hand, because they have opened themselves to such treatment."

So says John Gellner, writing in the current issue of "QUEST — Spotlight on Education", official publication of The Canadian Home and School and Parent Teacher Federation. His article sprang from a much-publicized decision of the Federation at its annual meeting in Charlottetown to abandon a plan for a World Conference of Parents and Teachers in 1967. This decision was taken, he says, because of foreign determination to boycott the meeting if Canadian Home and School did not agree to a "restricted invitation" list that would have excluded representatives of Soviet and teachers from Curtain countries.

"If the dread really turned in their graves, poor Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Robert Borden and William Lyon Mackenzie King, who spent their lifetimes asserting and in the end gaining Canada's independence from London, would have a restless eternal sleep, indeed.

Politically, we are independent all right — from London, and from Washington, as well. National policy, with all due respect, of course, for our ties with Canada's allies and friends, is definitely made in Ottawa. But in spheres below the highest level our self-imposed dependence on the United States is growing every day.

An explanation of this is that by an accident of history, the predominant racial group and the predominant language in Canada are the same as in the United States. This produced a social and economic development in this country which tended to conform with that south of the border, but also generated the idea that this must necessarily be so. Hence our desperate attempts to "keep up with the Joneses".

By contrast, the Spanish-speaking Mexicans have been able to build a society, not so prosperous as the American and from our point of view not as desirable, but less open to external pressures than our own. The Mexicans have not felt compelled to "keep up with the Joneses", and as a consequence have not become so dependent on the Joneses as we are.

To keep up, we have had to sell many of our marvelous and unmarketable prosperity. The proportion of our resources and industries under foreign (mostly US) ownership or control is about 55 per cent in manufacturing, over 70 per cent in mining. True, we derive benefits from the American influx o foreign capital. These are, however, outweighed by the disadvantages.

This trend is our economy, which appears unbearable, is accompanied by the deplorable Canadian indifference to our own national requirements. We buy more — more by a mile — foreign goods per capita then the nationals of any other country. What is worse, all too many Canadians by merchandise because it is foreign-made. Our magazines die on the vine because Canadians prefer to read and Canadian firms prefer to advertise in the American publications. To have been performed on Broadway, "makes" a play; to be a best-seller in the United States "makes" a book, for Canadians.

It all amounts not to a healthy rejection of exaggerated nationalism by Canadians, but a sorry lack of national pride and self-confidence, a kowchling-down to keep in step whatever the price. And the price is stiff, make no mistake about it."

John Deere Dealers —— Killam, Alberta

SUGAR AND SPICE

By Bill Smiley

I've decided to write a book. Not because I want to. Not because I have a message. Not because I think anybody will buy it. But because a fellow has dared me to.

He was a publisher. I told him hundreds of people — only, thousands —had asked me when I was going to produce a book made up of my columns. This was a big, fat lie, of course. I think the total of the queries was between twelve and thirteen.

He was nice about it, if a little stuffy-nosed. He agreed that there'd be a big market for people — dozens to give away to my friends. (They'd be getting about 120 copies each, at that rate, but I could give them away to their friends.)

He agreed that the whole thing was a great idea. For some other publisher. But he sort of took the steam out of my self-esteem when he suggested that I finance the investment. "If a book is worth publishing, it's worth writing."

This is the sort of thing publishers air around thinking up, when they're not marrying their sons to our great writers getting away from them. Which they don't seem to spend an excess of time doing. Unfortunately, writers don't think so. "If a book is worth writing, it's worth publishing." Maintain that it isn't true.

What's the book going to be about? Well, that's still on the edge of the drawing board. But after looking over a few shelves I have the material, and print all of my best columns.

So, if it's garbage they want, I am ready to make up the largest literary garbage pail that has ever been seen. I'm not just going to be crammed with sex, violence, adolescent revolt, corrupt politicians, dope fiends, alcoholics, doctors, cowboys, how to cook with canned beer recipes, and all the other ingredients of the most successful books.

It will be autobiographical, of course. At first, I thought that might be a little difficult, as I've led rather a sheltered life. Then I realized that all I had to do was decorate things a little. Gild the Billy so to speak.

Then, instead of going to high school and being on the football team and going steady in the back I'll be the leader of a group of teenage terrorists who get their kicks out of setting fire to unsuspecting homes under the influence of heroin.

Instead of joining the air force and becoming an officer and a fighter pilot and getting a bad case of the time, in the book I'll be an awe private, intellectual and embittered, under the whip of a sadistic captain.

Instead of spending a year in a playing chess and reading, in the book I'll spend a year in a mental institution with a group of psychotics, schizo, junkies and a doctor straight out of Edgar Allan Poe.

Instead of getting a weekly salary, writing about sewers and such, in the book I'll be an advertising executive with three mistresses, six scorals and an unlimited expense account.

Instead of becoming a docile English teacher, peddling metaphors and similies, in the book I'll be a famous interview personality with a great talent and no scruples, who poisons the minds of his listeners with subtle suggestions that are seditious and completely undisguised lies. Which they don't notice.

How does it sound? You like it? Oh, I'm sorry. I'm afraid I can't. I'll just have to write a dull, insipid book about dull, insipid old Canada. It isn't true.

Boy, are you ever going to be bored reading it. Especially the two nine-year-old girls cornered me in a treehouse and blessed me. Or the two old ladies who thought the Brazilian girl in the deed of a Canadian missionary at the time the Old Battleaxe chased me through the bush, with a screaming-cyst, trying to hit me with a phone she'd yanked off the wall. Or the time I was beaten up by four old men . . .

(Mrs. Doug Kinner)

Mr. Henry Kelderfer has returned after spending a couple of weeks in Edmonton where he underwent surgery.

Mrs. Marie Cleven was visiting in Red Deer for a few days.

PRESIDENT Johnson

Construction Started On Eight Suite Apartment Building

SEDGEWICK — Work started last Saturday on the new eight suite apartment building in Sedgewick.

Some six months of planning has gone into plans for the modern building which will be built on the site of the old curling and skating rinks.

The building will contain six double bedroom suites and two single bedroom suites, which will be heated from a central unit by hot water. Each suite will have a refrigerator and stove. A modern automatic washer and dryer will be available for use of the tenants.

Spokesman for the local group responsible for construction of the modern apartment building told the press that the need for such a building had been felt in Sedgewick for several years and this would now be filled.

Construction is in accordance with CMHC standards and will be inspected by them.

Woodbine Shell Builders Limited who are the general contractors say that with normal weather the building should be closed in by Christmas and ready for occupancy by spring.

Most of the sub contracts are being let locally and some local labor is needed immediately.

SWEEPING VICTORY FOR JOHNSON

With the greatest majority of popular vote in the history of the United States Lindon B. Johnson swept into office with a majority of over 14 million Needing 270 electoral votes President Johnson won 486 as against 47 for Goldwater. Goldwater carried only five states and these mostly in the South where integration was an issue. One state, Arizona, is still undecided at press time. Johnson won 44 states and the District of Columbia. Goldwater won five.

Budzyna Farewell Held At Hardisty

A purse of money on behalf of the friends in the Congregation was presented by Rev. Rempel.

Rev. W. G. Zwicker thanked Mr. Budzyna for his fine work on the Mazas Committee and Stewards, and Francis for leading the CGIT and acting so efficiently as Secretary of the Sunday School. Daughters Barbara and Susan will be missed in CGIT.

A gift was presented by Mrs. A. Redman on behalf of the UCW.

Mrs. Iris Drover on behalf of the Order of the Royal Purple expressed regrets and presented a gift.

Mrs. B. Rempel presented a gift on behalf of the Sunday School. A short program during which Mrs. J. Edworthy gave a reading and songs and a contest and lunch followed.

The Budzyna's left for Wilkie, Sask. on October 26.

Daysland H. & S. Executive Installed

(By Delores Delaitz)

The October meeting of the Daysland Home and School Association was held in the school Thursday the 22nd.

The executive for 1964-65 was installed by Rev. McNeil. The meetings will now be held on the fourth Thursday of every month.

The Banner Award was won by Mr. Wold's room and the honor award by Mrs. Rittsmer's room.

Mrs. Perry made awards to the following pupils for their shorthand accomplishments last term. Orven Burkard, Audrey Marvinkhi, Joanne Carlborn, Judy McCarrel, Arlene Stefanishina and Pat Rennebergh. A typewriting course will be held in November Maximum number required for this is 25.

Quest the Home and School magazine will be sent to the Medical Centre.

Mrs. McNeil gave a report on awards to be presented to honor students this year.

Mr. Sather, school librarian gave a very interesting and informative talk on the school library. The Home and School subscribed to two magazines for the library.

DRILLING OF GAS WELL COMPLETED

Drilling operations on the gas well to serve Sedgewick and Killam has been completed. Every indication is that a ample supply of gas was found but until the production tests are completed exact figures will not be available.

KILLAM 4-H RE-ORGANIZED

The Killam 4H re-organization meeting was held and the weigh-in day is November 7 at the UGG Elevator. Everyone interested in joining be there between 1 and 2:30 p.m. The 4H Club wishes to thank all the above buyers for their support. Next meeting is November 9.

RAMS PLAY LAST HOME GAME ON SUNDAY

The Camrose Lutherans College Vikings proved again that they are the power of the league by defeating the Central High Rams on Saturday and remaining undefeated in five straight games.

On the whole the Rams played a fairly solid game, however every time they relaxed the Vikings capitalized on it.

Once again the Rams were hampered by a rash of injuries which have made it difficult for them to field a team all year long. Big John Pyra was back in the line-up but his ankle still gave him a good deal of trouble. Curtis Steve was injured in the first half and could not return to the game.

Similarly Brian Berg, Bill McCowan and Ed Fenke were unable to finish the game.

The Rams coaching staff admit that the Vikings have a great deal of depth but they still feel if they can find a healthy team the college machine can be upset.

The final score in the game was 33 to 0 for Camrose.

Lack of scoring punch by the Rams was due to the absence of the two first string ends and their first string half-back.

On Sunday afternoon following the College game, the Rams held an inter-squad game. The purpose was to release some of the tension the was built up during the Saturday game.

Next and final home game is next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 8th against Camrose Composite High Club. Last Sunday Composite lost to Wetaskiwin 19 to 1 which leaves them tied with the Rams for the third play-off spot. This means that the winner of next Sunday's game will make the play-offs, so it is a real important one for both teams.

The Rams play their best when they get lots of support so come on out and see the action next Sunday afternoon at the Sedgewick Recreation Centre.

Hereford Club Sent 552 Head To Russia

The N.A.H.C. Annual meeting was held at Westlock on October 28th, 1964.

President Lawrence Kallal in the chair in giving his report referred to Sedgewick's Grand Rec Centre and the novelty of Curling and Bowling which will never be forgotten.

552 head of Hereford were sent into Russia. To get the required number 800 were selected subject to health tests.

Chile is sending in 2 buyers to cover Alberta in November, but nothing more is known about their intentions as yet.

Edmonton is paying $1800 cash to the Grand Champion sale bull held in March to all three breeds.

Edmonton is increasing the prize money to $2400 to be split among all classes in the Finished Beef Classes.

1967 will be Edmonton Centennial Hereford Show.

Canadian Hereford Annual meeting to be held in Lethbridge Dec. 10th and 11th.

The Junior Futurity Show will be held this year in conjunction with regular Futurity Show. The exhibitor must own the animal in his own name and be 12 years of age. Classes this year to be females only.

It was passed unanimously that the Hereford body recommend to the Edmonton Exhibition Association that they move their annual Spring Bull Sale 2 weeks ahead to precede Kamloops and Calgary Bull Sales.

Judges elected at Westlock were selected before the Finished Beef Classes.

Ed Nood of High River will be the Hereford Judge and find the owner of the $1000 Gold Nuggets.

Carl Ramsay of Cut Knife, Sask. is the alternate judge.

For Klondyke days and Summer Show John Hery of Nanton, Alberta will judge Herefords and Mrs. Doris Fenton of Irma as the alternate Judge.

Lethbridge Berg was elected to be the Northern Alberta Lean and will see duties at the Spring Bull sale.

KIN CLUBS ENTERTAIN

Residents and staff of the Flagstaff Lodge in Sedgewick were entertained on Saturday evening, by members of the Kinsmen and Kinette clubs of Sedgewick.

The Kinsmen orchestra provided music for entertainment and dancing, which was much enjoyed by everyone.

Members of the Kinette Club served lunch at the close of the program.

For the month of October the Sedgewick W. I. Women, with Mr. Fred Sparrow's assistance, showed films, followed by lunch, which was enjoyed by all.

Thanks is extended to St. John's Anglican Church for their donation of fruit and vegetables from their Thanksgiving Service. Also to the Dorcas Society a special thanks for their donation of 600 pounds of potatoes which is a great help.

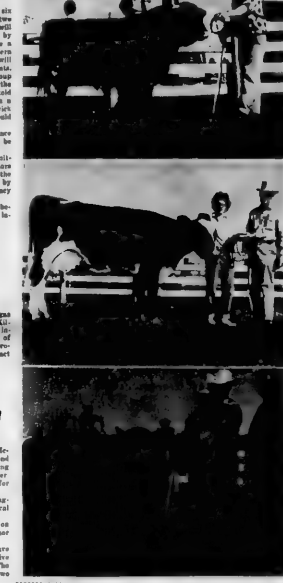
We have also been receiving private donations of vegetables for which we are very thankful.

Thanks to all of the above actors, Matron, Staff and Guests. This all has been a lovely courtesy and of great assistance to us.

KILLAM OORP LODGE NEWS

Thirteen members were present at the October 26th meeting of the OORP held in the Elks Hall. Plans were discussed for the district meeting which will be held in the spring. Lady Grandstaff said that all the bingo prizes for November 15th had been ordered. They are to be collected and repaired and will be given to a needy cause at Christmas. Please leave tags at Post Office. Donations from anyone will be greatly appreciated. It was decided to sell pop and chips at the Teen Dances. An attendance prize will be given at each meeting.

Lady Kantz served a delicious lunch after which the ladies decorated the hall for the Hallowe-en Dance.



Pictures of three of the top entrie entries at the Annual Lougheed Agricultural Fair. Top: Walter Cheung of Coronation with the top Beef Bull. Middle: Dairy class, champion Female, Paul Meaure of Hardisty won the Treasury Branch Silver Plaque. Bottom: Dean of Montreal's Livery Tay for the two top Beef Females was won by Walter Chinney of Coronation.

Common Sense In Parliament!

There is no sense in denying that the Federal Parliament has sunk to the lowest ebb of public esteem since the Fathers of Confederation got together to iron out the policies that were intended to make Canada one of the great nations of the world. There too is no sense in denying that this present condition has been brought about because the minds of men have become twisted to such an extent that the original intentions of the founders of confederation are being used, not for the betterment of Canada, but perverted to the advancement of partisan politics and to each party's particular phalosophies. Every move made today is for seifish reasons, and the advancement of party, while the welfare of Canada lags far in the rear.

A classic example of the way things are going was exemplified on television recently, when, in the course of an interview with the Hon. Mr. Diefenbaker, the interviewer asked him if he thought Canada would have a flag by Christmas. The surprising and uncalled for reply was, "I don't know what Christmas you are talking about."

Some of the discussions that go on in Ottawa are so very childish that one almost wishes the daily press would cease quoting them to save the Canadian people further embarrassment.

Along these lines, the Hon. Harry Hays in a recent speech to a Farmers' Union group, expressed, almost to the ultimate the feelings of a great majority of Canada's citizenry. Mr. Hays, if nothing else, is straight-forward when he speaks. Sometimes his language leaves something to bedesired, but he gets said what he has to say, in language easily absorbed and digested by lawmen. Part of what he had to say to the Farmers' group follows. It all makes sense.

"I am not the greatest living authorgreatest living expert on parliamentary procedure, but I have seen some parliamentary procedures. But through my experience as a farmer and a businessman, I feel that I have acquired a little common sense, and it seems to me, now that I have had a year and a half of experience in public service at the federal level, that we could use a lot more plain common sense in the way we run our country.

"I think I understand quite a lot better now, for example, what our Prime Minister means when he says we need a new kind of politics in Canada. From what I have seen of our federal politics so far, I can only say, we certainly do.

"As a newcomer to the federal scene, I confess quite frankly that I have at times been shocked by the amount of partisanship indulged in on all sides. Maybe I am just an innocent abroad, but it does seem to me that too much time is wasted in political in-fighting, in playing rockem, sock-em politics melodramas on the public stage. To be perfectly honest, the whole business still amazes me a little. I don't know why anybody would want to go into politics — just for the sake of politics. Personally, I would much rather pitch hay back on my ranch on Pekisko Creek.

"But public service is a different thing. I think it is a privilege to have the opportunity to serve your neighbors in a position of public trust, such as my present cabinet job. I think anyone who has something to contribute to his country through public service should take some time out from his own affairs to do what he can. Then, once he's made whatever contribution he had to make, he should step aside and give the next fellow a chance. But I'm afraid too often in the guise of public service, we are tempted to serve our own personal interests ahead of the public's.

"It seems to me this is especially true of some of the debates we have had during the present session of the House of Commons. I realize we must have full and free debate in Parliament, but I also think there is a difference between intelligent and reasoned debate, and just a lot of talk for the sake of talk—or for the sake of making politics instead or progress in the public's business.

We have a special committee studying the procedures of Parliament right now. They are all fine gentlemen and I know they have the very best of intentions, and they do seem to have made a little headway. Maybe I expect Parliament to be more business-like than it should be. But despite all the excellent intentions of this special committee it doesn't seem to me that they are an awful lot closer to real and permanent reforms in our procedures than we were when they started. I can't help but wonder, in my political innocence, if maybe part of the committee's trouble is that all of its members are experts, lawyers and students of parliamentary procedure and precedent and tradition. Sometimes I think too many experts can spoil the soup.

"I don't think the House of Commons really needs any experts to tell its members that they're talking too much — talking too much and saying too little that's worth listening to. I've heard a lot more sense in a lot less time at some of the auction sales I've attended.

"I don't think the people of Canada can hold out much hope for more efficiency in their House of Commons until time limits are shortened on our speeches, until at least one stage — the resolution stage — of debate is eliminated, and until agreed time limits can be set on the whole of a debate on individual items of legislation".

Perhaps if we expect to get anywhere in this country with our rag-tag Parliament, people of Canada should take a hand. Contact their members of Parliament and tell them what you are thinking. Instruct them in what you want them to do, and if they fail to do so, re-invoke the recall system. The very thought of an $18,000 a year loss would encourage them to act like Parliamentarians, for a change.

Still Have Appeal!

Substantial decreases in railway passenger fares have been announced by both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways. The cuts are designed to attract to the passenger trains some of the traffic lost in recent years to planes, buses and motor cars. Reduced fares may also stimulate tourist travel by rail.

Biggest reductions in fares will be made in the transcontinental services of the two railroads and promises of better service and facilities on these runs have also been made.

The railroads are to be congratulated on making a real effort to meet the competition of other forms of travel. They cannot compete with the speed of the plane, but travelers who can sacrifice speed in favor of real all-out legstretching comfort, with a relaxing saunter now and then to the rest room or dining car, may well be attracted back to the rails by the new fare schedules. — Sussex Kings County Record.

There is a Shangri-La for everyone; it exists in your mind. We struggle a lifetime to find it; some of us succeed, some of us don't.

OTTAWA — This is the most talkative Parliament in the history of Canada but it hasn't been so big in action.

Since the session started Feb. 19, this "long parliament" has broken all records in the verbal olympics.

The nimble fingers of the Hansard reporting staff have taken down about eight million words of debate. Printed on the pages of Hansard itself, this ocean of talk takes up about 10,000 pages. Bound in many, black volumes, it will outpace the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire look like a pamphlet and rivals the size of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. And still the talk goes on.

The length of the 1964 session has smashed all records, including the 174-day high point set by the session of 1956-57. The previous record session was spread over two years. This is compressed into one. But of Canada's 26th Parliament has been long on debate, it has also been short on decisions.

The major business of the session, approval of the spending estimates, railway legislation, the Canada Pension Plan, labour code, parliamentary and electoral boundaries, the flag, have come floating down the tide of talk to build into a giant log-jam of legislation.

Each party blames the others, but the situation is taking its toll of the morale of members of Parliament,especially the backbenchers. They're bored, resentful, and some of them are rebelling against their own party leadership.

All these factors has something to do with the recent humiliation of the Liberal Government when opposition parties combined to write an extra holiday — Remembrance Day — into Labour Minister MacEachen's vaunted new labour code.

Mr. MacEachen had rejected the addition of an eighth statutory holiday both privately in the Liberal caucus and publicly in the Commons. But when the vote came at the committee stage, only 44 of the 128 Liberals were on hand and the opposition won. Later, some members Liberals claimed they had stayed away deliberately, a telling commentary on the state of the party discipline which is absolutely vital to a minority government.

Another sign of parliamentary boredom has been a rising incidence of absenteeism among the $18,000-a-year M. P's. The "T-to T" club, members who leave Ottawa Thursday and don't return until the following Tuesday, is again in full swing but now can travel by air at the expense of the taxpayers.

This makes membership in the T-to-T club easy to Western members who formerly got an undeserved lads for parliamentary virtue, because even a four-day weekend wasn't long enough to get home & back on a free railway pass.

Some of the more thoughtful M P's have been talking recently of the possibility of a roll-call in Parliament to expose the members who seem to be seldom at their desks.

The Senate takes account each sitting day of which of its members are in their places. But there is nothing of this kind in the Commons. Instead it is left to an "honour" system which doesn't seem to work very well.

Each month, when the MP gets his pay-cheque, he gets with it a declaration to sign and return. He is supposed to declare home many days he was away from the House that month.

The member is allowed to be away 21 days without penalty each year. But over that number, any day of absence costs him $120 off his pay-cheque.

There's no way of proving it, but the opinions of all the experienced observers on Parliament Hill is that there are many absences that never show up on the declarations. Public accounts for past years show that few, if any, MP's actually apply the financial penalty to themselves. They always find a reason to give themselves a good attendance record, if only that "Everybody's doing it".

It wouldn't improve the debate or the job done by individual MP's to keep all members glued to their seats all day of every day. But on attendance record would give a constituency a way of judging their members' performance and it would be up to him to explain what he had been doing when he wasn't around the Commons.

Some faithful standing members feel, too, that it would be more fair than the king of "attendance record" which some newspapers now compile from the roll-call votes — the only time it is officially recorded whether a member was present.

Voter come at unexpected times and are sometimes sprung suddenly. A member may have been in his office for three weeks solid, then miss a couple of votes. In the voting record it may look as though he is seldom in the Commons.

But old-timers say the lazy member usually gets his just deserts, eventually even under the present system. A roll-call might speed the course of justice but voters can't be fooled all the time anyway.

And this raises the question of what the voters will have to say about a Parliament of talk and little action when they get the opportunity — an opportunity which seems closer each day of House of Commons hog logged down in its own verbosity.

PROBLEMS IN UNITING PROVINCES

An editorial in the Winnipeg Free Press reminds: "That Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are largely populated all of a piece. All the segments for the consolidation of the Atlantic provinces apply with almost equal validity to the prairie provinces."

Not having had access to the balance of the editorial we do not know what the arguments were for the consolidation of the Atlantic provinces. This we do know — there would be quite a number of pretty thorny problems to be solved before the three western provinces could operate happily as one unit.

One of the problems was that which was underlined at Marsden recently by Saskatchewan highways minister Hon. Gordon Grant when he said that Saskatchewan has nearly double the highways Alberta has . . . and has to look after them with a budget that is a fraction of ours.

Perhaps Alberta has no divine right to the added revenue it enjoys from its rich oil and other natural resources, and its growth tarifal traffic . . . but we can forsee some difficulty in getting them to share these benefits with the less fortunate province to the east.

It is quite possible that Manitoba might also feel some reluctance to dry up with Saskatchewan.

Then there is the matter of union tax. Albertans have resisted this strongly since their excursion into the field in the early days of Social Credit, and before the sales of oil rights and mineral royalties inflated the provincial coffers with ample funds. To lose part of our resources wealth and at the same time to be forced into a sales tax in order to conform with our adjacent partners would be very unpalatable to Albertans.

Then there is the matter of politics. Since the Liberal victory in Saskatchewan this would not create a problem between that province and Manitoba. However the shoe wouldn't fit as well in Alberta, and our Social Credit government who have been well settled in the saddle for a good many years would not be very hasty in instigating a move that would almost certainly unseat them.

Then there are the physical problems which would have to be faced. Just the matter of centralizing the administrative offices would be a colossal task. Twenty years ago, when administration of the affairs of the provinces were conducted almost entirely from the Parliament

Erection of a cheese factory has been decided upon by the members of the Killam Co-operative Association. Although the policy was settled by a recent meeting nothing definite has been arranged regarding the building.

Whether or not the Orient is preparing for war, the fact remains that China is making a demand on Canada for cavalry and artillery horses, and echoes of this demand should be able to provide 500 head or so of such war animals, it is believed by those who should know, and a canvass of the situation is now being made in reply to the queries from Ottawa.

A young lad here secured obtained through a contests, a couple of bushels of barley. This year he had enough to sow 100 acres. He has just reaped his crop which sold for 74 1/2 a bushel, and netted him a return of $3000.

Mr. W. Gascoyne was lightly injured when he fell during the construction of the new Backen's Garage in Sedgewick.

The Lougheed CGIT was re-organized on Thursday with Miss Jean Thomas as Leader. We wish the girls every success.

Latest figures in the Victory Loan drive are, Sedgewick 78 subscribers, Lougheed 97, and Killam 87. Total amount subscribed is over 40 per cent of the quota. Mr. Churchill predicted about seven months of war left as lots of money is still needed.

Mr. W. E. Larson who has been in Killam the past while has left for his home at Long Beach, California.

Local businessman, Johnny Golka, returned recently from the final session of the National General Motors Dealers Convention in Toronto.

The new Killam School is coming along quite well. The foundation has been laid and now the block layers are laying the cement block walls.

Jim Ferguson has installed a TV aerial on the Pool Elevator at Stroms. Should get good reception now.

The Greater Risk In Storing Damp Grain

Which is the greater risk — to leave unharvested crop in the field until it dries or to put damp grain into the bin.

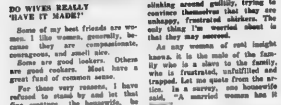
Alberta's Field Crops Commissioner A. M. Wilson thinks that turning swaths a few hours ahead of the combine, when this is possible may be safer and quicker than trying to dry large quantities of grain after it has been put in to a bin.

Tough damp grain presents a problem in any type of storage. Some farmers can feed damp grain before it has a chance to spoil but others must keep moving it with a shovel or an auger to prevent it from heating.

Steel bare or rods, says Mr. Wilson are useful for detecting grain which is starting to heat. Dry wooden posts are often buried in the grain to help prevent heating. In addition to absorbing moisture, they allow a certain amount of air to circulate in the pile of grain.

Heated air blown under a false floor in a granary will dry the grain but it is a slow and often a costly process. Commercial driers are available but a large quantity of grain must be processed to make the proposition an economical one.

Overheating is a constant hazard in drying grain with warm air, says Mr. Wilson. The temperature must not go above 110 degrees F. for seed grain. It can be increased to 140 for commercial grain. The temperature should be reduced to 80 degrees F. before any of the grain is put back into storage.



DO WIVES REALLY 'HAVE IT MADE?'

Some of my best friends are women. I like women, generally, because they are compassionate, courageous, and smell nice.

Some are good lookers. Others are good cookers. Most have a great fund of common sense.

For the most part, women, I have refused to stand by and let that fine creature, the housewife, be her or mislead, into a morass of frustration and unhappiness by a few frustrated, unhappy female agitators.

For years, I have been fighting a battle. It has been made up of skirmishes in speeches, fullscale attacks in this column, and occasional hand-to-hand combat with my old lady.

On some occasions, I have been routed, my banners tattered, my forces in disarray. But my ideals have remained intact, my cause unshaken.

Come in a while, I've been a minor encounter. At a party, for instance, when a housewife has fixed a drink in my face and rushed off to the bathroom in a confusion of rage and tears.

I don't regret a minute of the long campaign. The only thing that has depressed me has been the intense loneliness. Time and again I have felt like a lost patrol, cut off from all reinforcements, betrayed by allies.

But my heart leaped in my breast with new hope the other day, when I read an article in Maclean's magazine. For the first time in a decade or more, I felt that my cause, "Equality for Husbands", had an outside chance of winning.

Title of the article was, "Marriage is Easy Street. (For Women)". Written by Sidney Katz, it was a sober, factual refutation of that keen, insidious and increasing whine of the times — that a housewife is "bored, trapped, a slave to her family and unfulfilled as a human being."

Mr. Katz quotes sociologist, psychologist and anthropologist to prove what I have been saying for years: that it is just the opposite, that it is the male creature in marriage who is trapped, who is the slave to his family, and who, very often, is bored silly with the whole business.

I have no need to quote any kind of an "elegist". All I have to do is look around me.

There's the former terror of the tank corps. A tiger in action, his name was a by-word among the troops, a symbol of dash and élan. There's not much left of his former fiendish skill as he stoops his shopping cart about the supermarket. His wife is busy Friday nights with her little theatre group.

There's the former bomber pilot. For three years, he had within his clever and capable hands six thousand horsepower, six tons of bombs, and the lives of six men. I wonder if he feels "fulfilled as a human being" as he drops another quarter in the coin wash. But it's Saturday night and his wife likes to watch the movie on TV.

Most of the damage has been done by a comparatively small group of harridans who have produced a veritable tidal wave of books, magazines articles and TV diatribes, all with the same theme: if you are a housewife (a) you are unhappy and frustrated; (b) you've a slob because you're not out working, or writing a novel or sculpting a sculp or something.

Normal, intelligent housewives, under this finger of scorn, are sinking around guilty, trying to convince themselves that they are unhappy, frustrated shirkers. The only thing I'm worried about is that they may succeed.

As any woman of vast insight knows, it is the male of the family who is a slave to the family who is frustrated, unfulfilled and trapped. Let me quote from the article. In a survey, one housewife said, "A married woman has it made."

Welcome to the barricades, Kate. You can pile sandbags while I sharpen my finger to stilt it in the dyke.

Go get him, girls, Kate, that is.

Toppe-Larson Vows Held At Trinity Lutheran

LOUGHEED — On August 22, Trinity Lutheran Church was the scene of a lovely summer wedding when Marianne Kassally Larson became the bride of Edward Eric Toppe. Rantzaus is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Larson of Lougheed and Eric is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Toppe of Sedgewick.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by Pastor Neufeld before an altar banked with summer flowers.

Entering the church on the arm of her father the bride looked charming in a floor length gown of nylon organza over taffeta, styled with a chapel train, fitted bodice and lily point sleeves. Her shoulder length veil misted from a crown of crystal and seed pearls and she carried a heart shaped bouquet of American Beauty roses and lily of the valley. Her only jewelry was a gift of pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Attending the bride was Miss Margaret Toppe sister of the groom, Miss Elsie Larson and Mrs. Raymond Simpson, sisters of the bride.

They wore identical dresses of blue nylon chiffon over taffeta with a circular 3/4 length sleeves and gathered skirts. Their wedding ring bibles matched their dresses and they carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Miss Bernis Simpson, niece of the bride was flower girl. She wore a white nylon chiffon dress with full skirt, wide sash and puffed sleeves. Her accessories were white and she carried a dainty basket of mixed flowers.

Attending the groom were Mr. Leonard Dutton, Mr. Kenneth Aldridge and Mr. Raymond Simpson. Ushering were Mr. Kenneth Bruce and Mr. Leslie Schelstad.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Larson chose a pink sheath with matching jacket and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. Toppe mother of the groom wore a turquoise dress and jacket with accessories and corsage of white carnations and red rose buds.

For the reception of the ceremony was Mrs. Martin Hoggenrack and Mrs. Evelyn Lackie cousin of the bride sang the Wedding Prayer during the signing of the register.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the church basement. The bride's table centered by a beautiful five tiered wedding cake topped by tall white tapers. Mr. Dan Lackie, cousin of the bride, was toastmaster and Miss Linda Larson was in charge of the guest book.

During the reception Mrs. Evelyn Lackie sang "I'll Walk Beside You accompanied by Mrs. Melvin Hoggenrack at the organ. Congratulations from Norway and England were read. Following the reception a dance was held in the Lougheed Community Hall.

For going away the bride chose a yellow suit and sheath ensemble. The sheath was of chiffon over taffeta and the coat was of linen. She had black accessories and her corsage was of white carnations and pink rose buds.

After their honeymoon trip to B. C. and other points the newlyweds are now residing in Killam.

Hardisty CGIT

HARDISTY — The Hardisty CGIT under the leadership of Mrs. Edworthy and Mrs. Garland resumed their meeting in the latter part of September. On October 14, the following executive was elected: President, Karen McClements; Vice-President, Patsy Moody; Secretary, Carol Tomic; Treasurer, Sharry Crane; Club Reporter, Diane Thompson.

On October 28 we held our initiation and Hallowe'en Party in the church basement. Nine girls were initiated. Following a number of spooky games, lunch was served.

Albertine Clearhout

of Bashaw

AN ALBERTA JUNIOR CITIZEN OF THE YEAR

At sixteen years of age, Albertine has proved herself a worthy Junior Citizen by her unselfish care and devotion to her family. Her mother, after a long illness, passed away last December.
For over two years Albertine has cheerfully helped her father with housekeeping, meals, looking after two young brothers every day — always with competence and good humor.
This has not prevented Albertine from passing her Grade 9 examinations with an A standing. Her ambition is to become a social worker - and she'll make an excellent one!
We congratulate Albertine, and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active co-operation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

This is one of a series of Junior Citizen Award announcements. Our special thanks to W. R. Newsom, Editor of the Bashaw Star, and to Albertine's nominator, Mrs. R. Radke of Bashaw.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband and father, William James Croskery, who passed away Nov. 8th, 1963.
This week comes with deep regret
It brings back a day I will never forget
One and and lonely year has passed away
Since our great sorrow fell,
And a touch that we received that day,
And only those who have lost can tell
It is sad to walk the road alone.
Instead of side by side,
Always remembered and sadly missed by Mother, Ethel and family. 36-1c.

CAROL LANE AWARDS FOR WOMEN'S GROUP

Most women's organizations meeting this fall to plan their programs for the season will place safety high on the list. Much of this interest in safety promotion results from the growing prominence and popularity of the Carol Lane Safety Awards and their competitors in safe driving. Projects on home, child, road, recreation and farm safety are eligible. Check secretarial recognition, and the pride of achievement in saving lives and preventing injury in the community are among the rewards from such programs.
Administered jointly by the Canadian Highway Safety Council and the National Safe'y League of Canada, and sponsored by Shell Canada Limited, the provincial and national programs have attracted increasing attention. Women's organizations, or women's auxiliaries of other groups, may enter. Details are available from the national association in Ottawa, or from provincial offices.

WHAT SHOULD WE DO?
The Alberta Department of Agriculture has been supplying trees and shubs to the farmers of Alberta for over 12 years. Those trees and shrubs are supplied for farmstead, roadside and field plantings, free of charge. They are not to be planted around the house for landscaping purposes. We have nurseries in the province that make their living supplying trees and shrubs for a landscaping service for the urban and town people.
Close to 80,000 trees have been coming to the farmers in the R.D. of Flagstaff every year. We take stock in the honorary foresters of the farmers of this area, but we do have some misgivings about the tree planting program.
Problem No. 1
Some of the trees that are planted don't do be cause of planters, and one of the reasons is due to lack of care. What can be done to improve this situation?
Should trees be made harder to get, with more rigid application forms and farm inspections? Should we charge for the trees? Or should we pay the farmers for looking after the trees that he has ordered?
Personnally I cannot see paying the farmer to look after the trees. The trees are ordered because they are wanted. Maybe the ans ar of others should be cut down to only those trees that can be taken care of. We would welcome your comments.
Problem No. 2
Because the ornamental shrubs and trees are being used for landscaping purposes should the Department discontinue making these available to the farmer? They are being supplied now for shelterbelt plantings to add variety of size and color and eye appeal to the shelterbelts and encourage different kinds of bird life.
The Horticultural Department of the Alberta Department are asking the above questions. They are concerned about these two problems, the loss of planted trees and the use of ornamentals for landscaping purposes. Pressures are increasing and some changes will be made. I am sharing our problem with you, because you are involved. What should we do?

OBITUARY

Alexander C. Vennard

Mrs. Alexander Cymodocea Vennard passed away at Glenmore hospital, Calgary, on Saturday, October 24th, after a lengthy illness.

She was born in Winnipeg on February 2nd, 1901, and was married to John Vennard June 1st, 1929. Mr. and Mrs. Vennard moved to Sedgewick in 1941 where she resided until 1956 when they moved to Airdrie, Alberta. She was predeceased by her husband in 1961. Mrs. Vennard taught school for a number of years in the Sedgewick district, where Mr. Vennard was engaged in the trucking business.

Left to mourn are one son Jack; a daughter Rose; two sisters, Alice (Mrs. A. C. Rose), and Jean (Mrs. M. McMahon). Also surviving are four grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from the Roman Catholic Church in Killam at 11:00 a.m. on October 26 with Fr. McMahon, a Godson, in charge of rites. Burial was in the Sedgewick Cemetery.

Mrs. Vennard was well known in the Sedgewick district and many friends feel a loss in her passing.

OTHER EDITORS SAY —

buildings this would have been relatively simple. Not so any more. Now the Alberta government spreads through a number of large buildings, and has offices scattered in various parts of the city. To replace most of them in a central location, presumably Saskatchewan would be a pretty big job. It would take many years of the economies afforded by a central administration to balance the cost of such a colossal move.

Then there would be the distance involved in the citizens from the far flung portion of the provinces gaining access to their government. This might be the least difficult of all the problems for today despite the distances have been greatly reduced by improved means of travel. It would take no longer to get from Grande Prairie to Saskatoon than it does today than it would have taken to get to Edmonton a couple of decades ago.

Perhaps the people of the richer provinces should let brotherly love be their guiding influence, and move in their lot with Saskatchewan. Perhaps in the long run Saskatchewan will be on top and Alberta at the bottom. We are afraid that in the meantime there will be many second thoughts before a move to consolidate the three provinces is consummated.

The Bible Today

Among the Christian literature recently published in Sierra by Word of Life Publications, Rhodesia, is a 4,000-copies edition of the booklet "What the Bible Does for the Christian." This is to be followed by "What the Holy Spirit Does in The Christian" and "What a Christian Does for the Lord."

Also just published is the first of a three-volume set of children's books called "Going Through the Bible with Grandmother." In many African homes it is the grandmother who is the source of family history, custom and folk lore.

As the title suggests the series is intended to introduce African children in a systematic way to the great themes of the Bible.

The Scriptures were first published in Sierra for the people of Rhodesia in 1899 by The British and Foreign Bible Society.

CHRISTMAS IN NOVEMBER

It may seem unreasonably early, but we are urging patrons to come in now and pose for Christmas portraits. It's one gift you cannot rush out and purchase at the last minute, because good professional portraits cannot be hurried. And because they do take time and some special care, few gift choices for Christmas are so warm hearted and loving and truly welcome. Telephone today for an appointment.

Missionary To Speak At Sedgewick United

Miss Aileen Reta, a Commissioned Missionary and Deaconess of The United Church of Canada, will speak in the Sedgewick United Church on Monday, November 9th at 8:00 p.m.

Miss Reta' first appointment — as the Women's Missionary Society was to Drumheller in 1900. Later she served for six years at United Mission in Pictou, Nova Scotia.

With her knowledge of German, Ukrainian, French, and English, Miss Reta has been an ideal person for the position of Port Worker for the Church in Halifax. She has served in this position since 1946. In addition Miss Reta assisted with Christian Education at Brunswick Street United Church in downtown Halifax.

During Miss Reta' last furlough in 1961, she was authorized to attend the "Kirchentag" in Germany. On another furlough, she earned her B.R.E. from Hartford. She is a graduate of Command Course of The United Church.

The public is invited to this November 9th meeting. A reception for Miss Reta will be held following the meeting.

SPECIAL MEETINGS AT THE KILLAM BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be ample opportunity for informal discussions with the evening's taste in the intimate surroundings of the Banff School of Fine Arts.

For further information, please contact either the Agricultural Supervisor, Department of Extension, University of Alberta, Edmonton or the Western Stock Growers Association, Stockyards, Calgary, Alberta.

Rev. Reese Cure, who has served very ably in Christian service, will be the guest speaker at the Killam Baptist Church for special revival services from November 8 through 15. At present he is serving at Prairie Bible Institute as Dean of Men and is on the teaching staff. He also serves on the extension department. Of special interest to young people will be the two week end services, November 6-8 and November 13-15, which will be conducted by a musical team from the Prairie Bible Institute. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

A documentary film on the Bow of Quebec will be shown on Friday night, November 6th.

Cattlemen's Short Course

The Department of Extension, University of Alberta in co-operation with the Western Stock Growers Association is organizing an intensive one-week Cattlemen's Short Course at the Banff School of Fine Arts, Banff, Alberta.

To be held November 30 to December 4, the purpose of this course is to provide stockmen and other agriculturists with the latest information on new developments in the beef industry. Registration will be at 10:00 a.m. on November 30 in Drumheller in the Legion Hall.

Lecturers will be drawn from Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Specialists in the fields of beef production, range management, veterinary medicine, economics, marketing and public relations will be among the lecturers.

Among the instructors are Dr. L. J. Bumstead of the University of Nebraska, who is in charge of the artificial insemination program in Nebraska. Dr. W. N. Garrett from the University of California has been prominent in beef nutrition research and teaching, while Dr. J. A. Scott from Denver, Colorado has had an outstanding career in livestock diseases and veterinary work.

Since the waterworks was given the authority to protect and promote the health of the community the Privy Council recommended that Fluoridation of Lower Hutt be continued and the appeal dismissed with all costs of appeal to be paid by the appellant.

Privy Council Upholds Flouridation

The All England Law Reports of August 25th carries an important ruling by the Privy Council, the highest court of the British Commonwealth, in dismissing the appeal by two residents of Lower Hutt, a suburb of Wellington, New Zealand against a judgement of the Supreme Court of New Zealand which upheld the ruling of the Lower Hutt Municipal Corporation to fluoride the domestic water supply.

The Privy Council, presided over by Viscount Radcliffe, Lord Morris of Borth-y-Gest, Lord Pearce, Lord Upjohn and Lord Donovan.

Lord Upjohn speaking for the Privy Council said "The water of Lower Hutt is no doubt pure in its natural state, but it is very deficient in one of the natural constituents normally to be found in water in most parts of the world. The addition of fluoride adds no impurity and the water remains not only water but pure water and it becomes greatly improved and still natural water containing no foreign elements."

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

SOUTHERN ALBERTA
IN 1917 - 18 - 19

We were married in the fall of 1916, but stayed with my folks until the following spring of 1917.

My father owned a huge gas tractor and a ten-bottom plow which he had accepted as payment of a debt owing him. Father was never much of a mechanic, so he figured that outfit was more or less a white elephant on his hands unless he could sell it.

However my father and husband, after reading scads of literature about the wonderful opportunities in Sunny Southern Alberta, answered and said in one of the farm weeklies which asked for someone with a big engine & plow for the purpose of breaking up whole sections of virgin soil, preparatory to seeding to wheat.

Our men answered the ads, describing their outfit and their ability to do the jobs assigned them. Almost by return mail the men received papers, contract, etc., including the amount per acre this Real Estate Co. was prepared to pay. So after overhauling the engine & purchasing new shares, they pulled out for greener fields.

It was decided that when they arrived at their destination, Cereal, Alberta, and had got a hold of a trailer or caboose,they would send for the family (my mother, two sisters, a brother and myself). This all savored of high adventure for the younger some of the family, but mother wasn't too keen on what she called Pioneering, at her age (45 or 46, I believe at the time). However she believed in following her man wherever he could make a living, as one day about the middle of May we left the town where we had lived for years, locked the doors and away we went to try our luck out where the west begins.

As soon as the men had arrived at Cereal one of the Real Estate men had taken our men in his car, out in about them the vast expanse of prairie land which he wanted broken, acre upon acre, section beside section, flat as a table top, tree-less, not a telephone pole nor fence post, not even a road, just Prairie trails to brush the monotony of that bald-headed land. Oh yes, There were two or three wee sod shanties, which looked like mounds of earth, inhabited by bachelors.

This land with the exception of the quarter sections belonging to two or three bachelors in their sod shacks, was all virgin soil, and had never felt the cut of a plow-share.

This was what met our eyes as the men drove up to where they had parked the trailer (caboose). This is where we were to live all summer and on into the fall, as long as the weather permitted the men folx to work. I must admit, I had to swallow a couple of times before I could answer their question of, "Well how do you like the set-up ?"

However we were young, except father and mother, and youth his no inhabitations at "Trying everything sore." So we unpacked our suitcases and settled in, and braced ourselves for what might, and usually did happen.

With the caboose sitting on the "cold - hearted" prairies, naturally, there were no facilities for keeping butter, milk, meat, etc. fresh and sweet. So my husband dug a real deep hole in the ground then pulled the caboose partly over it (to shade it as much as possible). He then covered it with a screen, and that was our 'ice-box'.

We always put the butter, meat, milk, and all perishable foods in pails with a rope tied onto the handle, the other end of the rope lying on top of the ground, beside the hole. We would pull up a pail, to be out what we wanted at the time, then lower the pail and replace the screen. It that wasn't pioneering, then I'm afraid I do not know the meaning of the word.

As the men would finish plowing one section, they would move on to the next, moving the caboose, too, of course, filling in our improvised cellar in case some one, or a stray horse or cow, falling in. Oh yes, I forgot to mention that our only mode of transportation was a topless old twisted buggy drawn by An old retired race horse with sore feet. After a few demonstrations of his meanness and stubbornness when hitched to the buggy, we straightaway christened that old plug "Satan". He simply refused to go beyond a slow jog, and if, and when we were in a hurry, this attitude on his part was, to say the least, exasperating. Hence, the name Satan. It might have been his sore feet that kept him from speeding up a bit, but the trails were so soft that shouldn't have hurt his feet.

So, picture, if you can, the looks of our cavalcade as we wended our slow way out across those Flat Prairies, with not even a tree to break the view. The engine and plow, the plow pointers heaped high with essentials which we had, at the last minute, forgotten to put in the caboose, or else-where, this was followed by the caboose to which was tied our one and only milk cow, with the dog at her heels.

Bringing up the rear was Satan dragging that lop-sided buggy in which sat Mother, one sister, my younger sister insisted to ride on the engine always, and myself.

The nearest town, Cereal, was from twenty-five to thirty-two miles from were we happened to be plowing at the time, and, of course we had to use Satan and that awful looking buggy to go into town to do our shopping, every two weeks, so, on shopping day two of us women would go, leaving the other two to cook meals for the men, leaving early 1 day, stay at the hotel that night and all the next day and night, and return home to the caboose the evening of the third day.

Satan being what he was just had to have that day's rest before starting back on the long trip home.

Next week, more about Sunny Southern Alberta.

Last week we suggested ways to save money in food and fixed expenses. Did you stick to your budget and have a few dollars to spare?

Let's increase the savings by practicing these pointers.

Clothing

Often the least expensive garments are the most expensive in the long run because they fall apart or look shabby after several wearings.

The best sales are end-of-season clearances; summer clothes in July and August; winter clothing in January and February.

When purchasing garments, consider the fabric and color from the standpoint of the dry-cleaning costs. E.G., An outfit for $25.00 dry-cleaned 6 times a year would cost $4.00. 1 3 of the original price of the garment. Select fabrics which can be washed and are easy to care for.

The new coin dry-cleaning method is very economical.

Avoid purchasing clothing on the spur of the moment; so often these end up to be skeletons in one's closet. Plan an inventory of your family wardrobe.

Use your telephone to save you money by comparing prices, brands, models, etc.

Operating Expenses

Pay bills by cash rather than by cheque to avoid service charges but do get a receipt for future reference.

When purchasing large appliances or furniture on time, avoid payments for a lengthy period. Find out what the total cost, the cash price, plus interest, plus all service charges, will be.

Consider borrowing from the bank before undertaking an installment contract or a loan from a finance company

Fall Gardening Tips

Thoroughly water lawns before freeze-up, advises Mr. McCalla. This prevents their roots from drying out which is a frequent cause of winter killing.

Dig gindot after the first killing frost and store the bulbs in a cool dark place. Remove the outer skin and cormals (new corms) from the corms and store the different varieties in separate containers. Paper bags are very useful for this purpose. Mr. McCalla says the corms can be treated for thrips by putting 1 teaspoon of 5 to 10 per cent DDT dust in each bag.

Prune back tender rose varieties so that the bushes can be covered with live spagnum moss (found in the woods) after the first killing frost. Then wrap the bushes in polythenein keep the moss in place. Hardy rose varieties do not need any special care.

Cover strawberries with several inches of clean straw or spruce boughs towards the end of October. The straw will prevent the plants from being damaged or killed by the ground heaving in the early spring.

It is mistake to cover the tips of raspberry canes to prevent winter killing. The can be done by bending the canes over and covering the ends with soil. Raspberries can be pruned in the fall or the spring.

Cover evergreens and fruit trees a heavy watering just before freeze-up to keep the wood from drying out and subsequently winter killing. Fruit trees should be pruned next spring and evergreens early next summer.

Roses and shrubs which lose their leaves also benefit from a thorough watering before freeze-up. The best time to prune such trees and shrubs is in the late winter or early spring.

Why Not Listen?

by C. J. Harris

There has been extensive criticism of the proposal made by a committee of the Canadian Medical Association that the total prepayment approach to medical insurance should be abandoned. Contrary to the principal accepted in the report of the Royal Commission on Health Services, and to the practice generally followed in existing voluntary insurance plans, the CMA's special committee on policy has recommended that a patient should be required to pay part of the cost of each bill from his doctor, over and above what he has paid for his medical insurance.

One major newspaper, the Toronto Globe & Mail, a paper that advocates the committee's proposals". Another major daily, the Toronto Globe & Mail, a paper that zealously questions the practicability of an all-inclusive tax-paid health insurance program, says, "The abandonment of total prepayment would be regarded as a backward step for many of the insurance plans sponsored across Canada for years by the doctors themselves. Most of these plans cover the whole of a doctor's bill".
